Homemakers' Column

Edited by Miss Mildred Barton, Home Demonstration Agent, Oakland

For those who wish to preserve some of the watermelon and peaches now appearing on the local markets, the Bureau of Home Economics gives the following recipes:

Watermelon Pickle

Four pounds watermelon rind, lime water made with 2 quarts cold water and 10 grams, or 2 tablespoons lime, 2 quarts vinegar, 1 quart water, 4½ pounds granulated sugar, 2 tablespoons whole allspice, 2 tablespoons whole cloves, 10 2-inch pieces stick cinnamon.

Select rind from a firm, not overripe melon, and before weighing, trim off green skin and pink flesh. Cut in inch cubes and soak for 2 ½ hours in the limewater. Drain, cover with fresh water and cook for 1½ hours, or until tender, and add more water as it boils off. Let stand overnight in this same water, and next morning drain. Bring to the boiling point the vinegar, 1 quart of water, the sugar, and the spices tied loosely in cheesecloth. Add the drained watermelon, and boil gently for 2 hours, or until the sirup is fairly thick. Remove the spice bag, pack the watermelon pickle in sterilized glass jars, seal airtight, and store in a cool place.

Peach Preserves

Any variety of white or yellow peach of good dessert quality will make satisfactory preserves if chosen at the firm-ripe stage.

Wash and pare the peaches. Either leave them whole or cut them into uniform pieces, such as halves, quarters, or eighths. To each pound of prepared fruit allow ¾ to 1 pound of sugar. Combine the fruit and the sugar in alternate layers and let stand 8 to 10 hours or overnight before cooking. Or add the sugar and ¼ cup of water for each pound of the fruit and cook at once. In either case stir carefully while heating to boiling. Boil rapidly until the sirup is somewhat thick, stirring constantly to prevent burning. Pour at once into hot, sterilized jars and seal.

A Planned Kitchen Is a COOL Kitchen

Of course electric cooking is the coolest of all—but in a planned kitchen you have the other electric appliances that contribute to a cool kitchen in summer—such as the electric refrigerator, and the kitchen ventilating fan.

A planned kitchen is not beyond your means—you can have one by sensible planning. First the plan—fit in your present appliances, later add those you do not have now. Buy one thing at a time. But before you begin, have a plan. We shall be glad to help you—you are not obligated when you use this service.

MT. LAKE PARK

Things seem a bit quiet since the Choir Festival closed on Sunday night. From Friday afternoon until the close of the festival Mountain Lake had one of the finest programs ever heard in the Park. Rev. Felix Robinsin is to be congratulated upon the beauty and excellence of the program.

Each time we attend any gathering held in the amphitheatre our mind goes back to the ohl days (old age is creeping up), and so it was during the festival. We seemed to be surrounded by thin airy souls. Almost we expected to see the Chautauqque salute being given Dr. Wilbur Davidson at he sat on the platform.

Each section of seats held the memory of those who never missed a Chautauque performance. Mr. Larney Carr and his family, Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Dare, Mrs. Davidson and her boys, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Clayton and family and scores of others, most of whom have passed on.

Then we began to count the oldtimers still present. The number was pitifully small.

We were reminded that Dr. Charles W. Baldwin, whose name has always been associated with the Park, had but a few days previous passed to that great beyond. And we wondered if they all really weren't there during this great music festival. Somehow, we believe they were.

The Mission School opened Monday morning. This year promises many good things to those attending. Some of the finest educators will be present during the session. The concert to be given on Saturday night will feature two splendid artists—Miss Frances Miller, harpist, and Miss Emily Miller, mezzo-soprano. Don't miss this.

Reports have been current that petty thieving has broken out in the Park. Clothes hung out to dry have been purloined, as have many other things, hut the prize theft was a steak dinner. One young housewife stepped out of her house for a few minutes to await guests for dinner. The dinner—nice porterhouse steaks and all that go with it, was ready for serving. It was served, but to whom she does not know. The dinner was apparently enjoyed, since there was no "left-overs."

The Civic Club will hold its annual rummage sale in the Nally Building Thursday, Friday and Saturday of next week. Miss Katharine McLain will be in charge.

VOLUME 62. OAKLAND, GARRETT COUNTY, MARYLAND, JULY 28, 1938. NUMBER 22.

IMPORTANT DEVELOPMENT NOTED IN POLITICAL POT

Republican Political Arena Has Five New Candidates Today For Four County Offices

DEMOCRAT ALSO ASPIRES

Several important developments occurred in the Republican political arena during the week, five candidates having announced themselves as aspirants for four offices. Two of these positions had no previous candidates.

Harry C. Edwards, of Grantsville, member of the House of Delegates at the last meeting of that body, announced for the nomination for State Senator. His announcement appears on this page of The Republican.

Martin L. Groves, of Swanton, also a member of the House of Delegates at its last session, announced as a candidate to succeed himself in that office.

Albert G. Ross, Clerk of the Circuit Court, seeks to again fill that important office and his announcement is also found elsewhere on this page of The Republican.

Two persons have announced for the nomination for County Treasurer, the aspirants being Jesse J. Ashby, Jr., of Oakland, and William E. Pew, of Kitzmiller.

Mr. Groves is the lone candidate to announce his ambition for the office of member of the House of Delegates, although others are expected to follow, several having expressed themselves as wanting to represent Garrett county in the Lower House. Three members of the House will be nominated. Mr. Groves is engaged in farming in District No. 1. In his announcement he states he feels better qualified to serve the people as their representative because of past experience. He makes no promises except that of serving the people of Garrett county to the best of his ability.

Mr. Pew is entering politics for the first time. He was a former teller in the First National Bank at Kitzmiller and has resided in District No. 13 all his life. He had many years' clerical experience and solicits the support of the Republican voters at the primary for the office which he seeks—that of County Treasurer.

Mr. Ashby was elected to the office of County Treasurer in 1930, and formerly served the people in the capacity of Sheriff. When his term as Treasurer expired in 1934 and the treasurer-elect failed to qualify for the office, the County Commissioners considered Mr. Ashby's administration of the affairs of this most important office so efficient that during each succeeding year they have reappointed him to this position. He considers, his announcement states, that his experience in this department should be of great value to the taxpayers and asks his friends to rally to his support at the primary election.

There are now twenty-nine Republican aspirants for various political offices of the county who have announced themselves publicly through the columns of The Republican, and their names will be found on the editorial page beneath the masthead, and also their announcements and statements of policy on page seven of today's issue of The Republican.

Democrat Has Senatorial Aspirations

In today's Republican also appears the announcement of Bernard I. Gonder, who aspires to the Democratic nomination for the State Senate. Mr. Gonder was born in Oakland in 1885; was educated in the graded schools here and at Potomac State School in Keyser. He was in the law office of the late G. S. Hamill for ten years and has conducted a general insurance business for 20 years. He has been manager of the Western Union telegraph office and the Maryland Theatre for seven years and is now owner of the local theatre and also the Grand theatre in Friendsville. Mr. Gonder asks the support of his Democratic friends at the primary election.

There are now three candidates on the Republican ticket for the United States Senatorial nomination—Judge Oscar Leser, of the Supreme Court of Baltimore City; Galen L. Tait, for a great many years chairman of the Republican State Central Committee and party opponent of the Nice administration, and Leo Weinberg, Frederick City attorney.

Oakland Boy Scouts of Troop No. 1, Oakland, who have been camping for the past ten days, will return to their homes here on Monday morning.

which time he had ample opportunity to acquaint himself with all the intricate details of the office and succeeded so well that he has been commended for the duties he has performed to the satisfaction of the public he serves. Mr. Ross is a son of a Civil War veteran and has been a resident of Oakland his entire life, filling positions of trust ever since coming to the age of manhood. He says in his announcement he solicits the support of the voters "solely upon my qualifications gained through years of experience."

The office needs experience and service. Mr. Ross has it and gives it.

Injured In Car Wreck

Harvey Mussard, proprietor of the Second Street and Roadside markets, sustained a broken right knee cap and other injuries last Saturday night at Little Crossings, near Grantsville, while returning to his home here from Baltimore.

He is under the care of Dr. W. A. Gracie, in Memorial hospital, Cumberland, and will undergo an operation today.

The accident occurred at the railroad crossing. The automobile finally came to a stop after careening for 25 feet and uprooting a tree. The automobile was badly damaged.

American Legion Meeting

The next regular meeting of Proctor Kildow Post, No. 71, will be held on Monday evening, August 1, at the City Hall. Among the important items of business will be election of officers for 1939 and selection of delegates to the Department Convention at Baltimore. It is hoped by the officers that there will be a large attendance. Refreshments will be served following the meeting.

HARRY C. EDWARDS IS A CANDIDATE FOR SENATE

Announces His Aspirations In Today's Republican; Former Member House of Delegates

ACTIVITIES ARE LISTED

Harry C. Edwards, of Grantsville, announces his candidacy for the Maryland State Senate in today's Republican. He served the people of the county as a member of the House of Delegates at its five sessions held in recent years.

Harry C. Edwards, of Grantsville, the son of Charles U. Edwards, a life long Republican, was born in Sandpatch, Pennsylvania, October 3, 1901. His parents moving to Kendall, Garrett county, in 1903 and in 1905 to Crellin, where his father was employed by the Kendall Lumber Company as sawyer on the large saw mill, continuing in that capacity for sixteen years.

Mr. Edwards, receiving his early education in the public school at Crellin, was employed at the age of 17 by the Kendall Lumber Company. In 1921 he was married to Miss Lulu Catherine Simpson, whose parents were among the early settlers of Garrett county. To this union were born two children, Cecil, age 15, and Rita, age 9.

In 1921, with his fatehr as partner, Mr. Edwards began his business career, engaging in the automobile and garag ebusiness in Grantsville. In 1926 he opened a restaurant, both of which businesses he still profitably operates.

Mr. Edwards has always been interested in the welfare of the people and the advancement of the community, and as success has come to him he has become more interested and active in both civic and religious work. He has served his people as a member of various important boards and committees, for two terms as member of the Grantsville Town Council; elected without opposition to the office of mayor and has been for several years and is now serving as trustee, recording steward and financial secretary of the Methodist Episcopal church, and is assistant superintendent of the Methodist Episcopal Sunday school. He has served in five sessions of the Maryland House of Delegates.

Mr. Edwards has played a leading part in securing many very important and beneficial projects of lasting value for Garrett county, which have in a short time proven to be of great benefit to the people. His work in these varied capacities has gained for him the acquaintance and friendship of State and Federal leaders. He asserts that with the knowledge and experience of dealing directly with these many important subjects he is qualified to serve the people in the Maryland State Senate and welcomes anyone to examine his record, and requests your support for the nomination.

OAKLAND EXPERIENCES WORST FLOOD IN HISTORY; THIRTY BUSINESS PLACES SUSTAIN $50,000 DAMAGE

High Waters Damage Property Of Stanley Coal Company

High waters of Saturday morning, in addition to causing the flood in Oakland, also caused much damage to the property of the Stanley Coal Company, near Crellin, and to various farms near Oakland.

Laurel Run, near the Stanley mine, overflowed its banks and washed out tracks to the tipple run way and rock dump, floated away the sand house and power house, washed out track of the Preston Railroad company between the mine and Hutton in about five places, and entered the engine room of the mine.

It will take about two weeks to put the mine in normal working order, it was stated this morning. Damage was estimated at several thousand dollars.

The heavy downpour of rain on Saturday also caused much damage to farms in the vicinity of Oakland. Some fields were completely covered with water and growing crops were left covered with mud. Hay was carried away by the high waters in some instances.

The meeting is being sponsored by the Deep Creek Lake Association, as is the beauty contest, and is for the purpose of raising funds to provide a motor boat and inhalator for emergency uses on the lake, and also to prevent fires, automobile accidents and other hazards around the lake.

Mr. Houck stated there would be no contests among first aid teams but that there would be a life saving exhibition by Miss Mary Townshend, of Frostburg; Ralph Smith, manager of the Quantico officers' pool at Quantico, Va., and Miss Lucille Houck, of Oakland, and also an exhibition of fancy diving.

Preceding the beauty contest on that day there will be a yacht race and a parade of motorboats.

WATER RISES SO SUDDENLY PEOPLE ARE TRAPPED IN STORES AND HAVE TO BE CARRIIED OUT BY RESCUERS

ARTHUR WARNICK HAS NARROW ESCAPE FROM A SUDDEN DEATH

Grabs Live Wire While Standing Waist Deep In Water In Cellar of His Store On Second Street—Rainfall Saturday Morning Totaled 3:76 Inches

The worst flood in the history of Oakland was experienced last Saturday morning when the mad, swirling waters of Wilson Creek overflowed and poured five feet deep into the business section, causing damage of more than $50,000 to at least thirty business and professional men.

The water left the creek banks about ten o'clock in the morning and rose so rapidly that merchants could do little more than shift goods from floors to high shelves. In this they were aided by members of the Oakland Fire Department and volunteer residents of town. Within thirty minutes the creek tumbled four feet of water into the main streets and in an hour the maximum depth of about five feet was reached.

A number of automobiles, parked and moving, as well as householders and business people were trapped temporarily in the downtown section bordering on Second and Green streets, where the water was the highest. The firemen and volunteers moved all to safety on higher ground and CCC enrollees from the Swallow Falls Camp moved into town in trucks and placed themselves at the disposal of local authorities.

All employes in the several stores and other places of business remained at their stations and assisted in moving merchandise and records to higher places in the buildings. This was especially true of those employed in stores and professional offices in the east section of Second street near Green and Liberty streets.

Mrs. Sarabell Kimmell, who was trapped by the waters at Second and Green streets, was one of the first to be carried to a place of safety. Others were carfied from Miller's Sanitary Market, Garrett National Bank and the office of Dr. M. C. Hinebaugh in the bank building and from the Half-Price store where the first stage of the journey to safety was made over house tops. Some walked in neck-deep water to get out of buildings in the flood section. Julius Littman was marooned for two hours or more on a window sill of the Garrett National Bank and was eventually taken out by boat.

Electrically Shocked and Later Nearly Drowned In Cellar

Arthur C. Warnick, about 50 years of age, meat market and grocery store owner, narrowly escaped death when he went into the basement of his store and there came in contact with a live electric wire. With approximately five feet of water in the basement Mr. Warnick was rendered semi-conscious by the electricity and fell into the water. He was rescued from his perilous position by a store employe. The use of a pulmotor was applied by local firemen and when the man showed signs of returning consciousness he was taken to the office of Dr. N. I. Broadwater and later to his home on east Green street where he is slowly recovering.

Following the experience of Mr. Warnick the electric current in sections of town was discontinued until late in the afternoon.

Rain Began About Midnight

The flood was caused by a steady downpour which began about midnight Friday. This, coming on top of six previous days of almost steady rain, brought up the level of the creek. Its rise was closely watched by city employes, but its practically wall of water came with such suddenness and so swiftly that slight warning was able to be given. The fire siren brought members of the department to duty, but by that time there was two feet of water at the corner of Second and Green streets.

The muddy torrent lapped at the window sills of the Garrett National Bank building and the waters actually reached the steps leading into the banking room of the First National bank at Second and Alder streets and penetrated Alder street for a distance of fifteen to twenty feet. Many rescues were effected in the neck-deep current.

Places Flooded

HEALTH DEPARTMENT ISSUES WARNING

Dr. H. R. DuPuy, health officer of Garrett county has issued the following warning:

"All those people who were exposed to the flood waters last week should be protected against typhoid fever by taking the vaccine. Those who have never been immunized before should have three injections. All of the physicians are prepared to give this vaccine and everyone should report to his family physician without delay. Those who cannot afford to pay for this service may obtain these injections at the health department."

Oakland Is Well Disinfected

Oakland's flood district has been well disinfected and deodorized. D. E. Callaway, food and drug inspector of the State Department of Health, has been here since Monday supervising the work of sanitation.

All alleys and earth beneath buildings have been limed and large quantities of disinfectant have been used where needed.

Mr. Callaway stated to The Republican that all stores have destroyed food stuffs that were in flood waters, except in a few instances where canned goods were salvaged. These goods are being offered for sale without labels. The cans have been dipped in a sterilizing solution and are free from any flood germs.

Mr. Callaway also added the Mayor and Council and all stores had been very cooperative in following regulations of the health department and in making the town as sanitary as possible.

Large Number Of People Expected To Attend County Picnic

Between 1,500 and 2,000 people are expected to hear the address of Dr. H. C. Byrd, President of the University of Maryland, at the county picnic to be held on the recreational grounds, near Bittinger, recently developed.

Other features of interest for the day have been planned by the Executive Board of the Garrett County Council of Homemakers Clubs and the men's County Planning Board under the supervision of the County Extension Agents.

There will be games in the morning, beginning at 10:30. Lunch will be at 11:30 and singing at 1 o'clock, led by Mrs. Delma Arnold. Mrs. E. H. Canan, Mt. Lake Park, vice-president of the County Council, and Harry L. Porter, project manager of the Farm Security Administration, will bring greetings. Dr. Byrd will speak at 2 o'clock. Games and other recreation will follow.

Rainfall during the month of July including Saturday, totaled 8 inches.

Lesson for July 31

SAMSON: STRENGTH AND WEAKNESS

LESSON TEXT—Judges 14:5, 6; 15:11-14; 16:15-21.
GOLDEN TEXT—Be strong in the Lord, and in the power of his might.—Ephesians 6:10.
PRIMARY TOPIC—A Man Who Wasted His Strength.
JUNIOR TOPIC—How Strong Was Samson?
INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Who Is Strong?
YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Physical Strength and Moral Weakness.

There is no more tragic individual among the sons of men than the one who entered upon life with every promise of success, who has lived for a time in favor with God and with man, and then because of moral failure is set aside by God, shunned by man, and ends life as a disappointment and a failure. "And yet such disastrous climaxes of what should have been great and victorious careers lie all about us, and nowhere with such frequency and inexcusableness as among those whom God has called to preach, evangelize, and teach His Word. The saddest tragedy in all the world is a man who once knew the power of the Holy Spirit and who now walks the streets of some great city or is buried in the cottage of an unknown countryside, without power, without work, without joy, without the leading of the Lord. He knows a weariness that labor never gives, for he wakens every morning more tired and weary than when he went to sleep the night before" (Wilbur M. Smith).

The life story of Samson brings us the picture of God's patient and gracious dealing with such a failure, reveals the inexorable law of cause and effect in the moral realm as well as the certainty that the wages of sin not repented of and forsaken is death.

I. Physical Strength and Favor With God (15:5, 6).

Samson had the distinction (given to only one other Old Testament character) of having his birth announced beforehand. He was to be a Nazarite and was to "begin to deliver Israel out of the hand of the Philistine"—a commission which sin kept him from ever finishing. God gave him the marvelous heritage of a strong and healthy body as well as His own blessing upon him for carrying out the Lord's work. The fact that he is named among the heroes of faith in Hebrews indicates that he did have faith in God. Yet his life was a failure.

Samson would have been a great favorite in this athletic age. Let those who worship the body and glorify physical prowess take note that such strength is not sufficient to guarantee success in life, and may indeed be a source of temptation which may lead to spiritual and moral downfall. Those who live for the flesh "shall of the flesh reap corruption" (Gal. 6:8).

II. Moral Weakness and Spiritual Decay (15:11-14).

The portion of the lesson selected for our consideration from Judges 15 gives only an act of prowess on the part of Samson, but the reader will recognize it as one of the many deeds of Samson done as an expression of his uncontrolled sensual nature. Read the entire chapter and it will be evident that here is a man who, while occasionally responding to God's leading, is on the downward path of moral and spiritual decadence.

Scripture is absolutely honest in relating the facts as they are—and here it is not at all an attractive picture. It never is, although the world tries to make it appear to be. A learned audience of university people laughed with evident appreciation at the statement of a professor that "vice is always more interesting than virtue," little realizing that they thus bore testimony to their own attitude toward sin. If the liquor advertisements were honest enough to picture the agony of a drunkard dying of delirium tremens they would present the real truth, but they would sell no "booze."

III. Failure, Darkness, and Death (16:15-21).

Delilah finally betrayed the foolish Samson who apparently had become so sure of himself that he dared to venture anything. The man who was to be strong for God is now in prison, shorn of his strength, blinded by his enemies, and finally he kills himself even as he slays his enemies (16:23-31). Thus he threw away the life that had become to him but a burden and a disgrace.

"Thus he who began never completed his work. The column was broken in the middle. The story ends with a comma and a dash, blistered over by a tear. For the light is turned into darkness, and how great is the darkness" (J. M. Lang).

Now Power Can Defeat God

Be not afraid of sudden fear, neither of the desolation of the wicked, when it cometh. For the Lord shall be thy confidence, and shall keep thy foot from being taken.—Prov. 3:25,26.

Scoop's Column

By Scoop Himself

"WPA Is Clamoring for More Clients," was the way a headline read in the Sunday Sun. It also stated, "Puzzled by the relatively small number of persons on work relief in Maryland as compared with other states, officials of the Works Progress Administration have been urging city and state relief authorities to refer them 'all persons in need.'"

To our way of thinking, that logic is most astounding. State and Federal WPA officials actually invite people to get on relief; they want to give out more of our taxpayers' money, they want their employes in different counties to go out and hunt for people to whom they can give money, for leaning on a shovel.

Instead of wanting to reduce relief they want to increase it. Pretty soon, at this rate, they will be sending around the sheriff ordering us to get on relief or else go to jail. At this rate, as long as the New Deal is in Washington, there will never be any attempt to overcome this depression, borrowing will continue, and this nation will go bankrupt, inflation will be a major disaster, and President Roosevelt will blame it all on the business men.

Can't we do something about this in November, and two years from now? If we don't do it then, we might all just as well quit working and let the government support us on money that he's been draining from the poor, misguided people who have always worked for a living.

* * *

DEAR, DUMB DAD

My Father, poor, misguided gent,
Wasted his life; a life misspent
By working hard, and working late
Trying to gather pieces of eight.

Poor Dad; He'd fuss and fret and toil
And burn the blooming midnight oil
For nothing but a little cash
To buy the daily beans and hash.

Poor Dad; He was so mild and meek
He'd work six days in every week
And fourteen hours most every day
To try to keep the wolf away.

Now Father, meaning well, but dumb,
Amassed a rather tidy sum,
In fact the future held no fears
For him in his declining years.

Then came the NEW DEAL. Simple Dad,
Who worked so hard for all he had,
Awoke one morn to find that he
Was now a public enemy.

A louse, a scrooge, a national cyst,
An economic royalist;
So Dad, industrious, but dumb,
Is now the source from which will come
The coin to buy the gasoline
For some poor underdog's machine.

To bring THE MORE ABUNDANT LIFE
To every loafer and his wife,
From Dad will be extracted sums
For radios to ease the hells
Of all the chronic Ne'er-do-wells;
For booze, so labor's little Nell
Can tell the boss to go to Hell.
Poor Dad, a faithful, trustful goon,
Was born just 30 years too soon.

EN VERITE

A moral lurks along the hall,
In all this fancy fol-de-rol,
And it is this: That any cheat
Who says you ought to work to eat,
Is simply nuts, out of his head,
Sit on your tail, or stay in bed,
The government will see, by gad,
That you get yours from chumps like Dad.

A South Dakota tornado stripped all the feathers from one farmer's chickens when it struck the poultry yard. It couldn't do much damage to some of the summer people at the lake who come to Oakland in their abbreviated costumes. (Now no remarks about my tennis shorts!)

A band boy reports that Senator Tydings is in the dog house as far as members of the Oakland Band is concerned. He said for lunch Sunday at Baltimore, through the courtesy of Tydings, they were given hot dog and beer.

Another one reported later, however, they had ginger ale for the younger "boys", and after the show they were taken back to the armory for ice cream and cake. So it must not have been so bad.

And it is probable that the Senator left all arrangements up to one of his friends, and didn't even know what was on the menu.

John, aged 3, was yelling at the top of his voice the other day. "What in the world is the matter," said a neighbor, running out excitedly.

"I swallowed my candy without eating it," Johnny cried, and let out several more screams.

Too bad they don't make taste buds for the stomach as well as for the tongue, especially for children like that.

FLOOD SIDELIGHTS

Losses to individual merchants and business men were heavy. The entire candy stock of the Bakery was ruined.

In Smouse's canned goods were washed out the front. Several hundred dollars worth of meat were ruined. To replace one window in a meat show case it will cost $100.

Miller lost hundreds of dollars worth of meat and canned goods. All loose merchandise was a total loss.

In the Half-Price Store goods that had been piled on tables were turned over by the current. Loss in the store and warehouse was very heavy.

Hundreds of dollars worth of pills and medicine were ruined by water in Harned's. Sharps Motor lost 10 tons of sand; Leighton Brothers lost two piles of lumber.

Part of the building of the Oakland Creamery was pushed away from the rest of the structure.

The old blacksmith shop, rear of Hinebaugh's restaurant, collapsed as a result of flood waters.

Numerous cellars all over town were flooded, as water rushed in all openings.

Harold Dawson literally went swimming. As he was trying to get home by way of Third street he was staying close to buildings and went down in the curb box in front of the Coca Cola plant, clear to his ears.

Oakland will have less rats on account of the flood. They were seen by the dozens being taken along by the current.

There seemed to be at the time an earthquake in the Garrett Nat'l. The floor bulged in several places, smashing doors, rocking the grill, while a short circuit in the cellar caused wires to smoke. Water was 37 inches deep in there. Mrs. Howard Riggs was busy this week in "ironing out" the records with her electric mangle.

Mrs. Ernest Liller, Mrs. Frank Kley, Mrs. Harry Stemple, Miss Zaidee Browning, and probably several others, were the most popular ladies in town Saturday afternoon. They served coffee and sandwiches to those engaged in cleaning up after the water receded. "The best sandwiches I ever tasted," one fireman remarked.

Stuart Hamill's automobile was found after the flood, tied to a telephone pole on Liberty street.

Rising waters pushed up some boards in H. C. Sincell's store, and in hurrying to remove merchandise from the lower shelves, Mrs. Margaret McComas got her shins skinned when she fell into the hole. She scrambled out, thankful she went in only to her waist.

A man stood waist deep in the middle of Second street, holding an umbrella over his head, probably to keep his hair dry.

No Potato Marketing Agreement

There will be no potato marketing agreement or order program covering interstate shipments of potatoes in this section. In Maryland the vote favoring this arrangement was less than fifty per cent.

STORES ON GREEN AND SECOND STREETS CAUGHT

Water Reaches Over Four Feet In Second Street Store—Tables Of Valuable Stock Overturned

STREAM RISES SUDDENLY

Last Saturday morning at ten o'clock, the worst flood in Oakland's history struck without any warning. The waters, overflowing Wilson Creek, swirled down Third Street, pouring into Green Street in a maddening rush. The Half-Price Stores on both Green and Second Streets, along with other stores on the street level, caught the full brunt of the flood.

It seemed at first that the sewers on Second Street were merely clogged and nothing serious would result, but that was only for a moment. Water then began to overflow into the main store through the side door.

With a minimum of hysteria the store sales force—both men and women—donned boots and began to transfer merchandise from under tables and shelves to the tops of tables and other higher places. Eight or ten members of the Oakland Volunteer Fire Department arrived at this time, practically doubling the help and rendering service that saved much merchandise from absolute ruin.

Three Feet in Fifteen Minutes

In fifteen minutes there was three feet of water covering the store, and it was impossible to do more there. Operations were then shifted to the warehouse which is considerably higher than the main floor. Water was already up to the side and rear loading doors and in another five minutes overflowed. Again the sales force and firemen shifted stock from the floor level to higher places. A considerable quantity of merchandise was also reached here by several inches of water before it could be shifted.

It seemed at this time that the building might collapse because of the terrific current of the flood. A cracking was heard in the office which houses the heavy store safe. Under the direction of the firemen all the women employees were hurried up to the second floor and out on the roof. From here they crossed over to the adjoining building and were carried on the backs of the firemen through several feet of water to higher ground.

Marooned in Store

In the Green Street Half-Price Store Esther Sereno, in charge, was marooned by the suddenness in which the flood struck. She stood in the show windows there while large rats driven in by the water swam about below her. Finally, she was rescued, being carried through waist high water in the swift moving current.

A look into the main store at that time was practically sickening. The water had reached its highest level—3½ feet in there, and 4 feet 1 inch on the front windows. Tables were floating around in the muddy swirl and many which had been piled high with stock had overturned, dumping their costly burden into the water. The main shoe shelf was tilted at a precarious angle being pushed up with the floor by the terrific pressure of the water under the building.

Several cars parked along Green Street were carried like matchboxes by the terrific current. One, owned by Mr. F. H. Feld, was carried across Second Street, coming to rest below Miller's corner. A pickle lodged on the cowl ventilator and remained there throughout the flood—furnishing at least one amusing note to the catastrophe.

And now that it is all over but the repair to the damage, Oakland's greatest flood can be looked back upon with memories and the thought that it could have been a lot worse. For The Half-Price Stores, at least, the damage could have been much more than it is were it not for the splendid cooperation, loyalty and service of the sales force and especially the Oakland Volunteer Fire Department. To them go our undying thanks, not only for the help they gave, but more important for their direction and supervision in preventing injuries or loss of life.

PREVENT MORE FLOODS—

Hardly had the flood waters receded before there was much talk of preventing any future damage from the unruly waters of Wilson creek.

The Mayor and Council are already working on plans. One plan is to confer with B. and O. officials in regard to widening the opening under their tracks.

The rush of water was so great that the opening could not take care of the flow, and debris partially clogged what opening there was. There was no other outlet until the water rose high enough to get over the tracks, and this, of course, was not until there was five feet in some of the stores. A much wider opening under the tracks will relieve any future floods as great as the one Saturday, it is thought.

Another plan is to lay an additional drain from the stream where it passes the Oakland Bakery, to pass under Second street, the Presbyterian church property, the Naylor property, emptying into the Little Youghiogheny river somewhere near the B. and O. station. This would carry off any surplus water necessary to prevent the water from entering any buildings.

Wilson creek drains an extensive area, and the stream bed is small. Heavy rains north of Oakland and east of Oakland, as far as Broadford, must drain through Wilson creek.

It is necessary that something be done for flood prevention. Merchants cannot keep on sustaining such losses indeffinitely. Even when floods come only once every five or ten years, it is too much. Something should, and probably will be done.

WILLINGNESS TO HELP—

"I never knew of any place where people showed such a willingness to help other people during an emergency," a woman remarked yesterday in talking over the losses in Oakland caused by the flood, and the large amount of merchandise saved by the assistance of workers.

This is the general feeling throughout the flood area, and in spite of the loss is a comforting thought. In many cases those who were helping the merchants were strangers to them. But thousands of dollars of merchandise was saved because these citizens gave help when it was necessary.

In other ways there was also valuable help. Members of the Oakland Volunteer Fire department were particularly active in rescue work although they also assisted merchants and worked hard and late in cleaning up after the flood had receded. It is gratifying to know that the Department members can be relied upon for service in any emergency.

Valuable assistance was also given by the officers and enrollees of the Swallow Falls CCC camp. They aided city workmen to clean up the streets and many of them helped merchants to "mop up."

It is impossible to name all individuals who worked, but those who sustained the loss are grateful to all.

Thanks, a lot!

WE ARE INDEED GRATEFUL to all who assisted us during this horrible catastrophe which befel us and other business houses in Oakland on Saturday.

Many who aided us in saving a great amount of merchandise, we have never had the pleasure of knowing, and to these persons, and to those whom we have known for years, we most sincerely extend our thanks and say to them that we appreciate more than mere words express, everything that has been done to relieve this situation.

While a great amount of merchandise was damaged by the waters, thousands of dollars worth was not touched. However, everything that was in the flood has been cleaned by the laundry and dry cleaners and restored to perfect condition. Nevertheless this merchandise has been placed on sale and will be sold at prices as low or lower than if it was still wet and soiled. Everything else in the store is included in this sale at prices far below anything we have ever attempted before—this is a mark of appreciation to all the citizens of the surrounding territory for their kindness during this time of stress.

Yours very sincerely,

H. C. SINCELL.

TAKE TOOTHBRUSH WHEN LEAVING FOR VACATION

Important To Keep Up Regular Practice of Brushing Teeth

Don't forget your tooth brush when you pack your bag for your summer vacation. Treat yourself to a new one if yours has been in use for some time. Tooth brushes are not supposed to last indefinitely, you know. But most important of all, according to Dr. Richard C. Leonard, Chief of the Division of Oral Hygiene of the State Department of Health, is to be sure you keep up your regular practice of brushing the teeth at least twice a day. "Put your mind on what you are doing," Dr. Leonard says, "brush your gums as well as the teeth; brush with care, up and down and across the surface of the teeth.

"As to these brushes: We are all of us inclined to hang on to our old tooth brushes until the bristles get soft and soggy. When they are in that state they are no good for cleansing purposes; to remove dirt and debris from around the teeth, or to stimulate the circulation in the gums, which is what the tooth brush if intended to do. For all of these purposes, clean brushes with firm up-standing bristles are a necessity.

"But even a new brush cannot be depended upon to prevent tooth troubles unless it is used properly. Proper tooth brushing calls for the thorough, vigorous brushing of the teeth—all surfaces—at least twice a day. Food debris may accumulate in tiny crevices in the teeth or may lodge in the spaces between the teeth. To prevent possible decay of the teeth, this must be removed. It cannot be done with a 'lick and a primose' brushing.

"Finally, do not depend upon tooth-brushing either as a curative agent of dental disorders or as a one hundred per cent preventive of such disorders. Tooth brushing is a cleanliness practice that helps to prevent tooth decay. It cannot cure tooth-ache or diseased gums, neither can it stop decay, once started.

"It is only when proper mouth cleanliness habits are combined with a proper tooth-saving diet and regular dental attention that one may consider his or her mouth well guarded. The strict observance of three habits are necessary for the maintenance of healthy mouths:

1. "Eating right foods;
2. "Having your teeth examined by a competent dentist at least twice a year.
3. "Cleansing the teeth and mouth thoroughly at least twice a day."

THE GREAT GAME OF POLITICS. . . . . .

By FRANK R. KENT

The Fight In Maryland.

However enthusiastic he may seem now, it is perfectly understood in Washington that the Roosevelt radio announcement of his intention personally to enter the Democratic primaries in various states in order to nominate the hundred per cent Roosevelt men and defeat those who have been independent of him, was not an idea originally conceived by the President.

Nor is it the sort of political strategy that appeals to such pillars of the administration as Mr. Farley, Secretary Hull, Mr. Jesse Jones, or even Secretary Wallace. As for the Vice-President, his feeling about this kind of punitive politics is definitely and vigorously unfavorable and it is generally deplored by the more moderate of Mr. Roosevelt's friends in the Senate. They recognize that it originated with the little Corcoran-Cohen-Jackson-Keenan group of White House advisers, who think this is the way not only to dominate the Next Congress but also the 1940 National convention.

Months ago, in their super-subtle way, they made up their "slaughter list" of Democratic Senators and Representatives who were not to be allowed to return. The first real elimination attempt was in Iowa and it was eminently unsuccessful. However, Mr Corcoran and the others who directed that fight from the White House convinced themselves — and then convinced Mr. Roosevelt—that the reason Senator Gillette won was because he did not throw his weight against him personally. It is at least doubtful that this would have changed the result but that is the argument with which they induced him to take his stand, disregarding the disposition of voters to resent Federal interference in their local politics and the damage he is sure to sustain in States where his appeal is made in vain.

* * *

The "young liberals," who, ever since the court fight, have insisted upon a "party purge", have gained their point and committed the President to the attempt. It is interesting that on their elimination list the name of Senator Tydings, of Maryland, should not only be close to the top but that they should be more confident of defeating him than any other. The reason they are so anxious to beat Senator Tydings is easily understood he has been a consistent opponent not only of the court-packing plan but of the whole New Deal philosophy. His attacks upon reckless expenditures have been particularly effective and particularly irritating to the New Deal spenders.

However, the reason for the belief what the personal desire of Mr. Roosevelt to beat Mr. Tydings, plus the weight of the Federal machine in the State will do the trick, is indicative of the defective character of their political understanding. For example, the argument is that, as Maryland, with a total vote of only 620,000, gave Roosevelt 158,000 majority, it will be ridiculously easy to swamp Mr. Tydings, once the President's wish is clearly made known to his Maryland followers. It is typical New Deal reasoning and there are so many things to offset it that when they are added up there seems much more justification for confidence on the other side.

In the first place, this isn't a general election contest but one in a Democratic primary in which none but registered Democrats on the books last year can vote. This means that the approximately 50,000 Negro voters who helped make the Roosevelt 1936 majority of 158,000, cannot participate, because they are registered as Republicans. In the second place, the WPA organization cannot be used in Maryland against Mr. Tydings in the way it was used in Pennsylvania and Iowa and is being used in Kentucky, because it is largely manned by men named by Mr. Tydings and his colleague, Senator Radcliffe, who is supporting him. In the third place, the Federal jobholders in the State are nearly all Tydings men. In the fourth place, the county organizations are almost all with Mr. Tydings.

In the fifth place, there are in the State now a large number of registered Democrats who voted for Mr Roosevelt in 1936 who would not vote for him again, and ther eis an even larger number who will not vote for his candidate, who never really believed in his policies, but voted for him in 1936 because they were Democrats and there was no real alternative. They will have a very different feeling on a fight to force them to vote against a Maryland Democrat whose crime is that he did not blindly follow the President. When to all of this is added the basic fact that the Negroes who constituted so much of the Roosevelt majority are debarred from the primaries, there would seem slight reason for fear on the part of Mr. Tydings' friends. Perhaps when the President's amateur political advisers think these things over they may conclude that their confidence is not so well based as they thought.

I furthermore wish to take this opportunity to again express my appreciation for the confidence you manifested in me in the primary conducted September 12, 1934, as also by all the voters in the following general election in November, and it has been my desire to merit that confidence by efficient service.

By reason of knowledge gained through experience, a keen appreciation of the importance and responsibilities of the office with relation to the administration of estates of the deceased, as well as of the need for complete and accurately kept records, I feel justified in submitting my qualifications for this position and earnestly solicit your support at the approaching primary election in September. Very truly yours,

LOOKING FORWARD

By FRANKLYN WALTMAN

Publicity Director, Republican National Committee

Events of the last week demonstrated beyond dispute that President Roosevelt and his Administration is determined to use the full resources of the Federal Government to bring about the election this year of Congressional candidates willing to he "yes men" to him. It is now obvious the Roosevelt Administration, having lost the confidence of the country, shamelessly proposes to perpetuate itself in office by the ruthless use of money and arbitrary power.

First of these events was Mr. Roosevelt's amazing "fireside chat" in which he undertook to read out of the Democratic Party everyone who does not see eye-to-eye with him. He frankly expressed his disdain of those he termed "yes, but" fellows. That speech set the course for the Roosevelt administration this year. Thus what subsequently has happened might have been expected, even though it has sent a shock through the country.

Hardly had the echoes of the President's words died away than Federal Relief Administrator Harry Hopkins announced increases in W.P.A. wages in 13 Democratic Southern States, with the largest boosts in pay going to relief workers in Kentucky and Oklahoma. Why Kentucky and Oklahoma? Well, perhaps it was only a coincidence that in both these States the New Deal is engaged in desperate struggles to renominate two of its chief followers.

Kentucky and Oklahoma Fights

In Kentucky, Governor "Happy" Chandler is seeking to unseat "Dear Alben" Barkley, the Senate Democratic leader, while in Oklahoma, Senator Elmer Thomas, leader of the New Deal inflation bloc, is beset by two opponents for the Democratic nomination. And, also, in Oklahoma, William H. Murray, a severe critic of Mr. Roosevelt, is seeking the Democratic gubernatorial nomination.

Most people, however, will think it is more than a coincidence that on the eve of these campaigns some relief workers in these two States should have their wages increased by more than 50 per cent and others by 33 per cent. For instance, the wages of unskilled workers in Kentucky and Oklahoma were increased between $9 and $11 a month, but the increases were only $4 to $6 a month in the other Southern States.

One Washington correspondent, curious about the reason for such discrimination, consulted the W.P.A. He reported to his newspaper that "a W. P.A. press representative said he knew of no explanation for the favorable differential in Oklahoma and Kentucky except that 'the President and Mr. Hopkins wanted it that way.'"

Just Auother Coincidence

Most significant, however, was that 24 hours before Hopkins revealed his action in Washington, the Kentucky pay increases were announced in Louisville by the State Administrator, an appointee of Senator Barkley. Perhaps it was a coincidence that on that day Governor Chandler formally launched his campaign for the Senatorial nomination. And Mr. Roosevelt and Mr. Hopkins deny they were playing politics with relief funds!

Then came the frank, if not also brash, speech of Deputy Administrator of Federal Relief, Aubrey Williams. Addressing a meeting called by the Workers Alliance of America, a radical organization of relief workers, Mr. Williams openly urged those on the Federal relief rolls to vote to preserve the New Deal. He made no bones whatever about his desire to have relief workers vote for New Deal candidates.

Although Mr. Williams subsequently denied he made a political speech, a transcript of his talk was made public by the Workers Alliance which was in accord with the reports of the newspapermen present.

"We've got to stick together," Mr. Williams was quoted as telling the relief workers. "We've got to keep our friends in power. I thought that speech Friday night (the President's chat) was wonderful. I don't need to tell you. You know your friends very well. Judge the folks who come and ask for your support by the crowd they run with."

"Symphonies, Painting and Writing"

Mr. Williams also was quoted as saying that "I have the feeling that as long as you and I live, the Government is going to support symphonies.

"And the same thing goes for painting and writing," he continued. "There may be lapses. But I have got a conviction that the American people have tasted blood here. The men who stand for these sort of things are the men you are going to send to the elections."

The Deputy Relief Administrator's theme was that W.P.A. should pay relief workers the same wages prevailing in private industry. He urged his audience to keep on fighting for W.P. A. wages—and he made it clear that such fighting should take place at the polls this year. He asked his audience to keep in mind that "a government can get no further than it can get support for"—which is a pregnant thought, even thought it is not grammatical.

It is no wonder that cries went up from all sides for the immediate dismissal of Mr. Williams. But from the White House came nothing but silence. Nothing else, however, could be expected from an Administration that opposed with all its resources efforts in Congress to punish those who play politics with human misery.

"Hands Off Ballot Box"

Add to these incidents the amazing action of the National Labor Relations Board in citing the American Rolling Mill Company for violation of the Labor Relations Aet by taking part through its officers in a municipal election at Asbland, Ky., where the company has a plant.

This was too much for the New Dealish but straight shooting Donald R. Richberg, who blocked the aetion by denouncing it as "flagrantly unconstitutional" and as one subjecting business to "intimidation by the threat of proseeution."

"The National Labor Relations Board must keep its hands off the ballot box," declared Mr. Riehberg. He might have added, "the New Deal must keep its hands off the ballot box."

SEEKS DEMOCRATIC NOMINATION FOR STATE SENATE

I hereby announce my candidacy for the Democratic nomination for State Senator from Garrett County, subject to the primary to be held on September 12th., and in doing so deem it proper that I shall briefly state my position on some of the matters of interest to the voters and tax payers of the county:

State Road No. 219 should be widened and improved and I shall, if nominated and elected, address my efforts toward that end.

I shall see that this county secures its full share of all funds allotted to the building and improvement of roads generally.

I believe that the staggering burden of taxation can and ought to be lightened and shall advocate such rigid economy in the affairs of the State and county as will tend to accomplish this result.

There is a persistent belief on the part of a large proportion of our people that Garrett County is not now and has not been receiving consideration, in a legislative way in proportion to benefits had by the other counties of the State. If this be true I shall see that it is corrected and that our county takes its rightful place in this respect.

It is increasingly necessary that the natural resources of this county, particularly in the way of fish and game, be conserved and increased; this is becoming more and more important and is bringing to our citizens a very considerable revenue from the tourists it attracts; ours is the outstanding county of the state in this respect and my efforts will he to render it still more important.

I am connected with no clique or faction and if honored by this important office I shall accord to all, without regard to party faction or clique a respectful and unprejudiced hearing at all times and shall honestly endeavor to serve my native county and all of its citizens to the best of my ability.

Some warm day when you feel more like reading, sleeping, or swimming than you do cooking, try one of the following for your dessert.

Cantaloupe Ice Cream

One and one-third cups cantaloupe pulp, 3 tablespoons lemon juice, ½ cup white corn syrup, dash salt, 2 eggs, 3 tablespoons sugar, 1 cup whipping cream.

Crush the cantaloupe through a potato ricer and add lemon juice. Beat egg whites until light and beat in the sugar. Beat the egg yolks with the syrup. Whip the cream until thick but not stiff and fold all together. Freeze fast until half frozen, then beat until smooth. When frozen, reset the temperature regulator to medium. Serves 6 to 8.

Cherry Sherbet

One cup sugar, 1 cup water, ½ cup white corn syrup, 2 T. lemon juice, 2 quarts sour cherries, 2 cups cherry juice, 2 egg whites, 2 T. sugar.

Boil sugar and water five minutes, add corn syrup and chill. Remove the pits and extract the juice from cherries by pressing through a sieve or juice extractor and adding sugar, syrup and lemon. Beat egg whites until light before gradually adding the 2 T. sugar. Fold cherry juice mixture into the beaten egg whites and place in the froster to freeze with the temperature regulator set to the coldest. When half frozen, take from froster and beat until all lumps are removed. When frozen reset temperature regulator to medium. Serves 8 to 10.

HEALTH DOCTOR ADVISES PRECAUTIONS FOR PICNICS

If you are going on a picnic, Dr. R. H. Riley, Director of the State Department of Health, advises you to take special precautions to see that the food you serve is wholesome and appetizing, of course, but also, and very particularly, that it is kept clean and free from contamination; is handled as little as possible; refrigerated, if necessary, and is eaten while sound and fresh.

"Recent outbreaks of food poisoning," Dr. Riley said, "show very strikingly the need for special care in handling and refrigerating any food that must be prepared some little time in advance of serving it.

"Prevention of food poisoning requires clean food, handled as little as possible and consumed while it is still fresh. Foods prepared hours before serving, and allowed to stand at warm temperatures, become good culture media for bacteria. Cooked products of a perishable nature are readily subject to decomposition and must be kept well-refrigerated.

"Most food poisoning is caused by infection of certain types of bacteria which grow rapidly under favorable conditions, such as high temperature and high humidity. The infection may come from dirty hands, utensile, flies, rodents, contaminated water, infected food materials and in some cases, from certain types of bacteria which are relatively wide-spread and not necessarily associated with filthy conditions.

"In arranging for a picnic select a place that meets approved sanitary requirements. Inquire about the purity of the water supply both for drinking and bathing purposes. See that suitably sanitary toilets are available.

"If food is to be prepared at the picnic grounds, be sure that the kitchens are clean, free from flies, well-screened and of sufficient size, and that ample refrigeration is available. Make sure also that the stoves are free from grease; that good kitchen sanitation is maintanied, and that covered metal containers are available for garbage.

"Be sure you have sound, fresh foods—clean, free from stale odors, slime, etc. Require all who prepare the food for use to wash their hands thoroughly before handling it. Avoid excessive hand contacts with the food. See that clean containers are used and that special care is exercised in wrapping foods and in protecting them from contamination.

"If foods must be prepared much in advance of use, cook it thoroughly, keep it refrigerated and otherwise protected at a temperature under 50 degrees F. until you are ready to use it. Avoid serving foods that are readily infected, such as certain salads and cream-filled pastries. Any foods that are not to be served immediately should be kept on ice. Milk, ice cream and dairy products in general should be from approved sources.

"Digestive upsets cannot always be blamed on the food served or eaten at an outing. Sometimes excessive heat and humidity combined with over-exertion and over-heating, as well as over-eating, help to bring them about. Remember this, and don't indulge in too strenuous exercises when the days are hot and muggy. Don't over-indulge, either, in unwise combinations of foods."

OAKLAND HAS THE WORST FLOOD IN ITS HISTORY

Naylor and company, Kasco Feed Store, Bill Gibson's restaurant, and Fritts' Garage on Liberty street; the Oakland Baking company, Glotfelty's restaurant, F. A. Smouse grocery, Hinebaugh's restaurant, Half-Price Store, Oakland Supply company, Dr. Henry W. McComas' office, Oakland Pharmacy, H. C. Sincell, A. C. Warnick's Meat Market, J. W. Jackson 5 and 10, Miller's Sanitary Market, Dr. M. C. Hinebaugh's office, Garrett National Bank, West Maryland Power company and the Coffman-Fisher company. The water was up three steps in the hallway of The Republican, and at the rear of the building was about an inch from the press room.

Mayor Lawrence M. Fraley and several business men predicted as clean-up work got under way that the damage would exceed the $50,000 mark. Harry Feld, owner of the Half-Price Store, estimated his establishment alone suffered $20,000 damage. The warehouse in rear of his store, which carries supplies for his five other stores in West Virginia, was flooded to some extent. Ira Bosley, owner of the Baking company, estimated his stock of $2,000 was ruined. He narrowly missed losing a carload of flour. He was preparing to unload the flour and place it in his storeroom when the flood came upon him.

Peak Of Excitement

A peak point of excitement was reached about noon when a report spread through town that the 40-acre dam at Mountain Lake Park, emptying into the Little Youghiogheny river, had burst. Later investigation showed the lake was overflowing but the dam was holding.

The Baltimore and Ohio Railroad tracks at the junction of Wilson creek and the Little Youghiogheny river and also at the station were badly washed. The culvert carry Wilson creek under the tracks was not large enough to carry off the overflow, according to town officials, which was really the cause of the high water.

Milton Turney was credited with pulling two boys from the water at the B. and O. station as they became excited when a train passed, throwing water a dozen feet or more in the air.

Clean-up Is Rapid

As soon as the waters began to recede the work of cleaning up began. The city had the streets clean within a short time by aid of the Firemen and CCC enrollees and individual business places also received the aid of CCC boys in "mopping up".

About 4 o'clock Saturday afternoon waters of the Little Youghiogheny river rose to such an extent that water from Wilson creek was backed up, and water several inches deep came upon the corner of Second and Green streets, throwing another scare into the people of that vicinity. Water from the Yough damaged hay fields at Weber's and was three feet over route 219.

Realization that the town had been in grave danger on account of oil and gasoline floating on the water, came after the waters had receded. "Had any matches been thrown in the water where there was gasoline the whole downtown section would have been burned and many lives would have been lost," Emroy Bolden fire chief, stated Saturday night.

Governor Nice Offers Aid

Governor Harry W. Nice wired Mayor Fraley Saturday offering all help necessary to cope with the situation and asked state police to give him a full report of flood conditions here. Mayor Fraley said he also had received messages from Lieut. Johnson, head of the state police, and Daniel Willard, president of the B. and O.

Official records at Weber's showed that 3.76 inches of rain had fallen between 4 a. m. and 1 p. m. on Saturday, making a total of eight inches for the month up to that time.

Oakland's Worst Flood in History

FROM THE REPUBLICAN WINDOW

AS THE WATER SURGED

MT. LAKE PARK

Just about all we have heard the past week has been the flood. Mountain Lake was fortunate. If, as was reported, the lake dam had gone out, then it would have been a different story. So far as we know, there was little damage done here.

Reports are very numerous regarding the sale of the Park. Many of them are not even worthwhile rumors. Among the three latest rumors we heard only one seemed to have much foundation. After running this down we were told that there was nothing definite to be given out. So that't that.

The Ministerial Association is in session here this week. The hotels are filled, one to capacity as are many other places. They have a splendid program and a fine gromp of students. This year's registration is the largest ever made.

Just a word about our roads. The rain of Saturday certainly proved that the Mountain Lake Road Commissioners (if that is their title) did a good job weeks before. Several of our very poorest roads, which were put in condition withstood that terrific downpour. Congratulations to Mr. Edwin E. Friend and his corps of workers.

Personals

Mrs. Thomas Rogerson, Moundsville; Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Dorsey and Miss Pearl Dorsey, of Fairview, West Va., are guests at the Colonial.

PARISH HOMECOMING TO GET UNDER WAY SUNDAY

Week's Celebration of St. Peter's Church To Open With Mass

On Sunday, July 31, the people of St. Peter's Parish, Oakland, will open their annual homecoming week with a mass at ten o'clock. At three o'clock in the afternoon there will be a special Knights of Columbus Vesper service, to which all Knights of Columbus of Western Maryland have been invited. The following program will be rendered by the Holy Cross College Choir of Washington, D. C.:

The choir will do two hymns as a prelude to the Vespers proper. The first will be an "Ave Marie" according to a melodious choral theme by an unknown composer of the fifteenth century; the second, a "Veni Creator Spiritus", by Giovanni Pierluigi de Palestrina (1516-1594), who is regarded by many eminent critics of music as the greatest composer of liturgical music in the polyphonic style.

The Vespers for the eighth Sunday after Pentecost will be sung according to the melodies of the ancient Gregorian psalmody and chant which has been in use since the early centuries of the Church. Included in the Vespers are five Psalms with their corresponding antiphons, the hymn "Lucis Creator", the canticle "Magnificat", several short prayers or orations, and the concluding antiphon "Salva Regina" (Hail, Holy Queen!).

After the Vespers the choir will sing an "Ave Marie Stella" (Hail, Star of the Sea!) by E. Nikel, a modern composer.

The Rev. Carl Hagger, C.S.C., is the organist of the Holy Cross choir, and the Rev. Raymond Grummel, C.S.C., is the choir director.

The Vesper service will open the homecoming, which will mark the eighty-sixth anniversary of the Parish. On Tuesday there will be a Parish picnic at Swallow Falls Park and on Wednesday to Saturday the church will hold its annual carnival on the school grounds.

INVENTORY OF GARRETT COUNTY'S RECORDS MADE

Archives Of Youngest County In Maryland Examined By Historical Records Commission

IS NOW IN BOOK FORM

An inventory of the archives of Garrett county has recently been published by the Historical Records Survey, through the division of women's and professional projects of the Works Progress Commission.

The project was organized in 1935 to compile inventories of historical materials, particularly the unpublished government documents and records which are basic in administration of local government. Field work was begun in this county June 18, 1936. A first list was completed March 10, 1937, by Miss Elizabeth J. West, Miss Carrie DeWitt, Abel DeWitt, Roland Durben and Francis Turner. These records were afterwards checked and edited. A limited number of these books have been obtained by the County Commissioners.

Garrett county, alone of the twenty-three into which the State is divided, provided the survey with a unique political entity for study. Youngest of them all, it is the only one to be formed under the requirements of the 1867 Constitution, which provided that any future subdivision of the State must have an area of at least 400 square miles (eleven of the counties have less than that area) and a population of at least 10,000 persons.

Laurel Proposed

Most Marylanders familiar with their own lore are aware that the county was named in honor of the late John W. Garrett, president of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad at the time it was formed in 1872, but fewer know that the original name proposed for it was Laurel. The plan to stamp upon the new community the name of its characteristic flora was less popular, however, than the desire to memorialize the name of the man who directed the affairs of its most significant enterprise.

In the selection of its county town, however, public opinion was more sharply divided. After a contest which developed into an acrimonious scrimmage, dividing the population into northern and southern camps, Oakland was selected by a narrow margin of votes. A writ of mandamus had to be obtained, however, before the County Commissioners could be induced to erect a court house and so ratify the result of the election.

Prosperous Decades

Tied up with the railroad and the mining of coal, Garrett forged prosperously ahead during the first two decades of its independent existence. Deer Park became a fashionable summer resort and the future looked starry. Late in the nineties tourists and summer boarders began to seek other Elysiums. Coal mining declined, and today agriculture is virtually the sole support of the population.

By the time Garrett county was formed county government in Maryland, after undergoing drastic modifications in other communities had congealed virtually into its present form. Its first officials performed practically the same duties allotted to the incumbents and such changes as have been made in administration have been in line with the growing concentration of power in state and national governments. It has few obsolete local laws. Because of its youth and the recognition of the importance of preserving public documents, its records are virtually complete and intact. Few have been lost and none destroyed by fire or flood.

Unique Community

Unique in itself, Garrett county also contains in Mountain Lake Park a unique community whose rise and fall reflects the change in ideologies during the late nineteenth and early twentieth centuries. In the blueprint stage at the time Scharf's voluminous history of Western Maryland was written, it was established by a group of religions enthusiasts to promote educational and religious activities, only to realize its aims so fully in the course of a few years that reaction was inevitable. Today Mountain Lake Park is being resuscitated.

The book includes a historical sketch, development of government organization, housing, care and accessibility of records, county offices and their records, and incorporated towns and their records.

Camp Galilee, At Lake Terra Alta, To Be Dedicated August 11

Camp Galilee, a camp for boys, girls, parents and church leaders, which was recently purchased by the Church of the Brethren, will be dedicated on Sunday, August 14, with special ceremonies, at Lake Terra Alta, near Terra Alta, W. Va.

Dr. C. C. Ellis, president of Juniata college, at Huntingdon, Pa., will be the speaker at 11 a. m., 2:30 p. m., and 7:30 p. m. A choir from Westernport will provide special musical selections.

The property secured by the Church of the Brethren includes one hundred acres of land, a thirty-five acre fresh water lake, a large club building, recreational hall, cabins and tents built on raised platforms, and a newly constructed tabernacle. On the ground are three tennis courts, a volley-ball court, track and ball diamond.

Courses are being offered there during the summer. An intermediate camp for boys and girls will open August 9, with Rev. Jesse Zeigler, of Washington, D. C., as director. Teachers will include Rev. and Mrs. Arthur Serogum, of Accident. On August 15, a young peoples' camp opens. An adult conference opens August 22.

Rev. Newton D. Cosner, of Westernport, and Rev. Serogum, Accident, are the camp trustees representing the churches of Western Maryland.

Baltimorean Is "Out" At Wheel of His Auto For Three Hours

J. H. Carle, a representative of Dun and Bradstreet, Inc., of Baltimore, was still wondering today about an unusual experience of his yesterday afternoon in which he was literally "out" at the wheel of his automobile for about three hours.

Mr. Carle was returning from Friendsville to Oakland, having left the former town about 1 o'clock. About 5 o'clock Mr. Carle awakened in the seat of his car and wondered about his condition and his whereabouts. His car was in a field about fifty yards off the road. The ignition was still turned on. He was about midway between Friendsville and Route 219, north of Accident.

He has decided he had a heart attack while driving and lost consciousness for at least three hours. When coming to his senses at five o'clock his right side seemed stiff. Today a thick tongue was his only reminder that something was amis the day before.

TENNIS TOURNAMENT TO GET UNDER WAY MONDAY

At Least Four States To Be Represented In 19th Annual Event

At least four states will be well represented in the nineteenth annual tennis tournament for the Western Maryland Championship, which will get under way next Monday morning, August 8, on the tournament courts at Mountain Lake Park. The states are Maryland, Virginia, West Virginia and Pennsylvania.

In addition to a number of veteran players who have announced that they would return, there will be a group of comparatively new but experienced players to compete for honors. Most outstanding of the new group is Alex Keiles, of Baltimore, who has just won the Baltimore City championship by defeating last year's titleholder. Frank T. Roberts, secretary of the Middle Atlantic Lawn Tennis Association and president of the Davis Junior players, and Mrs. Roberts will be here and they are bringing a group from Baltimore, more, including Tom Thaler, junior champion of Baltimore, Francis Ogden and Don Beck.

Congressman Jennings Randolph, of Elkins, West Va., who was one of the entrants in the first tournament and who has come back each succeeding year either as a participant or spectator, will compete this year, he announced several days ago. Others already sure of coming are Don Snyder and Edgar Alcorn, and Miss Dolly Harris, Pittsburgh; Jeanette Campbell, Lonaconing, and others. There will be entries this year from towns never before represented, including Johnstown, Pa., and Parkersburg, W. Va., Mrs. W. N. Skyles, in charge of arrangements, announced.

Cups and other suitable prizes will be awarded winners and runners-up in all divisions. There will be competition in men's and women's singles, men's and women's doubles and mixed doubles. Finals in singles events will be held on Saturday, August 13.

Win In Swimming Meet

Tommy Thayer and Billy Shirer, of Oakland, won first places in a swimming meet held Tuesday night at Piedmont, W. Va.

In the 40-yards dash of boys between the ages of 10 to 12, Billy Shirer placed first, swimming the distance in 34 seconds. Billy Stahl, Oakland, was third.

In the 40-yards dash for boys from 12 to 14 years of age, Tommy Thayer placed first with a time of 29 seconds. Billy Stahl, who also entered this contest, won third. Bobby Bittle was also a contestant in this race.

All four boys are pupils of Joseph Sollars. Mr. Sollars stated that on Friday they would go to Cumberland, to participate in the Western Maryland swimming meet, held at the Celanese pool.

THREE MORE CANDIDATES ANNOUNCE THEY WILL RUN

Darwin Martin For House; Neil C. Fraley, State's Attorney; C. F. Hammond, Commissioner

SKETCH OF EACH GIVEN

Three more candidates for political honors make their desires known through public announcement in today's Republican, all three of the candidates being for different offices.

Those added to the list of aspirants are:

Darwin B. Martin, Distdict No. 16, for Member of the House of Delegates;

Neil C. Fraley, District No. 7, for State's Attorney;

Charles F. Hammond, District No. 14, for County Commissioner.

All, of course, are subject to the result of the Republican primary election to be held on September 12.

Mr. Martin is the second candidate to announce himself for the House of Delegates. Garrett county is entitled to three Members of the House, hence there is still a vacancy.

Mr. Martin was graudated from the Oakland High school in 1924 and for a number of years was associated with his father, C. P. Martin, in the mercantile business at Mountain Lake Park. Prior to entering the University of Maryland Law School last year he was a salesman for the Great American Tea Company, traveling all over this county and adjacent counties in West Virginia. He had been clerk and tax collector for Mountain Lake Park municipality for seven consecutive years. He was a delegate to the Republican State convention in Baltimore in 1934. The only other person to announce for the House thus far is Martin L. Groves.

Mr. Neil C. Fraley is a candidate to succeed himself and is the only one to announce thus far for the position of State's Attorney. Mr. Fraley has been practicing law in the Court of Maryland since 1931 and has been serving as State's Attorney since January 1, 1935. During his term of office Mr. Fraley has conscientiously and effectively cared for the duties required of him under the law and the Court. His term of office has been unlike that of many of his predecessors in the trial and conviction of criminals in major infractions of the law. He has convicted three murderers and has brought to justice violators of the law in almost every other criminal charge. He is a son of G. A. Fraley, of Oakland and solicits the support and influence of the Republican voters at the coming primary.

Mr. Hammond's announcement as a candidate for nomination for County Commissioner is the fourteenth one desiring that office among Republicans. Three are to be nominated.

Mr. Hammond was born in this county prior to its separation from Allegany county and has resided in Oakland for thirty-two years. He has been engaged in several business activities, having been one of three contractors to construct the State road from Hooppole Ridge to McHenry, a number of years ago. He was instrumental in opening upper Second street in Oakland and at one time he operated a glass sand plant near Corinth. He has been Court crier for the Circuit Court here for the past fifteen years and has been a justice of the peace for the past two years. About two months ago he received a medal for having been a member of the Masonic frnternity for fifty years.

Arthur G. Cullers Makes Late Announcement

Late this morning Mr. Arthur G. Cullers, of district No. 8, made formal announcement of his candidacy for renomination for member of the House of Delegates, making four candidates this week, and filling the ticket for that legislative branch of the government.

Mr. Cullers has been a resident of the county for the past twenty years. He owns and operates his farm and is one of the heavy taxpayers of the county. He is also a stock raiser, and formerly served as postmaster at Wilson, W. Va., for a number of years.

He has served the people of the county for the past eight years as a member of the House of Delegates and feels that his experience would be valuable to the taxpayers. He solicites the support of the voters and stands upon his past record which he asserts has "always been in the interest of the taxpayers."

Potato Blight Causing Heavy Losses To Producers

It was estimated by a number of farmers this week that the potato blight had caused hundreds of dollars worth of damage.

The blight was caused, according to John H. Carter, county agent, from extremely wet weather, especially at night, with hot days. The blight seemed to come so fast in many cases spraying was ineffective. Many producers are wondering if they will have enough for their own use.

Those who were fortunate in getging their seed planted early will have a fair crop, it was stated. In a number of fields the blight struck before the plants had bloomed.

FOUR RURAL SCHOOLS ARE CLOSED BY SCHOOL BOARD

Resolution Passed Last Friday; Other Business Is Disposed Of

At a meeting of the County Board of Education last Friday afternoon a resolution was passed closing the Mar's Hill, Bond, McHenry and Mason schools, effective immediately. All were one-teacher schools and were closed due to small number of pupils in those communities, according to F E. Rathbun, county superintendent. Pupils of Mar's Hill will be transported to Grantsville; Bond pupils to Frankville; McHenry pupils to Accident. Mr. Rathbun said no transportation seems necessary for pupils of Mason school who will attend the Red House and Gortner schools.

Attending last Friday's meeting were Walter W. Dawson, president, Walter W. Savage, vice-president, and F. E. Rathbun, secretary.

Approval was given by the Board for the purchase of an additional lot for the Deer Park school.

Another resolution was also passed as follows: "Any bus contractor or driver known to have been under the influence of any intoxicating liquors while transporting school children, shall be considered insubordinate to the regulations of the Board of Education with the contract cancelled forthwith for such transportation of pupils; and any teacher or any other employee of the Board having knowledge of any such violation of this regulation and does not report the same forthwith to the county superintendent who shall in turn refer the same to the County Board for appropriate action, shall be guilty of willful neglect of duty and charged accordingly by the county superintendent in writing before the county board."

Mr. Rathbun announced that official notice of the grant of $36,000 in Public Works Administration funds had been received at the school board office yesterday. The grant is for alterations and additions to the Oakland Elementary and Kitzmiller school buildings. The Board will meet soon for formal acceptance of the grant.

St. Peter's Church Celebrates Anniversary

St. Peter's Parish, Oakland, celebrated its eighty-sixth anniversary with a homecoming week, which began on Sunday, July 31st.

The celebration opened with a Knights of Columbus Vesper Service, for which a large number of Knights from Western Maryland towns and cities motored to Oakland to take part in the service.

On Monday, which was the feast of St. Peter, the patron of the Parish, Mass was celebrated for all members of the congregation.

On Tuesday the parishioners and the visitors enjoyed the day at Swallow Falls Park, a beautiful spot in the Youghiogheny River valley about ten miles from Oakland.

From Wednesday to Saturday the annual carnival was held on the school grounds, which was well patronized and enjoyed by all who attended.

A special souvenir year book was issued and distributed to commemorate the event.

Mrs. John Smyth, daughter, Miss Eleanor Smith, and son, Raymond, are visiting Mrs. Smith's parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Ault, north of town.

Rev. W. S. Patterson, pastor of St. Paul's M. E. church, will leave Saturday evening with his family for their vacation. They will go to Westernport for a few days and then continue to a point along the Potomac river for a camping trip. During Rev. Patterson's absence the Methodist pulpit will be filled by Rev. P. E. Chamberlain, of Kingwood, W. Va.

DR. H. C. BYRD SPEAKS AT COUNTY FARM PICNIC

Tells 800 People at Annual Gathering To Pay More Attention to Legislators and Their Activities

SEES RECREATIONAL AREA

Dr. H. C. Byrd, president of the University of Maryland, told 800 farmers and their wives Tuesday afternoon they must pay more attention to the activities of legislators.

Speaking before the second annual county picnic of Garrett county farm people and all others interested in the Extension program, at the Pleasant Valley recreational area, twenty miles northeast of Oakland, near Bittinger, he said:

"The fate of the nation rests upon the outlook of the rural population in keeping the loyalty and principles upon which the nation was founded and has grown."

He urged his hearers to "take cognizance of what is going on in the legislative halls," and pointed out to them that it was their duty to inform their representatives of their opinions in all matters of legislation affecting them.

Dr. Byrd also spoke on "human values", in considering the lives of those about us. He told the group they must build their family upon a solid foundation so that they would contribute something worthwhile and of lasting value. "The highest object in life," he said, "is to do for others and give for others."

Dr. Byrd arrived at the picnic ground from Washington, D. C., after a hurried trip. He had spoken at Harrisburg, Pa., the evening previous. He was introduced to the audience by Miss Mildred Barton, home demonstration agent. Other speakers included Mrs. E. H. Canan, of Mountain Lake Park, vice-president of the County Council of Homemakers' Clubs, and Harry L. Porter, government project manager of the area under the Farm Security Administration.

Dr. Byrd and the farm people present made an inspection trip over the new recreational area following his speech. They inspected the new dining hall, numerous cabins, the 26-acre lake and numerous buildings erected for use of the 4-H clubs, Boy and Girl Scouts, Homemakers' Clubs and other organized groups.

Dr. Byrd returned to College Park Tuesday night after visiting the Swallow Falls Park area with John H. Carter, county agent.

The farmers all had a picnic dinner at noon at community tables and enjoyed games and recreation in the morning and afternoon. About twenty-five local candidates for county political offices were present to brush up acquaintances and pass judgment on the quality of the outlay of food, which they tasted at length and pronounced all of it good.

The gathering was held under the direction of the Homemnkers' clubs, Mr. Carter and Miss Barton and other members of the Extension office.

Mountain Lake Park Will Seek Next Year's Legion Convention

A meeting of hotel and boarding house operators was held in the Mountain Lake Hotel last Friday evening to discuss ways and means to bring the State Convention of the American Legion to Mountain Lake Park next year.

This year's meeting will be held in Baltimore on August 17, at which time it is understood the invitation will be made to the convention.

Dr. C. Oscar Hall, who called the meeting of the group last Friday, stated that a few were not present and thought it advisable for those interested to report their housing capacity to him, so that definite information could be presented to the Convention.

This is not confined to boarding houses and hotel operators, but owners of private cottages with available room are nsked to communicate with Dr. Hall.

Lesson for August 7

RUTH: ADVENTUROUS FAITH

LESSON TEXT—Ruth 1:6 18.
GOLDEN TEXT—Thy people shall be my people, and thy God my God.—Ruth 1:16.
PRIMARY TOPIC—A Girl Named Ruth.
JUNIOR TOPIC—The Story of Ruth.
INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Ruth s Wise Choice.
YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—An Adventurous Faith.

Out of the dark fastnesses of an underground dungeon into the brightness and warmth of God's sunshine—such is the transition we make when we turn from the moral and spiritual failures of Samson to consider the lovely story of Ruth. She lived in the midst of the travails and the sorrows of life, in fact we find her at the beginning of the book which bears her name, a widow who has lost all that the world would hold dear. Yet she, because of her purity of life and devotion to God rises higher and higher, while the one of whom we spoke last week, starting with every advantage, slipped lower and lower because of his sin.

Ruth was the great-grandmother of King David, and thus this Gentile woman became one of the ancestors of Jesus. (See Ruth 4:22 with Luke 3:22.) Many folk are greatly concerned about their ancestry—one could wish that more were concerned about living such lives and developing such characters as will make them good ancestors.

Teachers and classes will do well to read and study the entire book of Ruth—only about three pages long in most Bibles—and give attention to the full story of her life, especially the picture of the kinsman-redeemer, to be later fulfilled in the Lord Jesus Christ. We must confine our comments largely to the printed portion which reveals Ruth first as a loyal and thoughtful daughter-in-law, then as one whose love was not to be denied by sorrow or circumstance, and finally as one so bound to her mother-in-law in unity of spirit that she became one with her and her people.

I. Commendable Loyalty (vv. 6-10).

Tragic misfortune had visited Naomi, who with her husband and two sons had gone from Bethlehem to Moab in a time of famine. Not only had her husband died but also her two sons, who had married Gentile women, leaving three widows in one family to mourn together. Naomi craved the fellowship of her own people in her hour of trial and arose to return to her own land.

Her departure brought out in the two daughters-in-law the expression of kindness and loyalty which should exist in every family, but which is all too often lacking. Her own testimony concerning these girls of Moab is that they had dealt "kindly" with her and with the dead. That word speaks volumes. There is so little genuine kindness in the world. Both Orpah and Ruth went with her on the way—protesting their loyal purpose to go with her all the way. Thus far the two sisters were not differentiated—but the next incident reveals Ruth as the one who had an

II. Undeniable Love (vv. 11-14).

No one could for a moment condemn Orpah for yielding to her mother-in-law's entreaty that she return to her own people. She affectionately kisses Naomi and in tears turns away. "But Ruth clave unto her."

Such love cannot be denied. It is the most precious possession that a man can have, apart from his fellowship with God. The love of a devoted father or mother, of a noble helpmate, or of a little laddie or lassie, these are the things that really make life worth while, that stand out as an oasis in the desert of life, as a light in the darkness.

But Ruth takes one more step. Her kindness and loyalty, her unswerving love lead on to a confession of her faith in the true God, and the declaration of an

III. Inseparable Unity (vv. 15-18).

Literature knows no more beautiful gem than verses 16 and 17. It was the Great Commoner, Bryan, who said, "We cannot hope to contribute to literature a sentence so exquisite and thrilling as that into which Ruth poured the full measure of a noble heart, but we can imitate her devotion."

The story is told of a fine young Englishman who left his betrothed sweetheart to go to California during the great gold rush. He was going to make a fortune and then send for her. He sent her his first gold nugget. But alas, there were none to follow and soon he became not only poverty stricken, but ill. In noble sacrifice he decided to release her from her promise, and wrote to tell her so. She (and one could almost believe her name was Ruth) took the treasured nugget, had it made into a ring engraved as a gift from her to him, with the additional words "Ruth 1:16, 17." In due time it reached the young man with its tender and inspiring message—"Intreat me not to leave thee," and the assurance of her devotion until death.

May this dizzy and bemuddled world have many more characters like Ruth.

1938 SESSION SCHOOL OF MISSIONS INTERESTING

Well Attended And Excellent Program Carried Out

The Summer School of Missions at Mountain Lake Park for 1938 opened on Monday evening, July 18, with a large group of girls from Camp Gleam and women and men from many places with a praise service, followed by a splendid musical program. After this part of the service introductions and short speeches were in order. The general chairman, Mrs. J. M. Knight, of Charleston, West Va., presided in a pleasing manner, making all to feel welcome.

Camp Gleam girls were fine, especially in the devotions under the able leadership of Miss Janet Gilbert, of Dayton, O.; in music under Mrs. Edna Carter, a teacher from Browning Home for Negroes in the Southland. Mrs. Carter has a full rich voice and led in spirituals to the joy of all; also Miss Ruth Murray, of Baltimore, who has assisted in other years as well as this year, to the delight of the girls in the Camp.

Mrs. Irene Easter Lovett, as leader of Camp Gleam, won the hearts of the girls. Mrs. Lovett came in place of Miss Anna S. Shaw, who is on a European tour this summer, and who has been camp leader for a number of years and so much loved by the many girls who have felt her Christian influence and given their lives to Christian service.

Those assisting in many programs of song were Misses Emily Morgan Miller, Frances Elson Miller, Helen Louise Knight and Edna Carter and Mr. George Neadham. These young folks were artists indeed.

The violin and harp were great additions to the program. Miss Frances Miller and her work on the harp, as well as Miss Emily Miller on the violin, and Miss Knight at the piano, rendered great service. Of the musicale of Saturday evening too much could not be said. We just recommend them to anyone desiring such an evening of pleasure. Miss Norma Dayton, Piedmont, assisted at the piano. Much talent was displayed along musical lines in the camp as well as in the school. Little Miss Tony Dayton, who recited and sang for us last year, was heard on Sunday evening in her clear, sweet voice of song.

Mrs. Yates, chairman of music, was busy, suggesting, assisting and directing. Mrs. Lovett, head of Camp Gleam, was ever engaged. Now with us this year, but so well liked that she was elected to be with us again.

The addresses by Dr. J. E. Hartzler on Trends of the World, who was also our Bible teacher each morning at 9 o'clock, gave such an understanding and clear vision of the "Word" that even a child could grasp the meaning. Such inspiration and knowledge came from hearing him that we hope we may have the pleasure of having him with us again. Also the addresses of Dr. Anna White, on "High Lights of an Oriental Trip"; Mrs. F. I. Johnson, on "Fascism"; Mrs. Dorothy Robinson, on "Peace"; Miss Ruth Pope, on "Alaska," and things taught in Home and Foreign Mission work by Mrs. C. E. Timberlake and Miss Mary Johnson, a returned missionary from China, filled all note books to overflowing.

Mrs. Patience Williams Grant, of Oakland, delighted with her story hour as did Miss Janet Gilbert, of Dayton, O., with devotions and methods.

A delightful tea was given Thursday afternoon at the home of Dr. and Mrs. L. L. Carr. Mrs. Carr is our courtesy lady, and she with her assistants gave members of Camp Gleam and the adult school, with other friends, a cordial welcome which will be remembered as a very enjoyable occasion.

Mrs. J. M. Knight resigned as program chairman. She had many good reasons, but we know that though we are losing Mrs. Knight's activities from the school, her interest will always be with us.

After much persuasion, Mrs. F. I. Johnson, of St. Cloud, Florida, consented to accept the general chairmanship. Mrs. Johnson is not new to us, for she had promoted the school for many years and was chairman for several years previous to the chairmanship of Mrs. Rebecca Dodge, of New York.

The report of the nominating committee, Mrs. A. A. Richards, chairman, was presented Friday evening and officers for the coming years were elected as follows:

General chairman, Mrs. F. I. Johnsou, St. Cloud, Florida; local chairman, Mrs. B. H. Sincell, Oakland, Md.; associate local chairman, Mrs. Gregory Bleakly, Mountain Lake Park; secretary, Mrs. W. B. Love, Mountain Lake Park; publicity, Mrs. Leo H. Paulger, 2836 Chesapeake Street, Washington, D. C.; treasurer, Mrs. W. B. Brock, Mountain Lake Park; registrar, Mrs. E. T. Mowhray, Baltimore, Md., and Mountain Lake Park; chairman of literature, Miss Della Sherman, Baltimore; chairman of music, Mrs. E. W. Yates, Cumberland, Md.; chairman courtesy committee, Mrs. L. L. Carr, Mountain Lake Park; leader of Camp Gleam, Mrs. Irene Easter Lovett, Chester, Pa.; advisory board, Miss Ida King, Saxton, Pa.; Mrs. E. L. Davidson, Parkersburg, W. Va.; Mrs. W. J. Baughman, Braddock, Pa.; Mrs. J. M. Knight, Charleston, W. Va.; Mrs. A. A. Richard, Mountain Lake Park; Mrs Charles F. White, Oakland, Md.; Mrs. Wayne Martin, Uniontown, Pa.; communion committee, Mrs. Love, Mrs. Brock, Mrs. Richards; decoration committee, Mrs. E. L. Winchell, chairman.

Friday evening, the pageant, "The Church—Its Opportunity," given by members of St. Mark's Lutheran church, Oakland, was greatly enjoyed and was quite helpful in the lesson it sought to give. This was followed by the camp fire of Camp Gleam, after which the girls gave the lantern parade with their songs, which is looked forward to each year as a very beautiful affair.

The Bible and Mission school of 1938 is now history, but one with a memory of wonderful things accomplished with God leading toward another year of service.

It is to the artistic ability and eye for the beautiful in nature that transformed the auditorium from a rather dour interior to one of beauty by the decorations and arrangement of wild flowers and green foliage directed by Mrs. E. L. Winchell, which attracted much attention and brought forth expressions of delight at the beauty and charm of the display.

The school is operated on faith—just gifts by friends, so your pledge or gift made now for next year will insure a good program and less anxiety to those in charge, as it is only by gifts that the work can be continued.

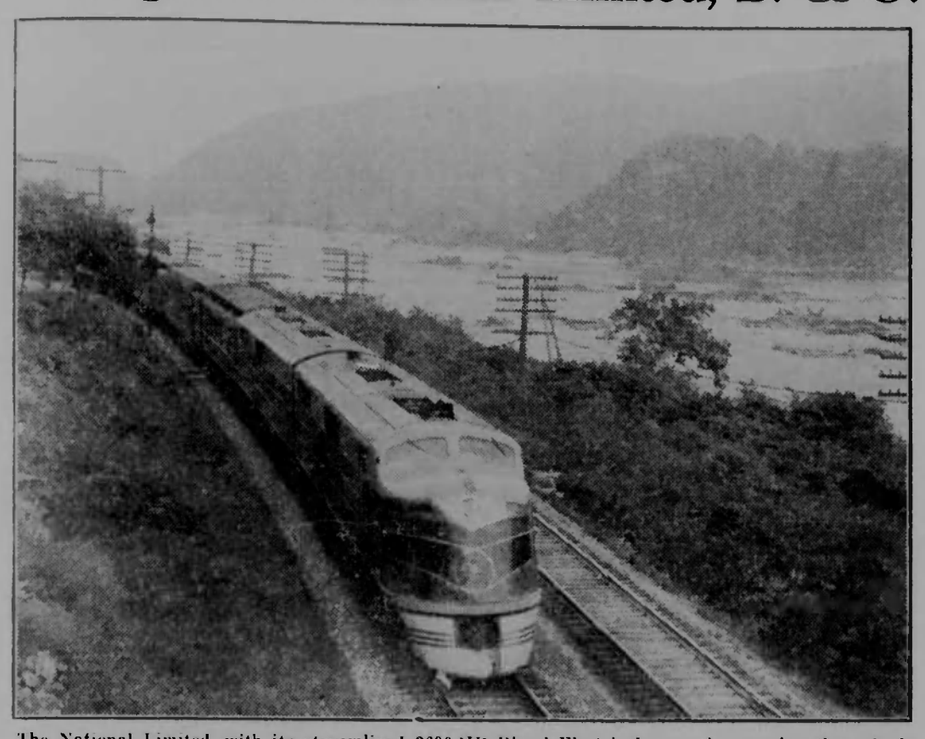
Party of Newspapermen Ride Diesel Engine of National Limited, B. & O.



The National Limited, with its streamlined 3600-HP Diesel Electric Locomotive passing through the picturesque Potomac River Valley near Weverton, Maryland, en route from New York to St. Louis. This train has become an institution to the cities and towns along its 1000-mile route and was the first completely (long-distance) air-conditioned train in the world.

Train No. 1, the Baltimore and Ohio railroad's National Limited, running between Washington, D. C., and Washington, Ind., was literally converted into an amusement park last Wednesday night and Thursday when Mr. Robert M. Van Sant, director of public relations for the railroad company, and his assistants entertained newspaper men along the route from Washington to Washington.

Members of the party were afforded every courtesy imaginable by the Officials of the railroad company, and were permitted to ride in the luxurious cab of the new Diesel engine, the locomotive power for that train.

In addition to other and varied marks of hospitality the newspaper men were provided with a well appointed lounge, which is a comparative new type of coach, with riding qualities superior to anything ever developed by a railroad company, and each guest was also assigned to a sleeping compartment. The dining service which long ago assisted in making the Baltimore and Ohio famous throughout the country, along with other refreshments, were at the disposal of the guests and their hosts.

The National Limited is of course one of the company's crack trains, but during the past year or two so many changes have been made in the construction of coaches and the general make-up of the train, that every train operated for passenger service by the B. and O. affords the greatest comfort possible to every passenger.

Diesel engines, according to the officials and the trainmen, are the coming instruments of locomotion. They point out several reasons for their convictions and included the matter of economy of operation along with increased power of the locomotives and the ease of operation. There is no jerking of the coaches when stopping and starting and the train is carried along smoothly during its entire run.

A thrill never to be forgotten by a non-railroader, will be his first ride with the engineer in the cab of a Diesel-driven locomotive. The cab has the appointment of a fine automobile, including the instrument board, windshield wipers and defrosters, horn and throttle.

The Diesel, or the National Limited, which travels through this mountainous country and across the levels of Ohio, consumes two and one-quarter gallons of crude oil every mile, costing 5 cents per gallon. It is said that the Diesel is the most efficient engine ever built and because of the high efficiency of its large Diesel engine, the Union Pacific streamlined train M-10,001 traveled 1.6 miles per gallon of fuel oil on its trip across the continent. The fuel cost was less than two and a half cents per mile; the cost for the entire trip of 3260 miles was only $83.60. A standard steam train would consume about $300 worth of coal for this distance and would take over fourteen hours longer to make the trip.

On its world's record run from Denver to Chicago, the Burlington "Zephyr" burned less than 400 gallons of fuel while averaging 77.6 miles an hour for the entire distance of 1015 miles. The 95-ton train and 84 passengers were carried almost 3 miles for each gallon of fuel oil consumed. Speeds of over 100 miles an hour were reached on this trip.

Guy Wiles, superintendent of Diesel electric operation, and who was born and reared near Oakland, at Aurora West Va., was frequently in the cab with groups of newspaper men throughout the trip and was piled with questions. There were all kinds to say the least, and his ready and complete answers were refreshing.

Assisting Mr. Van Sant in entertaining besides Mr. Wiles were C. Vernon Thomas and R. M. Kureth, public relations representatives, Baltimore.

Other railroad officials were E. J. Gleason, general passenger agent, of Cincinnati; Maddox Parmalee, city passenger agent, Louisville, Ky.; E. J. McSweeney, of Cincinnati, superintendent of motive power, Western Lines, and A. S. Waller, trainmaster, North Vernon, Indiana.

Newspaper guests included William Needham, Associated Press, Baltimore; William H. Barger, Mineral Daily News, Keyser, W. Va.; Donald R. Sincell, associate editor, The Republican; J. F. Holt, Sentinel, Grafton; William L. Gepphart, Daily News, and Frank Lee Carl, Evening Times, Cumberland, and several others from West Virginia and Ohio.

IN DAYS OF OLD

FORTY YEARS AGO

Grantsville had its most destructive fire in the history of the town on July 27. Fire broke out in the rear of Bender Bros. store and consumed the entire block of buildings from Dr. McGann's office to the National Hotel, including the dwelling of John O. Getty, store building of Bowser Brothers and the dwelling of Jacob Bender.

An excursion over the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad brought three train loads of people to Oakland—one from Parkersburg, W. Va., and two from Wheeling, W. Va., and intermediate points. There were 2,315 passengers on the three trains. Hotel keepers had no advance notice of the coming of so many and were besieged with orders for food. Many could not be fed as a result of unpreparedness.

Monday, August 8, was to be Sam Jones' Day at the Park and thousands were expected from Fairmont, Clarksburg and Cumberland on the special trains of the Baltimore and Ohio. The Schubert Male Quartet of Chicago was to furnish music.

The Circuit Court prepared a new set of equity rules, one of which prohibited lawyers from taking equity papers out of the Clerk's office except under an order of Court.

The Democrat, which was burned out in a fire along with other business establishments located on the west side of Second street, secured new material and set up its office in the Fringer building, two doors north of The Republican office. An elevated runway was built connecting the Democrat composing room with The Republican press room over which the type forms were brought to The Republican office and the paper printed.

The town council notified property owners along Second street whose platforms were destroyed in the fire a short time previous, to rebuild the same at once.

Teachers appointed to have charge of the Oakland school were Prof. R. R. Sanner, principal; John S. Gnegy, Misses Ella Laughlin, Virginia Johnson, Martha Porter and Mamie Weber, assistants.

TWENTY YEARS AGO

Thousands of people from Maryland, West Virginia and Pennsylvania gathered at Accident to witness the patriotic quadruple flag raising. State Senator Harvey J. Speicher spoke and introduced Fred. N. Zihlman, Congressman, who delivered the principal address. Patriotic men of Oakland planned a similar event, and secured a flag staff 100 feet high.

Eggs were forty cents per dozen.

The fourth annual Bible conference of the Moody Bible Institute of Chicago was being held at the Park with a large attendance.

John J. Sweeney, agent for Cadillac cars, returned from Baltimore with a new car of the latest design.

J. M. Falkenstein fell from the third story of the E. H. Sincell home while engaged in making repairs, and sustained painful bruises and cuts.

A son was born to Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Naylor.

The consumption of sugar per person was reduced to two pounds per month to prevent a world famine in that commodity.

Work on the city hall was expected to be completed in a short time. It provided quarters for all departments of the town's government with a large room on the second floor for public gatherings.

Filsinger, executed a mortgage in the sum of $4500.00 to the Garrett National Bank of Oakland, Maryland, a corporation.

SEVENTH:—That the said Garrett National Bank of Oakland, Maryland, a corporation, is now in receivership and the said John H. Hoffman is Receiver for the said corporation.

EIGHTH:—That it is contended by the said Philip Filsinger that according to the true construction of the Will of the said Martin Filsinger that it was plainly his intention and desire that all of his estate, both real and personal, should go to him after the payment of certain specific bequests as set out in the said Will, and that it was plainly the intention of Martin Filsinger and Catharine Filsinger, his wife, the father and mother of your orator, Philip Filsinger, that any estate owned by them at the time of their death, should go to the said Philip Filsinger, absolutely.

NINTH:—That your orator, Philip Filsinger, acquired title to the real estate owned by the said Martin Filsinger at the time of his death, and has continuously occupied the said property since that time without any question being raised by any of the heirs at law of the said Martin Filsinger and Catharine Filsinger, his wife, and since their death he has expended large sums of money in improving said property. That the said Philip Filsinger a short time ago applied to the Federal Government for a Farm Loan and upon an investigation of the title to said property by the local attorney for the Farm Loan he was advised by said attorney that there was a slight question as to his valid title to said property. Your orator has been advised by his counsel that it would be necessary to have the Court construe the Will of the said Martin Filsinger for the purpose of removing any question as to the validity of his title to said property.

The bill prays that the Court may take jurisdiction in the premises and construe the meaning of the Last Will and Testament of the said Martin Filsinger as to his intention of the disposition of his real estate remaining in his name at the time of his death. For general relief, for the writ of subpoena against the resident defendants, Conrad Filsinger, George Filsinger and Stella Filsinger, his wife; Albert Filsinger, Herman Filsinger and Gladys Filsinger, his wife; William Filsinger and Winona Filsinger, his wife; Pearl Condry and Joseph Condry, her husband; Nellie Weisenborne and Joseph Weisenborne, her husband; Ester Filsinger, Elizabeth Filsinger, Carl Filsinger and Catherine Filsinger, his wife; Gilbert Filsinger and Helen Filsinger, his wife; Harry Filsinger, William Linenbogger and Eva Linenbogger, his wife; Arthur Linenbogger and Mary Linenbogger, his wife; Owen Linenbogger, Herman Linenbogger Wilson and ——— Linenbogger Wilson, his wife, Tillie Logsdon, Elwood Brant and ——— Brant, his wife; Pauline Bloom, Gilbert Brant and ——— Brant, his wife; Lily Wise, Pearl Durst and William Durst, her husband; Paul O. Filsinger and ——— Filsinger, his wife; Catherine Filsinger, Edward Filsinger and John H. Hoffman, Receiver for The Garrett National Bank of Oakland, Maryland, and the order of publication against the non-resident defendants, Sophie Campbell and Owen Campbell, her husband; Cora Tippen and James Tippen, her husband; Emma Jennings and Fred Jennings, her husband; Adolph Filsinger and Alice Filsinger, his wife; Mary Oremusz and John Oremusz, her husband; Elizabeth Mascheim and Alfred Mascheim, her husband; Pauline Maus and John Maus, her husband; Emma Weisenborne and Elmer Weisenborne, her husband; Irene Shepard and James Shepard, her husband; Emma Green and Emmett Green, her husband; Marie Linenbogger, Adolph Linenbogger and ——— Linenbogger, his wife; Mary Mills, Gilbert Brant, Verona Decker, Clayton Brant and ——— Brant, his wife; Marie Nicklow and Clark Nicklow, her husband.

It is therefore, this 1st day of August, 1938, ORDERED, By the Circuit Court of Garrett County, Maryland, in Equity, that the Plaintiffs, by having a copy of this order inserted in some newspaper published in Garret County, Maryland, in each of four successive weeks before the 2nd day of September, 1938, give notice to the said non-resident defendants of the object and substance of this bill, warning them to be and appear in this Court, either in person or by solicitor, on or before the 17th day of September, 1938, to show cause, if any they have, why a decree ought not to be passed as prayed.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the General Assembly of Maryland (three-fifths of all the members of each of the two Houses concurring). That Section 36 of Article 3 of the Constitution of the State of Maryland, title "Legislative Department," prohibiting the General Assembly from authorizing a lottery grant, be and it is hereby repealed if adopted by the legally qualified voters of the State, as herein provided.

And be it further enacted, That the aforegoing amendment to the Constitution of the State of Maryland shall, at the next ensuing general election for members of the General Assembly of Maryland, be submitted to the legal and qualified voters of the State for their adoption or rejection, in pursuance of the directions contained in Article 14 of the Constitution of the State of Maryland, and at the said general election the vote on the said proposed amendment to the Constitution shall be by ballot, and upon each ballot there shall be printed the words: "For Constitutional Amendment" and "Against Constitutional Amendment," as now provided by law, and immediately after said election due returns shall be made to the Governor of the vote for and against proposed amendment, as directed by said Fourteenth Article of the Constitution, and further proceedings had in accordance with said Article 14.

CHAPTER 491—1937

AN ACT to amend Section 21 of Article 4, title "Judiciary Department," sub-title "Part III Circuit Courts", of the Constitution of this State, to provide an additional judge in the Second Circuit and to provide for the submission of said amendment to the qualified voters of this State for adoption or rejection.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the General Assembly of Maryland (three-fifths of all of the members elected to each of the two Houses concurring). That the following section be and the same is hereby proposed as an amendment to Section 21 of Article 4, title "Judiciary Department", sub-title "Part III. Circuit Courts" of the Constitution of the State, and if adopted by the legal and qualified voters thereof as herein provided, it shall supersede and stand in the place and stead of Section 21 of said Article 4.

21. For each of the said circuits, excepting the eighth, the second, the third and the sixth, there shall be a chief judge and two associate judges, to be styled judges of the Circuit Court, to be elected or appointed as herein provided, and for the second circuit, the third circuit and the sixth circuit there shall be a chief judge and three associate judges to be styled judges of the Circuit Court, to be elected or appointed as herein provided. And no two of said associate judges, for any of the said circuits, except the third and sixth circuits shall, at the time of their election or appointment or during the term for which they may have been elected or appointed, reside in the same county. If two or more persons shall be candidates for associate judge in the same county in any of the circuits, except the third and sixth circuits, that one only in said county shall be declared elected who has the highest number of votes in the circuit. In case any two candidates for associate judge in any of the circuits, except the third and sixth circuits, residing in the same county shall have an equal number of votes greater than any other candidates for associate judge in the circuit, it shall be the duty of the Governor to order a new election for one associate judge; but the person residing in any other county of the circuit and who has the highest number of votes shall be declared elected. The said judges shall hold not less than two terms of the Circuit Court in each of the counties composing their respective circuits, at such times as are now or may hereafter be prescribed to which jurors shall be summoned; and in those counties where only two such terms are held, two other and intermediate terms, to which jurors shall not be summoned; they may alter or fix the times for holding any or all terms, until otherwise prescribed, and shall adopt rules to the end that all business not requiring the interposition of the jury shall be, as far as practicable, disposed of at said intermediate terms. One judge in each of the above circuits, including the second, the third and sixth circuits, shall constitute a quorum for the transaction of any business; and the said judges or any of them may hold special terms of their courts, whenever in their discretion the business of the several counties renders such terms necessary. The additional associate judge for the third circuit elected in accordance with the terms of the Constitutional Amendment heretofore submitted and adopted shall be subject to the same constitutional provisions, hold his office for the same term of years, receive the same compensation and have the same powers as are herein provided for the other associate judges in the third circuit.

The additional associate judge for the second circuit herein provided for shall be a resident of Cecil County, shall be appointed by the Governor after the expiration of six (6) months after the adoption of this amendment and shall serve until the first general election for members of the General Assembly that shall be held in said circuit subsequent to the adoption of this amendment, at which election his successor shall be elected by the qualified voters of Caroline, Cecil, Kent, Queen Anne's and Talbot counties, constituting the second circuit. The judge so appointed shall be subject to the same constitutional provisions, receive the same compensation and have the same powers as are herein provided for the other associate judges in the second circuit, and the judge so elected shall be subject to the same constitutional provision, hold his office for the same term of years, receive the same compensation, and have the same powers as are herein provided for the other associate judges in the second circuit.

The additional judge for the sixth circuit herein provided for and elected by the qualified voters of Frederick and Montgomery Counties at the 1938 election in accordance with the terms of the Constitutional Amendment heretofore submitted and adopted shall be subject to the same constitutional provisions, receive the same compensation and have the same powers as are herein provided for the other associate judges in the sixth circuit and his successor shall be appointed and/or elected in accordance with the constitutional provisions relating to judges. The Chief Judge may be elected from either Frederick or Montgomery Counties but when the Chief Judge is elected from Frederick County one of the associate judges shall be a resident of said county and the two remaining associate judges shall be residents of Montgomery County and when the Chief Judge is elected from Montgomery County one of the associate judges shall be a resident of said Montgomery County and the remaining two associate judges residents of Frederick County. In case any candidate or candidates for associate judge at any judicial election held in the sixth judicial circuit shall receive sufficient votes to cause such candidate or candidates to be declared elected, but the election of such candidate or candidates would cause more associate judges than herein permitted to reside in any county of said circuit, then and in that event only that candidate or those candidates, as the case may be, residing in said county in the order of the votes received shall be declared elected whose election would provide the permitted number of associate judges from said county and the candidate or candidates as the case may be, residing in the other county, and not similarly disqualified, who shall have the next highest number of votes in said election shall be declared elected. If, by reason of such a condition or by reason of an equal vote for two or more candidates a sufficient number of associate judges duly qualified as to residence as above set out should not be elected at any election in said sixth judicial circuit, then it shall be the duty of the Governor to order a new election for such unfilled office or offices.

Sec. 2. And be it further enacted, That the aforegoing section hereby proposed as an amendment to the Constitution of this State shall be, at the next general election to be held in this State in the year 1938, submitted to the legal and qualified voters thereof for their adoption or rejection in pursuance of directions contained in Article 14 of the Constitution of this State, and at the said general election, the vote on the said proposed amendment shall be by ballot, and upon each ballot there shall be printed the words "For the Constitutional Amendment" and "Against the Constitutional Amendment," as now prescribed by law, and immediately after said election, due returns shall be made to the Governor of the vote for and against said proposed amendment as directed by said Article 14 of the Constitution.

Approved: May 18, 1937.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the General Assembly of Maryland (three-fifths of all the members of each of the two Houses concurring). That the following amendment be and the same is hereby proposed to Article 15 of the Declaration of Rights of the Constitution of the State of Maryland, the same, if adopted by the legal and qualified voters of the State, as herein provided, to become Article 15 of the Declaration of Rights of the Constitution of the State of Maryland

Taxes may be imposed on incomes, which may be classified, graduated and progressive and the exemption of a reasonable amount of income from taxation may be provided and such taxes may be in lieu of taxes on any class or classes of real or personal property as the General Assembly may determine.

All licenses issued by the Board shall be issued to individual persons, and it shall be unlawful for any dentist to practice in this State under any name except his own true name. No license shall be issued to any corporation, association, partnership, parlor, or any entity or association of any kind or character. 2. There shall be a State Board of Dental Examiners, hereinafter called the Board, whose duty it shall be to carry out the purposes and enforce the provisions of this Article. Said Board shall consist of six registered and practicing dentists of recognized ability and honor, residents of the State of Maryland, each of whom shall have been in active practice in the State for at least five years immediately preceding his appointment. No member of the faculty or teaching staff of any university or college in the State of Maryland which offers undergraduate courses in dentistry shall be eligible for appointment. The members of the Board as at present constituted shall hold office for the residue of the respective terms for which they have been appointed. The term for which the members of said Board shall be appointed as aforesaid shall be six years and until their successors shall have been appointed and qualified. No member who has served two full consecutive terms shall be eligible to succeed himself. In case of a vacancy occurring in said Board by reason of the death of any member, or of his incapacity, neglect or refusal to act, or in any other way, the Governor shall, from a list of duly qualified dentists of double the number of vacancies to be filled, chosen, submitted and proposed to him as hereinbefore provided, appoint a successor or successors of said member or members, who shall hold office for the remainder of the unexpired term or terms of said member or members. Any member of said Board, who, without adequate reason shall be absent from two successive meetings thereof shall cease to be a member thereof, and the Governor shall have the power to remove from office, at any time, any member of the Board for continued neglect of duty required by this Act, or for incompetency, unprofessional or dishonorable conduct.

3. Said Board shall choose one of its members president, and one secretary thereof, whose duties shall be those usually appertaining to their respective offices, and shall adopt such rules, regulations, or by-laws as may be necessary or expedient to assist it in its organization under this Article. The Secretary shall also be the legal custodian of all the property, money, minutes, records, proceedings and the seal of said Board. Said Board shall hold regular meetings in the months of June and November of every year, and special meetings as it may deem necessary, upon call of the president or secretary thereof and upon due notice. Meetings may be held at any time and place and without notice, by the unanimous consent evidenced either by writing or by the presence of any member whose consent is necessary.

4. The Board shall give an examination twice each year at a suitable place in Maryland to be decided by the Board, to all persons who may desire to qualify to practice dentistry in this State. This examination shall be at such time, place, under such conditions and of such kind or character as the Board in its sole discretion may determine.

5. (a) Any person of good moral character, twenty-one or more years of age, who has been graduated and admitted to the degree of Doctor of Dental Surgery, Doctor of Dental Medicine, or other equivalent degree by any university or college duly incorporated and authorized to grant said degree by the laws of the United States or any of its territories, districts or possessions, or by the laws of any State of the United States, or the laws of any province of the Dominion of Canada and recognized by the Board as requiring adequate pre-professional collegiate training and as maintaining an acceptable course of dental instruction, may make application in writing to said Board to be examined by it with reference to his or her qualifications to practice dentistry, and upon his or her passing an examination satisfactory to said Board, which examination shall be in writing so far as said Board shall deem practicable, the Board shall cause the name and residence of such person to be registered in a book kept by it for that purpose, and shall issue to such person a certificate of registration, as evidence of his or her eligibility to practice dentistry, signed by the officers of the Board and sealed with its official seal, which certificate shall also state the name of the person to whom issued, and the date of such issuance.

(b) The Board may, in its discretion, register without examination, in whole or in part, and issue a certificate to any person who has been graduated and admitted to the degree of Doctor of Dental Surgery or equivalent degree by any university or college incorporated and authorized to grant such degree by the laws of the United States or any of its territories, districts or possessions, or by the laws of any State of the United States or by the laws of any province of the Dominion of Canada and who has been duly registered and licensed to practice dentistry by a Board of Dental Examiners created and existing under the laws of the United States, or any of its territories, districts or possessions, or under the laws of any State of the United States, or who may have absolved any part of the requirements of examination under the authority of a recognized Board generally accepted as a reputable agent of the profession.

(c) Students of dentistry at a recognized college of dentistry who have completed the regularly prescribed pre-clinical instruction in dental schools recognized by the Board, and who may be certified by the dean of the college at which they are in attendance as having satisfactorily completed certain subjects included in the examination given by the Board may on application be admitted by said Board to its regular examination upon such subjects and upon passing such examination shall be deemed to have absolved the requirements of the Board in such subjects.

(d) Upon application of the Board of Managers or executive head of any bona fide general hospital or State hospital or sanatorium in the State of Maryland, and upon the payment of a fee of five dollars the Board shall issue a certificate of limited registration to any individual of good moral character who shall furnish the Board with proof entitling such person to be examined for registration under sub-paragraph (a) of this section. Such limited registration shall be for one year only and the date of expiration shall be plainly stated on the face of the certificate of registration. Such limited registration shall entitle the said applicant to practice dentistry only for the said institution designated on his certificate of registration and only on bona fide patients of said institution. Such certificate may be revoked by the Board at any time for cause.

6. If any license herein provided for is lost or destroyed, and if the holder thereof shall desire a new license to be issued in place of the license lost or destroyed, he shall make written application to the secretary of the Board for re-issuance of the same under affidavit, setting forth that such license is lost or destroyed, and the circumstances under which such loss or destruction occurred, and upon receipt of such satisfactory application and affidavit, the secretary shall issue to said applicant a duplicate license, for which there shall be paid a fee of five dollars.

7. A fee of twenty dollars shall be paid to the secretary of the Board at the time of application by each applicant for examination, or registration, or both, as often as he or she shall apply for same; provided that payment of said fee of twenty dollars by an applicant who may apply for examination upon certain subjects as provided in Section 5, Article 3 hereof shall entitle him or her to take the examination upon the remainder of the prescribed subjects, no part of said fee to be refunded under any circumstances.

8. The fees collected by the Board shall be used to defray the cost of executing and enforcing the provisions of this Article, including a salary to the secretary as fixed by the Board and a per diem to each member of the Board of twenty-five dollars for every day he is actually employed in the discharge of his official duties, necessary expenses of the secretary and members in the performance of their duties, and such other expenses as the Board shall deem necessary in carrying out the purposes of this Article. The secretary shall receive and disburse all moneys of the Board, and shall account for the same to the State Comptroller in the month of December in each and every year; and should the amount in his hands as of December first in any year, after deducting all expenses paid or incurred, exceed five hundred dollars, the excess shall be paid over to the State Board of Health.

9. Transcripts from the aforesaid book of registration certified by the secretary, sealed with its seal, and all certificates issued in pursuance of the terms of this Article, shall be evidence of the acts and proceedings of the Board in any court of this State.

10. Following a hearing, as hereafter provided, the Board may revoke or suspend for such period as the Board in its sole discretion may determine, the license of any dentist practicing in this State upon a finding by the Board that the dentist whose license was revoked or suspended:

(1) was convicted of a crime involving moral turpitude, in which case a certified copy of the docket entries by the Clerk of the Court wherein the final judgment was entered, shall be conclusive evidence of the same;

(2) has presented to the Board a false diploma, license or certificate, or one obtained by false or illegal means;

(c) advertising to use any anesthetic, drug, formulae, material, medicine, method or system; advertising by public exhibit or evidence of practice any appliance used in restorative dentistry; advertising any free dental work or free examination.

This Section 10 and Section 10A shall not be retroactive, and no license shall be suspended or revoked for any violations of these sections which violations occurred prior to the taking effect of this Act.

10A. All advertising by dentists is prohibited by this Act except the following:

(a) A dentist may use a personal professional card of not more than 3 1-2 inches by 2 inches, upon which may be printed only his name, title, address, telephone number and office hours. Such card may be printed in newspapers or publications of this State, and that which is set forth on the card may be announced over the radio. Not more than one card shall be in any edition of any newspaper or publication at one time; not more than two radio announcements shall be made in any one twenty-four hour period.

(b) A notice may be mailed every thirty (30) days by any dentist notifying any bona fide patient of such dentist that thirty (30) days have elapsed since any dental examination has been made by such dentist.

Such notice may be printed in any newspaper or publication. Not more than one notice shall be in any edition of any newspaper or publication at one time.

(e) Notices may be mailed to the general public by any dentist who is about to begin the practice of dentistry notifying the public of this fact. Such notice shall not be more than 3 1-2 inches by 2 inches and may only contain the name, title, address, telephone number and office hours of such dentist. Such notice may be printed in any newspaper or publication. Not more than one notice shall be in any edition of any newspaper or publication at one time.

This Section is severable, and if this Section is declared unconstitutional, the decision so holding the same shall not be construed as impairing any other provision of this act. It is hereby declared as a legislative intent that this Act would have been adopted had this provision not been included therein.

11. In the event the license of any dentist is revoked or suspended, such fact shall be noted by the Board upon the record of registration, and the registration and certificate of the practitioner so offending shall be suspended or revoked as the case may be; and any person whose registration has been so suspended or revoked under the provisions of this Section shall be deemed an unregistered person and subject, as such, to the penalties prescribed for the practice of dentistry by persons that are not duly registered.

Every licensee whose license has been suspended or revoked by the Board may appeal to the Baltimore City Court of Baltimore City or the Circuit Court of the County wherein the licensee has his or her office where the matter shall be heard de novo, and where either party shall be entitled to a jury trial. The decision of the said Court shall be final and such appeal shall operate as a stay of the order or decision of the Board from which the appeal was taken. All appeals must be taken within fifteen (15) days from the date of the decision of the Board. All costs on appeal shall be paid by the losing party.

12. The proceedings to revoke or suspend any license under Section 10 of this Act may only be taken by the Board upon the complaint of another. All complaints must be in writing, verified by some person familiar with the facts therein charged, and two copies thereof must be filed with the secretary of the Board. All complaints must contain the request that the Board take action against the offender. Upon receiving any complaint the Board shall, if it deems the complaint sufficient following an investigation, pass an order setting the same for a hearing at a specified time and place, and the secretary shall cause a copy of the order and of the complaint, or of a complaint drawn by the Board, to be served upon the accused at least ten days before the day appointed in the order for said hearing. Service upon the accused shall be by delivery of a copy of the order and complaint to the accused in person. In the event the Board is unable to serve the accused in person, the service shall be had by delivery of the same to his last known residence and last known business address, or by sending a copy of the same by registered mail to the accused at his last known residence and last known business address, any of which means shall constitute sufficient notice to justify proceedings with a hearing of the charges. The accused must appear at the time appointed in the order and answer the charges and make his defence to the same, unless for sufficient cause the Board may assign another day for the purpose. If the accused does not appear the Board may proceed with the hearing and finally determine the accusation or complaint, in the absence of the accused. If the accused pleads guilty, or refuses to answer the charges or upon a hearing thereof the Board shall find said charges or any of them true, the Board may proceed to suspend or revoke the license of the accused for such length of time as the Board, in its discretion, shall deem proper. The Board and the accused may have the benefit of counsel. The Board shall have the power to administer oaths, take the depositions of witnesses in the manner provided by law in civil cases, and to compel the attendance of witnesses by subpoena issued over the signature of the secretary of the Board. The Board shall issue for any and all witnesses requested in writing by the accused.

Whenever any person subpoenaed to appear and give testimony shall refuse to appear or testify before said Board, or to answer any pertinent, relative or proper questions, he shall be deemed in contempt of said Board, and it shall be the duty of the presiding officer of said Board to report the fact to the Superior Court of Baltimore City in the event the party guilty of contempt resides in said City, or has a place of business in said City, or to the Judge of the Circuit Court of the County wherein the party guilty of said contempt resides; thereupon the Court shall issue an attachment in the usual form, directed to the Sheriff of the City or County commanding said Sheriff to attach said person and forthwith bring him before the Court. The Women's Civic Club fountain has been located and the reason for not having been set up in the grove disclosed. It seems that there has been a bad leak in the water main and water running away freely as a result. SCOOPS COLUMN

In case you overlooked the local column last week, we must inform the general public that Col. Bell is no longer just plain Col. Bell. He is Grandpappy Col. Bell. Cigars flew thick and fast around here last Wednesday afternoon with Emeric Dusic, the papa, freely giving, and ably assisted by "Uncle" Jimmy Bell.

WPA workers in California really work, especially at one particular spot. They didn't even take time out for lunch and worked overtime at night.

They were excavating for some project and before it was over they had found $20,000 in money, jewelry, silverware, etc. It was learned that where they were excavating there had been a "fill-in" from the ruins of the San Francisco earthquake of 1906.

The county picnic had all the earmarks of a political conclave. Only three or four missed it, and all seemed to have a fine time sampling the food at the various community tables. Some even engaged in the game of horseshoe, "just for good luck," as one aspirant termed it.

The wife of one candidate remarked that she was thinking of putting a Gold Star service flag in the window because she's practically a widow while Hubby is out making speeches and shaking hands.

Thus far they haven't been kissing the babies. Last election time the candidates had been kissing the babies so long in the county that they all began to cry for them instead of their milk bottles.

How The Story Grows

How the story grows, and in this case it was water, is shown by an experience of that day.

As soon as the flood waters rose there were stories sent to newspapers. In some cases damage of $50,000 went up to $150,000 with the third or fourth telling. The water rose from a depth of five feet to an incredible depth.

The manager of this division of the West Penn interests was sitting at his home in Fairmont and had his radio on low wave and was hearing a program from London. Some commentator was talking about the wet weather the United States was having. "Even now, the little town of Oakland, Maryland, is under thirteen feet of water," the announcer said. The West Penn official hopped to the telephone but about that time Frank Kley, local manager, called to report that although there was a portion of truth to the story, it had become greatly exaggerated while traveling all the way to London.

There may have been a few people who noticed that the whistle of the Diesel engine on the National Limited last Wednesday evening sounded a bit unusual, just like somebody was at the throttle thinking about the ditty, "Shave and a hair cut,—bay rum."

Anyway, that's the way the person sounded the horn, and it wasn't until the next evening that we found out that Archibahlson, himself, Mose Sincell to most people, was doing the tootin' and running the engine on its journey through Oakland. He was with a group of newspaper men who were guests of the B. and O., on an inspection trip. The trip is described elsewhere in this issue.

I always was of the opinion that constant exercise enlarged any part of one's body, until I realized that hardly any women look like Joe E. Brown.

CROWDS ARE ATTENDING MT. TOP CAMP MEETING

Amphitheatre Seating 5,000 Almost Filled Sunday Afternoon; Over 400 Come On Excursion

HEAR REV. DAN M'NALLY

"Shades of Sam Jones and William Jennings Bryan" are words used by old timers to deseribe the gathering of thousands at Mountain Lake Park on last Sunday to hear an ex-convict evangelist, the Rev. Dan McNally, of Cumberland, at the Mountain Top Meeting. For the first time in 25 years, according to the best memories of the oldest residents, the huge amphitheatre, accompanying 5,000 people, was almost filled to its capacity.

Thousands came in cars from points within 100 miles, and a special excursion was run by the Baltimore and Ohio railroad from Cumberland. About 400 came up the mountain in the old-fashioned way, as it had been almost a quarter of a century since a special train was chartered to bring folks to a revival meeting at the Park.

The special train was met at the Mt. Lake Park station by a 42-piece band and hundreds of other enthusiasts. A long parade was formed and the march to the amphitheatre began with a flag bearer and the American flag leading the procession. A man with a movie camera was taking pictures.

In the procession were Rev. McNally and other workers at the camp meeting, the "Radio Sky Pilots," out of Pittsburgh; Dr. O. E. Williams, preacher-revivalist; Dr. F. N. Lynch, formerly of Denver, Colo., 78-year-old preacher; Prof. Roy McMurry, outstanding trumpeter; Rev. Paul R. Maness, general director, and Earl D. Ford, business manager of the camp. The marchers paused at "Pilgrims' Rest," for prayer, as in by-gone days.

On Sunday morning Dr. Williams delivered the sermon, and in the afternoon Rev. McNally preached from the first chapter of Jeremiah. Mr. McNally was born in the coal fields of Western Maryland and has been attracting large crowds in sections of Allegany county and elsewhere. He told the story of righteousness as the bulwark of a nation, struck fearlessly at Communism and all subversive doctrine and called the people back to God and righteousness.

During the evening service, Merle Klentwork, of Marietta, Ohio, and Florence Runnels, of Cutler, Ohio, were united in marriage by Dr. Lynch, the single ring ceremony being used.

The camp meeting will continue daily until August 21. This is the first time in the history of the Park that a camp meeting has been held continuously in the large amphitheatre.

Another excursion will be run on Sunday August 21.

Four Oakland Entries Win In Swimming Meet

Four Oakland entries romped off with honors in the third annual Western Maryland championship swimming and diving meet held at the Celanese pool in Cumberland last Friday evening. They were Billy Stahl, Billy Shirer, Tommy Thayer and Donna Jane Littman, all entries in the midget class.

Donna Jane Littman won first place in the 25-yard dash for girls, 10 to 12 years.

Eight hundred persons witnessed the program of midget, junior and senior events for boys and girls. Medals and merchandise prizes donated by thirty-six merchants of Cumberland and vicinity were awarded to the contestants. The meet was sponsored by the Cumberland Evening and Sunday Times.

Announces Plans For Bringing An Industry To Oakland

R. F. Boening, Oakland, announces plans of bringing a wood-working industry here. His father-in-law, L. Hendrich, now residing at Valparaiso, Ind., has designed several educational toys and other articles, all manufactured of wood.

Considering the availability of the material, the close proximity of Oakland to the large eastern markets and the generally favorable conditions, Messrs. Hendrich and Boening plan to manufacture their products here in Oakland.

Samples of the different and varied articles to be manufactured are now on display at the residence of Mr. Boening, located on the Elwood Offutt property on the Deer Park road, and anyone interested in these articles and in the prospect of manufacturing them here is cordially invited to view the exhibit.

Henderson, State adult Sunday school lecturer, will teach the book "How to Win to Christ", and the Rev. Edgar S. Price, pastor Second Baptist church, Cumberland, and moderator of the Western District Baptist Association, will lecture on "Some of the Great Doctrines of Scripture." Rev. B. AND O. HAS NO MONEY FOR FLOOD CONTROL WORK

Offers Its Engineers and Cooperation In Preventing Future Floods In Oakland

Although the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad Company will cooperate with Oakland in an endeavor to prevent future floods in the business section, the railway company has no funds to expend for that sort of work at the present time, it was learned following a meeting of representatives of the company with the Mayor and Town Council on Tuesday afternoon.

W. W. Gwathmey, G. E. Morris and H. S. Davis, of the engineering department of the railroad company, with headquarters at Clarksburg, W. Va., were in Oakland Tuesday afternoon and discussed the situation with city officials.

It is the belief of city officials that had the opening or culvert beneath the railroad tracks been several feet wider it would have been ample to care for the large amount of water spread through the business district to a depth of five feet in some places and caused a damage of many thousands of dollars. It was suggested that the present culvert be widened or an additionnl one be made to care for any emergency in high water.

Baltimore and Ohio officials offered their services and cooperation, but said no money was available. It was thought, however, that Federal funds for flood control projects were available and an investigation is being made of this by the town council..

GOOD TENNIS MATCHES PROMISED FOR WEEK-END

Singles Finals Will Be Saturday Afternoon; Other Finals Friday

Some excellent tennis matches are being promised for the sport fans this week-end at Mt. Lake Park, as the nineteenth annual tournament for Western Maryland Championship draws to its clase.

With more entries in the various events this year than for the past several years, there has been much competition throughout the week in the fight for places in the quarter-finals, and semi-finals. More than 60 are entered in the matches.

Finals events in men's and women's doubles and mixed doubles will be staged on Friday afternoon and possibly Saturday morning, with finals in women's and men's singles on Saturday afternoon.

Following the finals events on Saturday afternoon, trophies will be presented to the winners by Congressman Jennings Randolph, of Elkins, W. Va. Mr. Randolph was an entrant in the first tournament held at the Park and since that time has returned annually either as a participant or spectator. This year he entered the tournament but was eliminated by Dr. Herman Goldberg, of Baltimore. Only three local boys were entered in the singles events, Logan, Bond and Jack Weeber. Baltimore and Pittsburgh players predominaie.

R. Brown, seeded No. 1, and Alex Keiles, seeded No. 2, both reached the semi-finals in the men's singles yesterday, but in different brackets. Brown will meet the winner of the Elmer Rudy-J. Brown match, while Keiles will meet the winner of the Albert Baker-Frank Roberts match. Rudy is seeded No. 4, Baker, No. 5, and Roberts, No. 7. J. Brown is not seeded.

Those remaining in the women's singles play are Grace Parker, Baltimore, seeded No. 1; Dolly Harris, of Pittsburgh, seeded No. 3; Jeanette Campbell, Lonaconing; Joy Hartman, Pittsburgh, seeded No. 2; and Anna Dayette, Baltimore, unseeded, who defeated Lisa Bloede, Baltimore, seeded No. 4.

Men's doubles matches continue today and there will also be events in women's and mixed doubles today and tomorrow. Jack Weber and Laural Whipkey, local boys, after defeating the team of J. Beck and D. Sullivan, of Baltimore, 7-9, 6-4, 6-2, were eliminated by the Milton King-Edgar Alcorn team, of Pittsburgh, but only after a hard fight.

Social events during the week included a reception Monday night and a dance last night.

The tournament is sponsored by the Woman's Civic club of the Park, and is sanctioned by the United States Lawn Tennis Association.

Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Schauwecker, of St. Marys, W. Va., were week-end guests of Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Riggs.

PLANS FOR ADDITIONS TO SCHOOLS BEING PREPARED

Work Upon Buildings To Be Begun By October 26; Must Be Completed Within 7 Months

NEW TEACHER APPOINTED

Work upon the additions to Kitzmiller High school and Oakland Elementary school buildings will begin by October 26, and must be completed within seven months, according to a report of the Board of Education, which met last Friday morning. The addition to the Kitzmiller school will be for elementary school purposes.

The board formally accepted the grant of $36,000 from PWA funds, as 45 per cent of the total cost of the two proposed additions. Architects Smith and May, Baltimore, are now working upon the detailed plans and specifications and state they will be ready for sealed bids to be received in September.

New Teached Appointed

Clarence L. Slaysman was appointed teacher of science, mathematics and physical education in Oakland High school upon nomination of F. E. Rathbun, county superintendent. This additional teacher was mandatory because of the large number of pupns attending the school from surrounding towns and farming communities and was authorized by Albert S. Cook, State Superintendent, to be paid out of the State equalization fund.

Mr. Slaysman is a graduate of Western Maryland College, Westminster, this past June. He has been highly recommended by that institution. Mr. Slaysman will assist in directing health and physical activities for which he had experience in college work and also with the Playground Athletic League of Baltimore.

Improvement at Mountain Lake

Plans and specifications for improvements to the Mountain Lake Park school building were submitted to the board. Plans are also being completed for remodeling and improving the present heating plant in the Loch Lynn Heights school building and enlarging it to include the two-room and hall addition recently erected, and plumbing equipment for the entire plant.

School Attendance

A report was submitted showing that there were 4,121 pupils in elementary schools of the county during the past school year and 1,065 in high schools, making a total of 5,186. Percentage of attendance of elementary pupils was 92.1 with high schools running 93.5, making an average of 92.4 for this county. Both items showed an increase over the preceding school year. Elementary schools were open 182.7 days on the average, the high schools 184.8, the county running 183.2. The report also showed an increase of 28 pupils transported each day over 1936-37, with 1927 being transported in 1936-37, and 1955 during 1937-38.

The contract for transportation of pupils from the Swanton road, east of Deer Park, to Oakland High school, via Deer Park and Mountain Lake Park, was awarded to Lester Bittinger, of Oakland, and Wilmer Margroff, of Accident, was awarded the contract for pupils from Kamp school to Accident via the State fish hatchery.

Fourteen new all-steel-bodied school buses, modern in all details, especially for safety, have been purchased by contractors and will be used for transportation of school children when school opens in September. This is in line with efforts of the board to carry out the program of better buses for transportation, Mr. Rathbun said.

It was also stated that many school buildings are being repaired and painted inside and outside, the money being provided by the board of County Commissioners.

Plans for holding the county-wide teachers' meeting on Friday, September 9, instead of Tuesday, September 6, were discussed. Providing this plan were carried out school would open on Tuesday, September 6, for instructional purposes instead of Wednesday, September 7, as previously planned. Teachers are to be notified of final arrangements.

Present at the meeting were Walter W. Dawson, president; Walter W. Savage, and Mr. Rathbun, secretary.

Hosmer A. Cropp, Clarksburg, W. Va., is visiting his mother, Mrs. Belle Cropp, near town, for a few days.

"SPORT" ADAMS IS FINED FOR RESISTING OFFICER

Hearing Held Tuesday; Held For Grand Jury Action On Second Charge

An altercation with special policeman John J. Sweeney on Saturday evening, resulted in bringing Emory W. Adams, proprietor of "Sport's Place", up against the law on two charges, and at a hearing before Justice C. F. Hammond on Tuesday afternoon he was fined $25 and costs, after entering a plea of guilty on one charge and held for the action of the September term of the grand jury, on the other.

On a charge of interfering with an officer in the performance of his duties and disturbing the peace and resisting arrest, Adams was fined $25 and costs.

Adams was also charged with "unlawfully allowing disorderly and disreputable persons to congregate in his place of business where he has a license to sell beer and also unlawfully permitting minors under 21 years of age to loaf and loiter about his place of business where he has a license to sell beer."

On this charge he waived a hearing and was held under bond in the sum of $1,000 for his appearance at the September term.

According to Justice Hammond, it was brought out in the testimony that Officer Sweeney had entered "Sport's Place" to request a truck driver to move his truck on Third street, as is was double parked and causing inconvenience to other traffic. The truck driver, Justice Hammond said, immediately left to comply with the officer's request, while Adams became indignant and followed the officer outside, where, acording to the testimony, Adams attempted to strike Sweeney twice and finally grabbed the officer's leather-covered mace and broke it, thus depriving the officer of all means of defense.

Adam's arrest followed shortly after on a warrant issued by Justice R. C. Townshend. The "pinch" was made by Officer Sweeney and Deputy Sheriff Owens and he was thrown into jail where Sheriff Clarence Spear said he caused such a disturbance as to arouse the neighborhood and did not become quiet until the Sheriff threatened to put him in a dungeon.

Tentative Arrangements Made For Autumn Excursion Train

Tentative arrangements for an autumn excursion from Baltimore over the Baltimore and Ohio rnilroad, to Oakland were made Monday by the Mayor and Town Council.

The date set was Sunday, October 9. Fred G. Baugh, in charge of tours and excursions, and Mr. Cox, of the railroad company, were here on Monday and were taken over the proposed route for the motor trip, which is practically the same as the excursionists took several weeks ago, through the Swallow Falls area, and around Deep Creek Lake.

It is the purpose of the town council to secure cars from individual citizens as has been done on two previous occasions, giving those who come to Oakland a chance to see the country and enjoy the climate here.

Mr. Baugh stated that the trip this fall was being arranged with the Baltimore Boosters' club and that there would be 400 to 500 guaranteed excursionists.

MOUNTAIN TOP CROWDED WITH PEOPLE ON SUNDAY

Two Widely Separated Attractions And Weather Combine To Draw Largest Crowd In Years

OAKLANDER WINS BEAUTY CONTEST AT CABIN LODGE

Two widely separated attractions and the weather combined accidentally last Sunday to bring to the mountain more than fifteen thousand people, the largest gathering of folks during the past several years, according to observers.

A safety day meet and bathing beauty contest at Cabin Lodge, on Deep Creek Lake, attracted a crowd estimated by police at seven thousand persons.

An afternoon service of the Mountain Top camp meeting at Mountain Lake Park attracted an audience of 4,500 in the huge amphitheatre there, and most of that number remained for the evening service. An excursion was run from Cumberland and intermediate points to the Park, which brought several hundred men and women.

Other spots along Deep Creek Lake and the Swallow Falls State forest area were crowded with people and more than two hundred gathered at the Paugh and other family reunions in this vicinity.

Altogether it was a day of much activity for the people of the Garrett County Tableland.

Wins Beauty Contest

Mrs. David W. Walter, Jr., Oakland, won the first annual bathing beauty pageant. Second to Mrs. Walter was Miss Mary Jean Cox, representing the G. C. Murphy Company, Cumberland, while Miss Frances Rita Blocher, entered by the Grantsville Woodmen of the World, won third prize. There were about twenty entries from towns in Allegany and Garrett counties.

Mrs. Walter received a silver loving cup. Miss Cox and Miss Blocher were awarded bathing suits.

One of the largest crowds ever to assemble at the Lake gathered for the pageant which was held in conjunction with the annual safety day meet under the direction of the Deep Creek Lake Association. In addition to the beauty contest there was a motor boat parade at three o'clock, a swimming and diving exhibition and a sail boat race by members of the Deep Creek Yacht Club.

Richard C. Holben, of Frostburg, won the race with his black hulled Alias. Dr. Donald W. Grove's Holiday was second and another Frostburger took third place when William Sluss finished in his fast home-built Cyclops. Two-thirds of the club's entire fleet of snipe class sloops were towed by Commodore Frank M. Wilson's flagship, the motor-cruiser, Stella Parva. It was necessary to heel the boats to their beam ends to pass under the Glendale bridge.

The Oakland Boys Band provided music and also gave a drill exhibition during the afternoon, and a ferris wheel furnished amusement for many during the day.

Automobiles jammed the highway for one mile each side of the lodge and filled a number of adjacent fields. Parking was under the direction of the Clarksburg Boy Scouts, who are now camping near Rainbow Inn.

Mountain Top Camp Attracts

The Bashford Amphitheatre, seating 5,000 people, was practically filled on Sunday afternoon to hear Rev. Dan McNally, of Cumberland, and other evangelists on the program of the camp meeting. Prof. J. R. MacMurry, of Pittsburgh, has been giving special musical programs daily. A wedding was performed during the service on Sunday evening, by Rev. Frank N. Lynch.

These evangelistic meetings are scheduled to run until August 21. This week, from August 8 to 13, during the morning hours, there is being held an evangelistic institute with Rev. Fred. R. Barnes, Westernport, in charge.

Dedication To Be Made Sunday

Camp Galilee, on Lake Terra Alta, is to be dedicated on Sunday, August 14, with Dr. C. C. Ellis, president of Juniata College, Huntingdon, Pa., delivering addresses at 11 a. m., 2:30 and 7:30 p. m. A choir from Westernport will provide special music.

Camp Galilee was established by the Church of the Brethren and is a camp for boys, girls, parents and church leaders.

IMPROVED UNIFORM INTERNATIONAL

SUNDAY SCHOOL Lesson

By HAROLD L. LUNDQUIST, D. D.
Dean of The Moody Bible Institute of Chicago.
Western Newspaper Union.

THE RELATION OF TEMPERANCE TO CHARACTER

LESSON TEXT—Proverbs 4:10-23; I Thessalonians 5:6-8.

GOLDEN TEXT—Wine is a mocker, strong drink is raging: and whosoever is deceived thereby is not wise.—Proverbs 20:1.

PRIMARY TOPIC—What a Wise Man Said.

JUNIOR TOPIC—A Wise Man's Way.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—How the Use of Liquor Affects Character.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—How the Use of Liquor Affects Character.

Childhood remembrances are commonly sweet and precious—but some of them are vivid on the pages of memory because they relate to dangerous and distressing things. Among the things decent people avoided like the pestilence when the writer was a boy was the saloon. To be seen entering such places was to mark one's character, and to be a frequenter of them was to be lost to all that was good and holy.

High sounding and very pious were the assurances that when prohibition was repealed we would never see the return of the saloon, but we have them in multiplied number, and with a shameless appeal to women as well as men, to our growing girls and boys as well as to adults. Clever advertising has sought to make it "smart" to drink, and "manly" to be able to "carry" liquor. It is for that reason that it is of the utmost importance that we develop strong and intelligent character in our boys and girls—so that they may not only appraise the vicious "booze business" for what it really is, but also have the strength of character to fight it, not only for themselves, but for their weaker brother. They should know and proclaim that the saloon, whether it be called an "inn" or a "tavern," is always a "bar"—"A bar to Heaven, a door to Hell; Whoever named it named it well."

I. Developing Strength of Character (Prov. 4:10-23).

Solomon, the writer of many of the Proverbs, constantly stressed the importance of gaining wisdom. A man may be a perfect encyclopedia of information and yet may lack the wisdom to apply that knowledge to life. Dr. Hight C. Moore, in Points for Emphasis, provides a most helpful outline of this portion of Proverbs 4, which will assist the reader and teacher. He suggests that we must (1) "accept the challenge of a worthy goal, v. 10," by listening as a son to a father to the words which shall give us a long and happy life. Then we must (2) "follow the way of wisdom, vv. 11-13." It is a way that has been tested by those who have preceded us, and they have found it to be the right way. This will enable us to (3) "avoid the way of the wicked, vv. 14-17." Note the dreadful picture of those who not only do wickedness but delight in leading others into their evil paths, in fact they cannot sleep unless they have misled some poor soul. Shun that path, and (4) "irradiate the path to the larger life, vv. 18, 19." The way to life is a light path "that shineth more and more." The way of the wicked is stumbling and darkness. The devil and his followers are trying to make young people believe just the opposite. Let us teach them the truth that they may (5) "heed every syllable of all the words of God, vv. 20-23." Give attention to God's Word, listen to it, read it, keep it hidden in your heart. The heart in Scripture stands for the very center of man's spiritual being, out of which are all the issues of life. Evil thoughts, unholy desires and ambitions hidden there will ultimately be revealed in overt acts of ungodliness. Even so the Word of God hidden there will bring forth life in all its abundant beauty and strength.

The young man or woman who is thus taught God's Word in the home and the church will have an impregnable defense against the wiles and temptations of the world, the flesh, and the devil.

II. Exhibiting Strength of Character (1 Thess. 5:6-8).

The Lord is coming again! Paul was constantly looking forward to the day of His coming. It was not his lot to live until the Lord came, but he was not mistaken in looking for Him. The Lord has tarried, why only He knows, but it is the judgment of many excellent Bible expositors that the next great event to take place in divine history is His return. What a glorious hope!

But while we await His coming we are not to sleep as those round about us. Watchfulness, sobriety of life, these become the Christian. Certainly nothing of the drunkenness of our day is to enter into the life of the Christian. He who belongs to Christ does not drink of the devil's "fire-water." But far more than that is in mind here, for the Christian is to go on in faith, love, and hope until he becomes "on fire" for God, burning with the passion of the Holy Spirit, not only for his own life, but for the salvation of the lost and for the development of true Christian character in those who have taken upon themselves the beautiful name of "Christian."

Family Reunions

The Bowser-Colflesh family held its 18th annual reunion on Sunday, July 31, in the A. A. Glass grove overlooking the Cove. Upwards of 300 persons attended. The oldest person present was Mrs. Salina Oester, 82. Carol Jean, the two-weeks' old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Claude Fike, was the youngest. The Accident band and the Addison stringed band furnished the music. Officers were elected as foldows: Earl Bowser, president; Ray W. Bowser, vice-president; Mrs. Clarence Thornburg, secretary, and Mrs. Walter Burkhart, treasurer. The committee is composed of Ernest Glass, Charles E. Bowser and Elias McClintock.

DeWitt Family Reunion.

The DeWitt family reunion will be held at Hoyes on Sunday, August 11, instead of August 21, as had been previously announced. Religious services will be at 11 o'clock and a special program will be presented in the afternoon. The committee extends an invitation for all to attend.

Rodeheaver Family

The Rodeheavers, their relatives and friends will hold their annual clan reunion on Sunday, August 28, at Adam's Oak Grove, near Deer Park, on the Sand Flat-Deer Park highway. The program from 10:30 to 12 will include sacred song and memorial services; 12 to 1:30, family basket dinner, 1:30, panorama picture will be taken. The afternoon will be a varied program of songs, music and entertainment. All members and their relatives are cordially invited to be present.

MT. LAKE PARK

The first thing we have to do is to make a correction on a statement made last week in this column. We are making this at the request of the Mountain Lake water superintendent. The reason for the Civic Club's drinking fountain not being erected in the Association grounds was because of a leak in the fountain itself—not in the water main. This was not repaired and therefore the water company could not turn the water on. But there is no water shortage in Mountain Lake Park. We are sorry that we were misinformed, but our information came, we thought, from a reliable source.

The tennis tournament got under way Monday. The reception Monday night at the bowling alley was well attended and old and new players got together, as well as many visitors. Mrs. Bushrod Grimes was chairman of the reception committee. The management has stated that there are more entries than last year and weather permitting the matches this year will prove to be one of the best.

The amphitheatre has been accommodating large crowds of people who gather each day and night at the Mountain Top Camp Meeting. Tuesday night the crowd was estimated at 1500 people. It has been a long time since such numbers have been beneath the amphitheatre roof as at the present meeting. Rev. Paul Maness and the Williams group and all connected with the organization are to be congratulated.

FROMAN'S MILL: THE FIRST MILL IN GARRETT COUNTY

By CHARLES E. HOYE

The first factory built in a pioneer settlement was the grist mill, which ground the settler's corn and wheat, using the abundant water power of some convenient stream. Before mills were built the earliest settlers made their coarse meal as the Indians did—breaking the grains in a stone or wooden mortar with a pestle. Hominy and parched corn were prepared by hand.

Naturally the mill became a center for trade and exchange for gossip and news. So the history of our first grist mill, located on Mill Run prior to 1774 and shrouded in the mists of the American Revolution, is a subject of keen interest.

Bear Camp Or Mill Run

At the west foot of Kissan's (Keyser's) Ridge the Sandy Creek Indian Path intersected the old Nemacolin Path, which led from Will's Creek (Cumberland) to the Western Waters. Doubtless the red tribes once camped here. Certainly the earliest hunters in these mountains and the traders who passed over the paths to trade with the Indians in the Ohio Country, camped, hunted and fished where the trails met. They named their camp "Bear Camp", referring to the numerous bears they found on the surrounding hills and in the nearby valleys.

At the Bear Camp hunters and traders found a small open glade, supplying forage for horses, and an abundant supply of pure spring water; there was also a little brook emptying into a stream from the Ridge, which became known as "Bear Camp Run."

On its way to Fort Duquesne in 1755, General Braddock's army camped at the "Bear Camp", and here, where the army marched on, Colonel Washington was obliged to remain several days, fighting "violent fevers" with calomel by "Dr. James's Powders." A few years before, about 1787, Judge John Sloan built his noted Bear Camp Tavern near the present Beeghly log house which Louis Spiker now resides.

From the old camp ground the Run flows toward the northwest almost to the Mason and Dixon line, then turns westward, breaking thru the Wallington Ridge. Finally it unites with the Youghiogheny a few miles north of old Shelby's Port. Within an air line seven miles—from the Camp to its mouth—Mill Run has a fall of one thousand feet. It was (and is) fed by hundreds of mountain springs and drains a densely forested area. Its banks were thickly lined with rhododendron and mountain laurel, broken by overhanging rocky cliffs—ideal refuge for the bears which fed on the acorns and nuts of the surrounding hills.

Bad Is The Best Of It

Soon after the French and Indian War, pioneers began the "Sandy Creek Settlement" on the territory drained by Sandy Creek in Virginia, and the adjoining lands in Pennsylvania and the Youghiogheny Valley in Maryland. The first of these were the Friend brothers on the River in 1765. And, soon after, came Jacob Froman, a miller and man of substance, from the Shenandoah Valley of Virginia. Probably the Friend and Froman were acquaintances in Virginia; certainly the Friends helped Froman build his mill in their neighborhood.

On April 29, 1771, Jacob Froman surveyed "Bad Is the Best of It," 120 acres, on Bear Camp Run near its mouth. Coming from the wide and fertile Valley of Virginia, Froman was not impressed with the land in these mountains from an agricultural standpoint, hence the pecular name he gave his tract; but he was not looking for a farm, and as a mill site Bear Camp Run was "The Best of It." In fact, the stream selected provided such excellent water power that mills continued to operate there until very recent years. In time even the name of the stream changed to "Fike's Mill Run," now just plain "Mill Run."

Building The First Mill

In 1771 Lord Baltimore's land office patented to Jacob Froman his "Bad" land tract. It was prohaly during the following year that Froman, with settlers' help, built his mill, his house and cabins for his Negro slaves. We know that in 1771 the mill was in operation and had become a noted landmark, because three of the land surveys of that year refer to "Froman's Mill." The surveyor of nearby "Small Glade" wrote of "Jacob Froman's Mill Branch which empties into Deer Creek" and of "a path that leads from Froman's Mill to the foot of Keyser's Ridge on Braddock Road" the old Bear Camp.

Froman's Mill stood about thirty yards east of the late Speelman Mill, on the north side of Mill Run and just above the present bridge on the Selbysport-Somerfield road. It was of logs, roofed with clap-boards. The great overshot wheel was turned by water led to it through a race from a low dam across the Run.

Unfortunately, the history of Froman's settlement was never written. Jacob and his neighbors have long rested from their labors and the stones of Bear Camp Run are silent, while the rippling waters speak only of the present. But we can easily imagine how the pioneers of the Sandy Creek Glades in Virginia, those from the Great Crossing at Somerfield, Pa., from the Braddock Road and the Big Youghiogheny Valley in Marvland—all—men, women, even the boys and girls—went to Froman's Mill, seated on sacks of corn or of wheat thrown over the backs of their horses. All trails thereabouts led to "the mill." Often they also brought ginseng and the skins of wild animals to exchange for salt and ammunition. And there they discussed the current news of the times: the Shawnee War of 1774; the King; Independence; the Revolution; Indian raids. Later they talked about the prospects of a great road or canal across the mountains, which Froman hoped would be located on the banks of the River near his mill, or that the Youghiogheny would be made navigable. When a village was laid out nearby in the 1790's the people named it "Shelby's Port" in honor of the famous Indian fighter, Captain Evan Shelby, who owned the "Buffalow Run" tract across the river from Froman's.

But Shelby and Froman were restless and ambitious. Both moved to Kentucky, where they became wealthy and prominent citizens. About 1780 Jacob Froman and his brother, Paul, from Pennsylvania, explored the Kentucky River Valley and a few years later moved their families to that dark and bloody land. Froman leased his mill and little farm to John Fike, and finally, on May 28, 1814, deeded it to Fike for $3,000.

Later Years On Mill Run

John Fike, Sr., operated the mill for many years, adding a whiskey distillery. In 1820, for $1,100, Fike deeded the mill property to his son-in-law, Samuel Hazlett, who operated it under the name of "Hazlett's Mill." Samuel Hazlett died in 1841, and his son, Jacob, acquired the property, which he sold in 1852 for $3,100 to his brother-in-law, Philip Myers, and Daniel Umble. They deeded it the same year to Peter Speelman.

The old mill had deteriorated, so about 1855 Speelman built a frame mill near the old one, using the same mill race to supply the power. The Speelmans also put in an "up and down" saw mill, running the saw with the grist mill water power. Later the Speelmans sold out to Philip H. Garletts, who operated the grist mill until about 1930, when it burned down and was not rebuilt.

Mill Run was a favorite site for factories. In addition to "Speelman's Mill," August Niles operated the Nile Mill up the Run near the State line. It ceased operations thirty-eight years ago.

Peter McCleary owned and operated a woolen mill about a mile and a half above Froman's Mill, also run by water power. It ceased operations about fifty years ago and its site is now owned by Geza Orbin.

Here endeth the story of Mill Run and its mills.

THE FROMANS

The Froman (Frohman) family is of German or German-French Huguenot origin, probaly from the neighborhood of Stratssburg. The immigrant ancestor appears to have been Peter Froman, who came to the New York Colony, but moved into eastern Pennsylvania, where, in 1731, his son, Paul Froman, married Elizabeth, daughter of Joist Hite (Heydt).

Joist Hite took over the Vanmeter grant of 40,000 acres in the Shenandoah Valley in Virginia, and, about 1732, settled with forty families in the region of Winchester.

Paul Froman I went to Virginia with his father-in-law and became a well-to-do planter on Cedar Creek, south of Winchester. His sons were John Paul (Paul II) and Jacob.

Paul Froman II moved at an early date from the Valley of Virginia to what is now southwestern Pennsylvania, then claimed hy Virginia. Froman's Fort, built in 1755, was on Chartier's Creek in Washington county. In 1778 Paul Froman sold his grist mill on the Monongahela River and some time later settled in Lincoln county, Kentucky.

Jacob Froman, The Miller

Our first miller, Jacoh Froman, married Barharah ———, probably in Virginia. In 1771, soon after his marriage, he patented "Bad Is the Best of It," 120 acres, on Bear Camp Run, just ahove its junction with the Big Youghiogheny River, in the extreme northwestern part of Maryland. It is probahle that he built his house and mill here during the following year; certainly the mill was in operation in the spring of 1774: three land surveys of that year refer to "Froman's Mill."

The young miller was doubtlessly liberally financed by his father. He probably brought along several of the family slaves.

Jacob Froman appears to have operated his mill until about the close of the Revolutionary War, when the fertile lands of Kentucky attracted his attention. During the years 1780-82 he patented nineteen tracts—8,000 acres—in Lincoln and Jefferson counties. Sometime during the 1780's Froman rented his mill property in Maryland and moved his family to Kentucky.

Jacob Froman settled in Woodford county Kentucky. He was prominent in the political life of the new State of Kentucky: member of the first State Legislature, member of the convention which framed the State Constitution, and member of the committee which chose the site for the State capital. He also served in the Wabash Indian War. During the Dunmore campaign of 1774 against the Shawnees the few settlers in far Western Maryland were obliged to stay in their own fortified log houses to protect their families and property from threatened attacks by the Indians, but Jacob's brother, Paul Froman, served as a captain in Dunmore's expeditions and in 1775 was paid on the "Pittsburgh Pay Roll" 88 pounds sterling for 176 days' service.

When the Revolutionary Provincial Convention of Maryland called for the organization of militia companies, Jacob Froman, John and Augustine Friend, Aaron Parker, Jesse Tomlinson and William Ashby made the long trip to Old Town and enrolled themselves, August 28, 1776, in Captain Charles Coulson's company. Evidently the company saw no service in the east. Volunteers from the Youghiogheny Valley were soon obliged to give their attention to the protection of their homes from the Western Indians.

The children of Jacob and Barbarah Froman, with years of birth, were: Jacob, 1771; Elizabeth, 1772; Abraham, 1775; Susan, 1777; Abraham, 1779; Isaac, 1784; Joseph, 1786; Sara, 1788; Eliza, 1791.

Four or five of these children were probably among the first white children born in what is now Garrett county, Maryland.

The Fikes.

The German ancestor of this family is said to have been a weaver by trade and of the Amish faith.

Christian Fike I, the first of the family of whom we have definite record, settled near Elk Lick (Salisbury), Pa. His sons, John and Christian, first appear in 1783 on the tax records of Somerset county. His known children were John, Christian and Jacob.

Jacob Fike located first in the neighborhood of Markleysburg, Pa., and in 1810 he settled in Grant District, in Preston county, Va. His son Jacob, in 1835, built a large stone house about one mile north of Brandonville.

Christian Fike II (1761-1851) married Christina Livengood (1770-1857), of Elk Lick, Pa. He resided on the Fike homestead between Salisbury and Meyersdale. His children were Barbara (Shrock), John, Jacob, ——— (Beeghly), Joseph, Peter and Elizabeth (Lichty).

Peter Fike (1794-1871) married Magdalene Arnold, and finally in 1854, settled near Eglon, W. Va., on the farm now owned hy his gradson, E. T. Fike, and others.

John Fike, Sr., son of Christian I, prior to 1798, settled on the Froman mill property at the mouth of Bear Camp or Mill Run, below Shelby's Port. He was a well-to-do miller and farmer. Late in life he built a large brick house on his farm on Fike Hill, now the property of his grandson, Dorsey Guard. John Fike died in 1829, and in his will mentions his wife, Barbara, and his children—John, Peter, Christian, Elizabeth (Ayers), Catherine (Hazlett), Frances (Griffith), Ann (Musser), Maria (Herrider); also his grandson, Jeremiah Guard, who was later a merchant on Mill Run.

John Fike, Sr., died in 1829 and is buried in the family graveyard on Fike Hill.

John Fike, Jr., married Nancy Densmore (?). They resided in the brick house on the family homestead on Fike Hill, which John bequeathed to his son William by his will, dated in 1862. The children of John Fike, Jr., were Peter, Christian, Levi, Mariah (Robinson), Elizabeth (Daniels), and Catherine (Schrock).

Mary Jane Fike, daughter of Christian IV, was born January 8, 1854, and married James Guard in 1872. She resides with her grandson, Dorsey Guard, on the old Stuck farm near Selbysport.

The Hazletts

Samuel Hazlett married Catherine, daughter of John Fike, Sr., and came into possession of the Froman Mill property in 1820. He died in 1841 and in his will mentions the following children:

(a) Mary, wife of Archibald Duberry.

(b) Barbara, wife of John Welch.

(c) John.

(d) Elizabeth, wife of William Campbell.

(e) Ann, wife of Philip Myers.

(f) Jacob.

(g) Susan.

Also grandchildren, Elizabeth and Hanson Guthrie, who were the children of Frances, wife of Stephen Guthrie.

The inventory of the Hazlett estate includes two mill stones, a family Bible, Wesley's sermons, Josephus, a German prayer hook, Poor Man's Catechism, Methodist Discipline and Wesley's Life.

The Speelmans

Peter Speelman, son of Lawrence and Elizabeth Speelman, was born June 28, 1791, and died September 17, 1872. He married Sarah Myers, who was born March 20, 1794. They resided near Midlothian, Allegany county, Md., until 1852, when Speelman bought of Philip Myers and David Umble the old Froman Mill property on Mill Run.

Peter Speelman was a farmer and blacksmith, as well as a miller. His son Otho Speelman operated the Speelman Mill after his father retired. Otho died June 15, 1900. His son, Norval Speelman, then succeeded his father at the mill until the property was sold to Philip H. Garletts.

Peter and Sarah Speelman were the parents of eight children: Matilda Ann, born March 8, 1816; Edward, March 24, 1818; Amanda Melvina, October 26, 1820; Phoebe Emily, March 8, 1822; Martin, September 11, 1824; Julia Ann, April 13, 1828; Peter Cephas, August 22, 1830, and Otho, October 31, 1832.

LAST DAY FOR FILING, MONDAY, AUGUST 22.

DON'T LET THE BAND DOWN!—

Whenever Oakland had a band it never failed to create a lot of interest for Oakland and the mountain top. The present Oakland Boys' Band is no exception. Organized more than ten years ago it has been traveling many places and making known to the world that there is a beauty spot in the Allegheny Mountains that is worth coming miles to see.

Such advertising is of great value to the town, its merchants and its people. As such an asset, it deserves the support and sponsorship of the town.

Since its organization it has been directed by R. R. Gilbert and Russell H. Brown, both of whom have worked with no compensation for their services except small donations at scattered intervals. Mr. Brown has had full direction of the band for the past six or seven years, which includes two nights each week for practice and many other times for parade or trips to make Oakland better known to the outside communities.

Just now the organization is not working smoothly and there is danger that it will go to pieces.

For the good of the town, for the good of the youth of the town, The Republican suggests—

That the band be reorganized;

That it be sponsored by the Mayor and Town Council;

That the director, whoever he might be, be paid some certain amount, not a large sum, but something to compensate him for his work;

That the town otherwise contribute toward its support.

It is true that the town has paid expenses on various occasions for trips taken by the band. Several years ago it contributed a certain sum annually, but this has been forgotten or purposely omitted lately.

The town is missing an opportunity to shoulder some of its responsibility to its youth if it fails to adequately care for the band.

Do not let such an asset as the Boys' Band be lost to Oakland!

Hoping you will bring this to your readers' attention, we will still remain,

Selecting Readymade Garments

A good shopper looks for many things when she is purchasing a readymade garment. One of the first and possibly the most important points of quality to observe is the seams. A good shopper immediately looks on the wrong side to see that generous seams and firm finishes are there. Generous seams hold and will allow for letting out at places that may be too tight or may need remodeling. Armhole seams, sleeve seams, waist and hip line seams get much of the strain of wear and a skimped seam will pull out under any strain.

The necessity of a well finished edge must not be overlooked. If a seam does have depth and is not finished to prevent fraying, the result is the same as a narrow seam. If material is firm and closely woven, it needs only one plain seam with overcasting or pinking at the edges. On the other hand, if the material is sheer silk, or other fabric that slips or frays easily, the seams need a firmer finish.

On less expensive dresses sometimes the seams are stitched and bound at the same time, thus giving a seeming good finish, but actually the seams are so narrow that they do not stand hard wear and cleaning. Other points to watch are thread that is too coarse and loose, stitches too far apart, broken places in stitching, loose ends of the threads and wavering in the width of the seams.

Every homemaker would save herself and family time and worry if when she purchased a new garment she would immediately give it a thorough "once over", tightening all fasteners, tieing all threads, checking all seams, etc.

Mr. and Mrs. Byron Besse, of Philadelphia, who have been at the home of Mrs. Besse's mother, Mrs. D. M. Dixon, at the Park, were week-end guests of Mr. and Mrs. G. Bates Chaires. Also visiting Mr. and Mrs. Chaires for several weeks is their niece, Miss Jane Pellett, of Franklin, N. J.

ORDER OF PUBLICATION

Philip Filsinger, Executor of the Last Will and Testament of Martin Filsinger, Deceased, et al vs. Sophie Campbell, et al.

No. 3479 Equity. In the Circuit Court for Garrett County, Maryland.

The object of this bill is to have the Court construe the meaning of the Last Will and Testament of Martin Filsinger, Deceased.

The bill states:

FIRST:—That Martin Filsinger, late of Garrett County, Maryland, deceased, died on the 19th day of May, 1919, leaving a Last Will and Testament duly executed to pass real estate.

SECOND:—That on the same day of the execution of the Last Will and Testament by the said Martin Filsinger, his wife, Catharine Filsinger, executed a Last Will and Testament and the said Catharine Filsinger died on the 1st day of January, 1923.

THIRD:—Both of said wills above referred to were duly admitted to probate by the Orphans' Court for Garrett County, Maryland, and your orator, Philip Filsinger, qualified as Executor in said Court and filed an accounting as such Executor with the said Court.

FOURTH:—That at the time of the death of the said Martin Filsinger he was seized and possessed of a tract of land containing approximately 76 acres, being the residue of the tract of land acquired by the said Martin Filsinger from Henry G. Davis and Kate A. Davis, his wife, by deed dated October 12, 1901, and recorded in Liber E. Z. T., No. 40, folio 256, one of the Land Records of Garrett County, Maryland.

FIFTH:—That the said Martin Filsinger departed this life on the 19th day of May, 1919, testate, leaving surviving him as his heirs at law and next of kin Philip Filsinger, a son, who married Mary J. Filsinger; Herman Filsinger ,a son, who departed this life intestate, leaving surviving him as his heirs at law and next of kin the following named children: Sophie Campbell, married to Owen Campbell; Cora Tippen, married to James Tippen; Emma Jennings, married to Fred Jennings; Conrad Filsinger, single; George Filsinger, married to Stella Filsinger; Albert Filsinger, single; Herman Filsinger, married to Gladys Filsinger; William Filsinger, married to Winona Filsinger; Pearl Condry, married to Joseph Condry; Nellie Weisenborne, married to Joseph Weisenborne, and Esther Filsinger, an infant under the age of twenty-one years; Adolph Filsinger, a son, who departed this life intestate, leaving surviving him as his heirs at law and next of kin, his widow, Elizabeth Filsinger, and the following named children: Carl Filsinger, married to Catherine Filsinger; Gilbert Filsinger, married to Helen Filsinger; Harry Filsinger, single; Adolph Filsinger, married to Alice Filsinger; Mary Oremusz, married to John Oremusz; Elizabeth Mascheim, married to Alfred Mascheim; Pauline Maus, married to John Maus, and Emma Weisenborne, married to Elmer Weisenborne; Ida Linenbogger, a daughter, who departed this life intestate, leaving surviving her as her heirs at law and next of kin the following named children: Irene Shepard, married to James Shepard; Emma Green, married to Emmet Green; Marie Linenbogger, single; Adolph Linenbogger, married to ——— Linenbogger; William Linenbogger, married to Eva Linenbogger; Arthur Linenbogger, married to Mary Linenbogger; Owen Linenbogger, single; Herman Linenbogger Wilson, married to ——— Linenbogger Wilson; Emma Brant, a daughter, who departed this life leaving surviving her her husband, Gilbert Brant, and the following named children: Verona Decker, Pauline Bloom, Elwood Brant, married to ——— Brant; Clayton Brant, married to ——— Brant; Gilbert Brant, married to — Brant; Lily Wise; Otto Filsinger, a son, who departed this life leaving surviving him as his heirs at law and next of kin, his widow, Pearl Filsinger, now married to William Durst, and the following named children: Paul O. Filsinger, executed a mortgage in the sum of $4500.00 to the Garrett National Bank of Oakland, Maryland, a corporation.

SEVENTH:—That the said Garrett National Bank of Oakland, Maryland, a corporation, is now in receivership and the said John H. Hoffman is Receiver for the said corporation.

EIGHTH:—That it is contended by the said Philip Filsinger that according to the true construction of the Will of the said Martin Filsinger that it was plainly his intention and desire that all of his estate, both real and personal, should go to him after the payment of certain specific bequests as set out in the said Will, and that it was plainly the intention of Martin Filsinger and Catharine Filsinger, his wife, the father and mother of your orator, Philip Filsinger, that any estate owned by them at the time of their death, should go to the said Philip Filsinger, absolutely.

NINTH:—That your orator, Philip Filsinger, acquired title to the real estate owned by the said Martin Filsinger at the time of his death, and has continuously occupied the said property since that time without any question being raised by any of the heirs at law of the said Martin Filsinger and Catharine Filsinger, his wife, and since their death he has expended large sums of money in improving said property. That the said Philip Filsinger a short time ago applied to the Federal Government for a Farm Loan and upon an investigation of the title to said property by the local attorney for the Farm Loan he was advised by said attorney that there was a slight question as to his valid title to said property. Your orator has been advised by his counsel that it would be necessary to have the Court construe the Will of the said Martin Filsinger for the purpose of removing any question as to the validity of his title to said property.

The bill prays that the Court may take jurisdiction in the premises and construe the meaning of the Last Will and Testament of the said Martin Filsinger as to his intention of the disposition of his real estate remaining in his name at the time of his death. For general relief, for the writ of subpoena against the resident defendants, Conrad Filsinger, George Filsinger and Stella Filsinger, his wife; Albert Filsinger, Herman Filsinger and Gladys Filsinger, his wife; William Filsinger and Winona Filsinger, his wife; Pearl Condry and Joseph Condry, her husband; Nellie Weisenborne and Joseph Weisenborne, her husband; Ester Filsinger, Elizabeth Filsinger, Carl Filsinger and Catherine Filsinger, his wife; Gilbert Filsinger and Helen Filsinger, his wife; Harry Filsinger, William Linenbogger and Eva Linenbogger, his wife; Arthur Linenbogger and Mary Linenbogger, his wife; Owen Linenbogger, Herman Linenbogger Wilson and ——— Linenbogger Wilson, his wife; Tillie Logsdon, Elwood Brant and ——— Brant, his wife; Pauline Bloom, Gilbert Brant and ——— Brant, his wife; Lily Wise, Pearl Durst and William Durst, her husband; Paul O. Filsinger and ——— Filsinger, his wife; Catherine Filsinger, Edward Filsinger and John H. STATE'S HEALTH BETTER FOR 2ND PERIOD OF 1938

Decrease In Measles Is The Most Outstanding In Report

In a report prepared by the Bureau of Vital Statistics of the State Department of Health, it is shown that there were over 1,765 more births than deaths reported in the State during April, May and June of this year. There were 6,820 births reported and 5,055 deaths, in comparison with 6,717 births and 5,312 deaths during the second quarter of 1937.

The distribution for the second quarter of 1938 was as follows: Births, Baltimore City, 2,070; the counties, 4,750. Deaths, 2,911 in Baltimore City and 2,144 in the counties. Considered in relation to population, there were 11 deaths which were offset by 15 births in each thousand of the population.

More than half of the deaths—3,008 or 60 per cent of the total number recorded, were due to what are known as the degenerative diseases of middle life and old age. Heart disease led the group with 1,318 deaths; cancer came next with 581 deaths; nephritis was third with 570 deaths. There were 424 deaths from cerebral hemorrhage and apoplexy and 115 from diabetes.

The pneumonias and tuberculosis were responsible for 638 deaths—pneumonia for 297 and tuberculosis for 341—or 13 per cent of the total.

One death in every twenty—5 per cent of the total—was due to accidents of some sort. Motor vehicle accidents were responsible for 76 of the deaths. Deaths from the causes mentioned above—the degenerative diseases, the pneumonias, tuberculosis and accidents—constituted over three-fourths of the deaths from all causes and at all ages in the State.

The record for the second quarter of the year prepared by the Bureau of Communicable Diseases shows that 10,361 cases of notifiable diseases were reported to the Department during April, May and June of 1938, 6,591 from Baltimore City and 1,337 from the counties, in comparison with 16,356 for the second quarter of 1937 when 10,859 cases were reported from Baltimore City and 5,517 from the counties. The decrease in the current year was due largely to decreases in measles of which 1,039 cases were reported from the State during the second quarter, in comparison with 5,390 cases during the corresponding period of 1937, and to decreases in whooping cough and diphtheria.

The venereal diseases—syphilis with 5,630 cases and gonorrhea, with 822 cases; influenza, with 62, the pneumonias with 686 cases and tuberculosis, with 890 cases, were charged with 56 per cent of the sickness from notifiable diseases reported during the second quarter of the current year. The 1,039 cases of measles and scarlet fever, of which 772 cases were reported added another 17 per cent. The remainder was scattered among the other reportable diseases.

Included in the total were 18 cases of Vincent's angina, 11 of pellagra, 7 of malaria, 5 of tularemia (rabbit fever), 18 of Rocky Mountain spotted fever (tick bite fever), and 13 of undulant fever. Only one case of poliomyelitis (infantile paralysis) was reported during April, May, June, 1938.

LOOKING FORWARD

By FRANKLYN WALTMAN

Publicity Director, Republican National Committee

Uproriously funny was Representative Maury Maverick's whimper that his defeat in the Texas primaries was due to the local Democratic political machine and "anti-Roosevelt money." To hear Mr. Maverick one would never suspect that the Federal political machine ardeutly supported him and that New Deal millions were shoveled into his district in the futile effort to renominate him.

Whatever sum was used to defeat Mr. Maverick could not have been a drop in the bucket compared with the money lavishly tossed about by the Roosevelt Administration to save this fountain of New Deal inspiration, not to mention a personal endorsement by Mr. Roosevelt himself. For instance, a few days before the primary the New Deal slum clearance authority announced an allocation of $3,500,000 for San Antonia--in the heart of Mr. Maverick's district.

Whenever a New Dealer is renominated or wins an election it is always due, according to the Democratice propagandists, to the popularity of the President and the overwhelming virtue of the New Deal. But whenever a New Dealer goes down to defeat, according to these same objectives, nonpartisan authorities, it is because of the hostility of the local machine, or the use of anti-Roosevelt money, but never because the voters might look on the New Deal with jaundiced eyes.

Radicalism Defeated Him

The truth of the matter is that Mr. Maverick was defeated because of his radicalism and his clowning. He was no follower of the New Deal. He was one of its leaders. Whenever less valiant souls wavered in reckless experimentation or inane subversion of Constitutional government, it was Mr. Mavreick who spurred the breathless House leaders on to a faster pace.

Yet Mr. Maverick sees almost eye to eye with the President on most issues. A typical instance of their harmony of viewpoint was evidenced on February 3, 1937, the day Mr. Roosevelt took the country by storm with his demand for an immediate packing of the Supreme Court in order to get judicial approval for his unconstitutional schemes.

While the Democratic leaders of the House were left stunned by the breath-taking Presidential message, Mr. Maverick jumped to his feet, rushed to the clerk's desk, seized the mimeographed copy of the President's Court packing bill, scribbled his name across the top and introduced it as his bill.

Votes Not In Bag

Subsequently when it became apparent that the votes were not in the bag for the measure, as predicted by genial Jim Farley, the President and his satellites were quite willing to have the bill become known as the Ashurst-Maverick Bill. Thus one of the sponsors of that iniquitous legislation has gone down to defeat. There will be more.

So far not a single outstanding opponent of the Court packing bill has been defeated, even though the New Deal has sought their political scalps. As the Texas voters were retiring Mr. Maverick to private life, they renominated for another term Representative Hatton W. Sumners. It was Mr. Sumners who affronted the New Deal leadership by arising on the House floor and severely denouncing the Court packing bill in a speech regarded then as its death-blow. He got no friendly pats from the President nor were millions of New Deal money promised to his district.

Humor In Maryland

Almost as humorous as Mr. Maverick's whimpering remarks was the pious, solemn lecture delivered a few days ago by Representative David J. Lewis to Senator Millard E. Tydings. Mr. Lewis, a flaming New Dealer, was persuaded by the White House to oppose Senator Tydings of Maryland for renomination as part of the New Deal purge.

"I," said Mr. Lewis to Senator Tydings, "offer you this advice: 'Without consistency there is no moral strength.' We cannot reverse ourselves too often. The voters are not deceived by it. We cannot have our cake and eat it, too.'

In view of the gyrations and somersaults of Mr. Lewis' political god, President Roosevelt, for six years, it is no wonder that Marylanders burst out laughing.

By all means, let us have humor in this year's campaign. It will not relieve our sad plight but it will take our minds off of it.

"WE'VE TRIED THEM ALL BUT PREFER DWIN FOR OUR OWN USE"

150,000 GROCERS CAN'T BE WRONG

Grocers, restaurants, hotels and other handlers of food know insect killers. It is truly significant when such a great number of them select DWIN for their own use. Surely, there must be good reasons for this selection. The very reasons why grocers and other food handlers select DWIN is your best guide to adopt DWIN for your own use.

Do as the grocer does — use DWIN in your home—(and in your garden)—to kill insects. Your grocer knows that DWIN is effective, pleasant to use—that it will not harm food or injure fabrics. "As fragrant as flowers in May" DWIN leaves a delightful floral fragrance in rooms. Buy it in the green can from your grocer, drug, hardware or department store. Try a can today.

WHEREAS, at the January session of the General Assembly of Maryland, held in the year 1935, an Act was passed, to-wit: Chapter 463 proposing an amendment to repeal Section 36 of Article 3 of the Constitution of the State of Maryland, title "Legislative Department", said section prohibiting the General Assembly from authorizing a lottery, and providing for the submission of said amendment to the qualified voters of the State of Maryland for adoption or rejection; and

WHEREAS, at the January session of the General Assembly of Maryland, held in the year 1937, an Act was passed, to-wit: Chapter 191 proposing to amend Section 21 of Article 4, title "Judiciary Department", sub-title "Part III—Circuit Courts", of the Constitution of this State, to provide an additional judge in the Second Circuit and to provide for the submission of said amendment to the qualified voters of this State for adoption or rejection; and

WHEREAS, at the January session of the General Assembly of Maryland, held in the year 1937, an Act was passed, to-wit: Chapter 525 proposing an amendment to Article 15 of the Declaration of Rights of the Constitution of the State of Maryland, authorizing the General Assembly to impose taxes on incomes, and providing for the submission of said amendment to the qualified voters of the State of Maryland for adoption or rejection; in words and figures as follows:

AN ACT to propose an amendment to repeal Section 36 of Article 3 of the Constitution of the State of Maryland, title "Legislative Department," said section prohibiting the General Assembly from authorizing a lottery, and providing for the submission of said amendment to the qualified voters of the State of Maryland for adoption or rejection.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the General Assembly of Maryland (three-fifths of all the members of each of the two Houses concurring), That Section 36 of Article 3 of the Constitution of the State of Maryland, title "Legislative Department," prohibiting the General Assembly from authorizing lottery grants, be and it is hereby repealed if adopted by the legally qualified voters of the State, as herein provided.

Sec. 2. And be it further enacted, That the aforegoing amendment to the Constitution of the State of Maryland shall, at the next ensuing general election for members of the General Assembly of Maryland, be submitted to the legal and qualified voters of the State for their adoption or rejection, in pursuance of the directions contained in Article 14 of the Constitution of the State of Maryland, and at the said general election the vote on the said proposed amendment to the Constitution shall be by ballot, and upon each ballot there shall be printed the words: "For Constitutional Amendment" and "Against Constitutional Amendment," as now provided by law, and immediately after said election due returns shall be made to the Governor of the vote for and against proposed amendment, as directed by said Fourteenth Article of the Constitution, and further proceedings had in accordance with said Article 14.

AN ACT to amend Section 21 of Article 4, title "Judiciary Department," sub-title "Part III Circuit Courts", of the Constitution of this State to provide an additional judge in the Second Circuit and to provide for the submission of said amendment to the qualified voters of this State for adoption or rejection.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the General Assembly of Maryland (three-fifths of all the members elected to each of the two Houses concurring), That the following section be and the same is hereby proposed as an amendment to Section 21 of Article 4, title "Judiciary Department", sub-title "Part III Circuit Courts" of the Constitution of the State, and if adopted by the legal and qualified voters thereof as herein provided, it shall supersede and stand in the place and stead of Section 21 of said Article 4.

21. For each of the said circuits, excepting the eighth, the second, the third and the sixth, there shall be a chief judge and two associate judges, to be styled judges of the Circuit Court, to be selected or appointed as herein provided, and for the second circuit, the third circuit and the sixth circuit there shall be a chief judge and three associate judges to be styled judges of the Circuit Court, to be elected or appointed as herein provided. And no two of said associate judges, for any of the said circuits, except the third and sixth circuits shall, at the time of their election or appointment or during the term for which they may have been elected or appointed, reside in the same county. If two or more persons shall be candidates for associate judge in the same county in any of the circuits, except the third and sixth circuits, that one only in said county shall be declared elected who has the highest number of votes in the circuit. In case any two candidates for associate judge in any of the circuits, except the third and sixth circuits, residing in the same county shall have an equal number of votes greater than any other candidates for associate judge in the circuit, it shall be the duty of the Governor to order a new election for one associate judge; but the person residing in any other county of the circuit and who has the highest number of votes shall be declared elected. The said judges shall hold not less than two terms of the Circuit Court in each of the counties composing their respective circuits, at such times as are now or may hereafter be prescribed to which jurors shall be summoned; and in those counties where only two such terms are held, two other and intermediate terms, to which jurors shall not be summoned; they may alter or fix the times for holding any or all terms, until otherwise prescribed, and shall adopt rules to the end that all business not requiring the interposition of the jury shall be, as far as practicable, disposed of at said intermediate terms. One judge in each of the above circuits, including the second, the third and sixth circuits, shall constitute a quorum for the transaction of any business; and the said judges or any of them may hold special terms of their courts, whenever in their discretion the business of the several counties renders such terms necessary. The additional associate judge for the third circuit elected in accordance with the terms of the Constitutional Amendment heretofore submitted and adopted shall be subject to the same constitutional provisions, hold his office for the same term of years, receive the same compensation and have the same powers as are herein provided for the other associate judges in the third circuit.

The additional associate judge for the second circuit herein provided for shall be a resident of Cecil County, shall be appointed by the Governor after the expiration of six (6) months after the adoption of this amendment and shall serve until the first general election for members of the General Assembly that shall be held in said circuit subsequent to the adoption of this amendment, at which election his successor shall be elected by the qualified voters of Caroline, Cecil, Kent, Queen Anne's and Talbot counties, constituting the second circuit. The judge so appointed shall be subject to the same constitutional provisions, receive the same compensation and have the same powers as are herein provided for the other associate judges in the second circuit, and the judge so elected shall be subject to the same constitutional provision, hold his office for the same term of years, receive the same compensation, and have the same powers as are herein provided for the other associate judges in the second circuit.

The additional judge for the sixth circuit herein provided for and elected by the qualified voters of Frederick and Montgomery Counties at the 1938 election in accordance with the terms of the Constitutional Amendment heretofore submitted and adopted shall be subject to the same constitutional provisions, receive the same compensation and have the same powers as are herein provided for the other associate judges in the sixth circuit and his successor shall be appointed and/or elected in accordance with the constitutional provisions relating to judges. The Chief Judge may be elected from either Frederick or Montgomery Counties, but when the Chief Judge is elected from Frederick County one of the associate judges shall be a resident of said county and the two remaining associate judges shall be residents of Montgomery County and when the Chief Judge is elected from Montgomery County one of the associate judges shall be a resident of said Montgomery County and the remaining two associate judges residents of Frederick County. In case any candidate or candidates for associate judge at any judicial election held in the sixth judicial circuit shall receive sufficient votes to cause such candidate or candidates to be declared elected, but the election of such candidate or candidates would cause more associate judges than herein permitted to reside in any county of said circuit, then and in that event only that candidate or those candidates, as the case may be, residing in said county in the order of the votes received shall be declared elected whose election would provide the permitted number of associate judges from said county and the candidate or candidates as the case may be, residing in the other county, and not similarly disqualified, who shall have the next highest number of votes in said election shall be declared elected. If, by reason of such a condition or by reason of an equal vote for two or more candidates a sufficient number of associate judges duly qualified as to residence as above set out should not be elected at any election in said sixth judicial circuit, then it shall be the duty of the Governor to order a new election for such unfilled office or offices.

Sec. 2. And be it further enacted, That the aforegoing section hereby proposed as an amendment to the Constitution of this State shall be, at the next general election to be held in this State in the year 1938, submitted to the legal and qualified voters thereof for their adoption or rejection in pursuance of directions contained in Article 14 of the Constitution of this State, and at the said general election, the vote on the said proposed amendment shall be by ballot, and upon each ballot there shall be printed the words "For the Constitutional Amendment" and "Against the Constitutional Amendment," as now prescribed by law, and immediately after said election, due returns shall be made to the Governor of the vote for and against said proposed amendment as directed by said Article 14 of the Constitution.

Approved: May 18, 1937.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the General Assembly of Maryland (three-fifths of all the members of each of the two Houses concurring), That the following amendment be and the same is hereby proposed to Article 15 of the Declaration of Rights of the Constitution of the State of Maryland, the same, if adopted by the legal and qualified voters of the State, as herein provided, to become Article 15 of the Declaration of Rights of the Constitution of the State of Maryland.

Art. 15. That the levying of taxes by the poll is grievous and oppressive and ought to be prohibited; that paupers ought not to be assessed for the support of the government; that the General Assembly shall, by uniform rules, provide for separate assessment of land and classification and sub-classification of improvements on land and personal property, as it may deem proper; and all taxes thereafter provided to be levied by the State for the support of the general State Government, and by the counties and by the City of Baltimore for their respective purposes, shall be uniform as to land within the taxing district, and uniform within the class or sub-class of improvements on land and personal property which the respective taxing powers may have directed to be subjected to the tax levy; yet fines, duties or taxes may properly and justly be imposed, or laid with a political view for the good government and benefit of the community. Taxes may be imposed on incomes, which may be classified, graduated and progressive and the exemption of a reasonable amount of income from taxation may be provided and such taxes may be in lieu of taxes on any class or classes of real or personal property as the General Assembly may determine.

Sec. 2. And be it further enacted, That the aforegoing amendment to the Declaration of Rights of the Constitution of the State of Maryland shall, at the election to be held in November, 1938, be submitted to the legal and qualified voters of the State for their adoption or rejection, in pursuance of the directions contained in Article 14 of the Constitution of the State of Maryland, and at the said general election the vote on the said proposed amendment to the Constitution shall be by ballot, upon each ballot there shall be printed the words: "For Constitutional Amendment," and "Against Constitutional Amendment," as now provided by law, and immediately after said election due returns shall be made to the Governor of the vote for and against proposed amendment, as directed by said Fourteenth Article of the Constitution, and further proceedings had in accordance with said Article 14.

Approved: May 18, 1937.

Such notice may be printed in any newspaper or publication. Not more than one notice shall be in any edition of any newspaper or publication at one time.

This Section is severable, and if this Section is declared unconstitutional, the decision so holding the same shall not be construed as impairing any other provision of this act. It is hereby declared as a legislative intent that this Act would have been adopted had this provision not been included therein.

11. In the event the license of any dentist is revoked or suspended, such fact shall be noted by the Board upon the record of registration, and the registration and certificate of the practitioner so offending shall be suspended or revoked as the case may be; and any person whose registration has been so suspended or revoked under the provisions of this Section shall be deemed an unregistered person and subject, as such, to the penalties prescribed for the practice of dentistry by persons that are not duly registered.

Every licensee whose license has been suspended or revoked by the Board may appeal to the Baltimore City Court of Baltimore City or the Circuit Court of the County wherein the licensee has his or her office where the matter shall be heard de novo, and where either party shall be entitled to a jury trial. The decision of the said Court shall be final and such appeal shall operate as a stay of the order or decision of the Board from which the appeal was taken. All appeals must be taken within fifteen (15) days from the date of the decision of the Board. All costs on appeal shall be paid by the losing party.

12. The proceedings to revoke or suspend any license under Section 10 of this Act may only be taken by the Board upon the complaint of another. All complaints must be in writing, verified by some person familiar with the facts therein charged, and two copies thereof must be filed with the secretary of the Board. All complaints must contain the request that the Board take action against the offender. Upon receiving any complaint the Board shall, if it deems the complaint sufficient following an investigation, pass an order setting the same for a hearing at a specified time and place, and the secretary shall cause a copy of the order and of the complaint, or of a complaint drawn by the Board, to be served upon the accused at least ten days before the day appointed in the order for said hearing. Service upon the accused shall be by delivery of a copy of the order and complaint to the accused in person. In the event the Board is unable to serve the accused in person, the service shall be had by delivery of the same to his last known residence and last known business address, or by sending a copy of the same by registered mail to the accused at his last known residence and last known business address, any of which means shall constitute sufficient notice to justify proceedings with a hearing of the charges. The accused must appear at the time appointed in the order and answer the charges and make his defense to the same, unless for sufficient cause the Board may assign another day for the purpose. If the accused does not appear the Board may proceed with the hearing and finally determine the accusation or complaint in the absence of the accused. If the accused pleads guilty, or refuses to answer the charges or upon a hearing thereof the Board shall find said charges or any of them true, the Board may proceed to suspend or revoke the license of the accused for such length of time as the Board, in its discretion, shall deem proper. The Board and the accused may have the benefit of counsel. The Board shall have the power to administer oaths, take the depositions of witnesses in the manner provided by law in civil cases, and to compel the attendance of witnesses by subpoena issued over the signature of the secretary of the Board. The Board shall issue for any and all witnesses requested in writing by the accused.

Whenever any person subpoenaed to appear and give testimony shall refuse to appear or testify before said Board, or to answer any pertinent, relative or proper questions, he shall be deemed in contempt of said Board, and it shall be the duty of the presiding officer of said Board to report the fact to the Superior Court of Baltimore City in the event the party guilty of contempt resides in said City, or has a place of business in said City, or to the Judge of the Circuit Court of the County wherein the party guilty of said contempt resides; thereupon the Court shall issue an attachment in the usual form, directed to the Sheriff of the City or County commanding said Sheriff to attach said person and forthwith bring him before the Court. On the return of said attachment and the production of the person attached, the Court shall have jurisdiction of the contempt, and the person charged may purge himself of the contempt in the same way, and the same proceedings shall be had, and the same penalties may be imposed, and the same punishment may be inflicted as in the case of a witness subpoenaed to appear and give evidence in the trial of a civil cause. The Board shall have the power in its discretion, to authorize the payment of fees and traveling expenses of witnesses called before the Board and examined in any proceeding properly before the Board.

13. All signs prohibited by this Act shall be removed within three months after the passage of this Act. Any person or persons who shall prohibit, neglect, fail or refuse to remove any sign prohibited by this Act is guilty of a violation of this Act and subject to the penalties thereof.

14. Each person holding a license under this Act shall exhibit on the door or the wall of the building wherein he shall practice dentistry, not more than two signs on which shall be placed the name and title or degree of such person, the letters of which shall not exceed three inches square. Any person practicing dentistry in any building may exhibit such sign on the door of his office in addition to those on the door or wall of such building.

15. Any person shall be deemed to be practicing dentistry, within the meaning of this Act, (a) who is a manager, proprietor, or conductor of, or an operator in, any place in which any dental service or any dental operation is performed within the mouth of any person, or (b) who for a fee, salary, or other remuneration or reward, paid or to be paid to himself or to another, or gratuitously or otherwise, performs any such service or operation; or (c) who diagnoses or treats, or attempts to diagnose or treat, any disease, lesion, malocclusion, or malposition of a tooth, gum or jaw, in any person, mechanically, medicinally, by use of x-ray, or otherwise; or (d) who attempts to perform in the mouth of any person any operation incident to the repair or replacement of a tooth or teeth; or (e) who publicly or privately applies to himself the title "Dentist" or "Dental Surgeon" or uses the letters D.D.S. or D.M.D., or any other titles or letters in connection with his name which, in any way, represent him as being competent or ready to perform any dental service or any dental operation in any human mouth. This sub-section shall have no application to any person who is the holder of a dental degree who does not either directly or indirectly, practice, or attempt to practice, dentistry as hereinbefore set forth in this Section 15.

No such public school clinic, State institution, eleemosynary institution, or business corporation shall advertise in any manner or by any method, either directly or indirectly, anything relative to the practice of dentistry. Such institutions are prohibited not only from advertising in violation of this act but are prohibited from advertising in any manner anything relative to the practice of dentistry.

Nothing in this Article shall prohibit the Dental Division of the State Department of Health, or the Director of the Public School Clinics of the City Health Department from broadcasting educational programs over the radio.

17. All persons now authorized to practice dentistry in this State, and those who may be hereafter registered under the provisions of this Article, shall be exempt from service as jurors in any of the Courts of this State, during the continuance of the practice of their profession.

18. The Board shall always be designated as the "State Board of Dental Examiners", and under this name it shall have the right to sue or be sued in the Courts of this State.

19. Any person who shall practice, or attempt to practice dentistry within the State of Maryland, without having a license as hereinbefore provided or during the period of suspension or revocation of such license previously granted shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction thereof shall be fined not less than fifty dollars nor more than three hundred dollars, or be confined not more than six months in jail, in the discretion of the Judge or Judges of the Circuit Court of the respective counties of this State, or the Judge or Judges of the Criminal Court of Baltimore City, before whom the matter shall be tried; and upon conviction of a subsequent offense, shall be confined not more than six months in jail or fined not less than three hundred dollars or more than five hundred dollars. Any violation of this Article by a person convicted under the then existing laws of this State of practicing dentistry without a license or registration shall be included in the term subsequent offense. Every conviction of unlawful practice subsequent to a first conviction thereof shall be a conviction of a subsequent offense.

The Attorney General or one of his Assistants shall be the legal adviser of the Board.

FOREST AREA PLAYGROUND PLANNED BY F. W. BESLEY

Says It Will Attract Thousands; Wants 125,000 Acres of Land

A program designed to make a portion of Garrett county into forest playground, with tens of thousands of summer visitors each year, is under way and soon will begin to show results, is the dream of F. W. Besley, State Forester.

Mr. Besley's program for Garrett county is as follows:

Acquisition by the State and development under State guidance, of approximately 125,000 of the county's 275,000 acres of forest land.

Development by State and Federal agencies of areas of scenic and recreational value to attract summer vacationers to the county in much larger numbers than at present.

30,000 Acres Acquired

The State Department of Forestry already owns about 30,000 acres of forest land in the county, and the Resettlement Administration owns another 30,000 acres, which is being developed by Federal and State officials.

Mr. Besley states that when this area is increased to 125,000 acres by future purchases and scientific forest management policies are put into effect a source of livelihood will be provided for some 3,000 workers who will be given steady employment.

This estimate, he said, is based on the experience that under good forest management and protection each 10,000 acres of forest land will support 250 workers on forest maintenance and the transportation and manufacture of timber and timber products.

Camp Areas Available

Developments of recreational areas now under way will provide cabin facilities for 6,000 vacationers each summer and camping and picnic areas already are available for many thousands more.

Under development in this county at present are three recreational areas—Herrington Manor, in the Swallow Falls State Forest, where a fifty-two acre artificial lake has been constucted; New Germany, in the Savage River State Forest, where there is a 12-acre lake, and Big Run, also in the Savage River tract.

Some fifty cabins, with an average capacity of four persons, are completed, under way or planned for the immediate future, and boathouses, bathing pavilions, tennis courts, soft hall diamonds and picnic tables are being built. Camping spaces are also being provided.

The Conservation Department also has an extensive program of stocking streams and lakes with game fish.

Mr. Besley stressed the fact that fifteen per cent of the income from the products sold out of State forests will go into the county treasury. He estimated that one million dollars has been spent in the past several years in getting the program under way.

Mountain Lake Water Company Expresses Regret.

To the Editor of The Republican.

The Mountain Lake Water Company wishes to express regret that the public fountain on the Association ground has not been installed this year. During the years since its installation the Water Company has furnished water to this fountain free and will continue to do so, knowing full well its value to the many visitors to the Park. This spring notice was given by the Water Company that the fountain could not be used until the leaks in the fountain were repaired. The parties responsible for the care of the fountain are to blame for its absence—not the Water Company.

Hurt When Pinned Beneath A Tractor Near Avilton

Bryan Johnson, 38, of near Avilton, sustained serious injuries when he was pinned beneath a tractor after finishing threshing at Jesse Merrill's farm in the Avilton community last Thursday. He was taken to Miners Hospital, Frostburg.

The accident occurred while Mr. Johnson was driving the tractor to the neighboring farm of E. O. Robeson. In some manner the machine skidded and Johnson jumped off but failed to get entirely free from the machine's path as it swerved and toppled over.

He suffered several broken ribs, chest injuries and torn muscles in both his legs.

This is the second serious accident Mr. Johnson has had in the past two years. In the summer of 1936 he was badly burned when a gasoline tank on a road roller exploded. He was forced to remain in the hospital for nearly three months.

Mrs. Leo Helbig Keeps Unwilling Company With Cakes Of Ice For Forty Minutes

How it feels to be almost a cake of ice, can be pictured for anyone interested by Mrs. Leo Helbig, of Oakland.

Mr. and Mrs. Helbig went to Fnirmont, West Va., on Sunday to visit Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Ormiston. Mr. Ormiston, former manager of the Oakland Creamery Company, was transferred several months ago to Fairmont where he is in charge of the plant of the Imperial Ice Cream Company.

Mr. and Mrs. Ormiston were showing Mrs. Helbig through the plant and entered one of the storage rooms which carries a temperature of below freezing, and while within the door swung shut. There were no workmen nt the plant, it being Sunday, and no one in the party suspected where they were. That the imprisoned man and women were somewhat dismayed at their plight is putting it mildly.

After being in the storage room for upwards of forty minutes, and being so thoroughly chilled that they felt like a cake of ice, Mr. Ormiston discovered an iron bar and with this he forced open the door. The thankfulness with which they again breathed the warmer air knew no limit.

TRUCK CRASH IS FATAL TO BLOOMINGTON MAN

Daniel L. Bever Dies In Keyser Hospital Tuesday Night Without Regaining Consciousness

ANOTHER PERSON INJURED

Suffering a fractured skull, cuts and bruises about the head and body, Daniel Laird Bever, 24-year-old truck driver of Bloomington, this county, died Tuesday evening in Potomac Valley Hospital, Kevser, West Va., without regaining consciousness.

Bever was injured when the truck he was driving went out of control and crashed into an embankment on Backbone Mountain, about one mile west of Bloomington, at one o'clock then overturned several times in its plunge down an eighty-foot slope of the mountain.

Riding with him was John Bosley, also of Bloomington, who suffered severe cuts about his head and bruises to his body. The men were thrown from the truck onto a rock pile as the machine overturned.

The two men were placed in a truck that was following that of Bever's and were taken to the office of Dr. James Wolverton, at Piedmont, who, after giving first aid to Bever, had him removed to the hospital. Bosley, after being treated at the physician's office, returned to his home. He said he believed the steering gear of the truck broke, which caused the accident.

Bever was a son of the late William S. and Sarah Wilson Bever. Surviving are his widow, Mrs. Nellie Rose Bever, formerly of Beryl, W. Va., two sons, James and Daniel, at home; four brothers and six sisters: David W., Hubert, Edward G., Milton M. Bever, of Bloomington; Mrs. Blanche Miller, Keyser; Mrs. Mae Reed, Bloomington; Mrs. Goldie Paugh, Westernport; Mrs. Elsie Howard, Beryl; Mrs. Marian Warnick, Bloomington, and Mrs. Annie Price, Bloomington.

Authorities Seeking To Arrest Persons Involved In Series of Recent Robberies

County and State authorities are endeavoring to discover who has been responsible for a series of robberies which have been perpetrated in the county during the pnst several days, and although a number of people have been questioned no charges have been preferred. Two were brought in for questioning last night.

The home of Alston Evans, at Kitzmiller, was robbed on Sunday, while several days previous to that the property owned by the Owls' Club at the Green Glade inlet on Deep Creek Lake, was broken into and bed clothing and dishes and other household articles carried away. On Monday the cottage of a Mr. George, on the Meadow Mountain arm of the Lake, was boken into.

State's Attorney Fraley stated this morning that arrests may be expected soon.

Mrs. Frank Hansen Painfully Injured Early Friday Morning

Slipping on the wet grass at Camp Minnetoska, west of Oakland, early last Friday morning, Mrs. Frank Hansen fell and broke her leg just above her nnkle. Mrs. Hansen was taken to Hopemont for nn x-ray examination and later to Memorial Hospital, in Cumberland, where the fracture was reduced and where Mrs. Hensen remains as a patient.

"RED" BROWN WINS FROM KEILES IN TENNIS FINAL

Comes To Front After Dropping First Two Sets; Joy Hartman Takes Women's Singles Title

TROPHIES ARE PRESENTED

Robert N. "Red" Brown, of Elkins, West Va., seeded No. 1, captured the men's singles title Saturday in the nineteenth annual Western Maryland Championship tennis tournament at Mountain Lake Park.

After dropping the first two sets of his final match to Alex Keiles, Baltimore, 2-6, 5-7, Brown made a gallant recovery to take the next three sets 6-1, 6-1, 6-2, and the crown. Keiles, making his first appearance in a Moutain Lake tourney, lost his touch in the late sets and dropped many points when his drives hit the net.

Keiles, seeded No. 2, is playing tourney tennis this year for the first time in five years. He was struck by an automoblie the spring of 1934 and injuries to his right leg kept him confined for a year.

Miss Hartman Wins

Miss Joy Hartman, Pittsburgh, playing in her first tournament, annexed the women's singles title with a 6-3, 2-6, 6-4 victory over Miss Grace Parker, Baltimore, seeded No. 1. Miss Frances Grimes, last year's winner, did not participate.

Miss Hartman also shared the mixed doubles crown with her brother Adrian Hartman, by defeating Mr. and Mrs. Herman Goldberg 6-2, 4-6, 6-4.

Keiles and Frank Roberts, Baltimore, defeated John Brown, Pittsburgh, and Elmer Rudy, Baltimore, in the men's doubles final 6-2, 6-3, 6-4. Keiles and Roberts eliminated "Red" Brown and C. A. Hartman in the semi-final round.

Miss Parker and Miss Dolly Harris, Pittsburgh, copped the women's doubles with a 6-3, 6-3 decision over Miss Hartman and Mrs. Goldberg.

Following the singles finals Representative Jennings Randolph, of Elking, W. Va., presented singles trophies to the winners. The doubles play continued until dusk. Two days of rain throughout the week made it necessary to play all finals and one or two semi-finals on Saturday.

About 150 watched the final matches Saturday afternoon. The tournament was sponsored by the Woman's Civic club of the Park. Social events during the week included a reception and dance. About 50 players were entered in the various events and was considered by those in charge to have been a successful tournament.

Bond Weber Puts Last Year's Winner Out of Junior Tennis Tourney

Andrew Smith, Lonneoning, last year's titleholder in the junior tennis tourney at Mountain Lake Park, had his hopes blasted yesterday in opening round matches by Bond Weber, of Oakland, unseeded player, who defeated him 7-5, 6-3.

Jean Weeks, Wheeling, last year's winner in girls' singles, went to the finals yesterday, defeating Cara Weber, Oakland, 6-4, 6-3, and Martha Hankins, Uniontown, 6-1, 6-1.

About thirty-five are entered in the tournament, a number of them local boys and girls, including Bond Weber, Edwin Darby, James Darby, Edward Smouse, Jack Weber, John Grant, Robert Bittle, Harland Bittinger, Condon Browning, Guy Hinebaugh, DeCoursey Bolden and Fred Sharps, boys; Cara Weber, Betsy Weber and Nancy Bolden, girls. Bill Ryan and Forrest Welling are also entered from Mountain Lake Park.

In the boys' quarter finals are Bond Weber, Oakland; John Sincell, Sewickley, Pa.; Ansel Knotts, Morgantown; Ronald Moore, Morgantown. In the lower bracket Hubert Martin, of Morgantown, and Jack Weber, Oakland, met in the semi-finals. Weber defeated Edward Harvey, Cumberland, while Martin seeded No. 2, defeated David Weiss, Cumberland.

Betsy Weber will play Jane Watson, Uniontown, today, nnd the winner will meet Jean Weeks, last year's winner. Boys' and girls' doubles and mixed doubles will be played today and semi-finals events. The finals will be held Friday. The meet is under the direction of Miss Frances Grimes.

Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Gortner, of Grantsville, were Oakland visitors on Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur H. Green of Swanton, spent the greater portion of Monday in Oakland on business.

CAMP MEETING FINALE IS EXPECTED TO DRAW MANY

MANY SONGS ARE LISTED

With the Mountain Top Camp Meeting at the Amphitheatre, Mt. Lake Park, continuing to draw thousands of people to their meetings, a record crowd is predicted for the closing service on Sunday evening, August 21, which will feature the third in a series of musical sermons presented by the Williams Musical Ensemble, of Pittsburgh, under the direction of J. R. MacMurray.

It was estimated that approximately 5,000 people heard the first of this series on Sunday evening. August 7, and about 3,500 on Monday evening, August 15.

The Musical Ensemble is known over the air as the "Radio Sky Pilots," and the musical sermon Sunday is entitled "The Light of the World." Mr. MacMurray, the director, is a graduate of the Findlay Conservatory of Music, Findlay, O., and is a well known cornet player. He will feature his own compositions for cornet and trumpet solos, and his own arrangement of "Master, the Tempest is Raging," with dramatization of water and storm effects.

The song, "Brighten the Corner Where You Are," will be dedicated to Homer Rodeheaver, famed musician who traveled with Billy Sunday.

Mr. MacMurray will open his sermon with a rendition of "Calvary," by Rodney. He will render on his vibra harp "Jesus, Lover of My Soul," with four-part harmony and include a xylophone effect in the song "Love Lifted Me." He will also introduce for the first time at the Mt. Top Camp Meeting his song, "The Wages of Sin Is Death."

Mrs. Angie Mary Williams, author of "O Lamb of God," "A Child of His Care," and numerous other hymns, will be heard in "Look to the Hills With God." Mrs. Williams is a graduate of Warren Conservatory of Music, Warren, Pa., and a student of William Wade Henshaw, of New York City. Mrs. Williams will also sing, "The

COMMITTEES WORKING ON 19TH LABOR DAY PICNIC

Arrangements Made For Many Attractions For Celebration

Committees appointed by the local Knights of Pythias lodge to make arrangements for the nineteenth annual Labor Day picnic at Oakland, are working on their respective assignments and announced at their last weekly meeting that plans were progressing nicely.

There is to be the usual parade of organizations, fire companies, bands and floats at ten o'clock which will officially open the day, and following this there will be band concerts, addresses and a number of shows and rides available.

The picnic will be held on Labor Day—September 5th—with the Keystone Shows and Carnival furnishing the amusements and remaining for several days. The affair will not be held in the Helbig Grove this year, it was announced on Tuesday, but a suitable place will be secured and its location announced early next week.

Lloyd C. Liller is general chairman of the picnic, with others on the committee being Carlton Bowser, Wade H. Mason, Earl Shartzer, Paul Friend, Robert T. Hoffman, A. R. Martin, A. G. Gortner, and Harry Stemple, Jr.

Two Free Acts

It was announced by the management that there will be a free act twice daily by performers formerly with Ringling Brothers circus. There will also be a fireworks display on Monday evening, September 5. An automobile will be given away at the conclusion of the day's program.

The picnic, under the anspices of Garrett Lodge, No. 113, has become well known and usually attracts several thousand people.

Two Garrett County men were named on committees of the Maryland State Firemen's Association by President Karl A. Young. They were Lawrence M. Fraley, Oakland, on the legislative committee, and Henry F. Durst, Grantsville, on the fire service extension booster committee.

PARK ASSOCIATION PROPERTY SOLD AND WILL BE DEVELOPED AS CHARACTER EDUCATION CENTER

New Owners Announce They Propose Self-Help School For Adult Education, and Will Enlarge Summer Program

GOVERNING BOARD OF 14 MEMBERS IS SET UP

Announcement of definite plans to establish a self-help school at Mountain Lake Park, and to enlarge the summer program there by having continuous attractions from May through September, came to the mountain top this week simultaneously with the news that the property of the Mt. Lake Park Association had been sold to the International Character Education Association.

A telegram from the former owners, the Methodist Board of Foreign Missions, was received Monday night from New York accepting the offer of the Education Association, and announcement was made at a meeting of the Mt. Top Camp Meeting, before 3,500 people. Officials would not make public the price, but it was learned through other sources that the cost was in the neighborhood of $30,000.

Purpose Is Adult Education

The new owners have for their purpose adult education and the continuation and extension of the summer program at the Park, and point to the crowds that gathered this year for the Mountain Top Camp Meeting as an indication as to what could be expected for the entire summer next year and future years.

Plans for the purchase of the Park have been in the making for three years and the offer was made to the Foreign Mission Board a year ago. With the announcement of the sale it was stated the new organization would be given a year in which to become fully organized and place the Park on a working basis.

The International Character Education Association is the outgrowth of the educational department of the World's Purity Federation, and has been active for more than five years. It sends out lecturers and literature on character building. Its headquarters have been in Cincinnati, O., but Dr. Dean C. Dutton, member of the Board, announced that Mountain Lake Park would be the headquarters in the near future.

Governing Board Named

A governing board of fourteen has been set up with the following members: Fred R. Barnes, Westernport, president; Earl D. Ford, Cleveland, O., secretary-treasurer; Dr. Dean C. Dutton, Lawrenceville, Ill., acting chancellor; Rev. Dan McNally, Cumberland; Frank E. Baker, Evanston, Ill.; Rev. Paul R. Maness, Corinth, W. Va., Miss Bernice Blythe and Miss Frances Miller, Monongahela City, Pa.; E. Richard Barnes, Elmira, N. Y.; Rev. Frank N. Lynch, Marietta, O.; Howard R. Barnes, Jacksonville, Fla.; James McDonald and Kinsley McDonald, Barton, and M. W. Castle, Charleston, W. Va.

Dr. Dutton explained that the Foreign Mission Board of the Methodist Episcopal Church had planned a school at the Park originally but that the crash of the Centenary Movement twenty years ago had caused the Mission Board a loss of two million dollars, which prevented it from carrying out its promises at Mountain Lake Park. The Board advertised the sale of its property in the Christian Advocate on July 7.

"The new program," Dr. Dutton said, "is such that it picks up where the Mission Board left off, except that we are going to train people in all walks of life and help them to get an education." There is only one other self-help school in the country, nnd that is located in the State of Tennessee. This school nt the Park will be available to any person who wants an education.

"Those who come to this school will support themselves hy industries and working on the Association's farm and about the Park. The school will operate twelve months."

1939 Program Announced

Next year's program schedule was outlined to include all activities of organizations which have been conducting meetings at the Park within the past few years, such as the Choir Festival, the Mission Schhol, etc. The program includes the following:

1. Students' Crusade Congress, May to June 11.
2. Victorious Life Congress, June 12 to June 25.
3. Good Government Chautauqua and Music Choir Festival, June 26 to July 6.
4. Youth Congress, July 10 to July 23.
5. World Fellowship Congress,

COLUMBUS BUTLER LOSES LIFE IN SWAUGER'S DAM

Drowns Tuesday Evening When Inner Tube, As Life Preserver, Slips Away From Him

Columbus Butler, a 20-year-old youth, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alonzo Butler, of the New Germany community, was drowned in Swauger's mill dam, at the abandoned New Germany CCC camp, on Monday evening.

Details are lacking, but it was reported that Butler, who was unable to swim, had an inner automobile tube wrapped about him and that in some way it got away. When news of the drowning reached Meadow Mountain CCC camp, Lieut. Keltz, commanding, dispatched six men to the scene and Paul Whitefield, enrollee from Lonaconing, recovered the body.

Funeral services were conducted on Wednesday afternoon from the New Germany M. E. church. Surviving are his parents and brothers and sisters: Zelda, Ola, Leona, Orval, Raymond, Leonard and Wilbur.

CLOSING DATE OF FILING NEARS; 2 MORE ANNOUNCE

T. C. Bittinger Seeks Treasurership; Chisholm for House

Two more county candidates made their announcements this week as the last day for filing their candidacy in the office of the Supervisors of Elections draws near. Truman C. Bittinger, of near Oakland, is a candidate for the county treasurership position, and Donald L. Chisholm became an aspirant for Member of the House of Delegates. Mr. Chisholm had previously aspired as a member of the Republican County Committee.

The final day for filing for a county political office is Monday, August 22, according to a notice of Frederick A. Thayer, Jr., clerk to the Board of Supervisors of Elections, found in The Republican todny.

Mr. Bittinger's announcement puts four into the race for county treasurer—Lloyd Sisler, Jesse J. Ashby, Jr., and William E. Pew having previously made their announcements.

Mr. Bittinger resides in District No. 7 where he has been engaged in farming for a number of years. He was a former school teacher and in his announcement today he says he is not a member of any clique and will give the people an honest and efficient administration.

With Mr. Chisholm's announcement there will be four candidates for the House, for which three are to be nominated. Mr. Chisholm is from District No. 2 and has been an active party worker in his section of the county ever since becoming of voting age. Other aspirants are Martin L. Groves, Darwin B. Martin and Arthur G. Cullers. Groves and Cullers seek renomination, while Mr. Martin is a new man in the political arena.

Aspirant for Senate

In The Republican columns also will be found the announcement of Hugh Carey McMahon, of near Frostburg, who is a Democratic candidate for State Senator.

Mr. McMahon is a farmer, a World War veteran and was formerly with the Federal Forestry Department.

Mr. McMahon was in the 313th infantry of the army from September 27, 1917, to March 27, 1919, and was overseas from July 8, 1918, to March 21, 1919. He was in engagements in the Avocourt Sector, Meuse-Argonne and Tyron Sector.

By Scoop Himself

He Forgot That!

One of our readers has given us a clipping which is well worth passing on.

Ponder over this:

"He brushed his teeth twice a day with a nationally advertised toothbrush and toothpowder.

"The doctor examined him twice a year.

"He slept with the windows open.

"He stuck to a diet with plenty of fresh vegetables.

"He golfed, but never more than eighteen holes.

"He never smoked, drank or lost his temper.

"He got at least eight hours sleep each night.

"The funeral will be held Friday. He is survived by 18 specialists, five health institutions, six gymnasiums and numerous manufacturers of health foods and antiseptics.

"He forgot about trains at grade crossings and driving his car too fast!"

You've probably seen in the daily papers the WPA story that tops anything you've heard. Richard Lee Malone, of Smithfield, Pa., got on the WPA rolls, somehow, and he was assigned to a road detail. He didn't show up and a letter asked him why. He ignored the letter and then received a notice saying his employment was terminated for "reason unknown." A few days later, he received a WPA check for $6.51 for thirteen hours work, which of course he had never done. Then his family was taken off relief because he was supposed to be supporting them.

Richard was just seven years old.

Garrett County campaigners had better be careful, or a trick that was pulled in Allegany county might be repeated here.

A candidate went to a place the other evening to do a little campaigning at a church event. While there he left his box of cards unguarded and other campaigners inserted many of their cards in his box. He returned shortly afterward and without looking at the cards began passing them out. He was distributing cards for five candidates and only a few of his own. It wasn't long until he learned of his grave error.

There is much peace and contentment about moonlight on rippling water, about glowing embers of a fire on the lake shore. Deep Creeks seems to cast a spell over me every time I go down there. The road to the lake is a trail to a kind of happiness that one doesn't find in town.

The necessity of rushing around seems to vanish when the lake is in sight through the trees.

Another thing that campaigners should note about extemporaneous speeches. An extemporaneous speech is one when the speaker doesn't know what he is going to say before he starts and his audience doesn't know what he has said after he finishes.

* * *

Farmers who are harvesting their wheat are finding that it is something like man. It isn't how tall he is but what he has in his head that counts.

* * *

When you mention mosquitoes and flies this year, just don't holler too loud.

Maybe it's the flood, or maybe there are other reasons, but the mosquitoes and flies seem to be worse this year than before. A real good inspection of ones premises wouldn't do any harm. There may be an old trash pile, tin cans or a swamp area where mosquitoes breed. Any such places discovered should be cleaned up. Mosquitoes especially have no business on the mountain top.

And by the way, if you happen to get in a place and get all bitten up by the pests, I have just been told of a cure which I pass on to you. Capture a live mosquito, take a sharp knife and cut it squarely in half, and place the meat in a frying pan. Pour the juice down the drain pipe, and refrain from scratching the bite for 24 hours.

* * *

The Democratic candidates for state and Federal offices seem to have all gone New Dealish in just one respect. They are swamping this office, and I presume many others, with a lot of so-called news stories and literature about themselves that if used, would require a twenty-page paper weekly. Most of it is going in the wastebasket where all of the New Deal propaganda goes.

* * *

A wedding took place on August 6, on the platform of the amphitheatre, at Mt. Lake Park, during camp meeting. Following the ceremony the wedding march was announced, and the piece selected was "The Fight is On. O Christians."

Where the couple got their license is a mystery, for the records at the Court House do not show their names as applicants either in August or July.

* * *

It is an interesting point to consider what brings crowds together. Last week a beauty contest at the lake drew 7,000 people, and an evangelistic preacher at the Park drew 5000. Just two or three weeks previous a Metropolitan opera star had attracted about 500.

Always do right. This will gratify some people and astonish the rest.

Democratic Candidate For Gubernatorial Honors

WILLIAM S. GORDY, JR.

Sane Reasoning vs. Sound and Fury

In the heat of a big political campaign, men whose mental perspective and keen sense of analysis normally stand out in sharp relief often are figuratively swept off their feet by the bilge of the tumult and the shouting. The real issue of a campaign, the true fitness and the character of those who aspire to public office too frequently are befogged by oratorical sound and fury.

A candidate for Democratic Gubernatorial honors, subject to the primary on September 12th next, who steadfastly has declined to grow excited over the wave of political hysteria with which the air is constantly surcharged, is State Comptroller William S. Gordy, Jr. He has consistly conducted a dignified campaign that will leave no scars of battle after the successful nominee shall have been declared; a campaign that has been predicated entirely on truth as it applies to the immediate interests of his fellow-Marylanders.

Mr. Gordy is a county man known throughout the length and breadth of his native State for his high ideals and his integrity. His broad experience as State Comptroller, as a member of the Board of Public Works, and in the industrial and commercial world eminently fit him for the exacting duties of the high office which he seeks.

Mr. Gordy has never tried to surround himself with a political organization. Rather does he place his faith in the intelligence of the citizenry, its ability in the final analysis to determine what will redound to its best interests and its immediate needs.

One Hundred Fifty Persons Attend Yutzy Family Reunion

One hundred and fifty relatives and friends attended the second reunion of the S. D. Yutzy family, Sunday, at Pocahontas, Pa., near Grantsville.

The officers elected were C. O. Bender, president; D. W. Hershberger, vice-president; Mrs. D. W. Hershberger, secretary, and Mrs. H. H. Spoerlein, treasurer, all of Grantsville.

Five historians were appointed: Mrs. T. B. Miller, Fostoria, O.; W. H. Yutzy, Baltimore; Raymond Yutzy, Cumberland; D. W. Yutzy, Madley, Pa., and Mrs. Frank Engle, Salisbury, Pa. As an entertainment committee—Roy Yutzy, Madley; Bruce Arnold, Berlin; Melvin Yutzy, Pocahontas, and D. W. Hershberger, Grantsville.

The oldest member present was Frank Yutzy, 73, Pocahontas, and the youngest, Jack F. Shaber, four months old, of Berlin, a grandson of the late Mrs. Maggie Yutzy Engle. Shaffer Reunion Scheduled

The fourteenth annual reunion of the descendants of John D. and Catherine E. Shaffer will be held at the John H. Shaffer homestead at Horse Shoe Run, West Va., on Sunday, August 28. All relatives and friends and neighbors are invited. A cornet band has been engaged to furnish the music. Guss Shaffer is president of the organization.

MT. LAKE PARK

The Mountain Top Camp Meeting will close this Sunday. It does not seem possible that the amphitheatre has been filled each night. Certainly if anyone had told us last year that this would be true we should not have believed it. The program on Monday evening, a musical sermon, was a remarkable and splendid piece of work.

Sunday, August 28, there will be another big day for the Park. At that time the Harvest Festival will be celebrated. An excellent program is being arranged.

It is good to know that Mountain Lake Park has fallen into such good hands. But there must be cooperation from all of us and from all reports the people of this community are willing to do all they can to help.

150,000 GROCERS SAY:

"WE BUY DWIN FOR OUR OWN USE"

DWIN is entirely different from old time kerosene sprays to which you have been accustomed in the past. That's why grocers and other food handlers who know insect killers have selected it for their own use. They know it will not injure or contaminate food—or ruin fabrics.

Do as the grocer does — use DWIN. It is unusually effective yet "as fragrant as flowers in May"—therefore, pleasant to use. DWIN kills flies, fleas, ants, moths, roaches, bed bugs, mosquitoes, etc., in your home and many plant insects in your garden. Obtain DWIN—in the green can—at grocer, drug, hardware or department store. Remember there is not a drop of kerosene in DWIN.

STATE IS BEHIND IN ITS DESIRE FOR P.W.A. MONEY

Representatives of the Public Works Administration told Maryland Monday the State was lagging behind in efforts to obtain its share of Federal funds, and painted a picture so dark that delegates to a special PWA "open forum" at College Park opened the question of a special session of the State Legislature. Such a session, is, however, unlikely.

A special session would be necessary if state or state-aided institutions were to obtain any new WPA funds. Approximately 150 State, city and county officials attended the meeting, including Neil C. Fraley, representing the County Commissioners; L. M Fraley, mayor of Oakland; F. E. Rathbun, County Superintendent of Schools, and Walter W. Savage, of Friendsville. member of the School Board.

"We can't push the money down your throats," H. A. Gray, acting PWA administrator stated. "To get, you've got to ask," he asserted, explaining Maryland was one of the several states far below their quota in PWA aid obtained so far. Gray said he would "like to see Maryland ask for $30,000,000 more." Incorporated towns however, have no power to borrow or float bond issues without legislative action.

Applications for aid must he filed by September 30, and construction on projects must begin by January 1, 1939. Projects less than $15,000 will not be considered.

H. S. Shryock, project engineer for the PWA in Baltimore, issued a summary showing that under the new Federal "lend-spend" program Maryland had submitted approximately $50,000,000 worth of projects with $42,277,272 worth yet to be acted upon by Washington.

STATE DEFICIT IS NOW $857,861, GORDY SHOWS

Comptroller Reports on Period of Ten Months; 5 Agencies Are Overdrawn

Maryland finished the first ten months of its fiscal year with a deficiency of $857,861 in its general funds and a balance of $2,245,248 in special funds, Comptroller Wm. S. Gorday reported.

The report, covering the period from October 1, 1937, to July 31, 1938, showed five state departments and agencies had overdrawn their appropriations.

The state game department was in the red $8,428, having received $77,023 and spent $85,452. One of the main sources of revenue of the department is the sale of hunting licenses, and the hulk of the income does not develop until late summer and early fall.

The fund given the Maryland penitentiary to provide for machinery to put convicts to work was overdrawn $12,459, the state having spent $186,489. This department had to put out money for equipment, some of which has not yet given sufficient return to defray its cost.

Payments to the counties of $15,125 for their share of license fees paid by liquor retailers were $2,854 greater than the amount received from licenses. The $3,198 given the State Racing Commission for the aid of the Agricultural Fair Association was $861 more than the state received for this fund. All the income from racing fees has been received.

The Maryland Racing Commission has been given $18,972, a sum of $3,098 more than the amount received for it.

Gasoline taxes were the state's largest single source of revenue during the period, bringing in $8,079,806. Next were the relief taxes with a yield of $5,265,497. Federal trust funds, mostly for federal aid to road construction, and motor vehicle revenue were both above $4,000,000.

(Avertisement)

TO THE TAXPAYERS OF THE COUNTY

On several occasions we have been compelled to make public answers to false and reckless statements made by Senator Clifford Friend concerning some of the affairs of our office and we have been inclined to more or less ignore the many unfair and distorted statements made by this man recently, but his attack on us, in what he is pleased to call his "newspaper" concerning a trip that was made to the Eastern Shore to attend a meeting of the County Commissioners Association, is so misleading and untrue that we feel called upon again to give the public the truth about this matter.

The facts are very simple. The County Commissioners of the different counties of the State have an organization known as the County Commissioners Association. The purpose of this Association was to give the County Commissioners of the different counties an opportunity to meet at certain intervals to discuss mutual problems confronting them and to assist each other in questions confronting them at various times.

Prior to the last regular session of the Legislature the question of the lateral roads was being widely discussed in the State and it seemed to be the sentiment of the majority of the Boards that the lateral roads should be returned to the County Commissioners for supervision and that part of the gasoline tax be allocated to the counties for the purpose of keeping up these roads. There was a division of opinion as to the basis on which the gasoline tax funds should be distributed to the different counties and we were informed that at this meeting of the Association there would be a committee appointed to prepare a bill for submission to the Legislature concerning this question. We were also informed that the question as to whether the gasoline tax would be distributed on a basis of road mileage, as at present, or whether it would be distributed on a basis of population, would come up for discussion. This matter was, of course, very important to Garrett County, because if the county roads were turned back to the counties and the gasoline tax distributed on a basis of population, this county would lose by the change some $20,000.00. It was the unanimous opinion of the Board that it was very important that a full delegation from Garrett County should attend. Invitations had been extended to the Senator from each of the counties as well as the members of the House of Delegates and we were asked to have these officials attend as well. The Attorney to the Board, who was a member of the Legislative Committee of this Association, was also requested to be present. Senator Friend knew all about this meeting. In fact, he called at our office and discussed the matter with us and was in thorough accord with our ideas pertaining to the proposed bill and urged that a full delegation attend, and he stated to us that he expected to attend and would join us there.

Another question that was to be raised was the question of a general re-assessment of property for taxation purposes, and we were requested to have present our County Supervisor of Assessments as the Chief Supervisor of Assessments from the State Tax Commission had arranged to be present.

Senator Friend's statement that he doubted if he would have attended if he had not received an invitation from a fellow senator is absolutely false, because as we have stated above, he not only conferred with us about the meeting but urged us to attend it and the inference now that it was a purely pleasure trip is certainly unfair to say the least and is an indication of the total lack of sincerity of this man. We attended this meeting because we felt it was highly important to the taxpayers of Garrett County that we have a voice in the preparation of this important bill, and we do not believe that the taxpayers and citizens of this county would have felt that we were performing the duties of our office had we neglected and failed to look after the county's interests. The inference that this was a purely pleasure trip because we remained a day after the meeting and fished at the taxpayers' expense is absolutely false. We did stay over for a day but the expense incident to our staying there was borne equally out of our own pockets and certainly was not paid out of county funds.

Senator Friend in the same issue of his "newspaper" also criticizes the Board for other trips that have been made in the interest of the county's affairs. We have made a number of trips on the business of the county, conferring with the State Roads Commission and other bodies, but we have never made any trips at the county's expense that we did not feel it was to the best interests of the county that we do so and that we were performing our duties as County Commissioners in so doing. These trips have been made without compensation for our loss of time from our private affairs, and we do not believe that the people of the county would expect their Commissioners to hitch-hike to Baltimore for the sake of saving a few pennies, as Senator Friend seems to think we should do.

This man has been such a failure as a Senator that he makes no pretense whatever of asking the people to re-elect him to the Senate on the strength of his own record. His campaign has been conducted solely on the idea of smearing somebody. If the people will remember, four years ago he conducted a similiar campaign, the difference being that at that time his attacks were directed at others and promises were made by him then to do certain things if elected which he has failed to do and naturally his attack in this campaign must be directed at someone else. He probably realizes that the people of the county are thoroughly disgusted with his unjustified and unwarranted attacks and that there is little or no hope of his re-nomination and re-election and he is determined to try to bring about the defeat of those he has seen fit to direct his attack in this campaign.

Senator Friend's dislike for us grows out of a very trivial matter. Some months ago he presented to us a bill for some of his sheep that he claimed had been killed by dogs, and when we agreed to pay him at the same rate that we had paid other people who had had their sheep killed he demanded a considerable higher sum per head and when we refused to pay him any more than we would give any other taxpayer, he became much incensed and has done everything in his power to discredit us ever since. Again when he started to publish his "newspaper" he wanted us, in disregard of the law, to publish the County's Annual Statement in his paper admittedly for the purpose of helping him to defray the cost of his "newspaper" and when we told him that we would comply with the law he again became very much incensed and seems to have selected us as his victims of attack. At some time or other this man has attacked nearly every public official of the county and we feel that the time has come to disclose to the people his lack of sincerity of pretending to have the interests of the tax payers so much at heart.

Space does not permit a further answer in this issue of some of the charges that he has made against us but they will be fully answered in later issues of this paper.

Mr. Giessman, a fellow member of our Board, has seen fit in his effort to be re-nominated to join with Senator Friend in attacks on us and in a later statement we propose to inform the public something of his record and something of the reason why he sees fit to criticize our actions.

Since Senator Friend has been so free to make charges against us in the interest of the tax payers, and has attempted to create in the minds of the people the thought that we were loose spenders of the public monies, we would like to ask Senator Friend to publicly make some explanation of the following items:

On page 47 of the report of the Comptroller of the Treasury of Maryland for the fiscal year, 1937, it is stated that Nellie K. Friend received as a stenographer at the regular session of the Legislature the sum of $305. On page 48 of the same report there is an item of $370 paid to Arthur H. Green, clerk

Will Senator Friend state what relation, if any, he is to Nellie K. Friend?

Is Nellie K. Friend a stenographer? If so, to whom did she render stenographic services justifying her to receive the above sum of money? If she is not a stenographer, will Senator Friend please state why she received this money as such?

Will Senator Friend please state how many days Nellie K. Friend was on duty at Annapolis during the regular session of 1937?

Will Senator Friend explain what duties Mr. Arthur H. Green performed at Annapolis during the regular session of 1937 to justify his receiving $370 of the tax payers' money?

Will Senator Friend or Mr. Green, or both, make a public statement as to how many days Mr. Green actually was on duty at Annapolis during the 1937 session?

On page 44 of the Comptroller's report for the fiscal year 1936, it is reported that Nellie K. Friend, stenographer, received $150.00. Will Senator Friend please state what stenographic services were rendered in 1936 to justify receiving this amount of the tax payers' money and will he state how many days Nellie K. Friend was on duty at Annapolis during the special session of the Legislature in 1936?

Golf Course More Than Paying Interest On Investment

A report of all expenditures and receipts of the Oakland municipal golf course shows that the project is more than paying six percent on the investment.

The report was made public by J. Frank Browning, city clerk, and showed total expenditures by the town of $4,816.67. Six percent interest on this amount for a year would be $289.00 but already there has been collected $419.70 up to and including Sunday, August 14. The course was not officially opened until July 17, and has been in operation about one month. Last week's figures totaled more than $80.00.

From these figures it is assumed that the course will eventually be a paying proposition for the town of Oakland, if it continues to be run on a business basis.

The course was completed through WPA labor and expenditure of about $10,000 in Federal funds.

No. 3479 Equity. In the Circuit Court for Garrett County, Maryland.

The object of this bill is to have the Court construe the meaning of the Last Will and Testament of Martin Filsinger, Deceased.

The bill states:

FIRST:—That Martin Filsinger, late of Garrett County, Maryland, deceased, died on the 19th day of May, 1919, leaving a Last Will and Testament duly executed to pass real estate.

SECOND:—That on the same day of the execution of the Last Will and Testament by the said Martin Filsinger, his wife, Catharine Filsinger, executed a Last Will and Testament and the said Catharine Filsinger died on the 1st day of January, 1923.

THIRD:—Both of said wills above referred to were duly admitted to probate by the Orphans' Court for Garrett County, Maryland, and your orator, Philip Filsinger, qualified as Executor in said Court and filed an accounting as such Executor with the said Court.

FOURTH:—That at the time of the death of the said Martin Filsinger he was seized and possessed of a tract of land containing approximately 76 acres, being the residue of the tract of land acquired by the said Martin Filsinger from Henry G. Davis and Kate A. Davis, his wife, by deed dated October 12, 1901, and recorded in Liber E. Z. T., No. 40, folio 256, one of the Land Records of Garrett County, Maryland.

FIFTH:—That the said Martin Filsinger departed this life on the 19th day of May, 1919, testate, leaving surviving him as his heirs at law and next of kin Philip Filsinger, a son, who married Mary J. Filsinger; Herman Filsinger ,a son, who departed this life intestate, leaving surviving him as his heirs at law and next of kin the following named children: Sophie Campbell, married to Owen Campbell; Cora Tippen, married to James Tippen; Emma Jennings, married to Fred Jennings; Conrad Filsinger, siugle; George Filsinger, married to Stella Filsinger; Albert Filsinger, single; Herman Filsinger, married to Gladys Filsinger; William Filsinger, married to Winona Filsinger; Pearl Condry, married to Joseph Condry; Nellie Weisenberne, married to Joseph Weisenborne, and Esther Filsinger, an infant under the age of twenty-one years; Adolph Filsinger, a son, who departed this life intestate, leaving surviving him as his heirs at law and next of kin, his widow, Elizabeth Filsinger, and the following named children: Carl Filsinger, married to Catherine Filsinger; Gilbert Filsinger, married to Helen Filsinger; Harry Filsinger, single; Adolph Filsinger, married to Alice Filsinger; Mary Oremusz, married to John Oremusz; Elizabeth Mascheim, married to Alfred Mascheim; Pauline Maus, married to John Maus, and Emma Weisenborne, married to Elmer Weisenborne; Ida Linenbogger, a daughter, who departed this life intestate, leaving surviving her as her heirs at law and next of kin the following named children: Irene Shepard, married to James Shepard; Emma Green, married to Emmet Green; Marie Linenbogger, single; Adolph Linenbogger, married to ——— Linenbogger; William Linenbogger, married to Eva Linenbogger; Arthur Linenbogger, married to Mary Linenbogger; Owen Linenbogger, siugle; Herman Linenbogger Wilson, married to ——— Linenbogger Wilson; Emma Brant, a daughter, who departed this life leaving surviving her her husband, Gilbert Brant, and the following named children: Verona Decker, Pauline Bloom, Elwood Brant, married to ——— Brant; Clayton Brant, married to ——— Brant; Gilbert Brant, married to — Brant; Lily Wise; Otto Filsinger, a son, who departed this life leaving surviving him as his heirs at law and next of kin, his widow, Pearl Filsinger, now married to William Durst, and the following named children: Paul O. SIXTH:—That your orator, Philip Filsinger, having been advised that under proper construction of the Last Will and Testament of his said father, Martin Filsinger, he acquired title to the real estate above referred to and on February 26, 1927, he and his wife, Mary J. Filsinger, executed a mortgage in the sum of $4500.00 to the Garrett National Bank of Oakland, Maryland, a corporation.

SEVENTH:—That the said Garrett National Bank of Oakland, Maryland, a corporatiou, is now in receivership and the said John H. Hoffman is Receiver for the said corporation.

EIGHTH:—That it is contended by the said Philip Filsinger that according to the true construction of the Will of the said Martin Filsinger that it was plainly his intention and desire that all of his estate, both real and personal, should go to him after the payment of certain specific bequests as set out in the said Will, and that it was plainly the intention of Martin Filsinger and Catharine Filsinger, his wife, the father and mother of your orator, Philip Filsinger, that any estate owned by them at the time of their death, should go to the said Philip Filsinger, absolutely.

NINTH:—That your orator, Philip Filsinger, acquired title to the real estate owned by the said Martin Filsinger at the time of his death, and has continuously occupied the said property since that time without any question being raised by any of the heirs at law of the said Martin Filsinger and Catharine Filsinger, his wife, and since their death he has expended large sums of money in improving said property. That the said Philip Filsinger a short time ago applied to the Federal Government for a Farm Loan and upon an investigation of the title to said property by the local attorney for the Farm Loan he was advised by said attorney that there was a slight question as to his valid title to said property. Your orator has been advised by his counsel that it would be necessary to have the Court construe the Will of the said Martin Filsinger for the purpose of removing any question as to the validity of his title to said property.

The bill prays that the Court may take jurisdiction in the premises and construe the meaning of the Last Will and Testament of the said Martin Filsinger as to his intention of the disposition of his real estate remaining in his name at the time of his death. For general relief, for the writ of subpoena against the resident defendants, Conrad Filsinger, George Filsinger and Stella Filsinger, his wife; Albert Filsinger, Herman Filsinger and Gladys Filsinger, his wife; William Filsinger and Winona Filsinger, his wife; Pearl Condry and Joseph Condry, her husband; Nellie Weisenborne and Joseph Weisenborne, her husband; Ester Filsinger, Elizabeth Filsinger, Carl Filsinger and Catherine Filsinger, his wife; Gilbert Filsinger and Helen Filsinger, his wife; Harry Filsinger, William Linenbogger and Eva Linenbogger, his wife; Arthur Linenbogger and Mary Linenbogger, his wife; Owen Linenbogger, Herman Linenbogger Wilson and ——— Linenbogger Wilson, his wife; Tillie Logsdon, Elwood Brant and ——— Brant, his wife; Pauline Bloom, Gilbert Brant and ——— Brant, his wife; Lily Wise, Pearl Durst and William Durst, her husband; Paul O. Filsinger and ——— Filsinger, his wife; Catherine Filsinger, Edward Filsinger and John H. Hoffman, Receiver for The Garrett National Bank of Oakland, Maryland, and the order of publication against the non-resident defendants, Sophie Campbell and Owen Campbell, her husband; Cora Tippen and James Tippen, her husband; Emma Jennings and Fred Jennings, her husband; Adolph Filsinger and Alice Filsinger, his wife; Mary Oremusz and John Oremusz, her husband; Elizabeth Mascheim and Alfred Mascheim, her husband; Pauline Maus and John Maus, her husband; Emma Weisenborne and Elmer Weisenborne, her husband; Irene Shepard and James Shepard, her husband; Emma Green and Emmett Green, her husband; Marie Linenbogger, Adolpa Linenbogger and ——— Linenbogger, his wife; Mary Mills, Gilbert Brant, Verona Decker, Clayton Brant and ——— Brant, his wife; Marie Nicklow and Clark Nicklow, her husband.

WHEREAS, at the January session of the General Assembly of Maryland, held in the year 1935, an Act was passed, to-wit: Chapter 463 proposing an amendment to repeal Section 36 of Article 3 of the Constitution of the State of Maryland, title "Legislative Department", said section prohibiting the General Assembly from authorizing a lottery, and providing for the submission of said amendment to the qualified voters of the State of Maryland for adoption or rejection; and

WHEREAS, at the January session of the General Assembly of Maryland, held in the year 1937, an Act was passed, to-wit: Chapter 191 proposing to amend Section 21 of Article 4, title "Judiciary Department", sub-title "Part III—Circuit Courts", of the Constitution of this State, to provide an additional judge in the Second Circuit and to provide for the submission of said amendment to the qualified voters of this State for adoption or rejection; and

WHEREAS, at the January session of the General Assembly of Maryland, held in the year 1937, an Act was passed, to-wit: Chapter 525 proposing an amendment to Article 15 of the Declaration of Rights of the Constitution of the State of Maryland, authorizing the General Assembly to impose taxes on incomes, and providing for the submission of said amendment to the qualified voters of the State of Maryland for adoption or rejection; in words and figures as follows:

AN ACT to propose an amendment to repeal Section 36 of Article 3 of the Constitution of the State of Maryland, title "Legislative Department," said section prohibiting the General Assembly from authorizing a lottery, and providing for the submission of said amendment to the qualified voters of the State of Maryland for adoption or rejection.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the General Assembly of Maryland (three-fifths of all the members of each of the two Houses concurring), That Section 36 of Article 3 of the Constitution of the State of Maryland, title "Legislative Department," prohibiting the General Assembly from authorizing lottery grants, be and it is hereby repealed if adopted by the legally qualified voters of the State, as herein provided.

Sec. 2. And be it further enacted, That the aforegoing amendment to the Constitution of the State of Maryland shall, at the next ensuing general election for members of the General Assembly of Maryland, be submitted to the legal and qualified voters of the State for their adoption or rejection, in pursuance of the directions contained in Article 14 of the Constitution of the State of Maryland, and at the said general election the vote on the said proposed amendment to the Constitution shall be by ballot, and upon each ballot there shall be printed the words: "For Constitutional Amendment" and "Against Constitutional Amendment," as now provided by law, and immediately after said election due returns shall be made to the Governor of the vote for and against proposed amendment, as directed by said Fourteenth Article of the Constitution, and further proceedings had in accordance with said Article 14.

AN ACT to amend Section 21 of Article 4, title "Judiciary Department," sub-title "Part III Circuit Courts", of the Constitution of this State to provide an additional judge in the Second Circuit and to provide for the submission of said amendment to the qualified voters of this State for adoption or rejection.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the General Assembly of Maryland (three-fifths of all of the members elected to each of the two Houses concurring), That the following section be and the same is hereby proposed as an amendment to Section 21 of Article 4, title "Judiciary Department", sub-title "Part III Circuit Courts" of the Constitution of the State, and if adopted by the legal and qualified voters thereof as herein provided, it shall supersede and stand in the place and stead of Section 21 of said Article 4.

21. For each of the said circuits, excepting the eighth, the second, the third and the sixth, there shall be a chief judge and two associate judges, to be styled judges of the Circuit Court, to be selected or appointed as herein provided, and for the second circuit, the third circuit and the sixth circuit there shall be a chief judge and three associate judges to be styled judges of the Circuit Court, to be elected or appointed as herein provided. And no two of said associate judges, for any of the said circuits, except the third and sixth circuits shall, at the time of their election or appointment or during the term for which they may have been elected or appointed, reside in the same county. If two or more persons shall be candidates for associate judge in the same county in any of the circuits, except the third and sixth circuits, that one only in said county shall be declared elected who has the highest number of votes in the circuit. In case any two candidates for associate judge in any of the circuits, except the third and sixth circuits, residing in the same county shall have an equal number of votes greater than any other candidates for associate judge in the circuit, it shall be the duty of the Governor to order a new election for one associate judge; but the person residing in any other county of the circuit and who has the highest number of votes shall be declared elected. The said judges shall hold not less than two terms of the Circuit Court in each of the counties composing their respective circuits, at such times as are now or may hereafter be prescribed to which jurors shall be summoned; and in those counties where only two such terms are held, two other and intermediate terms, to which jurors shall not be summoned; they may alter or fix the times for holding any or all terms, until otherwise prescribed, and shall adopt rules to the end that all business not requiring the interposition of the jury shall be, as far as practicable, disposed of at said intermediate terms. One judge in each of the above circuits, including the second, the third and sixth circuits, shall constitute a quorum for the transaction of any business; and the said judges or any of them may hold special terms of their courts, whenever in their discretion the business of the several counties renders such terms necessary. The additional associate judge for the third circuit elected in accordance with the terms of the Constitutional Amendment heretofore submitted and adopted shall be subject to the same constitutional provisions, hold his office for the same term of years, receive the same compensation and have the same powers as are herein provided for the other associate judges in the third circuit.

The additional associate judge for the second circuit herein provided for shall be a resident of Cecil County, shall be appointed by the Governor after the expiration of six (6) months after the adoption of this amendment and shall serve until the first general election for members of the General Assembly that shall be held in said circuit subsequent to the adoption of this amendment, at which election his successor shall be elected by the qualified voters of Caroline, Cecil, Kent, Queen Anne's and Talbot counties, constituting the second circuit. The judge so appointed shall be subject to the same constitutional provisions, receive the same compensation and have the same powers as are herein provided for the other associate judges in the second circuit, and the judge so elected shall be subject to the same constitutional provision, hold his office for the same term of years, receive the same compensation, and have the same powers as are herein provided for the other associate judges in the second circuit.

The additional judge for the sixth circuit herein provided for and elected by the qualified voters of Frederick and Montgomery Counties at the 1938 election in accordance with the terms of the Constitutional Amendment heretofore submitted and adopted shall be subject to the same constitutional provisions, receive the same compensation and have the same powers as are herein provided for the other associate judges in the sixth circuit and his successor shall be appointed and/or elected in accordance with the constitutional provisions relating to judges. The Chief Judge may be elected from either Frederick or Montgomery Counties, but when the Chief Judge is elected from Frederick County one of the associate judges shall be a resident of said county and the two remaining associate judges shall be residents of Montgomery County and when the Chief Judge is elected from Montgomery County one of the associate judges shall be a resident of said Montgomery County and the remaining two associate judges residents of Frederick County. In case any candidate or candidates for associate judge at any judicial election held in the sixth judicial circuit shall receive sufficient votes to cause such candidate or candidates to be declared elected, but the election of such candidate or candidates would cause more associate judges than herein permitted to reside in any county of said circuit, then and in that event only that candidate or those candidates, as the case may be, residing in said county in the order of the votes received shall be declared elected whose election would provide the permitted number of associate judges from said county and the candidate or candidates as the case may be, residing in the other county, and not similarly disqualified, who shall have the next highest number of votes in said election shall be declared elected. If, by reason of such condition or by reason of an equal vote for two or more candidates a sufficient number of associate judges duly qualified as to residence as above set out should not be elected at any election in said sixth judicial circuit, then it shall be the duty of the Governor to order a new election for such unfilled office or offices.

Sec. 2. And be it further enacted, That the aforegoing section hereby proposed as an amendment to the Constitution of this State shall be, at the next general election to be held in this State in the year 1938, submitted to the legal and qualified voters thereof for their adoption or rejection in pursuance of directions contained in Article 14 of the Constitution of this State, and at the said general election, the vote on the said proposed amendment shall be by ballot, and upon each ballot there shall be printed the words "For the Constitutional Amendment" and "Against the Constitutional Amendment," as now prescribed by law, and immediately after said election due returns shall be made to the Governor of the vote for and against said proposed amendment as directed by said Article 14 of the Constitution.

Approved: May 18, 1937.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the General Assembly of Maryland (three-fifths of all the members of each of the two Houses concurring), That the following amendment be and the same is hereby proposed to Article 15 of the Declaration of Rights of the Constitution of the State of Maryland, the same, if adopted by the legal and qualified voters of the State, as herein provided, to become Article 15 of the Declaration of Rights of the Constitution of the State of Maryland.

Art. 15. That the levying of taxes by the poll is grievous and oppressive and ought to be prohibited; that paupers ought not to be assessed for the support of the government; that the General Assembly shall, by uniform rules, provide for separate assessment of land and classification and sub-classification of improvements on land and personal property, as it may deem proper; and all taxes thereafter provided to be levied by the State for the support of the general State Government, and by the counties and by the City of Baltimore for their respective purposes, shall be uniform as to land within the taxing district, and uniform within the class or sub-class of improvements on land and personal property which the respective taxing powers may have directed to be subjected to the tax levy; yet fines, duties or taxes may properly and justly be imposed, or laid with a political view for the good government and benefit of the community. Taxes may be imposed on incomes, which may be classified, graduated and progressive and the exemption of a reasonable amount of income from taxation may be provided and such taxes may be in lieu of taxes on any class or classes of real or personal property as the General Assembly may determine.

Sec. 2. And be it further enacted, That the aforegoing amendment to the Declaration of Rights of the Constitution of the State of Maryland shall, at the election to be held in November, 1938, be submitted to the legal and qualified voters of the State for their adoption or rejection, in pursuance of the directions contained in Article 14 of the Constitution of the State of Maryland, and at the said general election the vote on the said proposed amendment to the Constitution shall be by ballot, upon each ballot there shall be printed the words: "For Constitutional Amendment" and "Against Constitutional Amendment," as now provided by law, and immediately after said election due returns shall be made to the Governor of the vote for and against proposed amendment, as directed by said Fourteenth Article of the Constitution, and further proceedings had in accordance with said Article 14.

Approved: May 18, 1937.

10A. All advertising by dentists is prohibited by this Act except the following:

(a) A dentist may use a personal professional card of not more than 3 1-2 inches by 2 inches, upon which may be printed only his name, title, address, telephone number and office hours. Such card may be printed in newspapers or publications of this State, and that which is set forth on the card may be announced over the radio. Not more than one card shall be in any edition of any newspaper or publication at one time; not more than two radio announcements shall be made in any one twenty-four hour period.

(e) Notices may be mailed to the general public by any dentist who is about to begin the practice of dentistry notifying the public of this fact. Such notice shall not be more than 3 1-2 inches by 2 inches and may only contain the name, title, address, telephone number, and office hours of such dentist. Such notice may be printed in any newspaper or publication. Not more than one notice shall be in any edition of any newspaper or publication at one time.

This Section is severable, and if this Section is declared unconstitutional, the decision so holding the same shall not be construed as impairing any other provision of this act. It is hereby declared as a legislative intent that this Act would have been adopted had this provision not been included therein.

11. In the event the license of any dentist is revoked or suspended, such fact shall be noted by the Board upon the record of registration, and the registration and certificate of the practitioner so offending shall be suspended or revoked as the case may be; and any person whose registration has been so suspended or revoked under the provisions of this Section shall be deemed an unregistered person and subject, as such, to the penalties prescribed for the practice of dentistry by persons that are not duly registered.

Every licensee whose license has been suspended or revoked by the Board may appeal to the Baltimore City Court of Baltimore City or the Circuit Court of the County wherein the licensee has his or her office where the matter shall be heard de novo, and where either party shall be entitled to a jury trial. The decision of the said Court shall be final and such appeal shall operate as a stay of the order or decision of the Board from which the appeal was taken. All appeals must be taken within fifteen (15) days from the date of the decision of the Board. All costs on appeal shall be paid by the losing party.

12. The proceedings to revoke or suspend any license under Section 10 of this Act may only be taken by the Board upon the complaint of another. All complaints must be in writing, verified by some person familiar with the facts therein charged, and two copies thereof must be filed with the secretary of the Board. All complaints must contain the request that the Board take action against the offender. Upon receiving any complaint the Board shall, if it deems the complaint sufficient following an investigation, pass an order setting the same for a hearing at a specified time and place, and the secretary shall cause a copy of the order and of the complaint, or of a complaint drawn by the Board, to be served upon the accused at least ten days before the day appointed in the order for said hearing. Service upon the accused shall be by delivery of a copy of the order and complaint to the accused in person. In the event the Board is unable to serve the accused in person, the service shall be had by delivery of the same to his last known residence and last known business address, or by sending a copy of the same by registered mail to the accused at his last known residence and last known business address, any of which means shall constitute sufficient notice to justify proceedings with a hearing of the charge. The accused must appear at the time appointed in the order and answer the charges and make his defense to the same, unless for sufficient cause the Board may assign another day for the purpose. If the accused does not appear the Board may proceed with the hearing and finally determine the accusation or complaint in the absence of the accused. If the accused pleads guilty, or refuses to answer the charges or upon a hearing thereof the Board shall find said charges or any of them true, the Board may proceed to suspend or revoke the license of the accused for such length of time as the Board, in its discretion, shall deem proper. The Board and the accused may have the benefit of counsel. The Board shall have the power to administer oaths, take the depositions of witnesses in the manner provided by law in civil cases, and to compel the attendance of witnesses by subpoena issued over the signature of the secretary of the Board. The Board shall issue for any and all witnesses requested in writing by the accused.

Whenever any person subpoenaed to appear and give testimony shall refuse to appear or testify before said Board, or to answer any pertinent, relative or proper question, he shall be deemed in contempt of said Board, and it shall be the duty of the presiding officer of said Board to report the fact to the Superior Court of Baltimore City in the event the party guilty of contempt resides in said City, or has a place of business in said City or to the Judge of the Circuit Court of the County wherein the party guilty of said contempt resides; thereupon the Court shall issue an attachment in the usual form, directed to the Sheriff of the City or County commanding said Sheriff to attach said person and forthwith bring him before the Court. On the return of said attachment and the production of the person attached, the Court shall have jurisdiction of the contempt, and the person charged may purge himself of the contempt in the same way, and the same proceedings shall be had, and the same penalties may be imposed, and the same punishment may be inflicted as in the case of a witness subpoenaed to appear and give evidence in the trial of a civil cause. The Board shall have the power in its discretion, to authorize the payment of fees and traveling expenses of witnesses called before the Board and examined in any proceeding properly before the Board.

13. All signs prohibited by this Act shall be removed within three months after the passage of this Act. Any person or persons who shall prohibit, neglect, fail or refuse to remove any sign prohibited by this Act is guilty of a violation of this Act and subject to the penalties thereof.

14. Each person holding a license under this Act shall exhibit on the door or the wall of the building wherein he shall practice dentistry, not more than two signs on which shall be placed the name and title or degree of such person, the letters of which shall not exceed three inches square. Any person practicing dentistry in any building may exhibit such sign on the door of his office in addition to those on the door or wall of such building.

15. Any person shall be deemed to be practicing dentistry, within the meaning of this Act, (a) who is a manager, proprietor, or conductor of, or an operator in, any place in which any dental service or any dental operation is performed within the mouth of any person; or (b) who for a fee, salary, or other remuneration or reward, paid or to be paid to himself or to another, or gratuitously or otherwise, performs any such service or operation; or (c) who diagnoses or treats, or attempts to diagnose or treat, any disease, lesion, malocclusion, or malposition of a tooth, gum or jaw, in any person, mechanically, medicinally, by use of x-ray, or otherwise; or (d) who attempts to perform in the mouth of any person any operation incident to the repair or replacement of a tooth or teeth; or (e) who publicly or privately applies to himself the title "Dentist" or "Dental Surgeon" or uses the letters D.D.S. or D.M.D., or any other title or letters in connection with his name which, in any way, represent him as being competent or ready to perform any dental service or any dental operation in any human mouth. This sub-section shall have no application to any person who is the holder of a dental degree who does not either directly or indirectly, practice, or attempt to practice, dentistry as hereinbefore set forth in this Section 15.

16. Nothing in this Act shall apply to a bona fide student of dentistry in the clinic rooms of a reputable dental college; to a legally qualified physician or surgeon unless he practices dentistry as a specialty; to a dental surgeon of the United States Army, Navy, Public Health Service or Veterans Bureau, in the discharge of his official duties; nor to a lawful practitioner of dentistry of another State, territory or foreign country making a clinical demonstration before a dental society, dental convention, association of dentists, or dental college, or in performing professional duties in connection with a specific case on which he may have been called to the State of Maryland. Nothing in this Article shall apply to public school clinics, to state institutions, to eleemosynary institutions, or to business corporations which may maintain clinics for pupils, inmates or employees only which shall employ only legally qualified dentists. No such public school clinic, State institution, eleemosynary institution, or business corporation shall advertise in any manner or by any method, either directly or indirectly, anything relative to the practice of dentistry. Such institutions are prohibited not only from advertising in violation of this act but are prohibited from advertising in any manner anything relative to the practice of dentistry.

Nothing in this Article shall prohibit the Dental Division of the State Department of Health, or the Director of the Public School Clinics of the City Health Department from broadcasting educational programs over the radio.

17. All persons now authorized to practice dentistry in this State, and those who may be hereafter registered under the provisions of this Article, shall be exempt from service as jurors in any of the Courts of this State, during the continuance of the practice of their profession.

18. The Board shall always be designated as the "State Board of Dental Examiners", and under this name it shall have the right to sue or be sued in the Courts of this State.

19. Any person who shall practice, or attempt to practice dentistry within the State of Maryland, without having a license as herein before provided or during the period of suspension or revocation of such license previously granted shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction thereof shall be fined not less than fifty dollars nor more than three hundred dollars, or be confined not more than six months in jail, in the discretion of the Judge or Judges of the Circuit Court of the respective counties of this State or the Judge or Judges of the Criminal Court of Baltimore City, before whom the matter shall be tried; and upon conviction of a subsequent offense, shall be confined not more than six months in jail or fined not less than three hundred dollars or more than five hundred dollars. Any violation of this Article by a person convicted under the then existing laws of this State of practicing dentistry without a license or registration shall be included in the term subsequent offense. Every conviction of unlawful practice subsequent to a first conviction thereof shall be a conviction of a subsequent offense.

20. It shall be the duty of the State's Attorney of the City of Baltimore or of the various counties of this State to prosecute any resident of the City of Baltimore or of the Counties of this State for a violation of this law. The Attorney General or one of his Assistants shall be the legal adviser of the Board.

21. CONSTITUTIONAL CONSTRUCTION The provisions of this Act are severable, and if any of its provisions are declared unconstitutional, the decision so holding shall not be construed as impairing any other provision of this Act. It is hereby declared as the legislative intent that this Act would have been adopted had such unconstitutional provisions not been included therein.

22 Nothing contained in this Article shall prevent, or be construed as in any way to hinder the prosecution, conviction or punishment of any person who may offend against any of the provisions of Chapter 561 of the Acts of the General Assembly of Maryland of 1933.

Sec. 2. And be it further enacted, That this Act shall take effect on June 1st, 1937.

6. Old Time Camp Meeting and Evangelistic Institute, August 7 to August 20.

7. Harvest Home Festival and Mothers' Congress, August 21 to September 23.

By special action of the Board the organization plans to invite institutes, denominational conferences and many other groups to hold their meetings at the Park.

Dr. Dutton, acting Chancellor, was formerly with the Redpath Chautauqua and was with the University of Oklahoma for seven years as head of the Young People's Promotion work. He has been with the International Character Education Association for five years and has spoken in Garrett county upon several occasions—at the Methodist church in Oakland, before the Oakland Rotary Club and other gatherings. Judge Fred. G. Bale, of Chicago, who spoke in Oakland last year, is also a member of the association.

Sets Minds At Rest

The announcement of the sale of the property of the Mountain Lake Park Association to the new owners, has set at ease the minds of many residents of the Park, as there have been many rumors rampant that it had been sold to associations or companies planning an amusement park, to some Negro society, or other organization whose objective was not known.

The Mountain Lake Park Association was chartered more than fifty years ago by an Act of the Maryland Legislature as a religious center and summer resort. The Association's property consists of two hotels, a refreshment stand, postoffice building, an amphitheatre building seating 5000 people, an assembly hall and tabernacle combined which will accommodate two thousand or more, with classrooms, an office building, a cottage, a farm home, barn and outbuildings, 390 unimproved lots, 215 acres of timber and glade land. There is also an artificial lake of some forty acres.

Mountain Lake Park is a town covering 800 acres. Besides the property conveyed by the Association there are many homes owned by individuals, besides a number of boarding houses and hotels. The year-round population of the Park is several hundred and during the summer months there are approximately two thousand residents.

There will be a picnic dinner at 12:30 and diversions will include baseball, horse shoe pitching, swimming, boating, etc. B. M. Rayne is general chairman; Elsie Ringer, secretary, and Ivan Jenkins, chairman of the program arrangements.

Cry of Rachael," which will be dramatized in darkness.

Mr. Maring Swart, former KDKA pianist, Pittsburgh, will accompany Mr. MacMurray through the entire musical sermon and will sing the solo part to the theme song, "The Light of the World Is Jesus," accompanied by the Sky Pilot trio.

The pealing notes of the cathedral chimes will sound forth "Lead Kindly Light," and the song "At the Cross," will be featured by Mr. MacMurray with the chimes accompanied by his brass ensemble. Fifteen musical instruments will be used throughout the evening.

The evening's program will bring to a conclusion a camp meeting which has been in session since August 3, and claims the largest audiences at a performance at Mt. Lake Park for many years. An evangelistic institute was coupled with the camp meeting during the past week, August 8 to 13, and there have been meetings every afternoon and evening since August 3. Dr. Alfred Paul Sloan, editor of the Christian Advocate, official organ of the Methodist Episcopal church, was on the program when it opened, and since that time there have been numerous speakers including Dr. O. E. Williams, Bible teacher, author and lecturer; Rev. Dan McNally, Cumberland evangelist; Dr. Frank N. Lynch, Marietta, O., and others.

Dr. Williams will be heard periodically throughout the remainder of this week and on Sunday morning on his messages dealing with the revised Roman empire and world conditions. Sunday morning he will speak on "Pentecost of the Soul."

Sunday afternoon Rev. Dan McNally will speak on "From Crime to Christ." An excursion will be run by the Baltimore and Ohio from Cumberland on Sunday.

Rev. Paul R. Maness, Corinth, W. Va., general director of the camp meeting, announced this morning that the William Musical Ensemble had been invited back to next year's Mt. Top Camp Meeting and that the Ensemble had accepted. Rev. Maness also stated Rev. Harry Blackburn, who was unable to be present this year, would be back next year.

Legion Elects Stanley Stahl Its Commander

Proctor Kildow Post, No. 71, American Legion, at its meeting Monday evening, elected Stanley Stahl commander. Other officers elected were F. R. Shaffer, 1st vice commander; Elza E. Bray, 2nd vice-commander; Edward Kahl, adjutant; James Fazzalari, finance officer; Delbert Davis, historian; Earl Selders, sergeant-at-arms. The office of chaplain was left vacant temporarily. Installation of these officers will occur the first Monday in October. Delegates elected to the State convention are Alex. Hesen and F. R. Shaffer; alternates, H. C. Riggs and Irvin R. Rudy. The matter of inviting the convention to Oakland and Mountain Lake Park was discussed at length and those present voted against the proposition unanimously. It was thought too big an undertaking for the facilities of the Park and Oakland.

VOLUME 62. OAKLAND, GARRETT COUNTY, MARYLAND, AUGUST 25, 1938. NUMBER 26.

SIX MORE CANDIDATES ARE IN THE FIELD FOR HONORS

Make Aspirations Known Thru Columns Of The Republican

With the deadline for filing for county political offices past, additional aspirants announce this week through the columns of The Republican, three for Member of the House of Delegates, one for County Commissioner, one for County Committeemen, and one for a Judge of the Orphans' Court.

Their announcements will be found on page six of The Republican, along with the many others who announced in this manner. They are John S. Prichard, Nelson Brenneman and Albert F. Howard, for Member of House of Delegates; Paul M. Friend for County Commissioner; Julius C. Renninger, for County Committee, and Clayton Kitzmiller, for Judge of the Orphans' Court.

Mr. Prichard is from district 3 and is owner of the Meadow Mountain Tourist camp. He has been in Garrett county for five years, coming here from Frostburg. He is a member of the Grantsville Fire Department, and on the executive board of the Maryland State Firemen's Association. He is married and the father of three children and is affiliated with the Masonic lodge at Frostburg.

Mr. Howard, candidate for House of Delegates, is a son of J. G. Howard, of Bloomington, district No. 4. He has been a resident of the county practically all his life, and recently has been studying engineering in the Tri-State College at Angola, Ind.

Mr. Brenneman, the other candidate for the House, is from Mellenry, district 6, and is entering politics for the first time. He was born in Garrett county and spent most of his life here as a farmer and taxpayer. He is a son of the late Jacob Brenneman, and promises an economical and efficient administration, if nominated and elected.

Paul M. Friend, of district No. 7, aspirant for county commissioner, has been actively interested in grange work and all organizations pertaining to betterment of agricultural conditions. He is a graduate of Oakland High school, class of 1923, and since that time has been engaged in farming in the Pleasant Valley section, for some time operating a dairy.

Mr. Renninger, a son of the late Julius C. Renninger, is an attorney, as his father was before him. He is a graduate of Princeton university and the University of Maryland law school, and has been practicing law in Oakland for the past year. Mr. Renninger asks the support of the voters for this office.

Mr. Kitziller, candidate for nomination for Judge of the Orphans' Court is from Mt. Lake Park, district No. 16. He has been a resident of the county for 35 years and has been a farmer and taxpayer during all that time. He is a son of the late Isaac Kitzmiller. His entrance into the race makes a contest for the three positions, as there were previously three candidates, all incumbents.

Sixth Congressional District To Have Nomination Contest

The last minuate filing of Frank R. Long, a Republican, of Kensington, Montgomery county, as a candidate for nomination for Congress, will bring about a primary contest for the nomination, which was unexpected in this section of the District.

Several weeks ago, A. Charles Stewart, of Allegany county, announced his candidacy after members of the State Central Committees of the counties composing the Sixth Congressional District had met at Hagerstown and had agreed on Mr. Stewart as the logical candidate for the office. Mr. Stewart at that time consented to run, but stated he did not care for a primary contest as he was just recovering from an illness.

With the filing of Frank R. Long, there will be opposition in both the Republican and Democratic camps.

The Democratic candidates for the Congressional nomination are Joseph A. Cantrel, of Chevy Chase; William D. Byron, of Williamsport, and Edward J. Ryan, of Frostburg.

Marriages Continue To Increase; Seventy-five Issued During Week

Thirteen of those issued were marked "don't publish," while one applicant was refused.

During the two weeks previous there had been 100 couples granted permits.

Heartened by the success of the recent Mountain Top Camp Meeting at Mountain Lake Park, which closed last Sunday night with an audience variously estimated at from 5,000 to 6,000 people that filled the Bashford amphitheatre for the first time in a decade, the new management of the Association is preparing to welcome a still greater crowd at a Harvest Home festival next Sunday, August 28.

A full program is in the making. Upon arrival of an excursion train from Cumberland at 10:15, Mickey's Band of Loch Lynn, will head a procession of the excursionists from the railroad station to the amphitheatre where a concert will precede the morning session.

Dr. Dean C. Dutton will outline the proposed program for next season and will give a glimpse of the self-help educational project which is now being launched. Dan McNally, Cumberland, will be on the program both morning and afternoon. Rev. Fred. R. Barnes, Westernport, is arranging a musical program.

CARLOAD OF FISH PLACED IN DEEP CREEK FRIDAY

State Conservation Commission Sends 35,000 Large Mouth Bass

A carload of fish from the mid-west was brought to Oakland by the State Conservation Commission, of which Dr. Henry W. McComas, Oakland, is a member, arrived here last Friday about noon, and before that evening a total of 35,125 large mouthed bass had been deposited in certain sections of Deep Creek Lake.

The fish came from Rochester, Indiana, being supplied by the United States Department of Fisheries, the State Conservation Commission paying the transportation charges to this point, amounting to more than $100.

Dr. McComas emphasized the fact that it was through the Conservation Commission, and not through any other agency, that the fish had been obtained, as others seemed to be taking credit for supplying Garrett county with these fish.

Dr. McComas also announced that 35 Chukor or Egyptian partridges hau been shipped to him from the Gwynnbrook State farm, and had been released in the county for propagation purposes. These are the first birds of this character to be released in the entire State. They are larger than the ring-neck pheasants, Dr. McComas said, and are brown with slate-colored backs.

Here on Friday to assist in transporting the fish from the railroad yards to the lake and placing them therein were Frank Bentz, clerk to the Commission, and A. M. Powell, superintendent of the State hatcheries. Elmer Haulenbeck, of Rainbow Inn, deputy game warden, also assisted in the work.

The fish were placed in Red Run, Meadow Mountain and Turkey Neck inlets of the Lake.

Senate Candidate Breaks Bone In Heel By Fall

Harry C. Edwards, Grantsville, one of the Republican candidates for nomination for the State Senate, fell last Thursday a distance of about eight feet when a ladder upon which he was standing slipped and when Mr. Edwards struck upon a cement pavement the bone in his right heel was split.

At the time of the accident Mr. Edwards was engaged in stringing some lights for an affair at the M. E. church at Grantsville. The full weight of the fall was upon his heel and examination showed that the bone had been badly splintered.

The injured man received treatment at the Memorial Hospital in Cumberland by Dr. W. A. Gracie. Mr. Edwards is out again, using a pair of crutches to assist him in moving about. He was in Oakland yesterday afternoon.

Confesses To Theft Of Calf; Held In Oakland Jail

For some months past, thieves have been making raids on poultry houses in the neighborhood of Bittinger and more recently there have been reports of calves having been stolen from farm barns and pasture fields.

This situation culminated last Saturday morning when Sheriff Clarence Spear and Corporal Thomas Currie, of Oakland, went to Bittinger and placed Clifford Bittinger, of the Bear Hill section, under arrest.

Bittinger has confessed, according to J. B. Emory, justice of the peace, to having stolen a calf from the farm of Lawrence Beitzell and implicated others in the crime. He was brought to the Oakland jail to await the capture of his comrade.

New Allegany County Road Will Help Garrett County Travelers

A new road from Westernport to Luke, in Allegany county, will eventually be of great help to a number of Garrett county residents.

At the present time Westernport residents who wish to drive or walk to Luke, use the streets through the town of Piedmont on the West Virginia side of the Potomac River, crossing two bridges and two railway tracks. J. Glenn Beall, chairman of the State Roads Commission, said the money for the proposed improvement would be taken from the 1939 reconstruction fund of the Roads Commission.

With the completion of the proposed road it is expected that the Luke-Bloomington route into Garrett county would be improved.

Mr. James A. Wilson, of Kitzmiller, was a business visitor here on Monday.

ELI: RESPONSIBILITY FOR OTHERS

LESSON TEXT—1 Samuel 3:11-14; 4:12-18.
GOLDEN TEXT—Train up a child in the way he should go. Proverbs 22:6a.
PRIMARY TEXT—When God Spoke to a Boy.
JUNIOR TEXT—When God Spoke to a Junior.
INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Should We Do as We Please?
YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—The Challenge of Christian Fatherhood.

The responsibilities and privileges of fatherhood need special emphasis, and the lesson of today gives excellent opportunity for such consideration. Too often the rearing of children, which is almost inevitably largely in the hands of the mother, is entirely delegated to her, and the father becomes the man who pays the bills, occasionally carries out a severe act of discipline, but otherwise is almost a stranger to his children.

Girls as well as boys appreciate and respond to the loving and understanding fellowship of a father who really improves the opportunity to build himself into the lives of his children.

Eli is a striking illustration of a man who had attained an honorable position in life and who had discharged his public duties with success, but who failed his own boys, because of weak indulgence. Not a few Christian workers have followed in Eli's path.

I. A Weak Father and Vile Sons (3:13).

The sons of Eli were wicked men who dared even to use the service of the temple for the gratification of fleshly appetites and lusts. (See 2:12-17,22.) Eli protested against their most flagrant sin (2:23,24), but evidently he had lost his influence over them, for they did not hearken.

It is not always true that the wickedness of a son is the result of weakness in the father, nor is it always the case that weak fathers have vile sons. Often the sons live far better lives than their fathers, and frequently a godly and faithful father suffers the heartbreak of having a wayward son. But usually "like father, like son" is true. Boys learn from their fathers—not so much by words of admonition, as by deeds. Let us tell our boys how to live by first living a consistent Christian life, and then lovingly but insistently requiring of them during their days of irresponsibility conformity to the standards of God. We need to build moral fiber into American youth of our country if it is not to fall into the decadence of the civilizations of the past.

II. Judgment—Personal and National (3:12, 14; 4:17).

Sin brings a horrible harvest of sorrow, suffering and judgment, not only to the individual but to his family, and ultimately to the nation. No man can ever divorce himself from his relationship to his family. His people will suffer for his waywardness, perhaps more than he suffers himself. The nation is made up of homes, and consequently when the family suffers the nation will suffer too.

There is a strange theory current that social and political entities have an existence apart from the people who make them up, that our people can drink and gamble and steal and kill, and yet somehow we will still be the "land of the free and the home of the brave." America is what the families in your community and mine are, and our families are what we are. May God help us to be better fathers, mothers, brothers, and sisters.

III. Responsibility and Opportunity.

This division of our lesson is drawn from no special portion of the Scripture lesson, but is presented to place squarely before us the fact that we (and we are speaking specifically to fathers) have a plain and inescapable responsibility for our family life, as well as to emphasize the fact that this is not a responsibility of which we should be afraid. It is God's gift of glorious opportunity.

Eli was a personal success as a priest. He had many commendable qualities, not the least of which was his gracious recognition of the ministry of Samuel, who had grown up in his presence and yet who was recognized by Eli as the messenger of God. (Compare Mark 6:4 and 1 Tim. 4:12.) But he missed life's greatest opportunity by losing his own boys. Sad to say, many a father has followed him, yes, even we are sorely tempted to make our business (and it may be the "business" of the Lord) the thing of primary concern, and let our children fit in where they may, or not at all.

Let us look on the better side in closing our study and recall the inspiring contribution that has been made to our national life, to our spiritual life and our social advancement by those who have come out of the most humble of homes, with the most meager worldly advantages, but with the rugged characters—physically, morally, and spiritually stalwart—which have been nurtured in a true Christian home. It pays, not only for the person and for the family, but also for the nation, to have Christian fathers.

VACCINATION NECESSARY FOR ALL SCHOOL CHILDREN

Students Cannot be Enrolled Unless Protected Against Smallpox

"Don't forget your youngster will have to be vaccinated against smallpox before he or she can be enrolled in any public school in Maryland. Have it attended to without further delay, if it has not already been done," is the advice of Dr. R. H. Riley, Director of the State Department of Health, to parents of children who have reached school age this year and who will start to school this fall.

"Our Maryland law," Dr. Riley continued, "requires every child to be vaccinated against smallpox before he or she can be enrolled in any public school in the State. Physicians are expected to vaccinate all babies under their care before the children are a year old. Until the children are of school age, the responsibility for having it done rests with the parents. After that it is shared by the teachers and other school authorities. Any teacher, school trustee or commissioner of a public school who admits a child who has not been successfully vaccinated against smallpox is liable to a fine of $10.00.

"Smallpox is very contagious. Anybody who has not been protected against it is likely to contract the disease if exposed to it. It is much more prevalent than anyone is likely to realize who does not keep in touch with health and sickness conditions in other parts of the country. The only way to avoid having the disease is through vaccination.

"We have had only two cases of smallpox in Maryland in the last eight years, one in 1931 and the other in 1935. Our slate is clean and unblemished for 1930, 1932, 1933, 1934, 1936, 1937 and up to the present for 1938.

"There is a very different picture in other parts of the country. The weekly reports of the United States Public Health Service show that over twelve thousand persons, in various parts of the United States, have had smallpox in the last seven months—from January 1 to July 31, 1938. This was nearly five thousand more cases than were reported during the corresponding period of 1937. Over half the States in the Union were represented in these totals. The majority of the cases occurred, of course, in states in which vaccination is not compulsory.

"Our Maryland vaccination laws were enacted in 1864 and our freedom from the disease is due to careful observance of the requirements. We rarely have to 'enforce' the smallpox laws because parents, as a rule, or others for whom vaccination may be required, cooperate very willingly with the health authorities in having it done. But parents sometimes put off having it done. Consequently a great many children have 'not vaccinated against smallpox' checked up against them on the health conference records.

"Parents whose children have not been protected against smallpox should go to their family doctor and have it done now."

A LIBRARY IS A COMMUNITY TOOL ROOM—

Nearly every manufacturing plant of any size has its tool room. Here are stored special tools, scales and gauges, materials and gadgets of all kinds which may be requisitioned as needed.

What a tool room is to a manufacturing plant, a public library is to a community.

We've become stirred up over this library question and we'd like to see more work like that being done by M. M. Harris and his associates, of the People's Library Movement for Texas. They want the Texas legislature to make free library service an integral part of the State's public educational system.

Almost 4,000,000, or 65 per cent of the people of Texas now lack any public library service whatsoever.

Ideas are persistent. One of the dominating ideas of the pioneers of Texas was that guns and dry ammunition were more necessary than shelves with books. They were right. Living conditions in those early days required such fighting equipment.

Today, however, people must be prepared to fight with different weapons.

"Nowadays," says Mr. Harris, editor of the San Antonio Express, "a person without education is as poorly fitted to cope with the forces about him as the pioneer without a gun and ammunition would have been fitted to fight Indians and to provide meat for himself and family."

No longer is the library looked upon as a solely cultural institution. John Cotton Dana, the great Newark, N. J., librarian, demonstrated conclusively that a public library is a highly practical institution—a source of every day usable information.

It is part of the job of the State to provide educational opportunities for all its pepole. Of course those opportunities should be equal and uniform so far as it is humanely possible to make them so. One's education must not cease when one graduates from school or college.

Libraries, therefore, are part of the great adult educational movement. Every printer, publisher and editor in the country should take an active part, not only in providing more libraries for more people, but in making existing libraries of greater use.

The very safety of our nation depends upon right thinking on the part of the majority of our voters. To vote intelligently they must know how to think. They cannot form correct judgment without information. Books should be available and interpreted to them; they should be taught to think of books as tools.

In New Hampshire, State Librarian Thelma Brackett has played a most important part in the development of the local arts and crafts movement. She has attended home industries meetings and has helped to populadize books that have enabled hundreds of New Hampshire people to increase their home earnings, making use of ideas contained in books written by experts.

What this country needs is more and better libraries.

IN DAYS OF OLD

FORTY YEARS AGO

The war between Spain and the United States, which began April 21, ended on Friday, August 12.

Rain was proving to be a serious obstacle to oats harvesting.

Garrett County Bank officials gave out a contract for a two-story brick addition to the bank building.

James J. Reynolds was having excavations made for a two-story brick veneer building, and D. E. Offutt said he planned to rebuild on the site of his recently destroyed structure on Second street.

Charles B. Cropp was in receipt of a letter from his brother Ross Cropp, who was in the Klondike gold region, where he had taken up a claim for the purpose of mining. The letter was written on bark similar to that of water birch, thin as a sheet of paper and almost as light in weight.

Colored help at the Loch Lynn Heights hotel, returning from Oakland, discovered a fire in the laundry in the rear of the hotel building. The flames were extinguished.

J. McClure Mason, aged 83 years, one of the first settlers of the county, died at his home in District No. 4.

A number of farmers decided to raid a snake den near New Germany, the den being located in a ledge of rock. The raiders found the snakes having a "family reunion." The fight lasted an hour and resulted in the killing of 68 rattlesnakes, the smallest of which measured four feet and had ten rattles. A large number of young snakes were also killed. A few days previous another party of the community people visited the den and killed eighteen rattlers.

TWENTY YEARS AGO

The first Garrett countian reported killed in action in the World War was Lieut. Joseph W. Welch. He was a son of Mr. and Mrs. S. K. Welch, of Mountain Lake Park.

To The Taxpayers Of Garrett County

Senator Friend in his "newspaper" on several occasions has seen fit to criticise us because of a visit we made to Annapolis during the 1937 Session of the Legislature to consult with the County Delegation concerning the need for improvements and additions to certain school buildings in the County. Inasmuch as Senator Friend's articles on this subject are distorted and unfair as his articles usually are, we feel that it is necessary to tell the people the truth about it.

Early in the year 1937 several delegations composed of prominent citizens and tax payers of the County appeared before our Board and pointed out to us the very urgent need for improvements and additions to school buildings in Oakland, Accident, Kitzmiller and a delegation from Bloomington appeared pointing out to us that their entire District was without a school building. We fully recognized the needs that existed in these communities for relief from overcrowded and unsanitary conditions and so stated to these delegations. The cost of remedying the situation would be too great a burden on the tax payers to levy the required funds at one time and several citizens went to Annapolis to discuss the situation with our Delegation having in mind passing a measure authorizing the County to borrow funds provided that we could obtain Federal grants to match the funds raised locally. These citizens reported to us that they had interviewed the County Delegation, including Senator Friend, and that they all seemed very favorable to this proposal and our representatives in Annapolis requested that certain information concerning the proposed matter be obtained and furnished to them. We were told that our Delegation there, including Senator Friend, would like to discuss this situation with us and would try to work out some plan to raise the required money. In view of this information, we felt that it was our duty as the County Commissioners of the County to meet with our Delegation at Annapolis and discuss this very important problem. We believed that it would be possible to obtain matching funds from the Federal government and upon investigation we found that money could be borrowed at a low rate of interest, possibly as low as three per cent. It had been suggested that a bill be prepared authorizing the County to borrow $150,000.00 upon the express condition that the money be borrowed only if we were able to obtain a 45% grant from the Public Works Administration. The bill that was proposed would also have stipulated where and in what amounts the money be expended. We went to Annapolis as above stated in good faith and in the performance of our duties as County Commissioners expecting that a great benefit would be derived for the entire County. Much to our disgust and disappointment Senator Friend refused to even courteously discuss the problem with us. He assumed a stubborn and arbitrary stand on the mattere and while the eother members of the County Delegation at Annapolis were ready to consult and discuss the problem, our Senator as stated above gave the question no consideration whatever.

We know that these improvements ultimately will have to be made and the cost will have to be borne solely by the tax payers of Garrett County. We sincerely believe that because of Senator Friend's attitude and stubborn refusal to give consideration to this problem our County has lost in grants from the Federal government at least $100,000.00 At this very time this amount of money could easily have been obtained from the Federal Government through the Public Works Administration and we are completely blocked in obtaining these funds because Senator Friend did not go along with us and as a result the County is deprived of these greatly needed improvements and our children are forced to attend school in buildings overcrowded and without proper and adequate sanitary conditions. Senator Friend is solely responsible for this situation and entire responsibility must rest upon him.

At the time this visit was made to Annapolis, Mr. Giessman was ill at his home. Before we went, however, we called at his home and discussed the situation with him and he expressed his whole-hearted approval of the plan as well as our visit to Annapolis.

If Senator Friend was sincere in his passion for saving the public monies, we would have little criticism to make of him for his statements, but his own record conclusively proves, in our judgment, his lack of sincerity. Last week we called attention to certain items appearing in the Comptroller's Report to the Governor of certain expenditures of public funds during Senator Friend's incumbency at Annapolis and further examination of these reports discloses the following item:

In December, 1936, a Special Session of the General Assembly was convened on the 8th day of December and adjourned on the 12th day of December. This Extraordinary Session was called for the purpose of enacting an unemployment compensation law and no other measures except the appropriation to cover the expenses of the Session, were enacted. We find in the Comptroller's Report covering the expense of this Session that Senator Friend received the sum of $135.00. The pay of each Senator is $5.00 per day and we couldn't understand why Senator Friend received $135.00 for five days attendance at the Session. Upon inquiry we were informed that the difference of $110.00 was for the Senator's mileage. Now undoubtedly Senator Friend made but one trip from his home on Bear Creek to Annapolis to attend this Session and how he could conscientiously and consistently accept $110 of the public funds for mileage is something that we would like him to explain. A comparison of this item with what we received for our expenses certainly indicates that we are the ones who are conserving the public funds rather than Senator Friend. What a glorious opportunity this gentleman had to practice what he preached by refusing to take $110.00 as mileage for a trip that he knows could only have cost him a small proportion of that sum. It indicates to us that his passion for saving the tax payers money is for publicity and political purposes only and is not controlling him when he is on the receiving end. What a great opportunity Senator Friend had to rise up in righteous indignation and refuse to be a party to such extravagance and tell the people of the State of Maryland that he was a sincere apostle of economy.

THE TERRORISTS

From the Tuesday morning edition of the Baltimore Sun (Democratic) the following editorial is taken and reproduced in this paper to show our readers the attitude of those in high places who come into Maryland and attempt to dictate to the citizens of the Free State for whom they shall vote.

The Sun's editorial follows:

Mr. David J. Lewis is plainly worried about the political terrorism that is being used in his behalf from Washington. No wonder! Mr. Lewis is a kindly and humane man. Terrorism is not within his personal code, and, let alone, terrorism would not be a part of his campaign for the Democratic nomination for Senator. But it will not help Mr. Lewis to denounce those who talk of terrorism for there is terrorism.

If Mr. Lewis wishes to make an end to the talk of terrorism in his behalf, the thing for him to do is to make an end to the coterie in Washington that is undertaking to manage his campaign for him. If Mr. Lewis wishes to go further, if Mr. Lewis wishes to make an end of the fact of terrorism, the thing for him to do is to make an end to the coterie in Washington that is undertaking to manage his campaign for him. So long as that group of second-rate and third-rate manipulators is allowed to send for people from Maryland and talk with them in Mr. Lewis' behalf, so long as that group is unchecked and unrestricted in the use in Mr. Lewis' behalf of the immense resources of the Roosevelt Administration—so long as those gentlemen are footloose and fancy free in word and action, there will be talk of terrorism for there will be terrorism.

Mr. Lewis says, and doubtless he wishes to believe, that the people of Maryland are so hell-bent for Mr. Roosevelt that all any candidate has to do is to tie himself to the President's coattails and victory is won. Mr. Lewis says, in effect, and doubtless he wishes to believe, that any public man of the Tydings type is damned out of hand in Maryland for no other reason than that he refused to abandon the Democratic platform on which he was elected when Mr. Roosevelt chose to abandon the same platform, on which he also was elected. But the unimportant people in Washington who have risen to importance because Mr. Roosevelt smiles upon them are not such infatuated enthusiasts. The little men who will cease to be near-tops, and drift back into nothingness when Mr. Roosevelt becomes history, are not such infatuated enthusiasts. They know the power of material resources. They know the power of jobs. And they use this power.

It is unpleasant for Mr. Lewis. It will become more unpleasant for him if he spends his time denouncing critics instead of stopping terrorists. Having power which they never earned, the terrorists talk of their power and use their power with a naked brutality that would have made "Free" Rasin and "Sonny" Mahon ashamed to face his family in the evening. You may as well make up your mind, Mr. Lewis, that so long as your friends play this game, things will happen to make you increasingly ashamed.

Dr. Mahlon C. Hinebaugh, who suffered a serious illness two or three weeks ago, was taken to Memorial Hospital, Cumberland, last Friday for treatment. His condition is practically unchanged.

NAUGHTY, NAUGHTY!

They are digging up a lot of mean stories about Roosevelt. A number of new ones are also going the rounds. The Republican refuses to publish them, as it believes it is poor sportsmanship to take cracks at a man who is taking a 3,000-mile fishing trip on a battleship at the expense of the tax payers and is not at home to defend himself.

The bill states:

FIRST:—That Martin Filsinger, late of Garrett County, Maryland, deceased, died on the 19th day of May, 1919, leaving a Last Will and Testament duly executed to pass real estate.

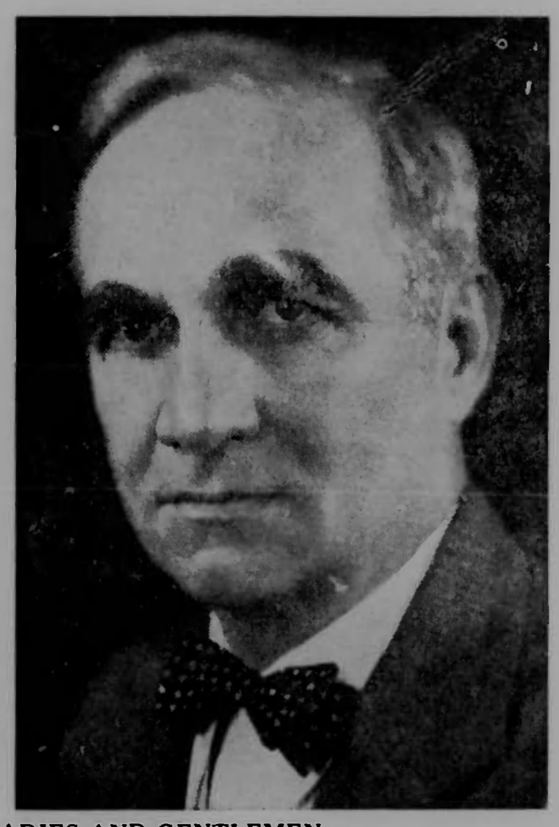
Candidate For

ASSOCIATE JUDGE FOURTH JUDICIAL CIRCUIT OF MARYLAND



LADIES AND GENTLEMEN:

Having been appointed Associate Judge of the Fourth Judicial Circuit of Maryland on June 6th, 1937, by the Honorable Harry W. Nice, Governor of Maryland, to succeed the late Honorable David A. Prior to my appointment to Associate Judge, I served the people of Allegany County as their State's Attorney for thirteen and one-half years.

If nominated and elected, I shall perform the duties of the office fearlessly and honestly. I have no enemies to punish, no prejudices against any creed, sect, order or individual; and no immunities to offer.

Justice to all is my motto, and the law will be my guide.

Your vote and influence will be highly appreciated.

Very Sincerely Yours,

Homemakers' Column

Tomatoes For Health, Economy, and Variety

August and September are the months for fresh tomatoes in a majority of homes. Late summer prices are usually within reach of families with a very limited food budget. Tomato prices usually tumble in June and July and strike rock bottom—for the country as a whole—in August and September.

The tomato still holds its unique place among vegetables as a valuable source of vitamin C, which must be supplied daily as it cannot be stored in the body. The value of the tomato as a source of this vitamin is based on the fact that its supply of C is not lost by cooking or canning. In addition it can be prepared in so many ways that the homemaker easily persuades her family to consume large quantities. Tests made by the Bureau of Home Economics indicate that none of the vitamin C content of the tomato is lost by the usual approved methods of home canning and that little if any is lost by storing opened juice for a few days in the refrigerator.

Although the tomato has built up its reputation with the dietitians on the basis of its C content, that is not all the vegetable has to offer. Ripe tomatoes are rich in vitamin A, also often inadequate in low-cost diets. Ripe and green tomatoes both supply C and B, some iron and small amounts of other essential minerals.

From the standpoint of the homemaker cook what food could be more welcome than the luscious, juicy tomato? It brings a dozen possibilities for any meal. If she wants a "beginner" tomato juice cocktail is always refreshing. Hot soup, generally an "out" for the month of August, is welcome as cold jellied tomato consomme. For the main course, tomatoes may be baked, plain or stuffed, scalloped, fried or broiled.

Here are a few tips for preparing tomatoes for the table. Fresh tomato juice cocktail, which captures the flavor of the first lucious red slices is especially popular with many. For fresh tomato cocktail select very red and ripe tomatoes. Wash and chop and force the raw tomatoes through a fine sieve to extract the juice. To give the drink a little more zest allow slices of raw onion to stand in the juice until the flavors are blended; and season to taste with freshly squeezed lemon juice and a dash of horseradish or tabasco sauce.

Try holding the juices in your fried tomatoes by dipping the slices in beaten egg, then fine bread crumbs before frying. Slightly underripe tomatoes are most easily handled, of course.

WHEREAS, at the January session of the General Assembly of Maryland, held in the year 1937, an Act was passed, to-wit: Chapter 525 proposing an amendment to Article 15 of the Declaration of Rights of the Constitution of the State of Maryland, authorizing the General Assembly to impose taxes on incomes, and providing for the submission of said amendment to the qualified voters of the State of Maryland for adoption or rejection; in words and figures as follows:

CHAPTER 463—1935

AN ACT to propose an amendment to repeal Section 36 of Article 3 of the Constitution of the State of Maryland, title "Legislative Department," said section prohibiting the General Assembly from authorizing a lottery, and providing for the submission of said amendment to the qualified voters of the State of Maryland for adoption or rejection.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the General Assembly of Maryland (three-fifths of all the members of each of the two Houses concurring), That Section 36 of Article 3 of the Constitution of the State of Maryland, title "Legislative Department," prohibiting the General Assembly from authorizing lottery grants, be and it is hereby repealed if adopted by the legally qualified voters of the State, as herein provided.

Sec. 2. And be it further enacted, That the aforegoing amendment to the Constitution of the State of Maryland shall, at the next ensuing general election for members of the General Assembly of Maryland, be submitted to the legal and qualified voters of the State for their adoption or rejection, in pursuance of the directions contained in Article 14 of the Constitution of the State of Maryland, and at the said general election the vote on the said proposed amendment to the Constitution shall be by ballot, and upon each ballot there shall be printed the words: "For Constitutional Amendment" and "Against Constitutional Amendment," as now provided by law, and immediately after said election due returns shall be made to the Governor of the vote for and against proposed amendment, as directed by said Fourteenth Article of the Constitution, and further proceedings had in accordance with said Article 14.

AN ACT to amend Section 21 of Article 4, title "Judiciary Department," sub-title "Part III—Circuit Courts", of the Constitution of this State, to provide an additional judge in the Second Circuit and to provide for the submission of said amendment to the qualified voters of this State for adoption or rejection.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the General Assembly of Maryland (three-fifths of all of the members elected to each of the two Houses concurring), That the following section be and the same is hereby proposed as an amendment to Section 21 of Article 4, title "Judiciary Department", sub-title "Part III—Circuit Courts" of the Constitution of the State, and if adopted by the legal and qualified voters thereof as herein provided, it shall supersede and stand in the place and stead of Section 21 of said Article 4.

21. For each of the said circuits, excepting the eighth, the second, the third and the sixth, there shall be a chief judge and two associate judges, to be styled judges of the Circuit Court, to be selected or appointed as herein provided, and for the second circuit, the third circuit and the sixth circuit there shall be a chief judge and three associate judges to be styled judges of the Circuit Court, to be elected or appointed as herein provided. And no two of said associate judges, for any of the said circuits, except the third and sixth circuits shall, at the time of their election or appointment or during the term for which they may have been elected or appointed, reside in the same county. If two or more persons shall be candidates for associate judge in the same county in any of the circuits, except the third and sixth circuits, that one only in said county shall be declared elected who has the highest number of votes in the circuit. In case any two candidates for associate judge in any of the circuits, except the third and sixth circuits, residing in the same county shall have an equal number of votes greater than any other candidates for associate judge in the circuit, it shall be the duty of the Governor to order a new election for one associate judge; but the person residing in any other county of the circuit and who has the highest number of votes shall be declared elected. The said judges shall hold not less than two terms of the Circuit Court in each of the counties composing their respective circuits, at such times as are now or may hereafter be prescribed to which jurors shall be summoned; and in those counties where only two such terms are held, two other and intermediate terms, to which jurors shall not be summoned; they may alter or fix the times for holding any or all terms, until otherwise prescribed, and shall adopt rules to the end that all business not requiring the interposition of the jury shall be, as far as practicable, disposed of at said intermediate terms. One judge in each of the above circuits, including the second, the third and sixth circuits, shall constitute a quorum for the transaction of any business; and the said judges or any of them may hold special terms of their courts, whenever in their discretion the business of the several counties renders such terms necessary. The additional associate judge for the third circuit elected in accordance with the terms of the Constitutional Amendment heretofore submitted and adopted shall be subject to the same constitutional provisions, hold his office for the same term of years, receive the same compensation and have the same powers as are herein provided for the other associate judges in the third circuit.

The additional associate judge for the second circuit herein provided for shall be a resident of Cecil County, shall be appointed by the Governor after the expiration of six (6) months after the adoption of this amendment and shall serve until the first general election for members of the General Assembly that shall be held in said circuit subsequent to the adoption of this amendment, at which election his successor shall be elected by the qualified voters of Caroline, Cecil, Kent, Queen Anne's and Talbot counties, constituting the second circuit. The judge so appointed shall be subject to the same constitutional provisions, receive the same compensation and have the same powers as are herein provided for the other associate judges in the second circuit, and the judge so elected shall be subject to the same constitutional provision, hold his office for the same term of years, receive the same compensation, and have the same powers as are herein provided for the other associate judges in the second circuit.

The additional judge for the sixth circuit herein provided for and elected by the qualified voters of Frederick and Montgomery Counties at the 1938 election in accordance with the terms of the Constitutional Amendment heretofore submitted and adopted shall be subject to the same constitutional provisions, receive the same compensation and have the same powers as are herein provided for the other associate judges in the sixth circuit and his successor shall be appointed and/or elected in accordance with the constitutional provisions relating to judges. The Chief Judge may be elected from either Frederick or Montgomery Counties, but when the Chief Judge is elected from Frederick County one of the associate judges shall be a resident of said county and the two remaining associate judges shall be residents of Montgomery County and when the Chief Judge is elected from Montgomery County one of the associate judges shall be a resident of said Montgomery County and the remaining two associate judges residents of Frederick County. In case any candidate or candidates for associate judge at any judicial election held in the sixth judicial circuit shall receive sufficient votes to cause such candidate or candidates to be declared elected, but the election of such candidate or candidates would cause more associate judges than herein permitted to reside in any county of said circuit, then and in that event only that candidate or those candidates, as the case may be, residing in said county in the order of the votes received shall be declared elected whose election would provide the permitted number of associate judges from said county and the candidate or candidates as the case may be residing in the other county, and not similarly disqualified, who shall have the next highest number of votes in said election shall be declared elected. If, by reason of such a condition or by reason of an equal vote for two or more candidates a sufficient number of associate judges duly qualified as to residence as above set out should not be elected at any election in said sixth judicial circuit, then it shall be the duty of the Governor to order a new election for such unfilled office or offices.

Sec. 2. And be it further enacted, That the aforegoing section hereby proposed as an amendment to the Constitution of this State shall be, at the next general election to be held in this State in the year 1938, submitted to the legal and qualified voters thereof for their adoption or rejection in pursuance of directions contained in Article 14 of the Constitution of this State, and at the said general election, the vote on the said proposed amendment shall be by ballot, and upon each ballot there shall be printed the words "For the Constitutional Amendment" and "Against the Constitutional Amendment," as now prescribed by law, and immediately after said election, due returns shall be made to the Governor of the vote for and against said proposed amendment as directed by said Article 14 of the Constitution.

Approved: May 18, 1937.

CHAPTER 525—1937

AN ACT to propose an amendment to Article 15 of the Declaration of Rights of the Constitution of the State of Maryland, authorizing the General Assembly to impose taxes on incomes, and providing for the submission of said amendment to the qualified voters of the State of Maryland for adoption or rejection.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the General Assembly of Maryland (three-fifths of all the members of each of the two Houses concurring), That the following amendment be and the same is hereby proposed to Article 15 of the Declaration of Rights of the Constitution of the State of Maryland, the same, if adopted by the legal and qualified voters of the State, as herein provided, to become Article 15 of the Declaration of Rights of the Constitution of the State of Maryland.

Art. 15. That the levying of taxes by the poll is grievous and oppressive and ought to be prohibited; that paupers ought not to be assessed for the support of the government; that the General Assembly shall, by uniform rules, provide for separate assessment of land and classification and sub-classification of improvements on land and personal property, as it may deem proper; and all taxes thereafter provided to be levied by the State for the support of the general State Government, and by the counties and by the City of Baltimore for their respective purposes, shall be uniform as to land within the taxing district, and uniform within the class or sub-class of improvements on land and personal property which the respective taxing powers may have directed to be subjected to the tax levy; yet fines, duties or taxes may properly and justly be imposed, or laid with a political view for the good government and benefit of the community. Taxes may be imposed on incomes, which may be classified, graduated and progressive and the exemption of a reasonable amount of income from taxation may be provided and such taxes may be in lieu of taxes on any class or classes of real or personal property as the General Assembly may determine.

Sec. 2. And be it further enacted, That the aforegoing amendment to the Declaration of Rights of the Constitution of the State of Maryland shall, at the election to be held in November, 1938, be submitted to the legal and qualified voters of the State for their adoption or rejection, in pursuance of the directions contained in Article 14 of the Constitution of the State of Maryland, and at the said general election the vote on the said proposed amendment to the Constitution shall be by ballot, upon each ballot there shall be printed the words: "For Constitutional Amendment", and "Against Constitutional Amendment," as now provided by law, and immediately after said election due returns shall be made to the Governor of the vote for and against proposed amendment, as directed by said Fourteenth Article of the Constitution, and further proceedings had in accordance with said Article 14.

Such notice may be printed in any newspaper or publication. Not more than one notice shall be in any edition of any newspaper or publication at one time.

This Section is severable, and if this Section is declared unconstitutional, the decision so holding the same shall not be construed as impairing any other provision of this act. It is hereby declared as a legislative intent that this Act would have been adopted had this provision not been included therein.

11. In the event the license of any dentist is revoked or suspended, such fact shall be noted by the Board upon the record of registration, and the registration and certificate of the practitioner so offending shall be suspended or revoked as the case may be; and any person whose registration has been so suspended or revoked under the provisions of this Section shall be deemed an unregistered person and subject, as such, to the penalties prescribed for the practice of dentistry by persons that are not duly registered.

Every licensee whose license has been suspended or revoked by the Board may appeal to the Baltimore City Court of Baltimore City or the Circuit Court of the County wherein the licensee has his or her office where the matter shall be heard de novo, and where either party shall be entitled to a jury trial. All complaints must contain the request that the Board take action against the offender. Upon receiving any complaint the Board shall, if it deems the complaint sufficient following an investigation, pass an order setting the same for a hearing at a specified time and place, and the secretary shall cause a copy of the order and of the complaint, or of a complaint drawn by the Board, to be served upon the accused at least ten days before the day appointed in the order for said hearing. The accused must appear at the time appointed in the order and answer the charges and make his defense to the same, unless for sufficient cause the Board may assign another day for the purpose. If the accused does not appear the Board may proceed with the hearing and finally determine the accusation or complaint, in the absence of the accused. The Board shall issue for any and all witnesses requested in writing by the accused.

Whenever any person subpoenaed to appear and give testimony shall refuse to appear or testify before said Board, or to answer any pertinent, relative or proper questions, he shall be deemed in contempt of said Board, and it shall be the duty of the presiding officer of said Board to report the fact to the Superior Court of Baltimore City in the event the party guilty of contempt resides in said City, or has a place of business in said City, or to the Judge of the Circuit Court of the County wherein the party guilty of said contempt resides; thereupon the Court shall issue an attachment in the usual form, directed to the Sheriff of the City or County commanding said Sheriff to attach said person and forthwith bring him before the Court. On the return of said attachment and the production of the person attached, the Court shall have jurisdiction of the contempt, and the person charged may purge himself of the contempt in the same way, and the same proceedings shall be had, and the same penalties may be imposed, and the same punishment may be inflicted as in the case of a witness subpoenaed to appear and give evidence in the trial of a civil cause. The Board shall have the power in its discretion, to authorize the payment of fees and traveling expenses of witnesses called before the Board and examined in any proceeding properly before the Board.

13. All signs prohibited by this Act shall be removed within three months after the passage of this Act. Any person or persons who shall prohibit, neglect, fail or refuse to remove any sign prohibited by this Act is guilty of a violation of this Act and subject to the penalties thereof.

14. Each person holding a license under this Act shall exhibit on the door or the wall of the building wherein he shall practice dentistry, not more than two signs on which shall be placed the name and title or degree of such person, the letters of which shall not exceed three inches square. Any person practicing dentistry in any building may exhibit such sign on the door of his office in addition to those on the door or wall of such building.

This sub-section shall have no application to any person who is the holder of a dental degree who does not, either directly or indirectly, practice, or attempt to practice, dentistry as herein before set forth in this Section 15.

16. Nothing in this Act shall apply to a bona fide student of dentistry in the clinic rooms of a reputable dental college; to a legally qualified physician or surgeon unless he practices dentistry as a specialty; to a dental surgeon of the United States Army, Navy, Public Health Service or Veterans Bureau, in the discharge of his official duties; nor to a lawful practitioner of dentistry of another State, territory or foreign country making a clinical demonstration before a dental society, dental convention, association of dentists, or dental college, or in performing professional duties in connection with a specific case on which he may have been called to the State of Maryland. Nothing in this Article shall apply to public school clinics, to state institutions, to eleemosynary institutions, or to business corporations which may maintain clinics for pupils, inmates or employees only which shall employ only legally qualified dentists. No such public school clinic, State institution, eleemosynary institution, or business corporation shall advertise in any manner or by any method, either directly or indirectly, anything relative to the practice of dentistry. Such institutions are prohibited not only from advertising in violation of this act but are prohibited from advertising in any manner anything relative to the practice of dentistry.

Nothing in this Article shall prohibit the Dental Division of the State Department of Health, or the Director of the Public School Clinics of the City Health Department from broadcasting educational programs over the radio.

17. All persons now authorized to practice dentistry in this State, and those who may be hereafter registered under the provisions of this Article, shall be exempt from service as jurors in any of the Courts of this State, during the continuance of the practice of their profession.

18. The Board shall always be designated as the "State Board of Dental Examiners", and under this name it shall have the right to sue or be sued in the Courts of this State.

19. Any person who shall practice, or attempt to practice dentistry within the State of Maryland, without having a license as hereinbefore provided or during the period of suspension or revocation of such license previously granted shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction thereof shall be fined not less than fifty dollars nor more than three hundred dollars, or be confined not more than six months in jail, in the discretion of the Judge or Judges of the Circuit Court of the respective counties of this State, or the Judge or Judges of the Criminal Court of Baltimore City, before whom the matter shall be tried; and upon conviction of a subsequent offense, shall be confined not more than six months in jail or fined not less than three hundred dollars or more than five hundred dollars. Any violation of this Article by a person convicted under the then existing laws of this State of practicing dentistry without a license or registration shall be included in the term subsequent offense. Every conviction of unlawful practice subsequent to a first conviction thereof shall be a conviction of a subsequent offense.

20. It shall be the duty of the State's Attorney of the City of Baltimore or of the various counties of this State to prosecute any resident of the City of Baltimore or of the Counties of this State for a violation of this law. The Attorney General or one of his Assistants shall be the legal adviser of the Board.

21. CONSTITUTIONAL CONSTRUCTION. The provisions of this Act are severable, and if any of its provisions are declared unconstitutional, the decision so holding shall not be construed as impairing any other provision of this Act. It is hereby declared as the legislative intent that this Act would have been adopted had such unconstitutional provisions not been included therein.

22. Nothing contained in this Article shall prevent, or be construed in any way to hinder the prosecution, conviction or punishment of any person who may offend against any of the provisions of Chapter 561 of the Acts of the General Assembly of Maryland of 1933.

Sec. 2. And be it further enacted, That this Act shall take effect on June 1st, 1937.

VOTERS URGED TO REPEL RAID AT THE BALLOT BOX

Senator Tydings Challenges Right of Roosevelt To Invade Maryland In Attempt at "Purge"

President Roosevelt's right to invade Maryland with his New Deal purge and to threaten the sovereignty of the State was challenged Sunday night by Senator Tydings, Democratic candidate to succeed himself in the United States Senate.

Marked for political death by the White House, the Senator took the air over a State-wide network and, in reply to the President's demand for his removal from the Senate, called upon Marylanders to stand fast to their traditions and repel the invasion of the ballot box.

Government Fighting Him

His fight for renomination, the Senator said, is not one against a candidate hut one in which the whole weight of the Federeal Government is pitted against him at the direction of the President and his advisers.

"This," he said, "is your fight, fellow Marylanders, as well as mine."

As for himself, the Senator continued, he can lose the office to his New Deal opponent, Representative David J. Lewis, but with this loss goes the loss of the right of Marylanders to select their own representatives, the surrender of State sovereignty and the destruction of traditions.

Demands Answer

He demanded of Representative Lewis that he state whether he had sought "this invasion of Maryland by high officials of the Government," and in so doing had "completely reversed himself."

In June, the Senator recalled, Mr. Lewis asserted that he intended to make the campaign on principles without outside assistance.

"But now," he continued, "the same Mr. Lewis who denounced and denied that he would not accept outside help last June, now begs and pleads for outside help."

Refers To Non-Residents

And in so doing, the Senator said, his opponent calls upon Federal powers in Washington to "compel the people of Maryland to select a Senator who will represent not the people of Maryland but the Federal non-residents who are to make his election certain if they can."

If elected, said the Senator, Mr. Lewis will owe his allegiance to this group of non-Marylanders and not to the people who elected him.

The President and his advisers, he continued, have not only marked him for political death but they also have tried to determine whom the people of Maryland shall elect.

Twits "Cry For Help"

"Are you," the Senator asked his opponent, "unable to maintain your position without the support of the most powerful man in the world?" And again he asked Mr. Lewis whether he has "thrown all his high-sounding phrases overboard" and begun to "pray, welcome and cry for help from Washington?"

The way the New Deal is attempting to seat Mr. Lewis, the Senator reminded his opponent, "is not the way Charles Carroll of Carrollton, Reverdy Johnson, Samuel Smith, Isador Raynor or Arthur P. Gorman fought their way into the United States Senate."

Fought Own Battles

These Maryland statesmen, said Senator Tydings, "were men who could stand up alone for Maryland, who asked nothing more than the privilege of standing face to face with their opponents and battling it out on even terms."

But the Lewis campaign, he continued, has been marked by the appearance of a new word in Maryland politics—"purge." And, he said, "it is a word foreign to our ears in our dealings with each other," a word "we are accustomed to read only in connection with wholesale assassinations in foreign countries."

Hits Campaign Of "Coercion"

The Lewis campaign, as directed from Washinotgn, the Senator asserted, is one of force and coercion, aimed not only at those holding high official posts in the Federal Government and demanding their right to vote as they please, but at the intimidation of thousands of workers in the lower brackets who enjoy suffrage in Maryland.

He emphasized further that the purge was being directed by non-Marylanders, who neither reside, pay taxes nor have the privilege of balloting in the election.

"I believe the day will come," the Senator asserted, "when President Roosevelt will realize that neither he, nor any other executive, Federal or State, should attempt to destroy the independence and usefulness of the other branches of the Government."

Warns Against Interference Of President In State Politics

U. S. Senator Millard E. Tydings

MT. LAKE PARK

Last Sunday night saw one of the largest crowd in many years at the amphitheatre. Next Sunday ten thousand people are expected to visit the Park. There will be an ox roast at which time the plans and program of the Park's new owners will be outlined. Excursions from both east and west will be operated.

We have been much interested in the many different reactions of the community regarding the transfer of the Park and their opinions, guesses, etc.,seems to us there are about an equal number of pessimists and optimists. Anyway, no one could be pessimistic over last Sunday night.

One point we have been asked to make clear: in the statement printed last week it was said that this would be the second self-help school to be launched, the first school being located in Tennessee. We are informed, and authentically so, that there are in the United States at least six of these institutions, all operating successfully. The best known are probably the one at Berea, Ky., and Antioch College. Personally, it does not matter to us how many there are if this one comes through—and we believe it will.

"Texas Slim" will be here this week—also in the amphitheatre. We do not have much "dope" on just who he is, but we are assured that he will draw a crowd.

Before we forget it, we must mention that the stage of the amphitheatre has seldom looked so beautiful. Mrs. E. L. Winchell was responsible for this decoration, and speaking of Mrs. Winchell, if anyone has located the small flashlight which she lost on Sunday night or has it she will be very grateful for its return. This loss and that of the lad who lost his railroad ticket were the only two reported, which considering the crowd, was pretty good. The chap who lost his ticket was not greatly worried as he was found asleep on a bench.

It would not seem a bad idea to have someone in charge of traffic conditions next Sunday.

"Purge"

That word "purge" smacks of Hitler and Mussolini. President Roosevelt is trying to use the same tactics in getting rid of legislators who do not agree with him and his ideas, no matter what those ideas may be.

For his attempt at interfering with State politics where he has absolutely no business, it is our sincere hope that Tyding beats Lewis in Maryland for the Democratic nomination for United States Senate; that Senator George wins out again in Georgia; that Congressman O'Connor is successful in New York, and that other candidates selected by Roosevelt for the "purge" be victorious. If there's any purging to he done, let the people do it.

* * *

We do hope that Senator Tydings hasn't had his conscience hurt by the report that he sent a telegram to Democrats in Oakland that he was having a carload of fish sent to Garrett county.

The carload of fish came—ubt the State Conservation Commission, a Republican body under a Republican Governor, was responsible for those fish and their arrival and disposition upon arrival. It furnished the carrying charges of more than $400 to get them here.

Senator Tydings did make some inquiry about fish, but when it was learned $400 would be necessary he is reported to have lost interest and one can hardly blame him for that. He shouldn't jump on the Conservation Commission bandwagon, however.

The county is indebted to Dr. McComas, a member of the Commission, for the stocking of Deep Creek Lake with the fish.

News Of The Hour

Jasper Myers, Kitzmiller, and political candidate, is still wearing a Landon button. He says is it to pay an election bet, which he lost.

Bob Glaze went to Pittsburgh last week for a tryout in big league baseball. The "scouts" seemed impressed with his speed ball and his batting ability and asked him to come back again next year.

At the girls' 4-H camp last week there was consumed 90 quarts of milk daily. There were never more than forty girls at camp during any one day.

A candidate for office in a neighboring county isn't in the race because of solicitation of his many friends, according to a newspaper of that section. The candidate says he was urged into the race by his many creditors.

NATIONAL AFFAIRS

By FRANK P. LITSCHERT

The much advertised "good neighbor" policy which Secretary of State Hull and the national administration have been adopting toward Mexico seems to have run on to a side track. Most of us will hope that it turns out to be a temporary siding, but the present muddled state calls for a great deal of diplomatic manipulation.

We have often heard that a "new" policy toward Latin America was going to change our international relations completely. No longer would there be any friction or discord on either side of the Rio Grande. We had become, under the New Deal, the good neighbor of all Latin America. Unfortunately the good neighbor policy, to be succesful, requires good neighbors on both sides of the street. While Uncle Sam was quite willing to be neighborly, and still is—in fact, he has been a sort of Santa Claus to the rest of the world for a generation—Mexico, through its radically minded President, has sought to take advantage of the situation.

His boldest move has been the expropriation of the property of citizens of the United States in Mexico without giving compensation. Such a procedure is something more than expropriation. The Mexican oil concessions to Americans went first, and now Mexican land held by Americans is apparently being expropriated. If this act succeeds and Mexico gets away with it—and doubtless she will—then no foreign property in Mexico will be safe.

To the Mexican government our State Department properly made a protest. It admitted the right of expropriation but held that the Mexican government ought to pay damages. The Mexican government in reply denies that it is in honor bound to do so, and hides behind the excise that its seizure of American property is not personal but general and impersonal.

Just what will happen next remains to be seen. Mexico is undoubtedly banking that the soft words and honeyed phrases she has heard from Washington mean that we will do nothing about it. But she is treading on dangerous ground, especially if she seeks to expropriate the property of other nations, like France and Great Britain. These countries are not bound by a neighbor policy to permit their nationals to be despoiled, and it is barely possible that, if sufficiently irritated, they will do something about it.

In fact, it would seem that sometning is already being done about it. Mexico is in the throes of a serious economic depression. This may be due to the ambitious "new deal" program adopted some time ago, but it may be due in part to the way Mexico is treating the property of other nationals. The depression set in about the time Mexico seized the American and British oil concessions. Thousands of oil laborers were thrown out of work. The seizure of other foreign owned property has so lowered confidence in Mexico that its peso is jittery in the financial markets of the world. The situation seems decidedly gloomy from the Mexican standpoint. The radical Mexican government may yet find out it doesn't pay to kill the goose that lays the golden egg.

In the meantime, the lesson for us is that a good neighbor policy won't work unless all the neighbors decide to be good. Otherwise the bad neighbor will simply be taking the good neighbor for a ride.

Dislocates Shoulder In Wreck

Charles Hinchcliff, Mountain Lake Park, sustained a dislocated shoulder and numerous cuts and bruises when a car which he was driving left the highway at a point between Crellin and Oakland, and turned over, last Sunday evening. A companion, Jefferson Kerns, was also cut and bruised.

Hinchcliff was taken to Memorial Hospital, Cumberland, for treatment, but is now back at work in the Loch Lynn Garage. The accident occurred as the men were returning home from Hutton.

Howard Simmons, enroute from his home at Crellin to the mines near that town last Sunday, struck the garage of Harland Wilt, near the highway, damaging his car to some extent and ripping a hole in the building. No one was injured.

M'HENRY CITIZENS ASK CONSTRUCTION OF SCHOOL

Petition To School Board Asks That One-Teacher School Stays Until Other Is Built

BOARD TO CONSIDER PLAN

At a meeting of the Board of Education held last Thursday, a petition was presented requesting the construction of a new three or four room school building at McHenry, with the present one-teacher school to be continued until the new building could be completed, the attendance being very small at the present school.

The petition was signed by many citizens of the McHenry neighborhood. It was pointed out in the petition that the consolidation of various schools around that section with the McHenry school would solve many problems in the schools there.

Careful consideration will be given by the Board to the petition, F. E. Rathbun, county superintendent, stated, as funds for a large, new building at McHenry may be made available by the State Legislature of 1939 or by the County Commissioners.

Mr. Rathbun said the present pupils at McHenry had their schooling provided for this year in the best possible way.

William C. Grimm was appointed as an additional teacher in the Grantsville High school, and will teach science, history, and physical education. Mr. Grimm, Buckhannon, W. Va., is a graduate of Shepherd college, Shepherdstown, W. Va.

Other matters taken up by the Board will be published next week. Attending the meeting were Walter W. Dawson, president; W. W. Savage, vice-president; and F. E. Rathbun, secretary.

More Than Fifty Thousand Persons Have Visited Swallow Falls

More than fifty thousand persons have visited Swallow Falls State Forest, nine miles north of Oakland, during the months of June, July and August, according to figures compiled at the office of H. C. Buckingham, State Forester.

During July an estimated 24,000 persons visited the forest that has many scenic trails and beauty spots, while in August 20,000 viewed these same spots. Only 10,000 people were at the forest during the month of June.

Last Sunday it was stated that 800 persons in 161 automobiles visited and admired the beauty spot. More people from Pennsylvania than any other State were there that day, with West Virginians second. Visitors also came from the District of Columbia, Florida, Massachusetts, New York, Ohio and Oklahoma.

The census revealed that visitors were present from the following cities and towns in Maryland: Accident, Baltimore, Barton, Deer Park, Eckhart, Forest Hill, Friendsville, Frostburg, Grantsville, Hoye's Run, Hutton, La-Vale, Lonaconing, Luke, McHenry, Midland, Mountain Lake Park, Mt. Savage, Oakland, Sparrows Point, Westernport, Westminster and Wilson.

Marriage License Record Again Shattered

Marriage records for Garrett county were shattered again with the issuance of 286 for the month of August. This was the fourth time that the number had exceeded 200 in any one month, and the third time this year.

Other months above 200 were August, 1937, 205; April, 1938, 216; June, 1938, 249.

With August's total, the number of permits issued this year by the clerk of the Circuit Court, reached 1486.

Since August 21 there had been 91 licenses issued, twenty-four of which were on Saturday. Five applicants were refused during the past ten days.

A preliminary sketch of a proposed community building is now being made by Mr. Hetzer, a young architect of Williamsport, Md., which may lead to the ultimate construction of a building here through a WPA project, according to Lawrence M. Fraley, mayor.

The sketch will include a gymnasium, library quarters, and space for the fire department, municipal rooms and organization rooms. Such a project would be sponsored by the fire depratment, it was stated.

SELF-HELP UNIVERSITY TO START SEPTEMBER 17

Several Instructors Are Named; 50 Persons Have Already Made Application To Enter

PATRONS' DAY SEPT. 18

That the Mountain Lake Park Self-Help University would definitely get under way on September 17, was announced this week following a meeting of the Board of Directors on Monday, by Dr. Dean C. Dutton, acting chancellor.

The organization of such a school was first announced several weeks ago when the property of the Mountain Lake Park Association was sold to the National Character Education Association. The latter organization is sponsoring the school in addition to arranging for a series of meetings calculated to attract thousands of people to the park during the summer months.

Announcement was also made that Miss Maude I. Jefferson, of West Liberty, West Va., would be registrar and instructor; Miss Frances Miller, of Monongahela City, Pa., dean of women and instructor in Bible, and Joyce Webster, of Tulsa, Okla., dean of men and general instructor. Miss Jefferson is recognized as a prominent woman in educational work in West Virginia.

John D. Muldoon, A.B., A.M., professor of economics and sociology at Salem college, will give extension courses in economics and sociology at the University. These courses will be open to the students at the self-help university and all teachers or others wishing college credits toward a degree.

The school will open on Saturday, September 17, with a series of three lectures by Dr. Dutton, followed by instruction in first-year college work.

S. O. Bond, president of Salem College, Salem, West Va., was at the Park on Sunday and arrangements were made to clear the credits of students through that college, giving them an accredited rating in courses they take while attending the self-help university.

Rev. Paul R. Maness, field secretary, stated that about 50 applications of students had already been received and that it would be impossible to accept many more for the first year's work. A registration fee of $5.00 is required, paid either in cash, produce, live stock, or work of 250 hours. Each semester hour of work will cost 25 hours of work. Board and room 100 hours of work per month. Earl D. Ford is secretary and treasurer of the university.

Those who find the combination schedule too heavy may work less and make up the deficit in cash or produce, or balance their budget with fewer classes. Detailed information can be secured from Rev. Maness at Thoburn Inn, Mt. Lake Park.

Rev. Maness also announced that the Board had inspected the buildings at the Park and had decided to use Thoburn Inn as a girls' dormitory, Hamilton Hall as a boys' dormitory, and the Assembly Hall for class rooms.

Patron's Day

There will be a Patron's Day meeting at the Park on Sunday afternoon and evening, September 18, to which all people who are interested are invited to attend. Dr. Dutton will speak.

"Our idea is that a college education should be made available to any boy or girl willing to work for it," Dr. Dutton stated.

GARRETT COUNTY SCHOOLS WILL OPEN NEXT TUESDAY

An All-Day Teachers' Meeting Scheduled For Friday, Sept. 9

All Garrett county public schools will open next Tuesday, September 6, it was announced by F. E. Rathbun, county superintendent. This is one day earlier than is usually the case. Previously the opening of schools had been preceded by an all-day teachers' meeting, but this meeting will not be held until Friday, September 9, and will be conducted in the Oakland High school building. At this meeting plans for the year will be mapped out and a lot of necessary material will be distributed.

The meeting will be in charge of Mr. Rathbun, with Miss Kate Bannatyne and Mrs. Caroline Wilson, supervising teachers, assisting. At the same time there will also be a meeting of all bus drivers in the county.

Approximately five thousand boys and girls will be called from their vacations when the doors of the Garrett county school buildings open on Tuesday.

Vacancies In Tickets Filled By State Central Committees

Vacancies in both Republican and Democratic tickets were filled at meetings of State Central Committees last Friday.

The Republican committee met and named Carlton McComas, Lawrence Fraley and A. R. Martin as delegates to the Republican convention. E. R. Jones had filed previously with Frederick A. Thayer, Jr., clerk to the Board of Election Supervisors.

The Democratic committee, meeting at Kitzmiller last Friday evening, selected Walter H. Haenftling as candidate for the House of Delegates; Harvey A. Loraditch, candidate for clerk to the County Commissioners; and Asa T. Matthews, candidate for State's Attorney.

This will make contests in the general election for these positions in addition to State Senator, County Commissioner and Sheriff.

8,100 Persons Eligible To Vote In The Primary

More than 8,100 voters will be eligible to vote in Garrett county at the Primary election on September 12.

A total of 8,179 voters are listed on the books from the last general registration held in 1936. Of that number 2,790 were Democrats and 5,348 were Republicans. There are 4,916 men and 3,263 women.

Registration of new voters will be held on Tuesday, September 6, which is the last registration day prior to the balloting and it is expected that two or three hundred will be added to the total at that time.

Registration of voters will also be held October 4 and 11, prior to the November 8 election. Any person who becomes of age on or before November 8 is entitled to register September 6 and vote in the primaries.

Sisters of Mercy Return

The four sisters of mercy who conduct St. Peter's Parochial School have returned to Oakland to prepare for the opening of the school year which will occur on Tuesday, September 13.

Those who have returned are Sister Mary Bertrand R. S. M., Sister Mary Alfred R. S. M., Sister Mary Mechtild R. S. M., and Sister Mary Edmund R. S. M.

During the summer the men of the parish built a spacious porch adjoining the convent which will add to the convenience and comfort of the Sisters.

Lake Association Had Annual Meeting Sunday Afternoon

About thirty-five members of the Deep Creek Lake Association met last Sunday afternoon in annual session to hear reports of progress and plans for the future concerning the lake.

Reports were received concerning the sanitary conditions of the lake area and about the stocking of the lake with fish, which is being carried on under the direction of the State Conservation Commission. Raymond D. Houck reported on the recent safety meeting.

It was decided that the Board of Directors would remain the same as the previous year, the board to meet in the near future and elect an executive committee. The executive committee will elect its officers.

A twenty-page souvenir program will be off the press tomorrow evening and will be well distributed thruout the area and at the picnic.

The Knights of Pythias lodge received its dispensation from the Grand Lodge of Maryland on November 6, 1889, and its charter was delieved on February 12, 1890. The lodge was established originally at Mountain Lake Park, afterwards its place of meeting being changed to Oakland. About thirty persons constituted the original lodge, of whom Dr. Henry W. McComas, of Oakland, is the sole survivor. The lodge has a membership at this time of about 250.

The idea of holding a Labor Day picnic was conceived and the first one was conducted in 1920, in an effort to liquidate the debt standing against the Pythian building. There was a net profit of $3,000. Since then the picnic has been an annual event.

Miss Gwendolyn Hardman, of Spencer, West Va., and Mr. Haig Jackson, of Lonaconing, will be married at noon today at Spencer. Mr. Jackson is a son of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Board of Supervisors of Election for Garrett County, Maryland.

Board of Supervisors of Elections for Garrett County, Maryland.

R, JR., Clerk.

LOOKING FORWARD

By FRANKLYN WALTMAN

Publicity Director, Republican National Committee

Perhaps no objective has received from the New Deal so much lip service as that of coordinated planning and governmental efficiency. Certainly there is none toward which less actual progress has been made.

Mr. Roosevelt is always talking about the necessity of planning—but he seldom plans the work and policies of the New Deal agencies. Each one gropes along as it desires—frequently clashing with the purposes of others. Not to let your right hand know what your left hand is doing seems to be a New Deal axiom.

This lack of coordination among the New Deal agencies—leading to widespead confusion on the part of business—is well illustrated by R.F.C. Chairman Jesse Jones' one-man campaign to have the banks of the country loosen their purse strings and be more generous with loans.

Be Generous, Says Jones

Mr. Jones became quite bellicose about it. He warned that if the banks did not liberalize their lending policies, it might become necessary for an extension of governmental credit facilities. He even went so far as to suggest that the banks use their depositors' money for loans now usually made by finance companies with stockholders' money specifically put up for that purpose.

The fact of the matter is that most of the country's bankers feel they have been making all the sound loans possible within the limits of good bank management. They are as anxious to make money as anyone else, but they remember only too well that the banks which pursued liberal and generous lending policies prior to the first depression were among the banks which did not reopen in 1933.

But that is not the point at which we are driving. The point is that after Mr. Jones harvested a great deal of newspaper publicity by threatening the banks for being too tight, the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation, also a New Deal agency, warned the banks against being too generous with loans.

"Bank supervision is concerned primarily with the protection of depositors," said the F.D.I.C. "As in any other type of business, bankers, if they are to perform their function, must be prepared to assume some risk. But when these risks become excessive in terms of the amount of capital of the bank or when a bank is otherwise mismanaged, it is the duty of the bank supervisor to step in to seek correction."

Be Cautious, Says Crowley

Leo T. Crowley, chairman of the F. D.I.C., went on to point out that "loans and securities will be criticized on the basis of judgment as to the ability of the obligor or debtor to repay the obligation."

And some people wonder why business is confused and uncertain! In this case the banker is in the dilemma of being told by Mr. Jones that if he does not liberalize his judgment on loans the government will go into competition with him—while Mr. Crowley tells him that if he does and any of his loans go sour he will be held to strict accountability.

But, of course, the most significant aspect of this whole business was the disclosure that the private bank in Houston, Texas, which Mr. Jones controls, has been more than usually cautious in its loan policy. Banker Jones, it seems, does not entertain the same idea sabout this matter as does R.F.C. Chairman Jones.

The Jones' bank in its June 30 statement revealed that its loans and discounts amounted only to 16 per cent of its total assets. Recent figures for the 503 Federal Reserve member banks of Texas disclosed that loans and discounts represent 28 per cent of their assets, while for the nation the comparable figure is 29 per cent.

The Spirit of The New Deal

At a recent press conference Mr. Jones was requested to reconcile his demands that the banks loosen up and the cautious policy of his own bank.

"I don't want people to do as I do, but as I tell them to do," the R.F.C. Chairman replied.

There, concisely and clearly was epitomized the spirit of the New Deal, not alone in this but in most matters. Anyone who shows an interest in making a profit is assailed as greedy by those in the New Deal who never overlook a single opportunity for private gain.

Much is said about morality in private and public life, yet the White House secretarial offices are turned over to a young man whose income comes chiefly from premiums on insurance sold to corporations doing business with the Federal Government.

Worthless convention books are autographed by the President and sold to corporations—in large quantities to some—for $250 each to supply the party with funds. Federal workers are shamelessly shaken down for the benefit of the party war chest.

"I don't want people to do as I do, but as I tell you to do"—these words deserve to be painted across the New Deal banner.

HOT WEATHER FOOD FACTS GIVEN BY HEALTH DEPT.

If you are anxious to decrease the discomfort of hot weather, avoid eating foods which stimulate the production of heat in the body. Protein foods, such as meat, fish, eggs and poultry, act in this way and so should be taken sparingly. Stimulating drinks, such as tea and coffee, and very cold or iced foods also cause the body to produce more heat. Drinks like iced tea and iced coffee are not cooling in their effects for, besides being stimulants, they chill the stomach so suddenly that the body responds with an emergency production of heat. To hot weather sufferers, they are wolves in sheep's clothing.

So watch the kind of things you eat and drink. On the other hand the belief we need less food in hot than in cold weather is often untrue. The amount of food needed by a certain person depends chiefly on how active he is physically. If you do the same kind of work and spend you spare time in the same way in the summer as in the winter, you will need slightly less food when the mercury climbs. But, if you do farm work in the summer and tinker around the house in the winter, a greater amount of foods will be needed in the summer.

Children who sit at a desk a large part of every winter day and who play hard in the summer frequently need more food in the summer than in the winter. Many children lose weight in the summer because they do not eat enough to meet this increased need. They require a "good breakfast" and a "hot lunch" just as much now as they do in the winter when we are more prone to worry over their meals. The protein foods, which stimulate heat production in the adult, are required by the child for growth and so in the child do not cause extra heat production. Therefore, they need not be limited in the child's diet.

An adult's need for the protective foods remains the same in the summer as in the winter, so when, because of the heat, you take just a sandwich for lunch give a thought to where your vitamins and minerals are coming from. Include fruit and vegetables and milk in that meal.

When the day is hot, the heat produced by the body is eliminated almost entirely by evaporation. This causes a loss of water and salt from the body which should be made up by

To The Voters of Garrett County

Because we dared to raise our voices in our defense against the unfair and false statements made by Senator Friend in his attacks on us, this man has again had circulars printed and in his customary insulting and sneering way reflects upon us and our ability to handle the affairs of the office to which we were elected by the people of the County.

We do not seek re-nomination and re-election to this important office on the strength of our ability to throw mud on our opponents. We ask the people of the county to return us to this office solely on the strength of our record. There are a number of good substantial citizens opposing us in this Primary and we have no mud to sling on them.

To cite briefly some of the things that we have accomplished during our term of office we refer to the excellent state of the finances of the county; to what has been done by us during our administration in the way of improvements and additions to public school buildings in Oakland, Kitzmiller, Grantsville, Mountain Lake Park, Red House, Loch Lynn, Accident and other rural school buildings; to the number of miles of roads that have been re-built and re-constructed during the four years that we have been in office; to our caring for and helping those in distress and in need of public assistance during the depression that has continued almost uninterrupedly during our four years in office; to our care of the public buildings; to our meeting of the County obligations promptly when due and to many other things that we have done that space will not permit us to detail in this article. We merely mention these things to impress the people of the County that we do not ask their support because we are adept at the art of mud slinging.

We are proud of our county and take a great deal of pride in what good we have been able to accomplish in the performance of our official duties in the four years that we have been your County Commissioners and whether or not we have succeeded in this public trust we are content to leave with the intelligent voting public of Garrett county.

The office of County Commissioner is a very responsible position that requires important decisions nearly every day and we do not pretend to be supermen nor do we pretend to be infallible. We have performed our duties as we conceived them and possibly have made some mistakes. We do not believe that any human being can occupy that office without making some mistakes, but we do state to the people again that we have conscientiously, diligently and sincerely done what our conscience directed was the proper thing to do in every instance.

Contrasting this stand with that of Senator Friend, we would suggest to him that he do likewise, and cite to the people of Garrett county what his record as a Senator has been. Let him point to one single noteworthy achievement of his during his term of office.

Let him tell the people what he has accomplished for the good of the county. What public movements he has been identified with to further the interests of Garrett County, and let him tell the people on what grounds he seeks re-nomination and re-election to the important office he now holds.

We do not believe that the intelligent voters of Garrett County will he fooled by his efforts to cover up his failure as a Senator by trying to infer that we were a failure.

He has the nerve to try to justify his accepting twenty cents per mile mileage for his trips to Annapolis and then point us out as extravagant spenders of public funds when we allow eight cents per mile for hauling four passengers, or two cents per mile for each one. He attempts to justify his receiving twenty cents per mile by pointing ont that this money came out of the State funds rather than county funds. Of course, there is no difference between State and County funds, the State funds being derived wholly from the several counties and Baltimore city, hence Mr. Friend's pay came from county funds.

Why didn't Mr. Friend tell the people of the county why he didn't have the interests of the taxpayers at heart when he was trying to get us to pay him more for his sheep that had been killed, allegedly by dogs, than we paid to the citizens who lost their sheep in the same manner?

Let him answer our question as to why, in his public announcement offering himself as a candidate for re-election that he stated that he had not used the influence of his office to obtain jobs for his relatives and intimate friends and now publicly admits that he had his wife on the public payroll at Annapolis and refused to state how many days she actually served the public to justify receiving the money that she received.

Let him tell the taxpayers of Garrett County how many days Nellie K. Friend was on duty at Annapolis during the regular session of 1935 for which she received $450.

As we stated in our letter last week, the difference to Senator Friend seems to be when he is on the receiving end, and we would like him to answer the above questions and when he does we think the answers themselves will prove whether or not he is sincere in his pretense of being concerned about the spending of public monies.

He is using the old trick of trying to confuse the issues of this campaign and cover up his own failures by throwing mud at us, and we are confident that the intelligent voters of Garrett County are not going to be fooled.

CASTEEL

Republican Candidate For

STATE CENTRAL COMMITTEE

—Political Advertisement authorized by the candidate. 2t*

TO THE VOTERS AND CITIZENS OF GARRETT COUNTY:

I, being a candidate for County Commissioner, take this method of stating to you the way I stand on different questions:

I think that each and every public official should be very careful as to how they spend the taxpayers' money, and that economy should be kept in mind at all time.

I oppose the bonding of our county without a referendum.

I believe the beer tax of this county should be used to build and enlarge our school buildings.

I believe the county roads should be put back in the hands of the County Commissioners.

I believe the Superintendent of Schools and also the School Board should be elected by the people.

I oppose the destroying of our school houses and the consolidation of any more of our schools without the peoples' consent.

I find as I traveled over the county, a number of roads that were rocked a few years ago, but very little work has been done on these since in the way of maintenance. I think it would be more economical to keep these roads in shape than to let them go bad and build new ones later on.

Mr. Taxpayer, Laboring Man, and Farmer: I would have only been too glad to have met each and everyone of you before the primary, but as this is impossible, I take this method in asking your very careful consideration on September 12th, and if you will nominate and elect me, I will try and give you a fair and square deal.

I firmly believe in a government that is: "for the people, of the people, and by the people."

Thanking you in advance, I remain.

Very respectfully yours,
DANIEL N. GREEN.

ORDER OF PUBLICATION

Philip Filsinger, Executor of the Last Will and Testament of Martin Filsinger, Deceased, et al vs. Sophie Campbell, et al.

No. 3479 Equity. In the Circuit Court for Garrett County, Maryland.

The object of this bill is to have the Court construe the meaning of the Last Will and Testament of Martin Filsinger, Deceased.

The bill states:

FIRST:—That Martin Filsinger, late of Garrett County, Maryland, deceased, died on the 19th day of May, 1919, leaving a Last Will and Testament duly executed to pass real estate.

SECOND:—That on the same day of the execution of the Last Will and Testament by the said Martin Filsinger, his wife, Catharine Filsinger, executed a Last Will and Testament and the said Catharine Filsinger died on the 1st day of January, 1923.

THIRD:—Both of said wills above referred to were duly admitted to probate by the Orphans' Court for Garrett County, Maryland, and your orator, Philip Filsinger, qualified as Executor in said Court and filed an accounting as such Executor with the said Court.

FOURTH:—That at the time of the death of the said Martin Filsinger he was seized and possessed of a tract of land containing approximately 76 acres, being the residue of the tract of land acquired by the said Martin Filsinger from Henry G. Davis and Kate A. Davis, his wife, by deed dated October 12, 1901, and recorded in Liber E. Z. T., No. 40, folio 256, one of the Land Records of Garrett County, Maryland.

FIFTH:—That the said Martin Filsinger departed this life on the 19th day of May, 1919, testate, leaving surviving him as his heirs at law and next of kin Philip Filsinger, a son, who married Mary J. Filsinger; Herman Filsinger ,a son, who departed this life intestate, leaving surviving him as his heirs at law and next of kin the following named children: Sophie Campbell, married to Owen Camphell; Cora Tippen, married to James Tippen; Emma Jennings, married to Fred Jennings; Conrad Filsinger, single; George Filsinger, married to Stella Filsinger; Albert Filsinger, single; Herman Filsinger, married to Gladys Filsinger; William Filsinger, married to Winona Filsinger; Pearl Condry, married to Joseph Condry; Nellie Weisenborne, married to Joseph Weisenborne, and Esther Filsinger, an infant under the age of twenty-one years; Adolph Filsinger, a son, who departed this life intestate, leaving surviving him as his heirs at law and next of kin, his widow, Elizabeth Filsinger, and the following named children: Carl Filsinger, married to Catherine Filsinger; Gilbert Filsinger, married to Helen Filsinger; Harry Filsinger, single; Adolph Filsinger, married to Alice Filsinger; Mary Oremusz, married to John Oremusz; Elizabeth Mascheim, married to Alfred Mascheim; Pauline Maus, married to John Maus, and Emma Weisenborne, married to Elmer Weisenborne; Ida Linenbogger, a daughter, who departed this life intestate, leaving surviving her as her heirs at law and next of kin the following named children: Irene Shepard, married to James Shepard; Emma Green, married to Emmet Green; Marie Linenbogger, single; Adolph Linenbogger, married to ——— Linenbogger; William Linenhogger, married to Eva Linenbogger; Arthur Linenbogger, married to Mary Linenbogger; Owen Linenbogger, single; Herman Linenbogger Wilson, married to ——— Linenbogger Wilson; Emma Brant, a daughter, who departed this life leaving surviving her her husband, Gilbert Brant, and the following named children: Verona Decker, Pauline Bloom, Elwood Brant, married to ——— Brant; Clayton Brant, married to ——— Brant; Gilbert Brant, married to — Brant; Lily Wise; Otto Filsinger, a son, who departed this life leaving surviving him as his heirs at law and next of kin, his widow, Pearl Filsinger, now married to William Durst, and the following named children: Paul O. Filsinger, married to ——— Filsinger; Catherine Filsinger, single; Marie Nicklow, married to Clark Nicklow, and Edward Filsinger, single; Mary Mills, a daughter, and Tillie Logsdon, a daughter.

SIXTH:—That your orator, Philip Filsinger, having been advised that under proper construction of the Last Will and Testament of his said father, Martin Filsinger, he acquired title to the real estate above referred to and on February 26, 1927, he and his wife, Mary J. Filsinger, executed a mortgage in the sum of $4500.00 to the Garrett National Bank of Oakland, Maryland, a corporation.

SEVENTH:—That the said Garrett National Bank of Oakland, Maryland, a corporation, is now in receivership and the said John H. Hoffman is Receiver for the said corporation.

EIGHTH:—That it is contended by the said Philip Filsinger that according to the true construction of the Will of the said Martin Filsinger that it was plainly his intention and desire that all of his estate, both real and personal, should go to him after the payment of certain specific bequests as set out in the said Will, and that it was plainly the intention of Martin Filsinger and Catharine Filsinger, his wife, the father and mother of your orator, Philip Filsinger, that any estate owned by them at the time of their death, should go to the said Philip Filsinger, absolutely.

NINTH:—That your orator, Philip Filsinger, acquired title to the real estate owned by the said Martin Filsinger at the time of his death, and has continuously occupied the said property since that time without any question being raised by any of the heirs at law of the said Martin Filsinger and Catharine Filsinger, his wife, and since their death he has expended large sums of money in improving said property. That the said Philip Filsinger a short time ago applied to the Federal Government for a Farm Loan and upon an investigation of the title to said property by the local attorney for the Farm Loan he was advised by said attorney that there was a slight question as to his valid title to said property. Your orator has been advised by his counsel that it would be necessary to have the Court construe the Will of the said Martin Filsinger for the purpose of removing any question as to the validity of his title to said property.

The bill prays that the Court may take jurisdiction in the premises and construe the meaning of the Last Will and Testament of the said Martin Filsinger as to his intention of the disposition of his real estate remaining in his name at the time of his death. For general relief, for the writ of subpoena against the resident defendants. Conrad Filsinger, George Filsinger and Stella Filsinger, his wife; Albert Filsinger, Herman Filsinger and Gladys Filsinger, his wife; William Filsinger and Winona Filsinger, his wife; Pearl Condry and Joseph Condry, her husband; Nellie Weisenborne and Joseph Weisenborne, her husband; Ester Filsinger, Elizabeth Filsinger, Carl Filsinger and Catherine Filsinger, his wife; Gilbert Filsinger and Helen Filsinger, his wife; Harry Filsinger, William Linenbogger and Eva Linenhogger, his wife; Arthur Linenbogger and Mary Linenbogger, his wife; Owen Linenbogger, Herman Linenbogger Wilson and ——— Linenbogger Wilson, his wife; Tillie Logsdon, Elwood Brant and ——— Brant, his wife; Pauline Bloom, Gilbert Brant and ——— Brant, his wife; Lily Wise, Pearl Durst and William Durst, her husband; Paul O. Filsinger and ——— Filsinger, his wife; Catherine Filsinger, Edward Filsinger and John H. Hoffman, Receiver for The Garrett National Bank of Oakland, Maryland, and the order of publication against the non-resident defendants, Sophie Campbell and Owen Campbell, her husband; Cora Tippen and James Tippen, her husband; Emma Jennings and Fred Jennings, her husband; Adolph Filsinger and Alice Filsinger, his wife; Mary Oremusz and John Oremusz, her husband; Elizabeth Mascheim and Alfred Mascheim, her husband; Pauline Maus and John Maus, her husband; Emma Weisenborne and Elmer Weisenborne, her husband; Irene Shepard and James Shepard, her husband; Emma Green and Emmett Green, her husband; Marie Linenbogger, Adolph Linenbogger and ——— Linenbogger, his wife; Mary Mills, Gilbert Brant, Verona Decker, Clayton Brant and ——— Brant, his wife; Marie Nicklow and Clark Nicklow, her husband.

A PIECE OF FOLLY

A Presbyterian minister writes: "My host here in California has been feeding me with large and luscious cantaloupes for breakfast. But yesterday he stated that he could get no more like them, for orders have come from Washington that 'all the rest of the crop must be destroyed in order to keep the price of small melons up.'" It is hard to conceive of such folly in high places. Wanton destruction of God's good gifts in order that inferior products may be foisted upon a people! Is it possible for any one to imagine our Maker smiling upon such a program?

Counties In Red In Lateral Road Fund By $210,363

With a month remaining until the end of the fiscal year, fifteen of Maryland's twenty-three counties were in the red $210,363 in their lateral roads funds account with the State Roads Commission, the commission's July 31 figures showed last Friday.

No additional funds can be distributed from the gasoline tax and bond proceeds for roads construction in these counties until the deficits are wiped out.

Commission Auditor William A. Codd said nine counties showed credit balances totaling $193,176—including $142,304 credited to Hnrford county as proceeds of county bonds. The credit gave the counties a net deficit in their accounts of $17,187. Garrett county overdrew $21,292, and Allegany county overdrew $28,199.

Sun Disappears Rapidly

Once the sun reaches the horizon it seems to travel much more rapidly than when viewed up in the sky.

Last Sunday evening, standing on Table Rock just as the sun reached the western horizon, there was an uncertainty as to how long it would take the sun to disappear. One said eight minutes, another ten, so out came the watch to keep tab on Old Sol.

In exactly three minutes and 20 seconds the sun had disappeared entirely from view.

Nurse Reaps Vengeance

The fame of Miss Margaret Kahl, who is at her home in Oakland for a vacation, travels with her. Two people of Cumberland write to The Republican as follows:

"Miss Margaret Kahl, one of the most admired nurses in the employ of the Celaneses Corporation, had made special arrangements to be relieved early last Tuesday so that she would reach home in time for a special dinner given in her honor to set her vacation off at a happy pace. In her rush and enthusiasm she forgot to take time to eat lunch before going on duty so she snatched a cheese sandwich with the hope of mastienting it before the shift was over.

"The nurse arrived at the first aid station, carefully placed the sandwich on the couch and hurried about her [illegible]s. Soon the fangs of hunger relled her of the nice sandwich, but [illegible]ner disgust she found that Mr. [illegible]se had beaten her to it and was [illegible]oying a nice meal. At the appear[illegible]e of the nurse the mouse hopped [illegible]er on her purse and with an impu[illegible]nt look defied her intrusion. The [illegible]rse in her hunger and wrath im[illegible]ediately summoned the police who [illegible]nvestigated and supplied Miss Kahl with a trap. Margaret used a piece of the alluring cheese to bait the trap. Soon the little thief found himself a fatal victim in an attempt to enjoy another meal from the same sandwich which he had stolen. Margaret was so vexed that she refused to remove the body from the iron jaws of the trap and left the job for her relief. The nurse's friends regret her inconvenience in the mouse episode but consoled her with the fact that she was in fine shape for the special dinner."

Success As A Laundryman

There may be some who do not rate Franklin D. Roosevelt very highly as a statesman, but none will dispute that as a laundryman he would be a huge success. In addition to soaking the rich and putting the small business man through the wringer, he keeps the rest of us constantly in hot water.—Contributed via Verona, Pa.

The president accuses Senator Tydings of running on Republican money. Well, the New Deal candidates are running on the taxpayers' money—four and a half billions of it.

California and South Carolina have kept the ball rolling by showing President Roosevelt that he can't tell them who to send to the Senate. Those two states did their own choosing and picked anti-New Deal candidates. Let the ball rolling continue through Maryland.

Louis Azrael, after a hurried trip through four counties including Garrett, jotted down a few memories in his column in the Baltimore News of August 29, as follows:

"And the clear, crisp mold of Oakland—and the mountainy feeling that can reach up and touch the stars—and the sleepless nights because one blanket at the William-James Hotel was far from enough—and the discovery, late in the morning, that additional blankets were in a dresser drawer."

"The match-stick house in the window of Bill's Tavern at Oakland—almost a foot square, about eight inches high, with a fence and many decorations, all made of match sticks—it's lacquered and trimmed and must have taken weeks to make—Oakland is proud of its municipal golf course—Twenty dollars a year and a whole family can use the course any time at all."

Truman C. Bittinger Seeks Nomination for County Treasurer

ATTENTION VOTERS!

Ladies and Gentlemen:

Having come before the people as a candidate for nomination for County Treasurer, I feel it to be my duty to state my attitude toward said office:

The duties incumbent upon a treasurer are the collection of taxes and paying bills. In addition there is a moral duty which cannot be overlooked. The treasurer is by virtue of his office the guardian of the treasury and it is his duty to expose any irregularities in appropriating money entrusted to his care.

Should I be the successful candidate, I assure the citizens of Garrett County that I will inform them of any attempt to use the taxpayers' money for purposes other than that prescribed by law.

Sincerely yours,

TRUMAN C. BITTINGER,

Republican Candidate For Nomination For

TREASURER OF GARRETT COUNTY

For his failure to keep faith with Maryland farmers stares him in the face. Ask Millard Tydings WHY he voted AGAINST Maryland farmers on these measures:

1. Agriculture Adjustment Act, 1933.
2. Farm Relief Bill (Connally-Jones), 1934.
3. Soil Conservation, 1936.

3. $12,000 of HOLC money as a loan on his town house.
4. A Farm Credit Administration loan to buy cattle.
5. Tried to get a government dredged channel costing $22,500 between his Havre de Grace house and his Aberdeen house.
6. His law partner, Robert Archer, collected $2,000 on all WPA funds spent by Harford County in 1936, including a commission on the WPA road he got for Tydings.

LABOR DAY OUTING HERE ATTRACTS MANY VISITORS

Crowd Estimated At Seven To Eight Thousand; Parade Was Of Unusual Interest

WEATHER WAS FAVORABLE

With favorable weather conditions prevailing, a crowd estimated at from seven to eight thousand persons thronged the picnic grounds on Third street Monday for the nineteenth annual Knights of Pythias Labor Day outing.

It was undoubtedly as large a crowd if not larger than the one which assembled last year, and from the way the rides and other attractions were patronized money was flowing freely.

The parade at ten o'clock officially opened the day and was considered to be of unusual interest with a number of floats, two bands, fire departments, comic attractions, etc. The parade disbanded at the picnic grounds. Concerts were given by the Loch Lynn Band and the Oakland Band.

At night an automobile was awarded to Lorraine Weeks, of Mt. Lake Park, and there was a display of fireworks. Two free acts were presented as the concluding attraction.

The Keystone Shows remained here Tuesday and Wednesday.

Although no figures were available members of the Pythian organization stated the ne t receipts this year should total as much as they have for the past several years.

Fifty-Two Marriage Licenses Issued During First Week

Fifty-two marriage licenses had been issued during the first five and one-half days of September at the office of the Circuit Court Clerk, when the record was taken on Tuesday at noon, with Saturday leading for the day with the greatest number. Nineteen licenses were granted on that day with twelve on the day previous. Three were granted on Labor Day.

Ten of the number issued were marked "don't publish," while two applicants were refused. During September, 1937, 166 couples applied for and secured licenses.

Of the 286 licenses issued during the month of August, 121 of the couples came from West Virginia, with one of the parties coming from that same state in 21 other cases. One hundred six couples came from Pennsylvania, 18 from Maryland and 15 from the State of Ohio.

MRS. SAMUEL COLE WILL GIVE UP HEALTH DUTIES

Resigns Nursing Position To Devote Full Time To Family

Mrs. Samuel Cole, health nurse in Garrett county since 1927, has tendered her resignation to become effective on September 15.

Mrs. Cole will be succeeded by Miss Jane Addison, who has been in public health work in Salt Lake City for several years. Miss Addison plans to arrive in Oakland next Thursday.

Mrs. Cole, a graduate of the Maryland General Hospital, Baltimore, began public health work in this county at Kitzmiller, establishing the health center there, and after staying in that town four years moved to the Oakland office where she has been working since that time.

A dinner was given in her honor by her coworkers at the home of Dr. and Mrs. H. R. DuPuy, on August 29th, when it became generally known she had resigned.

Mrs. Cole plans to devote her full time to her family at her home in Mountain Lake Park. In her final report to the State Health Department, Mrs. Cole says she has found extreme pleasure in her work here, in the warm responses of the people, in the cooperation of those in positions of authority and in th ethoughtfulness and helpfulness of men along the highways in times of trouble and women in the homes. in which she visited many times.

The recently appointed health nurse is no stranger to Maryland, according to Dr. DuPuy, health officer of the county. Miss Addison studied in Baltimore and did health work in Johns Hopkins Hospital before leaving for Salt Lake City. Her appointment was made by Dr. R. H. Riley, State Health Director, following a competitive examination conducted by the Civil Service Commission.

DIED

CHRISTINA STILLEY HARVEY

Mrs. Christina Stilley Harvey, daughter of the late Ernest and Elizabeth Bussemeyer Stilley, and widow of the late Benjamin Franklin Harvey, died at the home of her son, George W. Harvey, near Gorman, on Monday, September 5.

She was born in this county on June 7, 1848, and was aged 90 years. She became a member of the Lutheran church at Red House at 15, and about 40 years ago moved her membership to Oak Grove M. E. church. She was married in 1867 to Mr. Harvey and to this union were born five children, only one of whom survives. Seven grandchildren and one great grandchild also survive.

Her husband was a Civil War veteran and died twenty-two years ago.

Victory For Tydings In Garrett County Predicted

A summer resident of the county gave out the following information yesterday: "I make the prediction that Tydings will carry the county, following a visit made to every section."

928 STUDENTS ENROLLED IN SCHOOLS OF OAKLAND

With an enrollment of 928 pupils, the public schools of Oakland opened this week for the nine-months' term of instruction. Oakland High school and Oakland Elementary school opened on Tuesday morning, while the Parochial school will not open until Tuesday, September 13.

An all-day teachers' meeting of the public schools will be held on Friday in the Oakland High school auditorium, and at the same time a safety meeting will be conducted for bus drivers.

The enrollment at the High school was the highest in the history of that school, with a total of 528 students, F. D. Bittle, principal, announced. These were divided into groups as follows: Seniors, 96; juniors, 114; sophomores, 138; freshmen, 180.

At the Oakland Elementary school there was a total enrollment of 100, according to Mrs. C. W. Ream, principal. Grades were divided as follows: Grade 1, 52; grade 2, 44; grade 3, 66; grade 4, 68; grade 5, 56; grade 6, 48; grade 7, 66.

Classes were in full swing today, in both schools, although tomorrow instruction will be interrupted while instructors and bus drivers meet here.

All the vehicles used throughout the entire county for the transportation of school children will be in Oakland tomorrow afternoon and there will probably be a parade of the equipment over the business section of town. This will be preceded by a meeting of bus contractors and drivers, which will be attended by teachers and principals of schools to which children are transported.

The major purpose of the meeting, according to F. E. Rathbun, County Superintendent, will be to promote safety in all transportation facilities and to promote the securing of the most modern type of busses for the work. The meeting will be in charge of John L. Fitzwater, director in transportation routes and will be addressed by John J. Siedel, State Supervisor of school bus transportation, and by representatives of the State Automobile Mutual Insurance Company of Columbus, Ohio. After the meeting the vehicles used for transportation will be inspected.

Frostburg Teachers College To Begin Thirty Sixth Session

The thirty-sixth session of the State Teachers College at Frostburg will open on Monday, September 12, with an encouraging outlook for the term, according to John L. Dunkle, principal.

The offering of two years of general college work is meeting an unusual response in helping high school graduates to get the pre-professional years of his college work at a low cost. Requests for rooms in the dormitory indicate that all available rooms will be taken. A Freshman week program has been planned, beginning on Monday. Upper class registration is to begin Thursday, September 15.

The State Architect has completed drawings for remodeling of the entire plant at the college. With the expansion of the work in sceince, music and the need for additional facilities required in a four-year college, the entire plant needs to be reconditioned, and it is believed the General Assembly of Maryland will make provisions for the improvements during the next two sessions.

Tri-County Fair To He Held At Petersburg

The 20th Annual Tri-County Fair will get under way at Petersburg, W. Va., on Wednesday, September 14, and continue throughout the two following days. On the first day all children of the three counties will be the guests of the Fair association.

Featured on the entertainment program will be the Flying Rockets, high aerial artists in two acts daily. The El Rey Sisters will give two acts of roller skating and acrobatic dancing on skates. A variety of acts including juggling, knife throwing, trained dogs and comedy will be furnished hy the Famous Russels. Included in each afternoon and evening program will he one of the saddle horse classes or a team pulling contest.

Early entries indicate the finest sheep show ever held in that section of West Virginia.

The Regional 4-H Fair will again be held in connection with the Tri-County Fair.

CITY COUNCIL'S REGULAR MEETING HELD TUESDAY

Members Discuss Several Items; Monthly Bills Amount to $3,500

Discussions concerning assessments of property, laying of a new sewer line beyond the corporation limits, and listening to a complaint about the city dump along the Youghiogheny River, occupied the time at the monthly meeting of the Mayor and Town Council on Tuesday evening. No definite decisions were reached, however.

W. R. Browning was before the council to declare that his assessments on his Liberty street properties were too high. The town took the assessment from the county assessment books and were unwilling to make any changes.

A contemplated sewer line from the northwest section of town to the Winters Dairy was discussed but no decision reached.

Henry Campbell, living along the river road west of the Youghiogheny bridge, made a complaint to the town about offensive odors coming from the city dump and Dr. H. R. DuPuy, health officer, made a report before the council last night in connection with the condition there. According to J. F. Browning, city clerk, there is on likelihood of any changes being made there at present.

It was reported that the city council had cleared the bed of Wilson Creek, from the Little Youghiogheny river to the Shahan garage on Third street, the city having hauled 50 truck loads of refuse from its banks. Mr. Browning said that property owners along the creek were being asked to assist in keeping the stream clean.

August receipts were listed at $5,173.94. Of this amount $4,589.65 was collected on 1938 taxes; June water, $199.60; green fees, $185.60; and golf memberships, $75.00 The discount period for collection of taxes ended September 1.

Monthly bills amounting to $3,500 were ordered paid. The large figure for bills was said to be on account of several unusual items. The town recently purchased and installed a water pump at a cost of $1,100, to relieve the one other pump of the town from full responsibility of supplying all water necessary for daily consumption. The old pump has been in use 18 years and when repaired, will be used as an auxiliary. Screenings for streets also cost $500 this month, according to Mr. Browning.

A report was made of receipts from the municipal golf course, showing that $680.30 had been collected since the course opened in July.

Garrett County Grand Jury To Convene On Monday

The grand inquest for the September Term of the Garrett County Circuit Court will convene at the Court House in Oakland on Monday morning, September 2, at 10 o'clock.

Members of the jury were drawn two weeks ago by Judge William A. Huster, and at that time J. W. Ream, of Mt. Lake Park, was named foreman. Due to grand jury session and the primary election falling on the same day, a number of substitutions were made in the jury list as some of those drawn were serving as election officials.

Neil C. Fraley, State's Attorney, has stated there were no unusual cases for investigation so it is expected the work of the jurors will consist in hearing evidence in cases involving the usual violations of law.

Either Chief Judge D. Lindley Sloan, or Judge Huster will be present Monday to deliver the charge to the jury and preside during the term. The petit jurors will not report for duty until Monday, September 19.

In Jail on Bad Check Charge

Jim Crigler, Morgantown, West Va., is in the Oakland jail on charges of passing worthless and forged checks. Crigler is said to have used the name of O. B. Frazee, of Selbysport, on the checks. He was arrested Monday by Sheriff Clarence Spear on a warrant sworn out by B. F. Knepp, from whom he had obtained a small sum on one of the checks.

In addition to the check held by Mr. Knepp, Crigler is said to have passed checks on Shahan's Garage, Adams' Shoe Store and Joseph Hinebaugh.

Crigler was employed by Mr. Frazee on his saw mill operating near Gnegy church. Crigler was found by the officer at the mill.

Sanitary Conditions About Deep Creek Lake Satisfactory

Deep Creek Lake water is practically pure enough to drink. In fact, it is a lot more pure than water some people use for drinking.

This information comes from the county health department following a survey of sanitary conditions surrounding the lake. Lawrence S. Carson, sanitary officer for the State Department of Health, has been in the county since August 15 conducting the survey. A total of 227 separate establishments, including camps, were inspected, 151 water supplies, sewage disposal facilities in 213 instances and garbage disposal in each establishment. Eleven samples of water from the lake were taken from different points, and according to Dr. R. H. DuPuy, health officer, all samples came back with good reports.

"In fact, we find the sanitary conditions around the lake very satisfactory and unusually so for the size of the area and the number of people residing there," Dr. DuPuy stated. Mr. Carson will remain in the county until October 15.

REPUBLICANS SHOW BIG LEAD IN REGISTRATION

Scattered Figures Give Republicans 301; Democrats 116

Scattered figures on the registration of voters which occurred on Tuesday show that in nine districts, covering twelve precints, Republicans are leading almost three to one.

Republicans registering were 301, compared to 116 for the Democrats. The figures are not official, as no returns are to be made to the Election Supervisors until after the final registration day and revision in October. The figures obtained by The Republican this morning include the following:

No. 1, Swanton	32	11
No. 2, Friendsville	41	20

Child Apparently Drowned In Spring Is Revived By Mother

A seventeen-months-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David Bowman, of near Crellin, was miraculously saved from drowning on Tuesday afternoon by the presence of mind of the mother.

While Mrs. Bowman was at work the infant disappeared. When search was made she discovered the child beneath the surface of the spring. The bahy had evidently been in the water for several minutes as her face was black from strangulation.

She quickly reached down into the water and took the apparently lifeless child from the spring and summoned Mrs. S. F. Bowman, the child's grandmother, who had taken two courses in home nursing under Dr. E. C. Peck and Mrs. Samuel Cole, of the public health staff. With the help of Mrs. Richard Friend she used the class methods of restoring a drowned person until the Oakland fire department life saving crew could be summoned.The child was revived and able to cry when the members of the crew and Dr. E. I. Baumgartner arrived, and is apparently none the worse for the experience. The baby's drinking cup was found in the spring and it is supposed the child upon becoming thirsty had gone to the spring for a drink of water and had toppled in.

The child, Norma Jean, is the only daughter of the couple, although there are several other children.

Accepts Scoutmastership

Mr. Howard C. Riggs, cashier of the Garrett National Bank, has accepted the appointment of scoutmaster for Oakland Scout Troop No. 1, it was announced this week by the Troop Committee.

The Oakland troop has been without a permanent leader since Rev. George Packard left Oakland in April. Activities continued, however, under Ralph Luman, until the close of the school term, and since that time under Bernard I. Gonder, Jr., and William W. Grant, Jr., assisted during the camping by Mr. Stephen Walke.

Announcement of the appointment was made at a regular meeting of the troop Friday evening. Members of the troop committee present were George H. Hanst, chairman; Dr. W. W. Grant, F. D. Bittle, Rev. David C. Trimble, and Arthur Naylor.

REPUBLICANS-DEMOCRATS WILL SELECT CANDIDATES

Both Parties To Go To The Polls Monday To Decide On Representatives In General Election

EACH PARTY TO NAME 20

The battle of ballots, to decide the Republican and Democratic choices for candidates for various county, State and Federal offices, will take place on Monday, September 12.

The day will find many Democrats battling to represent their party as candidate for state ofiices but only a few contesting for county honors. On the Republican side it is just the reverse. No more tha ntwo people are candidates for nomination for any state office. However, the battle is becoming heated as to who will be chosen as representatives of their party on the county ticket, and in the race for County Commissioner nominations there are seventeen aspirants. Three are to be nominated.

There are twenty-five polling places in Garrett county and they will be open next Monday from 6 o'clock a. m., until 7 o'clock p. m. Twenty persons out of 56 will be chosen from the Republican ballot as candidates for various offices as noted in the Election Supervisors notice concerning the primary. Twenty Democratic candidates are to be selected from a list of forty-eight aspirants.

Democrats will have an opportunity to vote for first and second choice candidates in four contests. that of Governor, United States Senator, Attorney General, and Comptroller. The primary system which permits this is thought to be a distinct improvement over the old system. Under the old system, in a three-cornered fight, a minority of a little more than one-third of a county or legislative district could carry a county. The second choice system, if the voters use it by marking two candidates, one for first and the other for second choice, largely prevents minority control, and compels a real majority choice in every county and legislative district.

For Republicans the most heated contests will be those for State Senator, House of Delegates, County Commissioners and Sheriff. An interesting contest is also expected in the State Central Committee as four persons are to be selected from a list of ten.

On the Democratic ballot six Committeemen are to be chosen from a list of sixteen. Where ther eis only one candidate from the Republican and Democratic parties for a particular office, there is no primary contest and their names do not appear on the ballot this time, but will be on the ballot in November at the general election.

There are no contests for the position of Clerk to the County Commissioners, Clerk of the Circuit Court, Register of Wills, County Surveyor and State's Attorney.

Counting of the votes will begin almost immediately after the polls close but the size of both Republican and Democratic ballots is expected to keep election officials busy until far into the night.

The official notice of Monday's primary appears in another section of today's Republican.

Lindley Sloan will come to Oakland Monday morning and after delivering his charge to the grand jury to convene at that time, that body will be dismissed until Tuesday morning at nine o'clock in order to permit the members of the jury to vote at the primary election Monday afternoon or Monday evening.

Lesson for September 11

SAUL: MORAL FAILURE

LESSON TEXT—I Samuel 10:21 25; 15: 20-23; 31:3-6
GOLDEN TEXT—To obey is better than sacrifice. I Samuel 15:22.

Moral failure is the direct result of disobedience to God. This follows from the fact that the moral order established in the universe was established by God. He, then, is the One who knows the right way. "God is always right, and when we are against God, we are always wrong. To walk a road leading away from God is to travel straight to ruin, and this is what Saul did" (Wilbur M. Smith).

The story of Saul's choice as king, his personal qualifications for leadership and his ultimate disgrace and death, is one that should give pause to every young man or woman who has been afflicted with present-day ideas that brilliance of mind, quickness of wit, and apparent worldly success, apart from obedient submission to God, are satisfactory ends in themselves. "There is a way that seemeth right unto a man, but the end thereof are the ways of death" (Prov. 16.25).

I. "There Is None Like Him" (10: 21-25).

Saul was chosen of God to be Israel's first king. God Himself had been their king, but they in their willful unbelief wanted to be like neighboring nations. And the choice of both God and the people fell on Saul, for there was "none like him among all the people."

Never has a man been privileged to enter more auspiciously upon high office. Physically he was well-equipped, head and shoulders above the people (10:23). Mentally he was fitted for leadership. He was humble (9:21). He was spiritually right (10:6-9). He had a tolerant and kindly spirit (11:13). He was a successful military leader (ch. 11).

For two years all went well, but then came the crisis which proved that all was not as it should be, when Saul presumptuously took the place of Samuel as priest and made an offering (13:9-13). This was later followed by his disobedience in sparing Agag.

II. "To Obey Is Better Than Sacrifice" (15:20-23).

God had commanded that there must be utter destruction of the Amalekites and their possessions—something like the burning of a disease-infested house—a wiping out of a king and people who were condemned of God. We may not fully understand this act of God, but if we know Him we will not doubt that it was in accordance with His infinite wisdom and love.

Saul chose to disobey, later contending that it was done because of the people, that sheep and oxen had been spared for a sacrifice to the Lord. Samuel cuts through his hypocrisy and declares that God wants obedience rather than sacrifice. This is a lesson that many who profess to follow the Lord have not learned.

"All the sacrifices and ceremonies of religion are to aid and promote obedience, not to be a substitute for it. Disobedience can never be made a virtue, even though attended by thousands of sacrifices" (Stanley). The church or the individual who denies or disregards the teaching of God's Word and attempts to make up for it by sacrifices and ceremonies declares to the world that there has been a departure from true faith in God. Obedience is a virtue all too rare.

III. "The Battle Went Sore Against Saul" (31:3-6).

This quotation from verse 3 relates to a particular battle, but it may well be applied to the entire battle of Saul's life. Having once begun the downward path of presumption and disobedience, the descent became rapid.

The man to whom God had given a new heart and upon whom He had poured out His Spirit fell to such a low state that we find him in I Samuel 28 consulting a witch, a spiritistic medium, seeking opportunity to speak with Samuel, who had already gone to his reward.

Spiritism is an evil current in our day, and therefore it may be well to point out that while mediums do seem to have the power to simulate the dead, they bring this about through familiar spirits (I Sam. 28: 7), that is through communication with evil spirits. The dead do not actually return, but they are represented by demonic agents. When the witch of Endor called on her familiar spirit, God intervened and actually brought Samuel from the dead to the great surprise of the witch. No Christian should ever have anything to do with Spiritism. If he does he indicates that his spiritual life is at very low ebb and that he is in real soul-danger.

The death of Saul writes a tragic end to a promising life, destroyed not so much by outside influences as by the moral decay within. The wise man said that as a man "thinketh in his heart so is he" (Prov. 23:7). It may not show today or tomorrow, but eventually the heart that is wrong leads to a life that is wrong. "Keep thy heart with all diligence: for out of it are the issues of life" (Prov. 4:23).

BETTER LIGHT IS GOOD FOR YOUR EYES

Good lighting is the enemy of eyestrain, and the best insurance you can provide for the family's eyesight. Good lighting means adequate lighting, sufficient lamps to give everyone proper illumination for any seeing task. Modern I. E. S. lamps are designed to give a flood of glareless light. They come in floor, table, bridge and wall bracket models, and are well designed, so that they enhance any scheme of decoration. Their evenly diffused light makes rooms more beautiful, since it brings out the colors of wall paper and hangings, and the satiny sheen of polished woods. There are suitable IES lamps for every room in the house and every house should have them. We shall be glad to send one of our lighting experts to check your lighting with a Sight Meter, and help you to make a correct lighting plan for your home and family. This service is entirely free, and places you under no obligation. Telephone us for an appointment.

The above illustration shows a cross-section of an IES lamp. The diffusing bowl is shown as well as the highly efficient white lined shade. Note the wide top that allows light to reach the ceiling, thereby doing away with too much contrast. Prices for IES lamps begin at $3.70.

MONONGAHELA SYSTEM

LOOKING FORWARD

By FRANKLYN WALTMAN

Publicity Director, Republican National Committee

Unable to defend the breakdown of the policies of the Roosevelt Administration, the New Deal spokesmen have commenced loudly to lament that the Republicans this year are pressing the same issues they used in 1936. The Republicans, they say, have no new ideas but must beat the same drums used two years ago.

Why bless their souls, of course, the Republicans in this year's campaign are going to press the same issues as in 1936. Do the New Deal spokesmen believe the Republicans were insincere two years ago? Do they believe that the Republican platform builders of 1936 had their tongues in their cheeks when they laid down their scathing indictment of the New Deal?

Of course the issues against the New Deal today are the same as they were in 1936. There is, however, this difference: the evidence on which the Republican indictment of the New Deal was based has become greater and clearer in the last two years. Whereas two years ago the Republicans predicted that the fallacious policies pursued by th eNew Deal would end in trouble and disaster, they can today say "we told you so."

Purge Tactics Prove Charge

Is not the Republican platform contention of 1936 that "the powers of Congress have been usurped by the President" truer today than two years ago? Has not Mr. Roosevelt by his "pudge" tactics confessed to the charge that he cannot tolerate an independent Congress?

Is not the 1936 Republican contention that "the integrity and authority of the Supreme Court have been flounted" truer today than two years ago? If evidence were needed, did not Mr. Roosevelt supply it in the interval with his Court packing plan?

Is not the 1936 Republican contention that "regulated monopoly has displaced free enterprise" a more self-evident truth today than two years ago? Indeed, the belated effort of the New Deal in recent months to do something about mnonpoly constitutes a plea of guilt of its encouragement of monopolistic practices during the first five years of Roosevelt rule.

Is not the 1936 Republican contention that the New Deal "has been guilty of frightful waste and extravagance, using public funds for partisan political purposes" conclusively proved by what has happened in the last five months?

Piling "Deficit Upon Deficit"

Is there any less truth today that two years ago in the 1936 Republican contention that the New Deal "has piler leficit upon deficit" and that it "threatens national bankruptcy and the destruction through inflation of insurance policies and savings- bank deposits?"

Has not the break-down of the New Deal economic policies, as exemplified by the Roosevelt Depression, fully substantiated the 1936 Republican contention that "real security will be possible only when our productive capacity is sufficient to furnish a decent standard of living for all American families and to provide a surplus toi future needs and contingencies?"

And, finally, do not the present army of unemployed in the country, the closed factories, the low prices for farm products, the stagnation of business and industry, the disappearance of business profits, the critical condition of the railroads and the increasing army of hungry people all substantiate the 1936 Republican contention that the New Deal "has bred fear and hesitation in commerce and industry, thus discouraging new enterprises, preventing employment and prolonging the depression?"

More And Worse Is True

Everything the Republican platform and candidates in 1936 said about the Roosevelt Administration and New Deal is not only true today, but a great deal more and worse is true. In 1936 Republicans believed that eventually Mr. Roosevelt would move to balance his budget, but now it is apparent he has abandoned even gestures in that direction.

Few persons in 1936 believed the President was so arrogant and insensible to American tradition as to propose his brazen Supreme Court packing plan or that he would undertake to set himself up as Der Fuehrer, dominating the legislative and judicial as well as executive branches of the government.

No wonder New Deal spokesmen wish to camoflage this year's campaign and seek to divert the Republicans from pressing the issue first raised in 1936! Those issues compel Mr. Roosevelt squarely to face the consequences of his own actions—and he cannot avoid that by adopting the Russian technique of seeking to divert attention with theatrical purges. He will find out Americans are smarter than Russians.

The issue today, as in 1936, is what Mr. Roosevelt and his New Deal has done to this country and its people. Using his own words, "it is often true that it takes a long, long time to bring the past up to the present." The consequences of Mr. Roosevelt's activities of the past five years now are rapidly catching up with him.

An Editorial

The Republican had hoped that it would not be drawn into the Senatorial primary fight, but when the honesty and business integrity of its editor is attacked as was done by Mr. Friend at Sang Run and upon other occasions recently, there is nothing left to do but to defend ourselves, and this we shall do and give several facts relative to Mr. Friend and his methods of conducting a campaign that ought to be clean, but which he has made as dirty as any ward politician in the lowest sections of the great cities of America are capable of doing.

At Sang Run a few nights ago Mr. Friend held a meeting at which he attempted to show that The Republican had obtained from the county certain money for publishing and printing to which it was not entitled, but Mr. Friend did not go into detail concerning the transactions between The Republican and the Board of County Commissioners.

He made the bald statement that by an existing contract between the Commissioners and The Republican, calling for the payment of a sum of money by the Commissioners for certain work to be done for the county, and then lashed out and stated that in addition to this sum other sums were collected in addition to the contract price as set forth in the agreement on file in the Commissioners office.

The Republican admits that sums of money for publishing and printing were paid by the Commissioners, but Mr. Friend failed to state that the payment of these sums was made necessary by legislation enacted while he was a senator at Annapolis.

An item of several hundred dollars was paid for printing the necessary cards, schedules, etc., for the re-assessment; a larger sum was paid us for furnishing the new registration books made necessary by Mr. Friend's law requiring a reregistration of voters; a sum of money was paid us for election printing and other work, such as tax bills, but there is an item of something more than $150 standing against the county for publishing and printing in the recent beer election, Mr. Friend's legislation on this matter being such that a sum of money less than the printers' bills was made available for the payment of clerks, judges of election and other necessary expenses in connection with the election.

This is the only apology The Republican has to make in connection with its financial dealings with the County Commissioners. That body and the public received value for every dollar paid The Republican for its services. Can Mr. Friend say that the public had value received for his services as a representative while at Annapolis? And in passing we wish to state that Mr. Friend is the only individual in Garrett county that ever questioned the honesty of the editor of this paper, although we have been serving the people of the county for upwards of half a century. Mr. Friend is likewise the only individual to our knowledge who has set himself up as a dictator who imagines himself high and mighty as an individual before whom all should bow and pay homage.

Mr. Friend has endeavored during the past few years to usurp the legally constituted powers of every public official in the county—the County Commissioners, the Health Office, the Treasurer's Office, the Board of Education, but he has not asked to take charge of the Circuit Court or the County Jail. His audacity, however, may yet reach to those offices and also the churches of every denomination in the county.

Now, for Mr. Friend's hatred of The Republican and its publisher:

A few years ago, when the Taxpayers League was in bloom, Mr. Friend demanded space in The Republican for a variety of articles in which he lambasted the public officials of the county. The Republican gave space to one or two or these articles, but when he brought to the office another of his long-winded compositions in which there were charges of an actionable character appearing we at once refused its publication for the reason that should an action at law be instituted against Mr. Friend the publisher of The Republican would also be a party to the action and should damages be assessed by the Court or jury, The Republican would have to pay, Mr. Friend's financial responsibility being questionable, as he was advised by the editor. Mr. Friend became rather indignant and made the threat that he would put us out of business, which he has endeavored to do ever since that hour. We are still here, however, notwithstanding Mr. Friend's efforts and his position.

As a further effort he has established what he terms a "newspaper", printed over in the State of Pennsylvania (where he also carries his bank account), which is nothing more or less than a circular lauding Mr. Friend and condemning his betters in life. In this circular Mr. Friend deliberately misrepresents facts—in plain words, he deliberately lies about public officials and public matters.

The Republican again apologizes to its readers for having taken this space in self defense, but there is nothing else to do in the matter when one's honesty and integrity is attacked.

Do the good people of Garrett county want such an individual to represent them at Annapolis again?

SPEECH HOCUS-POCUS MICHIGAN STYLE

The looseness with which New Deal cohorts, from the President on down to the lowest governmental employe, report Federal Administration activities has become so apparent that voters everywhere are beginning to check consistently on the accuracy of statements made. A most glaring example of this type of wild talk has come to light in Michigan through The Alma Record and St. Louis Leader in that State.

In an editorial entitled "Poor Old Staring Michigan," H. S. Babcock has written a scathing satire in connection with an introduction of Governor Frank Murphy of Michigan by Chairman Frank A. Picard, of the Michigan Unemployment Commission. Commissioner Picard's introduction of the Governor included the information that Murphy had "within the last week brought thirty million tons of food for those who are on relief and 5,800,000 pounds of milk for undernourished children" into Michigan.

On Picard's complaint that newspapers did not mention such magnificent largesse, Babcock promptly analyzed the figures, high-lighting them in all their obvious foolishness.

Babcock reasoned that a ton of food weighs 2,000 pounds and 2,000 times thirty million amounts to sixty billion pounds. He took the high estimate of the full population of Michigan of 5,000,000 people and figured out that Murphy must have brought 12,000 pounds of food into Michigan for every man, woman and child in the state, "an outrageous statement for any man to make."

Babcock did not stop here. He took the number of freight cars in the United States and the number of locomotives and the carrying capacity of each car and figured that "boys and girls, a million carloads of food coming into Michigan in one week, is some feat for any State's governor to perform in any country."

"If you have not received your allotted tons of food," Babcock wrote, "I would advise you to call up either one of these men who will be perfectly Frank about it and send it right over, for by this reckoning, a family of five should get 30 tons and a family of ten, 60 tons, by the next mail."

"If one word of the statement made by Picard and approved by Murphy is true, why in the name of common sense is it necessary for the governor to call a special session of the legislature to tax the people for ten million dollars more when he has already shipped into Michigan six tons of food for each man, woman and child, brought in a hundred million in cash, and five million pounds of milk? 'My friends,' laugh that off if you can."

President Roosevelt declared recently that he and Postmaster General Farley were in complete accord, as usual.

NEW DEAL HYPOCRISY

Under hypocritical protestations of superior virture, the Administration, to accomplish its reverge (the purge), uses a power which it has built up by the lavish expenditure of public funds over a period of five and a half years. It is not a pretty sight. It is an ominous sight. If the New Deal had accomplished one hundred per cent every good thing which its apologists claim for it, its present activities would still lack justification, would still be a stench in the nostrils of clear-headed men and women.—Baltimore Sun, Democratic newspaper for 100 years.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Weber Celebrate Their Silver Wedding Anniversary On Sunday

On Sunday, September 4, while soft strains from favorite composers were played by Jack Weber, on an old fashioned organ, Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Weber in their home near town received nearly three hundred relatives and friends gathered to congratulate them on their twenty-fifth wedding anniversary.

The four sons and two daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Weber entertained while each group of guests were being served with refreshments.

Cara Weber first, modeled her mother's wedding gown, followed by her sister, Betsy, in another gown of the same trousseau.

In a clear soprano Betsy then sang "Daddy's Sweetheart," accompanied on the piano by her brother, Jack.

Schubert's Serenade was then beautifully rendered as a clarinet solo by Bond Weber.

These interesting youngsters then gave two number ensemble, Jack, piano; Logan, cornet; Bond, clarinet; Betsy, violin; Cara, saxaphone. Last, but not least, was the contribution of the small son, David, as he played "Home Sweet Home" on his clarinet, followed by the ensemble.

Each guest was then presented with a silver bell, with sugar heart for clapper, each bell bearing in white the date 1913-1938, as a memento of an enjoyable occasion.

FACE THE FACTS

ONLY ONCE BEFORE in world history have conditions been anything like at the present time. Indisputable facts cannot be ignored and will not be ignored by order-loving, God-fearing people, and among which indisputable facts are these:

(1) A hideous monstrosity is rapidly moving to rule the world by dictators and to regiment the people.

(2) God, by His holy prophets, thousands of years ago, as recorded in the Bible, foretold this great menace, its cause, and what will be the result.

Truman C. Bittinger Seeks Nomination for County Treasurer

ATTENTION VOTERS!

Ladies and Gentlemen:

Having come before the people as a candidate for nomination for County Treasurer, I feel it to be my duty to state my attitude toward said office:

The duties incumbent upon a treasurer are the collection of taxes and paying bills. In addition there is a moral duty which cannot be overlooked. The treasurer is by virtue of his office the guardian of the treasury and it is his duty to expose any irregularities in appropriating money entrusted to his care.

Should I be the successful candidate, I assure the citizens of Garrett County that I will inform them of any attempt to use the taxpayers' money for purposes other than that prescribed by law.

Sincerely yours,

TRUMAN C. BITTINGER,

Republican Candidate For Nomination For

ROLAND C. READY,
DONALD ELLIOTT, Auditors.

State of Mnryland, County of Garrett, to-wit:

This is to certify, That on the 31st day of August, 1938, that Roland C. Ready and Donald Elliott, known to me, did make oath in due form of the law, that the foregoing statements are true and correct to the best of their knowledge and belief.

CHARLES V. HARVEY, Notary Public.

My commission expires May 1, 1939.

Statement of Judge William A. Huster, of Cumberland, Maryland, Republican Candidate to Succeed Himself as Associate Judge of the Fourth Judicial Circuit of Maryland, Comprising Washington, Garrett and Allegany Counties:

TO THE VOTERS OF THE FOURTH JUDICIAL CIRCUIT OF MARYLAND:—

A certain gentleman, representing himself to be a Minister of the Gospel, and who apparently gloats over the fact that he has a past criminal record, publishing a newspaper called "Brother Dan's Searchlight", has seen fit to grossly attack me, and especially my conduct in the prosecution of the Celanese cases.

The following are the facts in the Celanese cases:

Investigations were made into the disorder at the Celanese plant, which resulted in the arrest of a large number of people, both men and women. These people were indicted at the next term of Court, and I proceeded to try one of these cases, the jury being comprised of the regular panel of that term of Court. After deliberating nearly a full day, the jury informed the Court that they could not agree and asked to be discharged. The Court complied with the foreman's request and discharged the jury. Everyone knows that the State's Attorney cannot direct the verdict of the jury, for in Maryland, the jurors are the judges of the law and facts in criminal cases. I proceeded to try the second case, which involved a large number of defendants. The jury in the first case having stood nine for acquittal and three for conviction, and at the Court's suggestion, these cases were continued and are still on the docket. I gave to these cases the same measure of thought, work and attention as I ever gave to any important case prosecuted by me, and not wishing to criticize the verdict of any jury, I owe apologies to no one for having done my full duty in these cases.

In the issue of August 20, 1938, of "Brother Dan's Searchlight", he made a libelous statement against me and other candidates for office, which are so insulting and unfair as to make respectable citizens, accustomed to the ordinary amenities of life, shudder with repulsion.

He made the statement " * * that Mr. Huster and Mr. Jones, the Regional Organizer of the CIO, accompanied each other to Annapolis where the Governor was interviewed and Mr. Huster was appointed Associate Judge at Jones' request." The aforegoing is an absolute untruth! I never accompanied Mr. Jones anywhere and never interviewed Governor Nice with or in the presence of Mr. Jones. In support of my statement, I quote the following letter from Governor Nice as to why I was appointed:

EXECUTIVE DEPARTMENT
Annapolis, Maryland, August 26, 1938.

Hon. William A. Huster,
Cumberland, Maryland.

Dear Billy:—

The statement that you were appointed by me at the request and demand of Mr. Jones is outrageously untrue. I appointed you because of the petitions and many telegrams and letters which were received in your interest from various citizens throughout your judicial circuit. I am causing all letters and petitions received in your interest to be sent you, as per your request.

I did not appoint you upon the recommendation of any one individual, but upon the recommendation of—to my mind—a concensus of opinion in your Circuit.

When these petitions, telegrams and letters have served your purpose, return them for my files.

Sincerely yours,
|s| H. W. NICE, Governor.

The following lawyers of Allegany County recommended my appointment as Associate Judge:

Estel C. Kelley	George Henderson
Richard F. McMullen	Lewis M. Wilson
W. Carl Richards	William A. Vandegrift
E. M. Horchler	J. Philip Roman
Elmer B. Gower	Paul M. Fletcher
Charles Z. Heskett	Julius E. Schindler
C. Edgar Keller	Urner G. Carl
John G. Miller	Clarence Shutter
Oliver H. Bruce	Morris Baron
Simon F. Reilly	Charles G. Watson
F. C. Hendrickson	Daniel F. McMullen
Noel Speir Cook	Charles C. Willison
Edward J. Ryan	George W. Legge

Frederick A. Puderbaugh

Also many hundreds of letters and telegrams were sent to Governor Nice recommending my appointment. (The petitions, letters and telegrams are in my possession and may be inspected by anyone interested).

My record since being admitted to the practice of law on January 23, 1911, follows:

Elected to the Maryland House of Delegates, 1911.

Served on the Mexican Border with Company G, First Md. Infantry, as Corporal and Sergeant, 1916. Was later commissioned Captain and was in command of Company G when called into Federal service nnd served during the duration of the World War. Was promoted to the rank of Major, September 20, 1918.

Served as City Attorney for Cumberland, 1922-1923, being appointed by Thomas W. Koon, Mayor, and Councilmen William E. McDonald, Harry L. Smith, Charles J. Cumiskey and J. Alfred Reid.

Elected State's Attorney for Allegany County, 1923, 1926, 1930, 1934—four consecutive terms.

President Allegany Bar Association, 1935.

Appointed Associate Judge of the Fourth Judicial Circuit of Maryland by Governor Nice, June 6, 1937.

Served as General Chairman of the Cumberland Community Chest Drive for the City of Cumberland, 1938, which drive was a complete success.

Member of the Methodist Church.

Past President Duke Memorial Bible Class.

Fraternal Affiliations

Past Chancellor Commander Cumberland Lodge, No. 60, Knights of Pythias.

Past Noble Grand Independent Order of Odd Fellows.

Past Master Ohr Lodge, 131, Ancient, Free and Accepted Masons.

Past Patron McKinley Chapter, No. 12, Order of the Eastern Star.

Member of Queen City Council, No. 49, Jr. O. U. A. M.

As a candidate for an important public office, I fully realize that I am subject to criticism, but I resent the circulation of untruths and false and malicious statements. I stand on my record and my motto, which I have followed and practiced all my life, namely, "JUSTICE TO ALL IS MY MOTTO AND THE LAW WILL BE MY GUIDE."

If elected, I shall perform the duties of the office fearlessly and honestly; I have no enemies to punish, no prejudices against any creed, sect, order or individual, and no immunities to offer.

I have always been taught from childhood that if there is one place under the canopy of Heaven that truth can be found, it is from the lips of a man or woman, who represents himself or herself to be a Disciple of the Lord, but I am now led to the conclusion that there must be exceptions to this rule. I realize, after all, that this man is but a tool in the hands of my political enemies and that he is masquerading under the guise and cloak of religion.

I have spent my entire life among you, who know me best, and feel that you are more competent to judge me than one who has forfeited his citizenship by his own actions.

I shall await your answer on Primary Election Day, September 12, 1938.

Yours very sincerely,
WILLIAM A. HUSTER.

GIVE CHILDREN COMPLETE EXAMINATION FOR HEALTH

Those Starting To School Should Be Given A Check-Up

Here is another bit of advice from Dr. R. H. Riley, Director of the State Department of Health, to parents of five and six-year-olds who will start to school this fall:

"If you haven't already done it," Dr. Riley said, "take your youngster to your doctor for a complete physical examination, including tests of vision and hearing, and to your dentist for a checking-up on any dental attention needed. Besides the general going over there are two extras that are of special importance, and that should be attended to without further delay.

"Number one is vaccination against smallpox. Number two is protection against diphtheria. Nearly all parents are familiar enough with our Maryland law to know that a child has to be vaccinated against smallpox before he or she may be enrolled in any public school in the State. Protection against diphtheria is not required by law, but parents have it done voluntarily, in order that their children may be safeguarded against this dreadful disease.

"We have had only two cases of smallpox in Maryland in eight years and we hope eventually to have an equally good record with regard to diphtheria. During the first six months of this year, nine of the twenty-three counties of Maryland had perfectly clean slates so far as this disease is concerned, without a single case of diphtheria in any of them. Our goal is a clean slate for every part of the State.

"Last year over 18,000 young children in the counties were protected against the disease at the public clinics arranged by the County Departments of Health. Every year the number inerases. During the first six months of this year, over 10,000 young children in the counties of Maryland were protected against diphtheria at the county clinics or by their own doctors. Thousands of the children who live in Baltimore City were safeguarded against the disease at the city clinics or by their famiily physicians. We hope that in a few years protection against diphtheria will be as much a matter of course for all children in Maryland as vaccination against smallpox is now.

"Diphtheria is a very treacherous disease and very easily picked up. Any child who has not been protected against it is likely to contract it, if exposed to it. A single shot of toxoid will give the necessary protection.

"If your child has not been protected against diphtheria, go to your family doctor and have it done. Don't put it off any longer."

Sweet Corn—On The Cob Or Off

Te serve corn on the cob or off—that's a question that many a cook ponders these days. It is her unenviable task to decide whether to heed those members of her family who insist that on-the-cob is the only American way to serve fresh corn—or whether to yield to the dissenters and serve the kernels minus the cob.

When buying sweet corn on the market—or selecting it from the garden— look for ears that are bound up in fresh, green husks. If the husks are dry or straw-colored, the corn is probably overmature or there has been damage of some other sort. If the corn has not reached the right stage of maturity for eating the kernels will be small and very soft. Such corn lacks flavor after cooking. Corn that is "just right" for eating will have a well-filled ear, bright, plump, milky kernels that are just firm enough to offer a little resistance to pressure. It will be yellow, white or black depending on the variety.

Corn-on-the-cob for indoor eating is best when it is not cooked overlong, and served hot with plenty of butter. Generally medium-sized ears of sweet corn shouldn't be simmered over 10 to 15 minutes. Some like corn cooked on the cob, then cut off for serving. Corn that is cut off the cob before hand is especially good cooked in milk.

Other tempting dishes are peppers stuffed with well-seasoned whole-grain corn and corn mixed into a batter, fried in deep fat as fritters. Two dishes that may be made from either freshly cooked or left-over corn are pudding and corn o'brien. For the pudding, add milk, and eggs, In the proportion for custard. Season to taste, and bake in a moderate oven. For o'brien corn, mix a bit of chopped pimiento or green pepper with the corn and fry in butter or bacon drippings.

Sweet corn is canned two styles—whole grain or cream. Whole grain corn is cut from the cob without scraping. For cream-style there is a more shallow cut and the cobs are scraped. Whole grain corn tastes more nearly like fresh corn because it can be given a lighter processing and is not so likely to be overcooked.

It's Preserving Time

They hover about back porches everywhere telling us that late summer preserving and jam-making are in full swing in home kitchens throughout the county. The following recipes have been tested by experts of the Bureau of Home Economics:

Watermelon Pickle

Four pounds watermelon rind, lime water made with 2 quarts cold water and 10 grams, or 2 tablespoons lime, 2 quarts vinegar, 1 quart water, 4½ lbs. granulated sugar, 2 T. whole allspice, 2 T. whole cloves, 10 2-inch pieces stick cinnamon.

Select rind from a firm, not overripe melon, and, before weighing, trim off green skin and pink flesh. Cut in inch cubes and soak for 2½ hours in the limewater. Drain, cover with fresh water and cook for 1½ hours, or until tender, and add more water as it boils off. Let stand over night in this same water, and next morning drain. Bring to the boiling point the vinegar, 1 quart of water, the sugar, and the spices tied loosely in cheesecloth. Add the drained watermelon and boil gently for 2 hours, or until the sirup is fairly thick. Remove the spice bag, pack the watermelon pickle in sterilized glass jars, seal airtight, and store in a cool place.

Peach Preserves

Any variety of white or yellow peach of good dessert quality will make satisfactory preserves if chosen at the firm-ripe stage.

Wash and pare the peaches. Either leave them whole or cut them into uniform pieces, such as halves, quarters, or eights. To each pound of prepared fruit allow 3-4 to 1 pound of sugar. Combine the fruit and the sugar in alternate layers and let stand 8 to 10 hours or overnight before cooking. Or add the sugar and ¼ cup of water for each pound of the fruit and cook at once. In either case stir carefully while heating to boiling. Boil rapidly until the sirup is somewhat thick, stirring constantly to prevent burning. Pour at once into hot, sterilized jars and seal.

NATION TURNS ON F. D. R.

Seasoned observers of the national political scene in Washington are beginning to see more than simply the defeat of the New Deal in the current primaries, stamping the beatings being taken by the F. D. R. henchment as evidence that the nation as a whole—Democrats and Republicans alike—is turning sour on the New Deal.

Far seeing political prognosticators are already smiling at the prospect in November in the elections proper of watching Democrats out of sympathy with their leader in the White House attempting to climb into office on the strength of the party record of heavy and reckless spending, dissension, war scare propaganda and obvious trends toward dictatorship.

In view of many such thoughtful observers prospects ofr a resounding Republican victory in November grow brighter every hour.

Representatives

The question at issue now seems to be entirely whether senators and congressmen should represent their districts or represent Roosevelt.

* * *

Two good Democrats were in conversation the other day about WPA workers in the United States. One of them asked, "What is the average height of WPA men?" and the other answered, "Darned if I know, I never saw one standing up."

As one hunter said, "These New Dealers are just like fox hounds. They do a lot of howling and barking but they never catch the fox."

Recent news reports tell of Jim Farley refusing to attend a Democratic meeting in Maine because the Governor of the state sent him an invitation that Jim regarded as "insulting and discourteous."

The part insulting him was, "We hope that you might find relief in coming to a state where we have been able to live within our income, balance our budget, and not impose new schemes of taxation to burden our citizens.

In discussing social security with a New Dealer it is always embarassing to him to inquire what has become of the money which the government has already taken from the pay envelopes of the workers to pay social security pensions in the future.

GALEN L. TAIT

Candidate For Republican Nomination For The

UNITED STATES SENATE

My Republican Friends of Garrett County:

My candidacy for the Republican nomination for the United States Senate is submitted in the belief the Republican party should solidify its ranks, despite contrary opinion, for the coming campaign, in which dissension among Democrats respecting both Gubernatorial and Senatorial nominations, offers Republican hope for success now and for sound preparation for the 1910 campaign.

I announced with the belief that my Senatorial candidacy and activity might aid to bring together all party elements; and my long chairmanship experience help in the organization and unification of the party for the contests on behalf of nominees selected in counties, city, congressional districts and in the state, for the fall campaign. This can be brought about by the voters through their support of me at the primary.

Our long association in party work, I trust, entitles me to say the permanent good and the strength of the party as an agency for good government in Maryland and the nation, is my main objective.

During my 20 years as Republican State Chairman, I conducted the successful Maryland campaigns of three United States Senators, three Presidents, a number of Congressmen and many municipal, local and legislative officials.

While I was making this record of party service and loyalty my opponent for the Senatorial nomination served under Democratic Mayors beginning 1901 and was appointed to office by Democratic Governors, Harrington and Ritchie, for terms beginning in 1916 and ending recently; and in 1928, as reported in the Evening Sun (September 20, 1928), he openly holted the Republican ticket and supported William Cahell Bruce for U. S. Senator and Al Smith for President.

The Baltimore News-Post newspaper poll indicates I will carry all the districts of Baltimore City and have a decisive lead in the counties.

I would appreciate the support of you and your friends at the Primary of Monday, September 12.

Sincerely yours,
GALEN L. TAIT.

WHEREAS, at the January session of the General Assembly of Maryland, held in the year 1937, an Act was passed, to-wit: Chapter 525 proposing an amendment to Article 15 of the Declaration of Rights of the Constitution of the State of Maryland, authorizing the General Assembly to impose taxes on incomes, and providing for the submission of said amendment to the qualified voters of the State of Maryland for adoption or rejection; in words and figures as follows:

CHAPTER 463—1935

AN ACT to propose an amendment to repeal Section 36 of Article 3 of the Constitution of the State of Maryland, title "Legislative Department," said section prohibiting the General Assembly from authorizing a lottery, and providing for the submission of said amendment to the qualified voters of the State of Maryland for adoption or rejection.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the General Assembly of Maryland (three-fifths of all the members of each of the two Houses concurring), That Section 36 of Article 3 of the Constitution of the State of Maryland, title "Legislative Department," prohibiting the General Assembly from authorizing lottery grants, be and it is hereby repealed if adopted by the legally qualified voters of the State, as herein provided.

Sec. 2. And be it further enacted, That the aforegoing amendment to the Constitution of the State of Maryland shall, at the next ensuing general election for members of the General Assembly of Maryland, be submitted to the legal and qualified voters of the State for their adoption or rejection, in pursuance of the directions contained in Article 14 of the Constitution of the State of Maryland, and at the said general election the vote on the said proposed amendment to the Constitution shall be by ballot, and upon each ballot there shall be printed the words: "For Constitutional Amendment", and "Against Constitutional Amendment," as now provided by law, and immediately after said election due returns shall be made to the Governor of the vote for and against proposed amendment, as directed by said Fourteenth Article of the Constitution, and further proceedings had in accordance with said Article 14.

AN ACT to amend Section 21 of Article 4, title "Judiciary Department," sub-title "Part III—Circuit Courts", of the Constitution of this State, to provide an additional judge in the Second Circuit and to provide for the submission of said amendment to the qualified voters of this State for adoption or rejection.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the General Assembly of Maryland (three-fifths of all of the members elected to each of the two Houses concurring), That the following section be and the same is hereby proposed as an amendment to Section 21 of Article 4, title "Judiciary Department", sub-title "Part III—Circuit Courts" of the Constitution of the State, and if adopted by the legal and qualified voters thereof as herein provided, it shall supersede and stand in the place and stead of Section 21 of said Article 4.

21. For each of the said circuits, excepting the eighth, the second, the third and the sixth, there shall be a chief judge and two associate judges, to be styled judges of the Circuit Court, to be selected or appointed as herein provided, and for the second circuit, the third circuit and the sixth circuit there shall be a chief judge and three associate judges to be styled judges of the Circuit Court, to be elected or appointed as herein provided. And no two of said associate judges, for any of the said circuits, except the third and sixth circuits shall, at the time of their election or appointment or during the term for which they may have been elected or appointed, reside in the same county. If two or more persons shall be candidates for associate judge in the same county in any of the circuits, except the third and sixth circuits, that one only in said county shall be declared elected who has the highest number of votes in the circuit. In case any two candidates for associate judge in any of the circuits, except the third and sixth circuits, residing in the same county shall have an equal number of votes greater than any other candidates for associate judge in the circuit, it shall be the duty of the Governor to order a new election for one associate judge; but the person residing in any other county of the circuit and who has the highest number of votes shall be declared elected. The said judges shall hold not less than two terms of the Circuit Court in each of the counties composing their respective circuits, at such times as are now or may hereafter be prescribed to which jurors shall be summoned; and in those counties where only two such terms are held, two other and intermediate terms, to which jurors shall not be summoned; they may alter or fix the times for holding any or all terms, until otherwise prescribed, and shall adopt rules to the end that all business not requiring the interposition of the jury shall be, as far as practicable, disposed of at said intermediate terms. One judge in each of the above circuits, including the second, the third and sixth circuits, shall constitute a quorum for the transaction of any business; and the said judges or any of them may hold special terms of their courts, whenever in their discretion the business of the several counties renders such terms necessary. The additional associate judge for the third circuit elected in accordance with the terms of the Constitutional Amendment heretofore submitted and adopted shall be subject to the same constitutional provisions, hold his office for the same term of years, receive the same compensation and have the same powers as are herein provided for the other associate judges in the third circuit.

The additional associate judge for the second circuit herein provided for shall be a resident of Cecil County, shall be appointed by the Governor after the expiration of six (6) months after the adoption of this amendment and shall serve until the first general election for members of the General Assembly that shall be held in said circuit subsequent to the adoption of this amendment, at which election his successor shall be elected by the qualified voters of Caroline, Cecil, Kent, Queen Anne's and Talbot counties, constituting the second circuit. The judge so appointed shall be subject to the same constitutional provisions, receive the same compensation and have the same powers as are herein provided for the other associate judges in the second circuit, and the judge so elected shall be subject to the same constitutional provision, hold his office for the same term of years, receive the same compensation, and have the same powers as are herein provided for the other associate judges in the second circuit.

The additional judge for the sixth circuit herein provided for and elected by the qualified voters of Frederick and Montgomery Counties at the 1938 election in accordance with the terms of the Constitutional Amendment heretofore submitted and adopted shall be subject to the same constitutional provisions, receive the same compensation and have the same powers as are herein provided for the other associate judges in the sixth circuit and his successor shall be appointed and/or elected in accordance with the constitutional provisions relating to judges. The Chief Judge may be elected from either Frederick or Montgomery Counties, but when the Chief Judge is elected from Frederick County one of the associate judges shall be a resident of said county and the two remaining associate judges shall be residents of Montgomery County and when the Chief Judge is elected from Montgomery County one of the associate judges shall be a resident of said Montgomery County and the remaining two associate judges residents of Frederick County. In case any candidate or candidates for associate judge at any judicial election held in the sixth judicial circuit shall receive sufficient votes to cause such candidate or candidates to be declared elected, but the election of such candidate or candidates would cause more associate judges than herein permitted to reside in any county of said circuit, then and in that event only that candidate or those candidates, as the case may be, residing in the other county, and not similarly disqualified, who shall have the next highest number of votes in said election shall be declared elected. If, by reason of such a condition or by reason of an equal vote for two or more candidates a sufficient number of associate judges duly qualified as to residence as above set out should not be elected at any election in said sixth judicial circuit, then it shall be the duty of the Governor to order a new election for such unfilled office or offices.

Sec. 2. And be it further enacted, That the aforegoing section hereby proposed as an amendment to the Constitution of this State shall be, at the next general election to be held in this State in the year 1938, submitted to the legal and qualified voters thereof for their adoption or rejection in pursuance of directions contained in Article 14 of the Constitution of this State, and at the said general election, the vote on the said proposed amendment shall be by ballot, and upon each ballot there shall be printed the words "For the Constitutional Amendment" and "Against the Constitutional Amendment," as now prescribed by law, and immediately after said election, due returns shall be made to the Governor of the vote for and against said proposed amendment as directed by said Article 14 of the Constitution.

Approved: May 18, 1937.

Art. 15. That the levying of taxes by the poll is grievous and oppressive and ought to be prohibited; that paupers ought not to be assessed for the support of the government; that the General Assembly shall, by uniform rules, provide for separate assessment of land and classification and sub-classification of improvements on land and personal property, as it may deem proper; and all taxes thereafter provided to be levied by the State for the support of the general State Government, and by the counties and by the City of Baltimore for their respective purposes, shall be uniform as to land within the taxing district, and uniform within the class or sub-class of improvements on land and personal property which the respective taxing powers may have directed to be subjected to the tax levy; yet fines, duties or taxes may properly and justly be imposed, or laid with a political view for the good government and benefit of the community. Taxes may be imposed on incomes, which may be classified, graduated and progressive and the exemption of a reasonable amount of income from taxation may be provided and such taxes may be in lieu of taxes on any class or classes of real or personal property as the General Assembly may determine.

On the return of said attachment and the production of the person attached, the Court shall have jurisdiction of the contempt, and the person charged may purge himself of the contempt in the same way, and the same proceedings shall be had, and the same penalties may be imposed, and the same punishment may be inflicted as in the case of a witness subpoenaed to appear and give evidence on the trial of a civil cause. The Board shall have the power in its discretion, to authorize the payment of fees and traveling expenses of witnesses called before the Board and examined in any proceeding properly before the Board.

To The Voters of Garrett County

In offering ourselves as candidates for the Republican nomination for the office of County Commissioners, we have no hesitancy in asking the voters to return us to office on the strength of the record that we have made in office during the past four years. For reasons that we have heretofore disclosed in our series of articles, we have been viciously attacked by Senator Friend, mainly because we made two trips out of the county in the interests of the taxpayers nnd citizens of the county. Because of his pretended disapproval now of these trips he feels that we should not be returned to office, but we do not ask for support because of anything that we can say against Senator Friend. We ask your support because of what we have been able to accomplish in the interests of the people of the county in the four years that we have been in office, and we are proud of our record and wish to briefly cite some of our accomplishments during our administration.

FIRST—We have restored order to the financial affairs of the county. We have met the county's obligations promptly when they became due and funds have been made available to meet the requirements at all times. Many citizens will remember when it was not possible to get a county order cashed promptly and had to wait a considerable time to get their money.

SECOND—We have zealously looked after the public buildings of the county; have kept and maintained existing school buildings in a good state of repair; provided the necessary funds for the construction of the handsome new school building at Grantsville; provided the funds for the installation of sanitary toilets in the Accident school building; we have completed the construction of a new school house at Red House; we have provided for the construction of a new school building at West Vindex, and much needed repairs and improvements have been made on practically every school building in the entire county.

THIRD—Early in our term of office we prevailed upon the Governor to include in his budget the sum of $6,000.00 annually for the purpose of providing hospitalization for those needing the same and unable to pay for it. We believe that through our efforts the county will receive this amount out of the State funds annually for this purpose.

FOURTH—During our administration some sixty-odd miles of farm-to-market and new roads have been built and if returned to office we have a program of further road building within the next several years that will add many more miles of improved roads to the county system.

FIFTH—During our incumbency, we have had to deal with very serious economic conditions that required great outlays for General Public Assistance with but very little help from State funds. We have met our obligations to the unemployed and the needy under most adverse conditions. We have brought about the construction of several bridges in the county and we have at all times been conscious of the needs of the entire county. We wish to remind voters and taxpayers that notwithstanding the many added burdens that have been placed upon the county because of recently enacted social legislation, we have been able to meet the situation and we have been able to make these much needed improvements without any increase in the tax rate, and we pledge to the people of the county that if renominated and reelected to office the same careful and progressive administration that we feel we have rendered in the four years of our incumbency.

We believe that the experience that we have had as your County Commissioners during the past four years better qualifies us to serve you, and if we are returned to office we promise to carry out our program of road building; to carry out our pledge to oil and chip newly constructed roads, and we pledge further to have in mind at all times the importance of exercising economy in the management of the affairs of the county and keeping the tax rate at a minimum consistent with good government in the county.

JOHN W. HERMAN
VIRGIL T. STEYER.

TWENTY INDICTED AND GRAND JURY ADJOURNS

Work of Investigating Body Accomplished in Two Days; Forty-four Witnesses Examined

RECOMMENDATIONS MADE

The Garrett County Grand Jury for the September Term of the Circuit Court adjourned last evening after examining 44 witnesses and returning 20 indictments.

The work of the investigating body was accomplished in two days, as the members had asembled on Monday only to hear the charge delivered by Judge D. Lindley Sloan, after which they recessed so that all could go to their home districts and vote in the primary election.

The criminal docket will be taken up by the Court on Monday morning at nine o'clock and a short session is anticipated as there are no unusual cases to be brought to the attention of the Court.

The jurors made several recommendations to the County Commissioners concerning repair work at the Court House and Jail. The complete report with recommendations follows:

Grand Jury Report

To the Honorable, the Judges of the Circuit Court for Garrett County, Maryland.

The Grand Jury for the September Term, 1938, hereby submits its report as follows:

We have had before us and examined 44 witnesses and we have found 20 indictments.

Pursuant to the instructions delivered to us in the charge by Hon. Judge D. Lindley Sloan, we have given careful consideration to the matters brought to our attention and have returned indictments where we believed the evidence warranted such action.

We have inspected the Court House and desire to make the following recommendations to the Board of County Commissioners. We observed that there is a leak in the roof into the Grand Jury room and some of the plastering is off of the ceiling in that room. We think the Commissioners should immediately see to it that necessary repairs are made and we also think that they should see to it that the walls and ceiling are repainted. We observed that the paint on the walls and ceiling in the room occupied by the County Agent is peeling off and is badly in need of repainting. We believe that the walls and ceiling in the room occupied by the Register of Wills should be repainted and looked after as it seems

St. Peter's Group Elects Mrs. John Murphy President

Officers elected at a recent meeting of members of the Blessed Virgin Sodality of St. Peter's Parish, Oakland, included Mrs. John Murphy, president; Mrs. Mary Stanton, vice-president; Mrs. Evelyn Teets, secretary.

Plans are being made to build up membership and create new interest in the group during the coming year. Following election the members opened a large box which contained a new Sodality banner imported from Switzerland. The banner was said to be beautifully designed with hand embroidery and delicately wrought with gold and blue lettering. It was displayed for the first time in the church at the Sodality Communion mass.

Tent Show This Week Features Popular Radio Feature

"Doc" Schneider's Texans, a feature of the National Broadcasting company, is in Oakland this week on the Sweeney lot, showing under canvas. The show opened last evening and will continue this evening, Friday and Saturday evenings, with a change of program on the two last days. The show is being sponsored by the Oakland Volunteer Fire department.

"Doc" and his Texans offer a fast and original program and hold the distinction of being the ace NBC unit making personal appearances this season. A company of 20 people including the Salsbury Family, make up the show.

They combine old time music and songs with the modern style of playing and mixing in an original brand of comedy. They have been a feature for the past two years out of Radio City, N. Y., and following their appearance here will leave for Greenville, S. C., where they will broadcast over station WFBC during the fall and winter.

The unit consists of ten vaudeville acts including trick ropers, harmony yodelers, and comedians. Their advertisement on another page of this newspaper gives other details.

School Enrollment Increases

The enrollment in both Oakland High and Oakland Elementary public schools increased this week by 41. With the Parochial school on Oak street also opening Tuesday, there are now enrolled in the three Oakland school a total of 1,056 boys and girls.

Oakland High has an enrollment of 550, an increase of 22. There were 104 seniors, 121 juniors, 139 sophomores and 186 freshmen.

Oakland Elementary had an enrollment this week of 419, an increase of 19. St. Peter's Parochial school opened with 67 pupils.

GOVERNOR NICE IS EASY WINNER OVER PHOEBUS

Republican County Voters Give Governor Over 2,700 Votes—Stewart Is Nominated

HUSTER WINS FOR JUDGE

Governor Harry W. Nice, Republican, won the most one-sided victory of the primary election, leading State Senator Harry T. Phoebus for the gubernatorial nomination in every county and district.

In Garrett county alone Republican voters gave Nice a vote of more than 2,700, compared to about 650 for Phoebus.

Although Nice made no campaign his vote showed a six to one lead over his opponent. Phoebus not only lost his home county of Somerset 1713 to 1137, but his wife, Mrs. Vera Phoebus, was defeated in her bid for the Senate he abandoned.

Garrett county also gave Galen L. Tait the majority in the Republican Senatorial contest over his opponent Oscar Leser. Throughout the State, however, Leser was leading Tait, and appeared to be the candidate that Tydings will face November 8 in the general election.

Stewart Is Nominated

A. Charles Stewart, of Frostburg, lead his opponent two to one in the race for the Republican nomination for Congress from the Sixth District. Almost complete returns gave Stewart over 9,000, to 4,500 for Frank R. Long, of Kensington, Montgomery county.

In Garrett county Mr. Stewart, who has been a County Commissioner in Allegany county for a number of years, polled over 2,200 votes compared to around 500 for Long.

Huster Candidate For Judge

Horace P. Whitworth, Westernport, had a majority in this county of more than 400, in his candidacy for the nomination for Judge from the fourth judicial circuit, but Allegany county gave Judge William A Huster, Cumberland, a vote of 9114, to 2,672, for Whitworth, which assured him of the nomination. Huster won in Washington county by more than 1,000. Judge Huster was appointed to the bench by Governor Harry W. Nice to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Judge Robb, in 1936. He was extremely popular before that time, having served for several terms at State's Attorney of Allegany county. His popularity, judging by the vote in Monday's primary, seems not to have diminished.

Republicans Win Maine Election

Re-election of Governor Lewis O. Barrows, Republican, and three G. O. P. congressmen was Main's answer to a suggestion of Democratic Chairman James A. Farley that the state elect Democrats and "get in step" with the nation. Barrows' margin of victory was 17,000.

Barrows, who lambasted the New Deal in campaign speeches, received a congratulatory message from Governor of Vermont. only state to join Maine in Republican ranks against the Roosevelt landslide two years ago.

"You've started the snowball," he said. "Let's roll it clear across the country."

County Youth Club To Meet

The Garrett County Youth Club will hold its regular monthly meeting in the Lutheran church at Grantsville on Friday, September 16, at 8:00 p. m. The meeting is being held at Grantsville for the purpose of interesting and securing new members from that area.

Some of the things which members will consider at this meeting will be the discussion and consideration of by-laws.

The recration will be in charge of George Porter and Martha Mitchell.

SELF-HELP SCHOOL TO OPEN SUNDAY AT PARK

Inaugural Service Will Be Held at 2:30 P. M., With Address By Dr. Dean C. Dutton

PATRONS TO ORGANIZE

Mountain Lake Park Self Help University will be officially opened on Sunday, September 18, with an inaugural service in the afternoon at 2.30, it was announced this week. The inaugural address will be made by Dr. Dean C. Dutton, acting chancellor of the University. Rev. Dan McNally, Cumberland, will be master of ceremonies, and Prof. J. Roy McMurray, trumpeter, will have charge of music.

A special excursion train will be run from Cumberland to the Park for the opening. Excursionists will be met at the train by the Mt. Lake Park band which will lead a parade from the station to the Assembly Hall where the inaugural program will take place.

Sunday evening at 7:30, following an address by Dr. Dutton, the organization of the university Patron's Association will be effected. Persons interested in the success of the Self Help University are invited to join. Patrons and friends are requested to bring donations of farm produce, poultry, live stock, canned goods, or anything else that can be used. Credit is to be given to each individual making a contribution. Rev. Paul R. Maness, field secretary, stated that parents interested in building an educational fund for their children can do so by turning over to the college farm produce or cash to be credited to them for the future education for their children. "This will make possible a college education for young people otherwise unattainable," Rev. Maness said.

A radio program will be inaugurated Friday afternoon, September 16, from 1:30 to 2, over WMMN, Fairmont, W. Va., which will be in the interest of the college and to advertise the Allegheny Tableland.

The program will be under the direction of Rev. Dan McNally, and will be made up of music by students of the University and speakers of known reputation. It is to be a daily feature, from 1:30 to 2.

Rev Maness said the administration was very anxious to have persons hearing the first program to write to the Self Help University at Mt. Lake Park.

BERNARD I. GONDER IS THE SENATORIAL CANDIDATE

Democrats Give Him Big Majority—Other Returns Incomplete

Bernard I. Gonder is the Democratic choice for State Senatorial candidate by a wide margin, as the result of the primary election on Monday. Gonder polled 990 votes to 304 for his only opponent, Hugh Carey McMahon, of Election District No. 9. Mr. Gonder resides in Oakland.

Other county results were still in doubt as three precincts and in some cases four precincts are yet to be heard from. The Democratic vote in the first precinct of District No. 7 was never reported (unofficially) definitely; the second precinct of No. 8, and the first and second precincts of No. 13.

As the official count will not be completed until late this (Thursday) afternoon, all figures printed are subject to change and in some cases the change may mean defeat for some who now stand as apparently nominated.

With twenty-two out of twenty-five precincts reporting, John B. Campbell has for County Commissioner 731 votes; in 23 of 25 precincts George J. Pool has 756, and Wilbert Ridder has 842 votes for the nomination, while with 21 of the 25 precincts reporting Norval Speelman, of Friendsville has a total of 803 votes.

Figures from five voting places are lacking on the tabulation for delegates to the State convention. As the figures now stand E. I. Baumgartner, Wm. R. Offutt, J. Frank Browning and Wm. Miller are high men.

With four precincts missing in all for members of the Democratic State Central Committee except in the case of Albert S. Shaffer, where only two precincts are lacking, the tabulation points to Grover C. Stemple, Albert S. Shaffer, Asa T. Matthews, Stuart F. Hamill, Hayward F. Broadwater and William R. Browning as the successful candidates.

SENATOR TYDINGS WINS OVER LEWIS, NEW DEAL

FIGHT WAS BITTER ONE

Senator Millard E. Tydings rolled up a commanding majority over his opponent David J. Lewis throughout the state of Maryland as the result of the primary election became officially tabulated.

Although Lewis carried Garrett county by about 300 majority and also carried Washington county and Allegany county, his home, the majority for Tydings in the other counties, especially on the Eastern Shore, reached more than two to one.

The conservative Democrat, seeking renomination for his third term in the United States Senate against the direct opposition of President Roosevelt, led Representative Lewis in twenty of Maryland's twenty-three counties and in four of Baltimore's six districts.

On the basis of convention votes Tydings apparently was assured of 117 to Lewis' 32, garnered in the First and Sixth Baltimore districts and the three westernmost counties. The Eastern Shore counties where President Roosevelt visited Labor Day in behalf of Lewis, rejected him in favor of Tydings by almost a two to one plurality.

Arthur E. Hungerford, New Dealer the third entry in the bitter contest, was never a factor in the race. His vote was about 8,000. Tydings had 150,000 to 102,000 for Lewis.

JUDGE SLOAN DELIVERS CHARGE TO GRAND JURORS

Cites Various Statutes Which Are Required To Be Brought to Attention of The Body

RECESSED FOR ELECTION

Chief Judge D. Lindley Sloan instructed the grand jurors for the September Term of the Garrett County Circuit Court as to their duties in his charge to that body at the local Court House Monday morning at ten o'clock. John W. Ream, of Mountain Lake Park, is foreman of the body.

The Court declared that the power of the grand jury was not only extensive but extremely important and cited various statutes which are required to be brought to the attention of the jurors prior to beginning their deliberations and investigations of alleged offenses.

Following the charge to the grand jury the jurors recessed until Tuesday morning at ten o'clock, so that all

RECORD FOR VISITORS IS BROKEN OVER LABOR DAY

Swallow Falls State Forest Had 1,718 Visitors From Ten States

All previous records for visitors to the Swallow Falls state forest were broken over the Labor Day week-end, District Forester H. C. Buckingham reported, when 1,748 persons in 373 automobiles from ten states, two foreign countries and thirty-seven towns in Maryland visited the forest.

Eight people came from outside of the United States, five of them in an automobile with Nassau, Bahama Islands, license tags, and three from Panama.

On Sunday, September 4, from 9 a. m., until 6 p. m., 1,034 persons visited the forest and 288 cars passed through the entrance. Pennsylvania was the home of the greatest number of persons from out of Maryland, with 322 persons in sixty-nine cars entering the forest. There also were cars from California, Michigan, New Jersey, New York, Ohio, South Dakota, Virginia and West Virginia. One hundred and twenty-one persons were there from Cumberland.

On Labor Day, 714 persons in 150 automobiles visited the forest, with 150 persons coming from Cumberland, Pennsylvania again led the out of state list with 172 persons and thirty-five automobiles.

The census shows that Garrett Countians are also favorites of their beauty spots, over two hundred having visited the area within the two-day period.

Teats Is Probable Nominee

Upon opening the Sang Run box at noon today the official count for District No. 6 in the sheriff contest gave Frazee 57 votes as compared to 75 for Teats. This would give Teats a majority of four votes, unless the official figures in the other districts make a change in the unofficial tabulation.

As the count now stands Teats has 1381 votes, Frazee 1377 votes and Coddington 911. Figures on the House of Delegates candidates and Committeemen were not available.

O'CONOR HOLDING LEAD IN GUBERNATORIAL RACE

Second Choice Votes Likely To Decide Fate of Democratic Nominee and Other Candidates

JACKSON LED IN COUNTY

In the four-man race for the Democratic Gubernatorial nomination youthful Attorney General Herbert R. O'Conor, holds a slim lead over Mayor Howard W. Jackson, of Baltimore, his nearest rival. The final outcome will not be known until the official canvass of the vote which takes place this (Thursday) afternoon. Even then, it may require the Democratic State convention to decide. William S. Gordy, Jr., state comptroller, and State Senator Landsdale G. Sasscer did not figure in the running.

Nine hundred and three polling places gave O'Conor 115,801; Jackson, 97,860; Gordy, 25,012; and Sasscer 15,736, indicating the mayor had cut into O'Conor's early lead of better than 20,000 votes. Further returns have been cutting O'Conor's lead still more.

A recapitulation of convention votes showed O'Conor ahead in counties with a total of sixty-seven ballots in the nominating convention; Jackson holding counties worth 50. Sasscer had twenty convention votes to Gordy's 12. There were still eleven counties in which none of the four could show a clear majority of votes cast. In Frederick county O'Conor led Jackson by one vote and thus a bloc of fifty-two convention votes thus remained in doubt. It may also be necessary to compute the second choice votes to determine the winner.

Returns from Allegany county gave Edward J. Ryan, of Frostburg, a lead in the Democratic Sixth District primary for Congressional candidate After William D. Byron, Williamsport, had led all day Tuesday, Allegany gave Ryan more than 6,000 votees to give him a plurality. Ryan had 8,741 votes; Byron 7,410; and Joseph A. Cantrel, Chevy Chase, 2,324.

Returns from 878 precincts gave John B. Gontrum, Towson attorney, the lead in the race for the Democratic nomination as attorney general. He had 45,220 votes to 44,251 for William C. Walsh, of Cumberland; 34,943 for Willis R. Jones, Baltimore, and 24,736 for Omar D. Crothers. Gontrum's total was only one-third of the total votes cast, so that the second choice votes will decide the nomination.

J. Millard Tawes, Crisfield, candidate for Comptroller on Mayor Jackson's ticket, was in the lead in that race with 63,351 votes. P. Watson Webb, Cambridge publisher and O'Conor man, was second with 57,154. Daniel Carroll, Baltimore county, trailed with 23,974. Here again second choice votes will decide the outcome.

James A. Young had 69,282 votes for clerk of the court of appeals, as against 50,778 for Mrs. Elizabeth R. Menefee. Both are from Allegany county. Young was on the Jackson ticket.

Jackson Leads In County

In Garrett county Jackson held a lead of 140 votes with 23 out of 25 polling places reporting. Kitzmiller and Red House precincts were missing. Jackson had 848 votes to 708 for O'Conor. Gordy had 145 and Sasscer had 43.

In the race for attorney general Walsh held a substantial lead with 676 votes. His nearest opponent was Willis R. Jones, with 370. Tawes led the county ticket for comptroller with 557 votes. James A. Young held over a two to one lead over Mrs. Menefee for clerk of the court of appeals. He had 773 votes. Edward J. yan had 687 votes for Congressional nomination with Byron next with 275.

Unofficial returns elsewhere in The Republican today.

CLIFFORD FRIEND GETS REPUBLICAN NOMINATION

Has An Unofficial Majority Of 289 Over Harvey J. Speicher; Sheriff Candidacy In Doubt

NEED SANG RUN FIGURES

With all the Republican ballots unofficially tallied with the exception of Sang Run—District No. 6—the present high candidates can be assured of their nomination, with very few exceptions.

Clifford Friend has definitely won the nomination for State Senator with a vote of 1671 compared with 1382 for Harvey J. Speicher, his nearest opponent. Harry C. Edwards, for the Senate nomination, received a total of 694 votes. These unofficial figures include the Sang Run District, except for Mr. Edwards.

Failure to get the full tablulation in Sang Run has caused doubt as to who has been nominated for Sheriff. Carl W. Frazee at present is leading his nearest opponent, Juniper S. Teats, 1320 to 1306, but no one seems to have recalled the count in District No. 6 for a certainty. George E. Coddington, third aspirant for nomination for the office of sheriff, polled 847 votes with one precinct missing.

Cheston H. Browning, Blaine Giessman and Paul M. Friend are the high candidates for Commissioners and their nomination seems secure notwithstanding the missing precinct's figures. At least Mr. Browning is assured of the nomination as he led the ticket among the seventeen candidates with a vote of 1260.

The three high candidates for members of the House of Delegates are also almost certain of nomination, although it is possible the Sang Run vote may change the situation. Thus far Darwin B. Martin, Mountain Lake Park, is high man with 1444 votes; Nelson Brenneman, McHenry, is second with 1334 votes; Martin L. Groves has 1269 votes, with Arthur G. Cullers, who, with Mr. Groves, sought renomination, trails the latter by 62 votes. Mr. Brenneman is assured of a large vote in Sang Run, which is his home district, but the vote in the case of Groves and Cullers is uncertain.

Jesse J. Ashby, Jr., easily won the treasurership nomination and consequently the election, as the Democrats failed to name an opponent for the general election. Mr. Ashby had a total vote of 2224, compared with 865 for Truman C. Bittinger. All three of the Orphans' Court Judges, Thomas E. Bishoff, Frank Callis and William A. Smith, were renominated.

The contest among candidates for members of the Republican State Central Committee, is still considered in doubt, as the returns are not complete from Sang Run and also District No. 12—Bittinger. At present William D. Casteel is high man with a vote of 1860, and the three next highest are Henry W. McComas, Jr., 1521; Julius C. Renninger, 1396; George D. White, 1331. Mark Moon is fifth man with a vote of 1249, while Charles A. Asnby is sixth with 1137.

The official count is taking place this afternoon at the office of the Board of Supervisors of Elections, and it will be late in the day when final figures are announced. The official tabulations of the results of both the Republican and Democratic votes will be printed in The Republican next Thursday.

The unofficial figures for each Republican and Democratic candidate appear in The Republican today, on page 8, along with pictures of a number of the winners.

Old Defenders' Day. Monday, Passes Almost Unnoticed

The anniversary of the Battle of North Point, including the defense against British attackers of Fort McHenry which inspired Francis Scott Key to write the national anthem, was observed quietly in Maryland on Monday, September 12.

Defenders' Day in the State is a legal holiday. There was much activity around state buildings, however, as Monday was also primary election day, and in Garrett county the grand jury met to hear Judge D. Lindley Sloan's charge, after which they dismissed until Tuesday.

An article on Old Defenders' Day appears in another section of The Republican today.

Robert Stemple is spending this week in Baltimore.

JUNIOR TOPIC—Noble Prince Jonathan.
INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—The Adventure of Friendship.
YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—The Cost of Being a Friend.

Without question, the most precious possession any man or woman has (apart from his fellowship with God if he is a Christian, and the love of his own family) is friendship. It is the flower that blooms by the side of the rugged pathway of life. Like many flowers, some friendships need to be cultivated and encouraged.

It has been said that the love of a woman for another woman is a beautiful thing, the love of a man for a woman an even more devoted and precious thing, but that the bond of love between man and man surpasses all in its strength and glory. Some might question such a statement, and yet it is true that between man and man there is the possibility of the highest type of friendship. David and Jonathan stand at the head of an inspiring list of men who loved each other with their whole souls.

The lesson for today calls for a careful reading of the incidents in the life of Jonathan and David recorded in I Samuel, chapters 14, 18, 19, and 20, as well as the first chapter of II Samuel. It is a story which will richly reward a careful reading. Considering the printed portion in the light of this background we note six things that characterized this great friendship.

I. Cultivated (v. 4).

Friendships must be "kept in repair." Foolish and almost wicked is that man who by boorishly offending his fellowmen, or by neglecting the thoughtful words and acts that cultivate friendship, drives men away from him. "He that hath friends must show himself friendly" (Prov. 18:24). Consider the admonition of our Lord in Luke 16:8, 9, where he urges the righteous use of even our worldly possessions to cultivate eternal friendships. Read what Jonathan did in I Sam. 18:3-5, only one of his many loving and thoughtful acts.

II. Courteous (v. 8).

David asked that Jonathan deal kindly with him, and the entire story reveals that he did just that, always. More friendships are wrecked on the rocks of little discourtesies than in almost any other way.

We live in an age which affects an outward veneer of culture but which is at heart often thoughtless and unkind. Let Christian men and women be courteous. They should be as followers of the gentle Jesus, and it will bring them countless friends.

III. Candid (v. 9).

Friendships that last must be built on absolute candor, not the kind that delights in telling an unpleasant truth, but one which speaks the truth in love. Jonathan told David the truth.

IV. Courageous (vv. 12, 13).

Jonathan was such a faithful son that when the time of parting came he stayed with his wicked father rather than go with David, whom he loved. But he was true to David even though he knew it would incur the wrath of his father if that friendship became known.

Things that cost us nothing are usually "worth it." Real friendship calls for sacrifice, standing by in the night hours, sharing burdens, loyal even though others may condemn us for it.

V. Covenant Keeping (vv. 16, 17).

Covenants entered into by solemn treaties in our time are soon discarded as "scraps of paper." People make promises to one another that they never intend to fulfill. Jonathan and David made a covenant and kept it. True friends do not violate their loving agreements.

This matter of trickery and falsehood in life and business is one that deeply troubles the writer of these notes. He sees unmistakable evidence that this perverse spirit has come into the precincts of the church itself. We should have a revival of honesty in office, home, state, and church.

VI. Complete (v. 17).

"He loved him as he loved his own soul"—such a friend was Jonathan. His devotion to David had no qualifying "strings" on it. He was not seeking something for himself. The closest he came to that was to bring his children into the covenant with David (v. 15), and who could question the propriety of such devotion between true friends? He saw that David was to supplant Saul as king, and in the face of his own interest as Saul's son, he put David forward.

Friendship is akin to our relationship to God in that it calls for a complete giving of ourselves, if we are to be true friends. This does not mean that individuality is lost, or special interests and abilities destroyed, but it does mean a whole-souled desire for our friend's welfare, and a complete devotion of our all to his good.

A splendid concert was given and the lawn fete was quite a success, even though the weather was cool. The members of the band desire to thank everyone for their liberal contributions and help. It is hoped many more entertainments of this nature will be presented in the future. The people of the community should be, and naturally are, proud to have a band in their town.

IN MEMORIAM

In loving remembrance of my dear son, William Custer, who passed away ten years ago today, September 7, 1928.

Time speeds on; ten years have passed
Since death its gloom its shadow cast
Within our home where all seemed bright
And took from us a shining light.
I miss that voice and ever will—
His vacant place there is none can fill;
Down here we mourn but not in vain,
For up in heaven we will meet again.
I will never forget that morning
As long as life exists—
In the early hours of dawning
Our loved one went to his rest.
Oh, how sad it was to say goodbye
In that morning of long, long ago,
But God has given a promise
We can meet where no tear will flow.
Some day I hope to meet him—
Some day, I know not when,
To clasp his hand in that better land
Never to part again.
Nothing can ever take away
The love a heart holds dear—
Fond memories linger every day:
Remembrance keeps him near.

By his mother,

JUDGE SLOAN DELIVERS

members of the body would have an opportunity to vote in the primary election. Monday was also a legal holiday—Old Defenders Day—in the State of Maryland.

The Court's charge to the jury follows:

Gentlemen of the Grand Jury:—

Except for certain statutes which the Court required by the Legislature to call to your attention at the opening of each Jury Term of Court, the charge to the Grand Jury is merely an age-old custom, and amounts to little more than a repetition of the Grand Juror's oath—which shall be your guide in all matters which may come before you. That oath requires that you " * * *shall diligently inquire, and true presentment make, of all such matters and things as shall be given you in charge, or shall otherwise come to your knowledge, touching this present service."

The major part of your duties will be to investigate charges of violation of the criminal laws which have already been heard by the justices of the peace of the county, in which they have held the parties charged to answer such further action thereon as may be taken by the Grand Jury. Those cases have been investigated by the law-enforcement officers of the county, the witnesses have been summoned to appear before you and they await the exercise of your judgment as to whether the evidence be sufficient for submission to a petit jury whose duty it shall be then, on the evidence submitted by both parties—State and traversers—to decide the question of the latter's guilt or innocence. By that part of the oath just quoted, you will observe that you shall not only inquire " * * * of all such matters and things as shall be given you in charge * * *"—which means those which are brought to your notice in the way just mentioned—but you shall also inquire into other matters which " * * * shall otherwise come to your knowledge."

The power of a Grand Jury is not only extensive but is extremely important, and it is one of the chief factors in the enforcement of the law and the preservation and maintenance of the peace and order of the county, and is also one of the strongest assurances we have for the safety and security of the people.

Taken as a whole, the people of this county are sober, industrious and law-abiding, but such a condition can only be maintained and continued by the punishment of those, who, by their conduct, disregard the rights of others and disturb this condition. Since the last term of Court, I have heard of no unusual conditions which should be brought to your attention, or which you might be required to investigate, and we shall be fortunate if this shall always be so.

As I said, there are certain statutes which the Legislature has directed, shall, from time to time, be brought to the attention of the Grand Jury.

Section 4 of Article 27 of the Code requires that your attention be called to Section 3 of Artiele 27, which forbids and prohibits and provides punishment for the crime of abortion, the advertisement of any drug, medicine or instrument, designed to produce the same, and the sale of any such articles. The practical purpose of such a requirement is douhtful, as this is a crime difficult to discover, which only comes to the surface when the consequences of its commission have hed unfortunate—often fatal—results.

By Section 79 of Article 27, it is provided that "If any Clerk, Register of Wills, Sheriff, Collector of Taxes, Notary Public, or other officer, whose duty it is to collect revenue due the State of Maryland or any county thereof, shall, after the receipt of said revenue by him, wilfully detain the same in his possession and neglect to pay the "same into the Treasury of the State or to the County Commissioners, or the proper officer authorized to receive the same, for more than sixty days after the day upon which it is made by law hi sduty to nay the same, or if no particular day be appointed by law for said payment, and such officer shall retain any revenue due to the State or to any county thereof, and which it is his duty to collect, and which he shall have collected, and shall neglect to pay the same into the Treasury of the State, or to the County Commissioners, or the proper officer authorized to receive the same, for the space of six months after he shall have collected the same, such officer so offendig in either case shall be deemed to be a defaulter * * * "and the Judges of the Courts having criminal jurisdiction in this State, shall give this law in charge to the Grand Juries summoned to their respectlvve Courts.

Section 285 of Article 27 makes it unlawful for any practictioner of medicine or dentistry to furnish or present for the use of any person any cocaine, hereoine, opium, morphine and certain other narcotic drugs, except under strict regulations therein provided for, and it is made the duty of the Judges of all Courts having criminal jurisdiction to instruct the Grand Juries " * * * to diligently inquire into and investigate all cases of the violation of the provisions of this sub-title (Health-Narcotic Drugs) and to make a true presentment of persons guilty of such violation."

It is the duty of Grand Juries in this State, by Section 22 of Article 51 of the Code, to " * * * visit the Jail and inquire into its condition, the manner in which it is kept, and the treatment of the prisoners, and report the "same to the Court." It is customary also—and Grand Juries are generally instructed—to inspect the Court House and report its condition, together with such recommendations as may be made for the repair and improvement of both the Court House and the Jail.

The Court is not required by law to instruct Grand Juries in respect to the statute against carrying concealed weapons, but this offense is so often attended with such tragic consequences that it should not be ignored or lightly regarded. The seriousness of the offense is such that the Legislature has imposed severe penalties of its violation, by providing for a fine of not more than one thousand dollars, or imprisonment in the Jail or House of Correction for not more than two years.

In Garrett county the sale of beer is now authorized by law under such regulations as are imposed by the Act of 1935. In no county in the State have the liquor laws been more faithfully enforced than in this county, and we can assume that there will be no relaxation of this alertness on the part of the Grand Juries or the enforcement officers of this county with respect to it.

Section 104 of Article 12 of the Public Local Laws, title, "Garrett County," provides that the books of the County Treasurer shall be opened to the inspection of the Grand Jury. The only implication that can be drawn from this is that it is your duty to see that the books of the County Treasurer are carefully kept and monies received by him promptly and properly deposited. There is no need of your making an extensive audit of his books, as it is now provided by the general law of the State that periodical examinations of his books shall be made by the State Auditor whose report will be available to you when required.

Section 22 of Article 20 of the Code requires that in all counties except Frederick and Allegany, "Each constable shall be sworn at every Circuit Court for the county, or Criminal court of Baltimore to the Grand Jury." This means that in Garrett county each constable shall be required to appear before the Grand Jury and report to it all violations of the criminal laws of which they may be cognizant or which may have been brought to their attention. This also means that if there have been violations of the criminal laws in their respective districts or communities of which they knew—or should have known—that then their failure to take proper action or to disclose such violations to the Grand Jury, shall render them liable to indictment for malfeasance or misfeasance in office. Necessarily, the other law-enforcement agencies of the county are largely dependent upon local constables for information, and this makes the office of constable far more important than it is generally regarded.

By your oath, you will notice that you are also required to keep secret all matters which may come before you, the importance of which is such that we hardly think it necessary to enlarge upon this caution.

It is desirable that you perform your duties as speedily as may be consistent with the thorough investigation of all matters brought before you, or which may come to your knowledge. The very fact of your selection as Grand Jurors is founded on the judgment of this Court that you can and will properly and promptly perform the duties to which you have been summoned.

We are also informed that permission has been given to the County Health Doctor to use the ladies' waiting room on the second floor of the Court House. This deprives the public and female employees of the Court House of this room and we do not believe that this should be longer permitted.

We have inspected the jail and the Sheriff's residence and we find that it is kept neatly and in a clean condition. We would recommend that the inside of the jail and cells be repainted. The paint is chipped off and stained and we believe that this should be looked after.

We also desire to recommend that the County Commissioners have a garage built for the use of the automobiles used by the Sheriff. He has no place to store his cars and has to leave them on the public street and we think this matter should be given immediate attention by the Board.

The side walk along the jail and Sheriff's residence on Fourth street is in bad condition and should be seen to it that proper repairs are made.

We have examined the several offices in the Court House and found them to be in good condition and as far as we were able to observe the records were neatly kept and any information asked for was readily available and cheerfully given.

We believe the officers in the county are performing their duties in the enforcement of the law and we desire to thank the State's Attorney for the cooperation and assistance given us during our deliberations.

We extend our thanks to his Honor Judge Sloan for the assistance he has given us in performing our duties as Grand Jurors.

We now respectfuliy ask to be discharged.

THE GREAT GAME OF POLITICS. . . . . .

By FRANK R. KENT

The Maryland Primaries

Perhaps it is unwise to assume too much from the primary results in a single State. Nevertheless, the decisive vote by which Maryland Democrats rejected Representative David J. Lewis, the personally indorsed Roosevelt candidate and a man of really fine character, renominating for the Senate Mr. Millard Tydings, who was especially despised and disliked not only by the White House but by Administration people generally, is undoubtedly significant.

* * *

There is at least justification for pointing out the facts which the result makes clear. In the first place, it is a convincing demonstration of the impotency of the President to bend the Democratic party to his will. He tried it in Maryland as he has not tried it anywhere else—and it must be something of a shock to him to find unfounded the cherished conviction that his full weight is irresistible. It must have been almost as much a shock to the political strategists who have been advising him.

* * *

Because in Maryland the President exerted his full weight in a way not attempted in any other State. Literally, no stone was left unturned. Not only did Mr. Roosevelt, personally, enter Maryland, accompanied by Postmaster General Farley and various aids, making a spectacular 200-mile tour and a carefully planned speech in the interest of his candidate, but every ounce of pressure which the Federal Government has was used to get him votes. In a State contiguous to Washington, which literally crawls with Federal jobholders, and with Mr. Farley interested as he had not been in any other contest, the power of the Federal machine was concededly great.

* * *

The White House helped in every possible way. The Administration really ran the Lewis campaign; the President, with Mr. Lewis at his side, promised many millions for a series of bridges; Mr. Ickes, the bitter-tongued PWA director, backed the promise up with action; the Lewis speeches were written by the best White House writing talent; Mr. Tommy Corcoran came back from his vacation to lend his aid; the propaganda was White House-inspired and the effort to paint Mr. Tydings as a black reactionary who had betrayed the President was White House-approved. No secret was made of any of this. In every way they sought to make it clear that Mr. Lewis' success would be the President's success; that a defeat for Lewis would be a defeat for the President. It was made so clear that there was not a voter in Maryland, or for that matter, not an interested person outside who did not understand it.

* * *

None of these things will be disputed. When they are weighed against the striking Tydings majority, there is no possible way by which the Maryland result can be construed save as a major political reverse for the President. But there is more than that in the Maryland decision. When to it is added that Mr. Tydings is the eighth of the nine Democratic Senators whom the President had listed for "liquidation" and who have successfully survived his efforts to destroy them, the flat failure of the great "purge" is beyond dispute. It needs only the renomination Wednesday of Senotar George, of Georgia, to make it sensationally complete.

* * *

Looking now at the situation, several things seem clear. One is that the carefully cultivated idea that the Administration weight is too great to overcome and opposition to Mr. Roosevelt courts political death has been wholly disproved. The truth is that the Roosevelt opposition was Mr. Tydings' big asset in Maryland; without it he might easily have been beaten. Another thing crystal clear is that the Tydings' victory means that the Maryland delegation to the 1940 Democratic convention will be an anti-New Deal, anti-Roosevelt, anti-third term delegation. And that makes it a little more certain than before that Mr. Roosevelt in that convention will not be the dominant factor, will not be able to dictate the platform nor select the candidate. It makes, too, the Roosevelt control of the next session of Congress less sure and encourages independence in those who at heart disbelieve in his policies but have been afraid openly to dissent. And another thing—it was not only the voters who resented Executive intrusion into the affairs of the State who swept Mr. Tydings to victory. The main body of his supporters was composed of voters who are thoroughly sick—and have been for a long time—of the whole unsavory New Deal mess from the White House down and want to get rid of it. Demonstration that these are a party majority was the really heartening thing about the Maryland primaries.

Miss Jane Addison, the recently appointed public health nurse, who is filling the vacancy caused by the resignation of Mrs. Samuel Cole, has arrived in Oakland from Salt Lake City, Utah, and began her duties this morning in the health office here. Miss Addison was appointed by Dr. R. H. Riley, State Health Director, following a competitive examination conducted under civil service rules.

Fifty-eight marriage licenses were issued during the past week ending Monday at noon from the office of the Clerk of the Circuit Court for Garrett county, thus bring the total for the month of September to 108 upon that day. Saturday was a busy day for the clerk with 20 applications for licenses being granted.

GRANTSVILLE

National Dog Week

Mayor William Winterberg has proclaimed National Dog Week, September 18-21, to be celebrated here again for the third year. The proclamation centers around the slogan, "Every dog needs a good home."

Two essay contests are being conducted in the Grantsville school, one for seniors, juniors and sophomores of the high school, on the subject, "Nobleness of dog nature," and the other for freshmen and sixth and seventh graders, on "Why I want a dog," or "Why I value my dog." Cash prizes will be awarded for the best essays, not to exceed 300 words, in both contests which close Wednesday, September 21.

On Saturday, September 24, a dog parade will be held. Anyone may enter, providing the dog is on leash. Cash prizes, which are being donated by the garages, will be awarded by local judges for the largest, smallest, and best behaved dogs. The Boy Scouts, Junior Firemen and Girls' 4-H club have announced their intention of participating.

Church groups are cooperating, announcements of activities here will be broadcast over the air at 12:30 noon during that week, Florence Parmer Maurer, mezzo-soprano, will dedicate a portion of her radio program over WTBO, Cumberland, to the week on Wednesday at 1:30 p. m., and a special window display will be featured at the Keller Store.

Community Club Begins New Course

Mrs. Elizabeth Hockman was hostess to the Women's Community club Wednesday afternoon. Mrs. E. H. Canan, Mt. Lake Park, vice-president of the Garrett county council of Homemakers clubs, spoke on "Everyday husineess practices," starting a three-years course, "Household saving of time, energy and money." Mrs. Zelda Gnegy, also of Mt. Lake Park, county reading chairman, spoke concerning this winter's reading course, giving names of recommended books, and also talked on 4-H club camp life held recently at the Cunningham farm where she was one of the leaders. Old Defenders Day, 1814

Monday, September 12, marked the anniversary of the defense of Baltimore against the British forces in the War of 1812. After the battle of Bladensburg and the capture of Washington, Maj. Gen. Robert Ross and Vice-Admiral Sir Alexander Cochrane, commanding the British forces, decided to attack Baltimore.

On August 27, 1814, the work of fortifying the city got under way. On Sunday, September 11, the British fleet, numbering about forty or fifty ships, was spotted in the mouth of the Patapsco river off North Point. On the same day, Maj. Gen. Samuel Smith, commanding the defense of Baltimore, ordered Brig. Gen. John Stricker and his Baltimore brigade of 3,185 men to advance along the North Point road to meet the enemy.

They halted at the head of Bear creek and sent out scouts, who reported next morning that the enemy was landing. General Stricker sent ahead two regiments to engage the British. But let Niles' Weekly Rigister, a Baltimore newspaper of the period, tell about the battle which followed:

"The troops (British) were a part of Wellington's 'invincibles'. Some works were erecting not far from North Point to arrest their progress; but their incipient state forbade a stand being made at them; and the enemy marched four miles toward us uninterrupted, except by a few flying shots from the cavalry.

"The rest of our forces were judiciously stationed in or near the various defenses. About 1 o'clock a party of 150 or 200 men, consisting of Capt. Levering's and Capt. Hawkard's companies of the Fifth Regiment and Captain Aisquith's Rifle Corps, were detached from the line to feel the enemy and bring on the battle; they were accompanied by a few artillerists with one of their pieces.

"Before they expected it, they were attacked by the British, in very superior numbers, and driven in with some loss after a few fires to the main body. The whole number actually engaged did not exceed 1,700 men.

"Nearly as much perhaps being done at this point as was expected, our force retreated toward the city. The enemy followed slowly, and on Tuesday night approached within two miles of our entrenchments. Measures were taken to cut them off and punish their temerity; but before General Winder, with the Virginia militia and a squadron of the United States Cavalry, could bring his plans fully to bear, the British, suspecting the design or not liking the appearance of our works, decamped suddenly in the night. . . . "

* * *

During the fighting of the first day, the British commander, General Ross, was fatally shot. There are several versions of how this officer met his death, but the account in the "Life of John H. W. Hawkins," by William George Hawkins, is given general credence. This story has it that Ross was shot by Wells and McComas, two young Baltimoreans, who were among the troops sent ahead to engage the British.

Instead of retreating with their comrades, Wells and McComas are said to have penetrated the British lines, and seeing Ross on his white horse, fired the fatal shots.

From this point, let us take up the account of the battle from behind the enemy's lines as told by G. R. Gleig, a British subaltern. Gleig's account is considered an accurate one. He says:

"By the fall of our gallant leader, the command devolved upon Colonel Brook, of the Forty-fourth Regiment, an officer of decided personal courage but perhaps better calculated to lead a batallion than to guide an army. Being informed of his unexpected and undesired elevation, he came to the front, and under him we continued to move on. . . .

"The skirmishing had now ceased, for the American riflemen were driven in; and in a few minutes we found ourselves opposite to a considerable force, drawn up with some skill, and occupying a strong position. As our troops came up, they filed off to right and left, and drew up just within cannon shot. . . .

"While this formation was going on, the artillery, being brought up, opened upon the American army, and a smart cannonade ensued on both sides. That our guns were well served, I myself can bear witness; for I saw the shrapnel shells which were thrown from them strike among the enemy and make fearful gaps in the line. Our rockets likewise began to play, one of which, falling short, lighted upon a haystack in the barnyard belonging to a farmhouse, and immediately set it on fire . . . and the smoke and blaze which they emitted together with the roar of ennnon and flashes of the guns produced together a fine effect.

"Not trusting to his superiority in numbers, their general had there intrenched them in the most formidable manner, having covered the whole face of the heights with breastworks, thrown back his left so as to rest it upon a strong fort erected to the protection of the river, and constructed a chain of field redoubts which covered his right and commanded the entire ascent.

"Along the line of the hill were likewise fleches and other projecting works, from which a crossfire might be kept up; and there were mounted throughout this commanding position no less than one hundred pieces of cannon."

Gleig then notes that since the terrain in front of the retrenchments was open pasturage, there was no cover for the British troops. In addition, he says, it was raining torrents so that the men were put to some effort to keep their firearms dry. He ends his comment on their situation with this succinct sentence: "This was the reverse of an agreeable bivouac to the whole army."

Colonel Brook established communication with the fleet command in an effort to have them attack the fort from the river. This was impossible, Gleig says, because the river was too shallow to permit the vessels to approach near enough to bring the fort within range of their guns.

Upon receiving this information, Colonel Brook held a council of war, and it was decided to return to the ships as speedily as possible. They set out at midnight in the rain and darkness before the American forces knew that they had retreated. When the Americans found out that the British had fled, they set out after them, but managed only to pick up a few stragglers.

After the British troops began to move forward, Admiral Cochrane took some of the ships (he doesn't say how many) and sailed up the river toward Baltimore with the intention of supplementing the land attack.

Admiral Cochrane's account of the bombardment of Fort Mellenry and his retreat is very cursory. He simply says that the entrance by sea was "entirely obscured by a barrier of vessels sunk at the entrance to the harbor." The account in Niles' Register, however, is much more vivid:

"The attack on Fort McHenry was terribly grand and magnificent. The enemy vessels formed a great half in front of the works but out of reach of our guns and also those of the battery at the Lazaretto, on the opposite side of the great cove or basin, around the head of which the city is built.

"At 6 o'clock on Tuesday morning, six bomb and some rocket vessels commenced the attack, keeping such a respectful distance as to make the fort rather a target than an opponent; Though Major Armistead, the gallant commander, and his brave garrison fired occasionally to let the enemy know the place was not given up.

"Four or five bombs were frequently in the air at a time, and, making a double explosion, with the noise of the foolish rockets and the firings of the fort, Lazaretto and our barges, created a horrible clatter. Thus it lasted till about 3 o'clock in the afternoon, when the enemy, growing more courageous, dropped nearer the fort, and gave the garrison and batteries a little of the chance they wanted.

"The balls now flew like hailstones, and the Britons slipped their cables, hoisted their sails and were off in a moment, but not without damage. When they got out of harm's way, they renewed the 'magnanimous' attack, throwing their bombs with an activity excited by their mortification. So they went on until about 1 o'clock in the morning, our batteries now and then firing a signal gun.

"At this time, aided by the darkness of the night and screened by a flame they had kindled, one or two rocket or bomb vessels and many barges, manned with 1,200 men, passed Fort Mellenry, and proceeded up the Patapsco. . . .

The weak-sighted mortals now thought the deed was done—they gave three cheers and began to throw their missive weapons.

"But alas! Their cheering was quickly turned to groaning, and the cries of their wounded and drowning people soon reached the shore; for Fort McHenry and Covington with the City Battery and the Lazaretto and barges, vomited an iron flame upon them in heated balls, and a storm of heavy bullets flew upon them from the great semi-circle of large guns and gallant hearts.

"The other vessels also began to fire—and the heavens were lighted with flame, and all was continued explosion for about half an hour. Having got this taste of what was prepared for them (and it was a mere taste) the enemy precipitately retired with his remaining forces battered and crippled, to his respectful distance . . . They must have suffered excessively in this affair . . . But what the loss really was we probably shall never know."

* * *

The bombardment of Fort Mellenry began on Tuesday morning, September 13, and continued through the day and night and into Wednesday morning, when the British departed. It was during the early morning of September 14, that Francis Scott Key was inspired to write the "Star-Spangled Banner."

In the Maryland Gazette, printed at Annapolis, one week later was the following paragraph:

"Sunday between sixty and seventy sail of the enemy, large and small, passed our harbor bound down the bay. A ship and schooner grounded, the first near the upper end of Kent Island, the schooner near Sandy Point; this circumstance detained several of their vessels until Tuesday, when the ship, after being lightened by taking out her guns, was got off—the schooner was burnt. Yesterday they got under way nnd proceeded ten miles below this city."

CHAPTER 494—1937

AN ACT to amend Section 21 of Article 4, title "Judiciary Department," sub-title "Part III Circuit Courts", of the Constitution of this State, to provide an additional judge in the Second Circuit and to provide for the submission of said amendment to the qualified voters of this State for adoption or rejection.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the General Assembly of Maryland (three-fifths of all the members elected to each of the two Houses concurring), That the following section be and the same is hereby proposed as an amendment to Section 21 of Article 4, title "Judiciary Department", sub-title "Part III—Circuit Courts" of the Constitution of the State, and if adopted by the legal and qualified voters thereof as herein provided, it shall supersede and stand in the place and stead of Section 21 of said Article 4.

21. For each of the said circuits, excepting the eighth, the second, the third and the sixth, there shall be a chief judge and two associate judges, to be styled judges of the Circuit Court, to be selected or appointed as herein provided, and for the second circuit, the third circuit and the sixth circuit there shall be a chief judge and three associate judges to be styled judges of the Circuit Court, to be elected or appointed as herein provided. And no two of said associate judges, for any of the said circuits, except the third and sixth circuits shall, at the time of their election or appointment or during the term for which they may have been elected or appointed, reside in the same county. If two or more persons shall be candidates for associate judge in the same county in any of the circuits, except the third and sixth circuits, that one only in said county shall be declared elected who has the highest number of votes in the circuit. In case any two candidates for associate judge in any of the circuits, except the third and sixth circuits, residing in the same county shall have an equal number of votes greater than any other candidates for associate judge in the circuit, it shall be the duty of the Governor to order a new election for one associate judge; but the person residing in any other county of the circuit and who has the highest number of votes shall be declared elected. The said judges shall hold not less than two terms of the Circuit Court in each of the counties composing their respective circuits, at such times as are now or may hereafter be prescribed to which jurors shall be summoned; and in those counties where only two such terms are held, two other and intermediate terms, to which jurors shall not be summoned; they may alter or fix the times for holding any or all terms, until otherwise prescribed, and shall adopt rules to the end that all business not requiring the interposition of the jury shall be, as far as practicable, disposed of at said intermediate terms. One judge in each of the above circuits, including the second, the third and sixth circuits, shall constitute a quorum for the transaction of any business; and the said judges or any of them may hold special terms of their courts, whenever in their discretion the business of the several counties renders such terms necessary. The additional associate judge for the third circuit elected in accordance with the terms of the Constitutional Amendment heretofore submitted and adopted shall be subject to the same constitutional provisions, hold his office for the same term of years, receive the same compensation and have the same powers as are herein provided for the other associate judges in the third circuit.

The additional associate judge for the second circuit herein provided for shall be a resident of Cecil County, shall be appointed by the Governor after the expiration of six (6) months after the adoption of this amendment and shall serve until the first general election for members of the General Assembly that shall be held in said circuit subsequent to the adoption of this amendment, at which election his successor shall be elected by the qualified voters of Caroline, Cecil, Kent, Queen Anne's and Talbot counties, constituting the second circuit. The judge so appointed shall be subject to the same constitutional provisions, receive the same compensation and have the same powers as are herein provided for the other associate judges in the second circuit, and the judge so elected shall be subject to the same constitutional provision, hold his office for the same term of years, receive the same compensation, and have the same powers as are herein provided for the other associate judges in the second circuit.

The additional judge for the sixth circuit herein provided for and elected by the qualified voters of Frederick and Montgomery Counties at the 1938 election in accordance with the terms of the Constitutional Amendment heretofore submitted and adopted shall be subject to the same constitutional provisions, receive the same compensation and have the same powers as are herein provided for the other associate judges in the sixth circuit and his successor shall be appointed and/or elected in accordance with the constitutional provisions relating to judges. The Chief Judge may be elected from either Frederick or Montgomery Counties, but when the Chief Judge is elected from Frederick County one of the associate judges shall be a resident of said county and the two remaining associate judges shall be residents of Montgomery County and when the Chief Judge is elected from Montgomery County one of the associate judges shall be a resident of said Montgomery County and the remaining two associate judges residents of Frederick County. In case any candidate or candidates for associate judge at any judicial election held in the sixth judicial circuit shall receive sufficient votes to cause such candidate or candidates to be declared elected, but the election of such candidate or candidates would cause more associate judges than herein permitted to reside in any county of said circuit, then and in that event only that candidate or those candidates, as the case may be, residing in said county in the order of the votes received shall be declared elected whose election would provide the permitted number of associate judges from said county and the candidate or candidates as the case may be residing in the other county, and not similarly disqualified, who shall have the next highest number of votes in said election shall be declared elected. If, by reason of such a condition or by reason of an equal vote for two or more candidates a sufficient number of associate judges duly qualified as to residence as above set out should not be elected at any election in said sixth judicial circuit, then it shall be the duty of the Governor to order a new election for such unfilled office or offices.

Sec. 2. And be it further enacted, That the aforegoing section hereby proposed as an amendment to the Constitution of this State shall be, at the next general election to be held in this State in the year 1938, submitted to the legal and qualified voters thereof for their adoption or rejection in pursuance of directions contained in Article 11 of the Constitution of this State, and at the said general election, the vote on the said proposed amendment shall be by ballot, and upon each ballot there shall be printed the words "For the Constitutional Amendment" and "Against the Constitutional Amendment," as now prescribed by law, and immediately after said election, due returns shall be made to the Governor of the vote for and against said proposed amendment as directed by said Article 11 of the Constitution.

All complaints must contain the request that the Board take action against the offender. Upon receiving any complaint the Board shall, if it deems the complaint sufficient following an investigation, pass an order setting the same for a hearing at a specified time and place, and the secretary shall cause a copy of the order and of the complaint, or of a complaint drawn by the Board, to be served upon the accused at least ten days before the day appointed in the order for said hearing. Service upon the accused shall be by delivery of a copy of the order and complaint to the accused in person. In the event the Board is unable to serve the accused in person, the service shall be had by delivery of the same to his last known residence and last known business address, or by sending a copy of the same by registered mail to the accused at his last known residence and last known business address, any of which means shall constitute sufficient notice to justify proceedings with a hearing of the charges. The accused must appear at the time appointed in the order and answer the charges and make his defense to the same, unless for sufficient cause the Board may assign another day for the purpose. If the accused does not appear the Board may proceed with the hearing and finally determine the accusation or complaint, in the absence of the accused. If the accused pleads guilty, or refuses to answer the charges or upon a hearing thereof the Board shall find said charges or any of them true, the Board may proceed to suspend or revoke the license of the accused for such length of time as the Board, in its discretion, shall deem proper. The Board and the accused may have the benefit of counsel. The Board shall have the power to administer oaths, take the depositions of witnesses in the manner provided by law in civil cases, and to compel the attendance of witnesses by subpoena issued over the signature of the secretary of the Board. The Board shall issue for any and all witnesses requested in writing by the accused.

Whenever any person subpoenaed to appear and give testimony shall refuse to appear or testify before said Board or to answer any pertinent, relative or proper questions, he shall be deemed in contempt of said Board, and it shall be the duty of the presiding officer of said Board to report the fact to the Superior Court of Baltimore City in the event the party guilty of contempt resides in said City, or has a place of business in said City, or to the Judge of the Circuit Court of the County wherein the party guilty of said contempt resides; thereupon the Court shall issue an attachment in the usual form, directed to the Sheriff of the City or County commanding said Sheriff to attach said person and forthwith bring him before the Court. On the return of said attachment and the production of the person attached, the Court shall have jurisdiction of the contempt, and the person charged may purge himself of the contempt in the same way, and the same proceedings shall be had, and the same penalties may be imposed, and the same punishment may be inflicted as in the case of a witness subpoenaed to appear and give evidence in the trial of a civil cause. The Board shall have the power in its discretion, to authorize the payment of fees and traveling expenses of witnesses called before the Board and examined in any proceeding properly before the Board.

13. All signs prohibited by this Act shall be removed within three months after the passage of this Act. Any person or persons who shall prohibit, neglect, fail or refuse to remove any sign prohibited by this Act is guilty of a violation of this Act and subject to the penalties thereof.

14. Each person holding a license under this Act shall exhibit on the door or the wall of the building wherein he shall practice dentistry, not more than two signs on which shall be placed the name and title or degree of such person, the letters of which shall not exceed three inches square. This sub-section shall have no application to any person who is the holder of a dental degree who does not, either directly or indirectly, practice, or attempt to practice, dentistry as hereinbefore set forth in this Section 15.

16. Nothing in this Act shall apply to a bona fide student of dentistry in the clinic rooms of a reputable dental college; to a legally qualified physician or surgeon unless he practices dentistry as a specialty; to a dental surgeon of the United States Army, Navy, Public Health Service or Veterans Bureau, in the discharge of his official duties; nor to a lawful practitioner of dentistry of another State, territory or foreign country making a clinical demonstration before a dental society, dental convention, association of dentists, or dental college, or in performing professional duties in connection with a specific case on which he may have been called to the State of Maryland. Nothing in this Article shall apply to public school clinics, to state institutions, to eleemosynary institutions, or to business corporations which may maintain clinics for pupils, inmates or employees only which shall employ only legally qualified dentists. No such public school clinic, State institution, eleemosynary institution, or business corporation shall advertise in any manner or by any method, either directly or indirectly, anything relative to the practice of dentistry. Such institutions are prohibited not only from advertising in violation of this act but are prohibited from advertising in any manner anything relative to the practice of dentistry.

Nothing in this Article shall prohibit the Dental Division of the State Department of Health, or the Director of the Public School Clinics of the City Health Department from broadcasting educational programs over the radio.

17. All persons now authorized to practice dentistry in this State, and those who may be hereafter registered under the provisions of this Article, shall be exempt from service as jurors in any of the Courts of this State, during the continuance of the practice of their profession.

18. The Board shall always be designated as the "State Board of Dental Examiners", and under this name it shall have the right to sue or be sued in the Courts of this State.

19. Any person who shall practice, or attempt to practice dentistry within the State of Maryland, without having a license as hereinbefore provided or during the period of suspension or revocation of such license previously granted shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction thereof shall be fined not less than fifty dollars nor more than three hundred dollars, or be confined not more than six months in jail, in the discretion of the Judge or Judges of the Circuit Court of the respective counties of this State, or the Judge or Judges of the Criminal Court of Baltimore City, before whom the matter shall be tried; and upon conviction of a subsequent offense, shall be confined not more than six months in jail or fined not less than three hundred dollars or more than five hundred dollars. Any violation of this Article by a person convicted under the then existing laws of this State of practicing dentistry without a license or registration shall be included in the term subsequent offense. Every conviction of unlawful practice subsequent to a first conviction thereof shall be a conviction of a subsequent offense.

20. It shall be the duty of the State's Attorney of the City of Baltimore or of the various counties of this State to prosecute any resident of the City of Baltimore or of the Counties of this State for a violation of this law. The Attorney General or one of his Assistants shall be the legal adviser of the Board.

21. CONSTITUTIONAL CONSTRUCTION. The provisions of this Act are severable, and if any of its provisions are declared unconstitutional, the decision so holding shall not be construed as impairing any other provision of this Act. It is hereby declared as the legislative intent that this Act would have been adopted had such unconstitutional provisions not been included therein.

22. Nothing contained in this Article shall prevent, or be construed as in any way to hinder the prosecution, conviction or punishment of any person who may offend against any of the provisions of Chapter 564 of the Acts of the General Assembly of Maryland of 1933.

Sec. 2. And be it further enacted, That this Act shall take effect on June 1st, 1937.

CANDIDATES ARE LISTED

The official tabulation of the returns of the primary election, which took place last Thursday afternoon at the office of the Board of Supervisors of Elections, caused no changes in the lineup of the Republican nominees as unofficially reported and printed in The Republican last Thursday.

The completed count of the Democratic votes, however, made two changes in nominees that were reported in The Republican last Thursday.

John B. Campbell won out over George J. Pool for the third nominee in the race for County Commissioner, while W. E. Spoerlein became the sixth member of the Democratic State Central Committee, nosing out Albert S. Shaffer. Shaffer dropped to ninth on the list, both R. E. Guard and Robert W. Lohr surpassing him in the final tabulation.

Juniper S. Teats, District No. 5, finally won out over Carl Frazee, of Oakland, by a total of two votes—1381 to 1379, thus receiving the Republican nomination for Sheriff. Mr. Teats had been a candidate for nomination upon two previous occasions and had lost by small majorities.

The official tabulation showed the following as having been elected:

Delegates to the Republican State Convention were named by the State Central Committee before the primary when but one candidate had filed. The delegates will be E. Ray Jones, Lawrence M. Fraley, Alva R. Martin and Carlton McComas.

The official tabulation of the returns (Democratic and Republican) by districts will be found on page six of The Republican today.

MAN HAS BROKEN RIBS AS RESULT OF ACCIDENT

Slips From Car After Hailing Passing Motorist; Car Backs Over Him

A man giving his name as Mr. Bierer, sustained three broken ribs in a peculiar accident last Saturday evening on the road leading to the Turkey Neck section of Deep Creek Lake.

As Henry W. McComas, Jr., accompanied by R. C. McComas and F. E. Rathbun, were enroute to the home of Dr. Wilson, they were hailed by a man in a car. Stopping the car Mr. McComas began to back slowly to where this other car was parked, to render assistance. In the meantime the man had in some manner fallen from his car to the road and the McComas car in backing ran over the man. The man's car at the same time started down a slight incline and wrecked against the bank.

McComas took the man to the home of Dr. Wilson, and later he was taken to Memorial hospital where examination disclosed three broken ribs. The man was said to be from Pennsylvania.

Howard Smouse, John Shaffer and William Glotfelty were all badly bruised last Sunday night when the Smouse car in which they were riding crashed into the bank at the end of the new Mt. Lake Park-Deer Park highway. Glotfelty has a sprained back and was the more seriously injured of the three.

An automobile belonging to Lewis Tatrai, of West Brownsville, Pa., was damaged near Sand Flat last Sunday afternoon, but none was injured. Three cars, all owned by Brownsville people, were enroute to their home and were traveling in line. The front one stopped for some reason, the second one rammed into the first, and the third rammed into the second for a triple collision. The middle car was damaged considerably.

To Extend Recreational Work Under WPA Supervision

An extension of recreational work in the county under WPA supervision was announced yesterday by Miss Dorothy Worrilow, area supervisor, of the Frederick office.

Work now being done in sewing classes, illiteracy classes, etc., are to be continued and new classes in home economics and things of like nature are to be added. Recreation will be stressed.

Announcement was also made of the appointment of Mrs. George Hanst as county supervisor of this work. Mrs. Hanst was formerly a home demonstration agent in West Virginia, and for two years was field editor for the Farmer's Wife magazine of St. Paul, Minn., having particular charge of 4-H club and girls' activities. A pamphlet on games and recreation was published by her at that time.

Miss Worrilow and Miss Isabel Bewick, county supervisor of recreation for Allegany county, conferred with Mrs. Hanst yesterday about her new work and today will accompany the latter on a visit to a number of classes.

430 Reservations Already On Excursion October 9

A telegram to Mayor Lawrence M. Fraley announces that there are now 430 reservations for the excursion trip from Baltimore and Washington to Oakland on October 9.

This number of people will necessitate the use of 150 automobiles for the 50-mile motor trip through the Swallow Falls forest area and around Deep Creek Lake, and all citizens are being urged to donate the use of their automobiles for that day.

Mr. Fraley stated that Captain Isiminger, of the Swallow Falls CCC camp had announced an "open house" on that day with a dedication of the new educational building, which is to be followed by refreshments

SELF-HELP UNIVERSITY OPENS AT MT. LAKE PARK

Fifty Students From 5 Neighboring States To Pay Tuition With Work, Cash Or Produce

PATRONS ARE ORGANIZED

Fifty students—thirty boys and twenty girls—were off on a "help yourself" college career this week, attending the first classes on Monday morning in the recently organized Mountain Lake Park Self-Help University. The students, coming from five neighboring states, were assigned lessons and dispensed with preliminaries at the opening session and began in earnest on the second day of the school. Many applications for admission to the school had to be turned down, Rev. Paul R. Maness, field secretary, reported.

Paying their way in work, farm products or cash, the students will attend classes covering first year college work, including English, physical education, health, algebra, psychology, Bible literature, current history, geography and nature study. Credits for the work done will be given through Salem College, Salem, West Va.

Paying their way in work began immediately for most of the group.

While Freeman Lewis, of Terra Alta, West Va., was busy trimming trees in the campus area the first day, many others were at work digging a two-mile ditch which will permit the lowering of the water line from four inches below the surface to twenty-four inches, so that Garrett county's freezing weather will not stop the flow of water in the University buildings. Busy at this task were George Sherren, Tunnelton; Joe Bennett, Clarksburg; Milford Johnston, Southwest, Va.; William Miller, of Terra Alta, W. Va.; James Walker, Washington, D. C.; Harold Teagarden, Mountain Lake Park; Harry Harvey, White Church, and others.

Girls were bussy in the dormitory doing the "family" wash and clearing up the dishes. Shirley Ault, Tunnelton; Catherine Day and Melissa Wolfe, Kempton, W. Va., and Dorena McGee, Tunnelton, were kept occupied about the laundry tubs.

"Digging ditches is hard work," spoke up Joe Bennett, "but we want an education; we're all glad to work for it, too," he added.

"It's worth working for," chimed in Milford Johnston, Southeast, Va. "A couple left because it looked too hard, and a few thought they were going to try to make preachers out of all of us," said another.

Plan of University Explained

The plan of the university was explained in opening ceremonies on last Sunday. Rev. Dean C. Dutton, chancellor, spoke at a program on Sunday night, after which patrons of the college met to form an organization. Rev. Paul R. Maness was elected executive secretary.

Many of the patrons brought donations of farm produce and canned goods on Sunday, and Rev. Teagarden, taking the University truck around the coutryside was given chickens, cabbage, flour, vegetables of various kinds, canned fruits, etc., to keep the students well fed.

The school is sponsored by the National Character Education Association, which recently purchased the property of the Mountain Lake Park Association from the Methodist Foreign Mission Board.

The registration fee of $50.00 is required, paid either in cash, produce, live stock, or work of 250 hours. Each semester hour of work will cost 25 hours of labor. Board and room 100 hours of work per month.

Students stopped their duties the first afternoon from 1:30 to 2 to listen to a broadcast in their behalf over station WMMN, Fairmont, which is to be a daily feature to interest people in the self-help school.

The active staff of the university now includes Earl D. Ford, secretary-treasurer, in charge of business management; Joyce B. Webster, of Oklahoma City, dean of men; Miss Frances Miller, dean of women; Miss Maude I. Jefferson, former superintendent of practice teaching at West Liberty State Teachers' College, West Liberty, W. Va., registrar and instructor.

Students may select 12 hours of work from a range of 20 semester hours in first year college work.

RECOUNT IS CALLED IN NINE COUNTIES AND DISTRICTS

Garrett Conuty Included; Democratic Gubernatorial Race Is Only Contest Involved

COUNT STARTING TODAY

A week of recounting ballots cast in the Democratic primary election last Monday is facing election officials this week, with the outcome of the gubernatorial race between Attorney General Herbert R. O'Conor and Mayor Howard W. Jackson hinging on the result.

The Caroline county board of supervisors announced the recount of votes there, asked by Jackson, began at 9 o'clock Tuesday morning. Edward Lapham, of Goldsboro, member of the board said three days probably would be required to complete the count.

A recount started Wednesday in Wicomico county, and Thursday (today) in Garrett county. Other recounts, in two Baltimore legislative districts, Queen Anne's, Allegany, in Frederick and Anne Arundel counties will be started or continued during the week.

Reason For Recount Here Not Stated

Reason for asking the recount in Garrett county was not stated in the petition filed last Saturday in Oakland by Willis R. Jones, who ran for Attorney General. It read: "Your petitioner appeals from said action and decision of the said judges of election in declaring that Howard W. Jackson received the highest number of votes.

"We respectfully request that the Board of Supervisors shall review said actions and decision of the said judges of primary election."

Frederick A. Thayer Jr., clerk of the Board of Election Supervisors in Garrett county, said second choice votes had not been apportioned in the correct form on the tally sheets. Only total second-choice votes for each candidate were listed on these sheets by the clerks of election.

Mr. Jones, who filed the petition in Garrett county for O'Conor, and also posted bond for $500 with the Clerk of the Circuit Court, said the tally sheets had nothing to do with the recount. The inability to determine second choice votes, the same here as in Allegany county, Mr. Jones stated, was the reason for asking the recount. Expenses incident to the recount are to be borne by Mr. O'Conor.

Complete, official results in this county, shown on page 6 of The Republican today, give Jackson 871 and O'Conor 667.

May Postpone Convention

The recounts have been asked in behalf of O'Conor or Jackson, neither of whom is assured of the necessary seventy-five county unit votes in the nominating convention. The convention, set for September 28, may be postponed to allow completion of the recounts. It may be delayed until October 17.

Still an important factor in the race are the seven votes of Prince George's county. The first choice votes there went to State Senate President Lansdale Sasscer, with State Comptroller William S. Gordy, Jr., second choice. Sasscer, it is assured, will be eliminated on the first ballot, and Gordy on the second. The seven votes of the county delegation then may be cast for either O'Conor or Jackson.

Stand 72 To 56

A tabulation of official and unofficial returns gives O'Conor seventy-two convention votes, and Jackson 56. That tabulation does not include the votes of Allegany, Anne Arundel and Prince George's county, where there has been no clear indication of the results. It does include in O'Conor's column, however, the votes of the two Baltimore legislative districts contested by Jackson.

Caroline county's votes went to Gordy, but listed O'Conor as second choice. If the recount there does not change the results, he will get the votes of the county delegation after Gordy is eliminated.

JOB OF RECOUNTING THE BALLOTS GETS UNDER WAY

Is Under Watchful Eyes of A Dozen or More On Each Side of Fence

The job of recounting all Democratic primary election ballots of Garrett county insofar as they effect the gubernatorial candidates began this morning under the watchful eyes of a dozen or more on both sides of the Jackson and O'Conor fence.

The Board of Supervisors of Elections decided to allow three boxes to be counted at one time, and the work is going forward with constant challenges from the watchers about markings on the ballots which do not seem to conform to the law. In two hours of counting they had not completed three boxes, so it is not expected that the count will be completed today, unless the activity is increased considerably. There were about 1,500 Democratic ballots cast in the twenty-five polling places

O'Conor men at the three tables as challengers, tellers and checkers, are Seymour O'Brien, Ted Stearn, Samuel C. Williams, Baltimore; Richard Gonder, Richard Glotfelty, Henry W. McComas, Jr., Oakland; C. Welch, Dorsey Guard and R. E. Guard, Friendsville.

Working for Jackson are Alfred Scherr, J. Marshall Stewart, J. Hampton Hooper and Kenneth Kennedy, of Baltimore; William E. Giessman, J. Frank Browning, H. P. Stuck, C. F. White, Neil C. Liller, all of Oakland.

Others here to watch the count are Harry Flynn, George Mueller, reading clerk of the Baltimore City Council; Albert A. Levine, Baltimore; Judge Albert A. Doub, Cumberland. A. T. Matthews, W. R. Offutt, are interested Oaklanders for Jackson.

COMMISSIONERS SELECT APPEAL SESSION DATES

Review On Assessments May Be Had By Taxpayers In October

Two meetings of the Board of County Commissioners in October will be for the purpose of hearing appeals on assessments, it was announced this week following the regular session of the body.

The dates of the meetings and the time for appeal cases from the various districts are printed in an advertisement appearing today in The Republican.

Tuesday, October 4, there will be review on assessments in Districts 1, 2, 3 and 4; Wednesday, October 5, review on assessments in Districts 5, 6, 7 and 8.

Tuesday, October 18, review on assessments in Districts 9, 10, 11 and 12; Wednesday, October 19, review on assessments in Districts Nos. 13, 14, 15 and 16.

Monday, October 3, and Monday, October 17, will be for general routine business.

These appeal sessions have been heretofore held in February, prior to the laying of the levy in April, but since the change in the law requiring the laying of the levy in January, the appeal session must be held in October. Under the law the assessment books must be closed December 1 to prepare for the laying of the annual levy at the beginning of the year.

The Oakland Civic Club will resume its meeting after the summer vacation period, on Tuesday afternoon, September 27, at 2:30 o'clock, in the Home Economics building of the High school. Dr. Dean C. Dutton, Mountain Lake Park, will be the speaker.

SEPTEMBER TERM COURT ENDS AFTER TWO DAYS

Only The Usual Run of Criminal Cases on Docket; Beer License of Emory Adams Is Revoked

With only the usual run of criminal cases on the docket, the September Term of the Garrett County Circuit court adjourned Tuesday afternoon after being in session only two days. Several cases were tried before the court, but most of the cases to come before Judge William A. Huster, who presided, were pleas of guilty. There was not one jury trial.

The only case of unusual interest here was that of Emory W. Adams, who was indicted on a charge of violating the county beer law. Adams pleaded guilty to the charge and had his license to sell beer revoked for two years.

Anticipating the outcome, it was reported that Adams had sold his restaurant to a man from Morgantown, W. Va., several days ago.

Harold Best, bastardy; tried before the court, verdict guilt, usual sentence rendered.

George Bittinger, 17, forgery; plea of guilty, sentenced to the Maryland Training school for Boys until 21 years of age.

Albert Swauger, larceny of cattle in two cases; plea of guilty; sentenced to Maryland House of Correction for two years in each case, sentences to run concurrently.

George E. Felda and Clarence Paugh, burglary of Reithmiller property, near Altamont; plea of guilty. Felda sentenced to penitentiary for five years. Paugh also sentenced to serve five years, but sentences suspended.

Jim Crigler, forgery (two cases); pleas of guilty in each case; sentenced to House of Correction for two years.

Carl Ravenscroft, bastardy; tried before the court, verdict not guilty.

Julius Otto, bastardy, tried before the court; verdict guilty.

Clyde Yommer, bastardy, plea of limitations; demurrer; demurrer sustained, tried before Court and verdict guilty; an appeal to the court of appeals prayed.

Emory W. Adams, violation of Garrett county beer law; plea of guilty. Given a fine of $250, payment suspended; license to sell beer revoked for two years.

Albert Wilson and Forrest Wilson, unlawfully cutting timber, demurrer in case sustained.

Clifford Bittinger, larceny; plea of guilty, paroled for two years.

James Sickle, forgery; plea of guilty; paroled for two years.

Paul Coleman, larceny; plea of guilty; paroled for three years.

ORTHOPEDIC CLINIC WILL BE HELD OCTOBER 19-20

Drs. George Bennett and George Eaton Will Be In Charge

The semi-annual clinic for crippled children and others in the county will be held in the office of the Health Department, Court House, Oakland, on Wednesday and Thursday, October 19 and 20.

Dr. George E. Bennett, professor of orthopedic surgery, Johns Hopkins Medical School, Baltimore, will be in charge, assisted by Dr. George O. Eaton. Dr. Eaton will be here the first day and Dr. Bennett on the second day.

These clinics are held twice each year, and more than one hundred persons are examined for bone defects.

For the past several clinics those desiring appointments have sent a post card to the health office and it has been returned to the sender with the approximate time when he or she should appear. This arrangement is satisfactory to all parties and avoids long waiting in line for examinations.

Soccer And Fieldball Teams To Open Season October 5

Oakland High school soccer and field ball teams will open the season October 5 at Kitzmiller. Both teams will also play Kempton here on October 7.

Kitzmiller will play here October 14, and Oakland will play at Kempton on October 19.

The senior class election will be held October 3, and the junior and sophomore elections October 10 and 17, respectively.

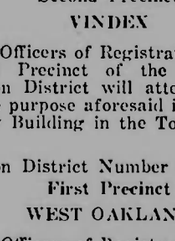
CAR DESIGN SLATED FOR MAJOR SHIFT IN '39?

Noted Designer Declares End of Current Style Cycle is Now Overdue

BY JOEL BARBER



Five years ago two radically different schools of automobile design met head-on in the market. The public evinced momentary interest and curiosity in the blunt-end school of streamlining, then swung over and approved the flying-wedge type of design.

The style cycle set in motion by this choice now appears to be nearing completion. Indeed, the question really is, if its end is not overdue, for while major style shifts cost hugely to accomplish, they cost far less than not to sell cars in satisfactory volume.

Which car ushers in the distinctive design that is to prevail during the next style cycle is of course enormously important, since to that car will accrue the advantages of setting the pattern for years to come. It is perhaps too early to forecast, but my advices from Michigan convince me that Buick, pioneer member of the General Motors family, will in 1939 be styleblazer of the new automobile mode.

LOOKING FORWARD

By FRANKLYN WALTMAN

Publicity Director, Republican National Committee

Whenever anyone dares to suggest that the Social Security Act is somewhat less than perfect he immediately is assailed by the New Deal propagandists as a reactionary, a Tory, a fiend, an enemy of mankind, or worse. Even though the criticism is constructive and is designed to improve the administration of the act for the benefit of the wage earners, the critic's voice is drowned out by shouts that he is seeking its repeal. Indecent motives are attributed to everyone who disagrees even in the slightest with the President and his New Dealers.

Republican criticism of the Social Security Act has not been directed at the objective of the act, "to provide a greater measure of security for American wage earnest and thereby to enhance the welfare of the Nation as a whole." The point of Republican criticism has been that as drafted the Social Security Act does not and will not promote greater security for wage-earners. Republicans in Congress have warned that the heavy taxes on pay rolls and pay envelopes levied under the act would have harmful effects, with inconsequential benefits.

Contributed To Depression

Truth in time will establish itself. We have heard Marriner S. Eccles, chairman of the Board of Governors of the Federal Reserve System and an ardent New Dealer, say that the withdrawal of consuming power thru social security taxes is one of the major contributory causes of the Roosevelt depression.

Now we have the testimony of the American Association for Social Security, published in its current bulletin. This organization for years has fought for "the promotion of social security and social insurance in the United States." Its executive secretary is Abraham Epstein, frequently called the "father of Social Security" in this country. Its president is Bishop Francis J. McConnell of the Methodist Episcopal church. Among its directors are Monsignor Francis J. Haas, dean of the School of Social Service, Catholic University, Rabbi Stephen S. Wise, Mrs. Mary K. Simkhovitch, the well-known social worker, and many other socially-minded persons. These people are neither partisans nor reactionaries.

Do they believe with President Roosevelt that "the successful operation of the (Social Security) Act is the best proof that it was soundly conceived?" They do not. Indeed, the American Association for Social Security finds that the Act is neither "soundly conceived" nor that its operation has been successful.

Created Greater Insecurity

Instead of increasing purchasing power, the Association finds the Act has diminished it. Instead of giving workers security, the Association finds the Act has created greater insecurity for them. Instead of helping industrial workers, the Association finds that the Act's chief result has been to create a new bureaucracy and government jobs for tens of thousands of clerks.

Referring to New Deal claims of the "success" achieved in the old age insurance system, the Association asserts that "saarch as we might, however, the success in this stupendous national undertaking seems confined to the issuance of about 38,000,000 social security numbers"—an activity characterized by the Association as "unprecedented, costly, irrevelant and unnecessary."

The average lump sum old age payment up to April, the Association found was $29.80, although a New York executive who workked (and still does) for seven corporations was reported to have received $1,001.67. More significant, the Association found, was "the deepening insecurity stimulated by this system," adding that while the United States Treasury paid $2,935,829 to old age beneficiaries it collected in taxes from workers and employers for old age insurance a total of $577,450,100.

"Since the employer contributions are generally included in the price of goods," the Association Bulletin adds, "it means that for every dollar spent in old age insurance payments to increase the purchasing power of workers, $197 of sorely needed purchasing power were withdrawn from them and spent for other purposes."

$197 In Taxes For Each $1 Spent

In other words, Social Security taxes took $197 away from workers for every dollars given them. That is the New Deal's idea for the more abundant life for workers!

Space is lacking to give other conclusions reached by the Association, except for a word about unemployment insurance. Pointing out that the average benefit paid to the unemployed totaled only $15.46 per month, irrespective of whetner the unemployed person was single or had a family with many dependents, the Association made this observation:

"The evidence is sufficient to indicate that not only has the operation of the unemployment insurance laws so far not proved that these laws have been soundly conceived, but, on the contrary, it definitely points to the fact that these laws are not succeeding in providing even as little protection as the totally inadequate home relief.'

Let the President and his New Deal satellites cease their ballyhoo and answer the non-partisan findings of the American Association for Social Security.

THE DANGER OF "SUMMER COMPLAINT" IS NOT OVER

The following reminder that danger of "summer complaint" for babies, does not end with the summer months, and that special precautions should be continued for some weeks longer, to protect them from the disease, comes from D. J. H. M. Knox, Jr., Chief of Child Hygiene of the State Department of Health.

"Twenty years ago," Dr. Knox said, "July was the month most dreaded by physicians and mothers alike, as the time when summer compliant was likely to be particularly prevalent among babies. Gradually the period of greatest danger of both sickness and deaths among babies from intestinal diseases has come later and later in the season.

"Now, in this part of the country, September is included by many physicians in the period when special care should be given to infants, in the preparation of their food, in protecting them from flies, and from infection contracted from other members of the household who are suffering from diarrhea or dysentery.

"As a special precaution, no radical changes should be made in a baby's diet—if it is doing well—until the crisp fall days are here. If the baby becomes even slightly ill, a doctor should be called promptly.

"Babies who have had diarrhea or dystery during the summer must be watched very carefully as a relapse of the illness with a return of the diarrhea, may be particularly serious. Extreme cleanliness in the handling of all milk and foods for infants is absolutely essential at all times. All milk and water to be given to babies should be boiled, and properly cooled before using."

Sad History Of The C. & O. Canal Is Recaled By Museum Plan

General George Washington Sought To Build Waterway To Link Western Frontier With Seaboard

At Hagerstown last Saturday, Judge Frank G. Wagganan, of the Circuit Court, entered an order ratifying the sale of the Chesapeake and Ohio Canal to the Federal Government following a petition for its transfer from the receivers.

An article recently appearing in the daily press gives a brief history of the old waterway:

In the morning sun the Washington Monument, like a sun dial, lays its shadow off to the west—where a muddy ditch commemorates a great vision of the nation's father.

If you follow this pointer out to old Georgetown you will find a narrow stream running through a canyon of man-made walls—old factories, three-story tenements, modern cement mills, the retaining wall of an old church graveyard. Beyond the streets shared by garages and narrow Colonial houses that rent of $125 a month the rivulet meets the Potomac River.

From a little bridge you can see water rushing past broken lock gates. An old man fishes quietly from the bank. Children play on the weeded shore, and, looking down, you can see on the bottom an automobile tire, a whiskey bottle, a child's rusted scooter, somebody's lost checkbook.

Was Washington's Dream

This once was "the great canal." This was George Washington's dream of a waterway which would conquer the mountain barriers to the West and connect the frontier with the seaboard, thus "binding these (Western settlers) to us by a chain which can never be broken."

Boats soon may pass through the locks again. The old lockmen mny come back to push the great wooden levers of the lock gates. The bottom may be cleared of junk and the tow-path freed of weeds. But the Chesapeake and Ohio Canal will not he a highway of commerce agnin. It will he an outdoor museum.

Playgrounds Planned

For the twenty-two miles from the Capital to Seneca, Md., the Government plans a historical playground, where sight-seers in canoes and slow motor boats may travel the route by which a million tons of coal a yeai once rode down from the mines beyond Cumberland. Nature lovers will he free to venture into the lush undergrowth, where giant elms shade the flowered paths.

The old canal folk who still live in the lock-house or in cabins built on canal land are not sure they like this proposed development.

"It's gonna be mighty hard on some of us," observed one old-timer, whose cabin stands hard by the red-stone bridge that carries the canal over Seneca creek. "We've had good fishing here and hunting—ducks, rabbits, squirrels, birds. I suppose the court will stop that; make it n wild-life preserve. And these people who put hundreds of dollars into summer cottages on canal property, watched it wrecked by floods and rebuilt it again and again—I guess they're just out of luck."

The men who worked the locks and walked the levels in the days when 600 canal boats plied up and down would rather live undisturbed. The crumbling masonry and the rotting wooden lock gates are there to remind them of the days when two lock tenders worked the clock around.

The old boatmen are scattered. Some of them—like the man and wife who lived in their boat but owned six houses in Washington—made a good living out of boating before the canal closed up after the flood of 1924. They brought down as much as 125 tons of coal on a single trip.

The boatsman's home was the little cabin on the stern of the 90-foot barge. His mules were housed in the fore cabin. As they drifted down the canal, wash-day clothes fluttered in the breeze. The hardy mother who gave birth to a child in one lock, and steered the boat out of the next lock herself, was not the only brave soul on the canal.

Born To The Boat

When the boy-child got old enough, he would take his turn at driving the two mules, hitched single-file, along the narrow tow path. Every eight hours the team was changed, and a rested team of mules was led out of the forward cabin. As the boy grew up, he got his turn at the tiller when the barge was empty.

Some of these canal boys became barge captains themselves. Old Dan Connor, who lives in the tavern at Great Falls, left his father's barge to work as a level-walker, plodding four miles up and four miles back each day with a shovel on his shoulder. When he found a small break, he repaired it with mud and rocks. If the break was big, he called the scow to come with its repair crew.

In the late summer, the lush river grass of the canal bottom would cling to the barge's hull, and the mules, leaning hard in their harnesses, would raise blisters on their shoulders.

In December, when the boatmen cast wary eyes each morning for first signs of the freezeup, the scows were armed with iron plows and sent out to clear away the forming ice.

When spring rains drummed against bedroom windows around town at night, canalmen stirred restlessly, haunted by memories of the freshets and floods that washed the canal out several times in its long, sad history.

Homemakers' Column

The Spotless Tablecloth

Early September is an especially trying season for the homemaker, to find daubs of peach stain and spatterings of fruit juices on her best linen tablecloth.

Chnnces of completely removing a stain are at their best if you begin work immediately, before the spot has had time to dry. By all means do the spotting before the laundering. Merely smoothing the surface with a not iron often sets a stain so it is difficult to budge. For quick and efficient removal of spots on napery you will need three types of cleaning agents, in addition to the usual laundry supplies. You should have a good bleach, and materials for absorbing and dissolving various stains. A bleach is the suhstance which comes nearest to guaranteeing final spotlessness in removing stains from white, washable materials. Sodium perborate is one of the best bleaches because it works slowly and gently. It will not injure cotton, linen, rayon or even silk. Other good bleaches are oxalic acid and Javelle water. Oxalic acid has the disadvantages of being harmful to some materials and poison to human beings. Javelle water must also be used with caution. The following are a few hints on how to keep table linen spotless by simple, home methods:

Peach, Pear or Plum Stains—Tannin seems to develop color where no color was and to darken and change if hot, soapy water or a hot iron strikes it. Soak the peach, pear or plum stain in warm glycerin. Alcohol may be used, but it is inflammable. Rinse out the glycerin and if some of the stain still remains, "try again" with a second application of glycerin. Then if traces still persist, use n sodium perbolnte bleach. Dissolve 2 or 3 teaspoons of the bleach in a cup water and soak the spot in the solution. Rinse agnin, before laundering in plenty of hot water and soapsuds.

Grape Juice and Fresh Berry Stains. Stretch the stained area over a bowl and hold in place with a rubber band. Pour boiling water onto the spot from a heigth of 3 or 4 feet. If any of the stain remains, try rubbing the spot and pouring on boiling water alternately. Then if there are still traces, use sodium perboate or Javelle water.

French Salad Dressing—Soak up as much oil as possible with white talcum powder, cornstarch or corn meal. For very small grease spots on very large tablecloths, try applying a paste made of carbon tetrochloride and cornstarch or some other absorbent. Allow paste to stand on the grease spot several hours or overnight. The carbon "tet" will dissolve the fat and the cornstarch will soak it up. When the paste dries the cornstarch can be brushed off easily and the spot will disappear as if by magic.

For very large oil stains, such as an upset jug of French dressing, souse the stained nrea in carbon tetrachloride before laundering. Rub plenty of soapsuds into the spot before it goes into the tnb.

IN MEMORIAM

In sad but loving memory of Brison Harry Thomas, who departed this life one year ago, September 20.

It was just one year ago today
Since you so painfully passed away—
You suffered, oh, so many hours of pain
To wait for cure, but all in vain,
Till God alone knew what was best,
So He called you home to give you rest.

We cherish the memory of you so dear
And oftimes shed a bitter tear,
For we can readily remember the many years
When you could always comfort with a cheer.
To keep you with us we did our best,
So may God grant you eternal rest.

Sadly missed by—
THE FAMILY.

Aurora F. F. A.

The Aurora F. F. A. chapter has decided to postpone the annual Union District Fair, which the members of the organization have been sponsoring for the past number of years. Postponement of the fair is given to the fact that the season has been unfavorable and hence there will be few exhibits. The chapter is planning, however, to conduct a fair next fall.

Several of the vocational agriculture students and the instructor, Mr. Talley, motored to Washington, D. C., the last week in August and visited many points of interest.

Band Sunday At Park For Benefit of Mickey's Band

Citizens of Mountain Lake Park and Loch Lynn Heights, interested in Mickey's Boys' Band of that community, are arranging for a band day for next Sunday, September 25, at Mountain Lake Park for the benefit of the organization.

Leaders in the recent Mountain Top Camp Meeting and purchasers of the Park, are backing the program as the boys played for several of their daily gatherings within the past several months.

There is to be a band concert by the memoers of the organization at 2 o'clock in the amphitheatre. This will oe followed by an old fiddlers' contest for which prizes are to be given. It was announced that Abel Browning, real old-time fiddler, would compete, and many others are expected.

Dan McNally, of Cumberland, and Rev. Harry Blackburn, of Clarksburg, West Va., will be the speakers. There will be no admission charge.

DAVID: TRIUMPHANT FAITH

LESSON TEXT—Psalms 23 and 27:1-6.

GOLDEN TEXT—The Lord is my shepherd; I shall not want. Psalm 23:1.

PRIMARY TOPIC—The Song of the Shepherd.

JUNIOR TOPIC—The Song of a Shepherd Boy.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Songs of Faith and Courage.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—A Steadfast and Triumphant Faith.

What a fitting conclusion to our three-month study of Old Testament characters it is to sound the note of "triumphant faith." The life stories which have passed in review have been true to life, as they have shifted from strength to weakness, from fear to courage, from moral responsibility to moral weakness. But God is the one who changeth not—and we would not close our series properly without the encouraging reminder that the man who truly believes God may know strength out of weakness, courage in place of fear, may like David rise out of degrading sin and defeat into the joy and victory of faith.

Two elemental needs are common to all mankind—provision for the maintenance of life, both physical and spiritual, and protection from the enemies of soul and body. Our first Scripture portion declares the faith of David in God as his providing shepherd and the second as his security from fear.

I. Provision (Ps. 23).

"The Lord is my shepherd." Putting God first in every detail of life means that there will be

1. No want (vv. 1-5). "My cup runneth over," and surely then there can be no lack of any good thing. God is able and willing. We, like David, should trust Him.

2. No weakness (v. 3). "He restoreth my soul." The world is puzzled by the rejuvenating power of the grace of God in the Christian's soul, but it becomes very real to us through the Word, through prayer, through the indwelling Holy Spirit Himself.

3. No wandering (v. 3). "He leadeth me." In an unknown or dangerous country the essential thing is to stay close to one's guide. In the wilderness of this sinful world, we must keep close to our divine Leader. He knows where the still waters and the green pastures are to be found, even in wildest and most barren land.

4. No worry (v. 6). "Surely goodness and mercy shall follow me all the days of my life." It was true of David, it is (or should be), preeminently true of the Christian. Someone has said, "If we trust we do not worry; if we worry we do not trust."

5. But—blessed assurance. Not only will the goodness of God follow us all our days, but we shall "dwell in the house of the Lord forever."

II. Protection (Ps. 27:1-6).

"The Lord is my light and my salvation"—could there be any greater certainty that we shall be delivered from every danger and difficulty? To the one who walks in that light there can be

1. No fear (v. 1). "The Lord is the strength of my life, of whom shall I be afraid?" He is the perfect and final answer to all the fears of life.

2. No failure (vv. 2, 3). "Though an host should encamp against me . . . in this will I be confident," that they shall but stumble and fall. One of the fears that dogs the footsteps of a man is that after all his effort and labor some enemy will come in and destroy. The Christian must often meet wicked and troublesome enemies — but though they be a host, he may be serene in his soul, knowing that if he is right with God the devices of man or devil against him shall only fail.

3. No falling (vv. 4, 5). "He shall set me up upon a rock," and that rock is in "the secret of his tabernacle." The assurance of the believer in Christ is in Him, His work upon the cross and His certain word of promise.

David longed for the house of the Lord; he wanted to return to the temple from which his many wanderings so often separated him. How blessed is our lot as Christians for we have in our own bodies the temple of the Holy Spirit (I Cor. 3:16, 6:19); we have Christ in us as the hope of glory (Col. 1:22). We also long to be in God's house (that is if we really love Him), but if we are born again we have the temple of God wherever we may be.

4. No fainting (v. 6). "Now shall mine head be lifted up above mine enemies round about me." Just when, humanly speaking, we would faint because of the enemies all around us, or by reason of the heat and pressure of the fight, then God causes our heads to be lifted up and in the moment of apparent defeat there is victory.

5. But—a song. "I will sing praises unto the Lord." The atmosphere of praise is one which the enemy of our soul cannot stand. It is too rare, too pure, too holy for him. Next time he tries to defeat you—why not "Try Praise"? It works!

AN ACT to amend Section 21 of Article 4, title "Judiciary Department," sub-title "Part III—Circuit Courts", of the Constitution of this State, to provide an additional judge in the Second Circuit and to provide for the submission of said amendment to the qualified voters of this State for adoption or rejection.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the General Assembly of Maryland (three-fifths of all of the members elected to each of the two Houses concurring), That the following section be and the same is hereby proposed as an amendment to Section 21 of Article 4, title "Judiciary Department", sub-title "Part III—Circuit Courts" of the Constitution of the State, and if adopted by the legal and qualified voters thereof as herein provided, it shall supersede and stand in the place and stead of Section 21 of said Article 4.

21. For each of the said circuits, excepting the eighth, the second, the third and the sixth, there shall be a chief judge and two associate judges, to be styled judges of the Circuit Court, to be selected or appointed as herein provided, and for the second circuit, the third circuit and the sixth circuit there shall be a chief judge and three associate judges to be styled judges of the Circuit Court, to be elected or appointed as herein provided. And no two of said associate judges, for any of the said circuits, except the third and sixth circuits shall, at the time of their election or appointment or during the term for which they may have been elected or appointed, reside in the same county. If two or more persons shall be candidates for associate judge in the same county in any of the circuits, except the third and sixth circuits, that one only in said county shall be declared elected who has the highest number of votes in the circuit. In case any two candidates for associate judge in any of the circuits, except the third and sixth circuits, residing in the same county shall have an equal number of votes greater than any other candidates for associate judge in the circuit, it shall be the duty of the Governor to order a new election for one associate judge; but the person residing in any other county of the circuit and who has the highest number of votes shall be declared elected. The said judges shall hold not less than two terms of the Circuit Court in each of the counties composing their respective circuits, at such times as are now or may hereafter be prescribed to which jurors shall be summoned; and in those counties where only two such terms are held, two other and intermediate terms, to which jurors shall not be summoned; they may alter or fix the times for holding any or all terms, until otherwise prescribed, and shall adopt rules to the end that all business not requiring the interposition of the jury shall be, as far as practicable, disposed of at said intermediate terms. One judge in each of the above circuits, including the second, the third and sixth circuits, shall constitute a quorum for the transaction of any business; and the said judges or any of them may hold special terms of their courts, whenever in their discretion the business of the several counties renders such terms necessary. The additional associate judge for the third circuit elected in accordance with the terms of the Constitutional Amendment heretofore submitted and adopted shall be subject to the same constitutional provisions, hold his office for the same term of years, receive the same compensation and have the same powers as are herein provided for the other associate judges in the third circuit.

The additional associate judge for the second circuit herein provided for shall be a resident of Cecil County, shall be appointed by the Governor after the expiration of six (6) months after the adoption of this amendment and shall serve until the first general election for members of the General Assembly that shall be held in said circuit subsequent to the adoption of this amendment, at which election his successor shall be elected by the qualified voters of Caroline, Cecil, Kent, Queen Anne's and Talbot counties, constituting the second circuit. The judge so appointed shall be subject to the same constitutional provisions, receive the same compensation and have the same powers as are herein provided for the other associate judges in the second circuit, and the judge so elected shall be subject to the same constitutional provision, hold his office for the same term of years, receive the same compensation, and have the same powers as are herein provided for the other associate judges in the second circuit.

The additional judge for the sixth circuit herein provided for and elected by the qualified voters of Frederick and Montgomery Counties at the 1938 election in accordance with the terms of the Constitutional Amendment heretofore submitted and adopted shall be subject to the same constitutional provisions, receive the same compensation and have the same powers as are herein provided for the other associate judges in the sixth circuit and his successor shall be appointed and/or elected in accordance with the constitutional provisions relating to judges. The Chief Judge may be elected from either Frederick or Montgomery Counties, but when the Chief Judge is elected from Frederick County one of the associate judges shall be a resident of said county and the two remaining associate judges shall be residents of Montgomery County and when the Chief Judge is elected from Montgomery County one of the associate judges shall be a resident of said Montgomery County and the remaining two associate judges residents of Frederick County. In case any candidate or candidates for associate judge at any judicial election held in the sixth judicial circuit shall receive sufficient votes to cause such candidate or candidates to be declared elected, but the election of such candidate or candidates would cause more associate judges than herein permitted to reside in any county of said circuit, then and in that event only that candidate or those candidates, as the case may be, residing in said county in the order of the votes received shall be declared elected whose election would provide the permitted number of associate judges from said county and the candidate or candidates as the case may be, residing in the other county, and not similarly disqualified, who shall have the next highest number of votes in said election shall be declared elected. If, by reason of such a condition or by reason of an equal vote for two or more candidates a sufficient number of associate judges duly qualified as to residence as above set out should not be elected at any election in said sixth judicial circuit, then it shall be the duty of the Governor to order a new election for such unfilled office or offices.

Sec. 2. And be it further enacted, That the aforegoing section hereby proposed as an amendment to the Constitution of this State shall be, at the next general election to be held in this State in the year 1938, submitted to the legal and qualified voters thereof for their adoption or rejection in pursuance of directions contained in Article 14 of the Constitution of this State, and at the said general election, the vote on the said proposed amendment shall be by ballot, and upon each ballot there shall be printed the words "For the Constitutional Amendment" and "Against the Constitutional Amendment," as now prescribed by law, and immediately after said election, due returns shall be made to the Governor of the vote for and against said proposed amendment as directed by said Article 14 of the Constitution.

All complaints must contain the request that the Board take action against the offender. Upon receiving any complaint the Board shall, if it deems the complaint sufficient following an investigation, pass an order setting the same for a hearing at a specified time and place, and the secretary shall cause a copy of the order and of the complaint, or of a complaint drawn by the Board, to be served upon the accused at least ten days before the day appointed in the order for said hearing. The accused must appear at the time appointed in the order and answer the charges and make his defense to the same, unless for sufficient cause the Board may assign another day for the purpose. If the accused does not appear the Board may proceed with the hearing and finally determine the accusation or complaint, in the absence of the accused. The Board shall issue for any and all witnesses requested in writing by the accused.

Whenever any person subpoenaed to appear and give testimony shall refuse to appear or testify before said Board, or to answer any pertinent, relative or proper questions, he shall be deemed in contempt of said Board, and it shall be the duty of the presiding officer of said Board to report the fact to the Superior Court of Baltimore City in the event the party guilty of contempt resides in said City, or has a place of business in said City, or to the Judge of the Circuit Court of the County wherein the party guilty of said contempt resides; thereupon the Court shall issue an attachment in the usual form, directed to the Sheriff of the City or County commanding said Sheriff to attach said person and forthwith bring him before the Court. On the return of said attachment and the production of the person attached, the Court shall have jurisdiction of the contempt, and the person charged may purge himself of the contempt in the same way, and the same proceedings shall be had, and the same penalties may be imposed, and the same punishment may be inflicted as in the case of a witness subpoenaed to appear and give evidence in the trial of a civil cause. The Board shall have the power in its discretion, to authorize the payment of fees and traveling expenses of witnesses called before the Board and examined in any proceeding properly before the Board.

13. All signs prohibited by this Act shall be removed within three months after the passage of this Act. Any person or persons who shall prohibit, neglect fail or refuse to remove any sign prohibited by this Act is guilty of a violation of this Act and subject to the penalties thereof.

14. If Keyser wins the play-off no championship series will be necessary, as the Reds captured first half honors. Grantsville trailed 5-2 going into the last of the ninth when doubles by Orendorf and Rodamer, an error, single by Modispaw and a hit batsman sent Field, Keyser hurler, out of the game. H. Bill, relief pitcher, was tagged for a single to right field by D. Trent which drove over the tying and winning runs. Herring pitched the entire game for the locals. Two old expressions have again been brought to the front: "Behold, I bring you glad Tydings" and "Let George do it." These expressions, by the way, aren't much liked by President Roosevelt.

Oakland now has available an automobile drive on improved roads that will bring one right back from where he started in less than twenty miles. It is the first time any such drive has been available.

There are circuit drives that can be taken, but none for less than fifty miles, with the exception of the one that is now open. They have completed the Mt. Lake Park-Deer Park road and one can now go to Deer Park via Mt. Lake Park and return to Oakland via Sand Flat and U. S. route 219. When dirt roads are impassable this winter the Deer Park-Sand Flat-Oakland circuit will be a popular one.

What Washington Said

Once upon a time there was a candidate for Congress by the name of John Mercer who claimed that he had the backing of the President of the United States for election. Hearing of this the President (George Washington) repudiated the assertion, and writing to Mr. Mercer, said:

"The exercises of influence however remont, would be highly improper; as the people ought to be entirely at liberty to choose whom they please to represent them in Congress. Having pursued this line of conduct steadily my surprise and consequent declaration can be a matter of no wonder."

Davey Lewis had the backing of the President pushed upon him, and the result showed that Marylanders still do their own picking.

Suggestion to F. D. R.

He might try this method of "purging" his Senators and Congressmen since the ballot box seems to have no effect.

Sunday Services In Community Churches

Red House Lutheran Parish
Rev. A. K. Jones, Pastor

Services at the usual time next Sunday at Gnegy and Red House. Announcement of electoin of officers for St. John's to be held on October 9th will be made, and the congregation will be asked to make such nominations as may be desired.

The Gospel of the Day, a part of the Sermon on the Mount, will be the basis for the sermon by the pastor. The theme, "Foolish Fears or Prudent Plans," deserves prayerful consideration in these days. Mr. Einstein, world famous scientist, said just recently: "Anyone who thinks about the future must live in fear and terror." Is it true that man's reasoning faculties have failed, that his emotional life is so unstable that he must live in terror of what the future holds in store for him? Dare we no longer accept God's thoughtful plan as sufficient security for the days to come?

JACKSON HOLDS GARRETT COUNTY RECOUNT SHOWS

New Figures Give Jackson Net Loss of 6 Votes, But He Still Has Majority Of 198

FOUR BOXES PROTESTED

A complete recount of the Democratic primary election ballots of Garrett county insofar as they effected the gubernatorial candidates showed no change in the standing of the candidates, although both Jackson's and O'Conor's totals were reduced on account of constant challenges from the watchers.

The recount also showed that only a few took advantage of the second choice marking on the ballot.

Where Howard W. Jackson had received 871 votes and Herbert R. O'Conor 667 votes in the official tabulation, giving the former a majority of 204, the recount gave Jackson a total of 841 as compared to 643 for O'Conor, giving Jackson a majority of 198.

Seymour O'Brien, Baltimore, counsel for O'Conor, protested the counting of the ballots in second precinct of district 7, first and third precincts of district 14, and district 16. In the first the judges failed to put their initials on any of the ballots, as required by law, and in the latter three the initials were in pencil and not in ink as prescribed by law. In each case, however, the Board of Election Supervisors ruled that the ballots would be counted, declaring that mistakes of judges and clerks should not disfranchise honest voters.

In the four voting places in question Jackson had a vote of 204 compared to 102 for O'Conor. Had all four been declared invalid by the Board Jackson still would have had sufficient votes to carry the county.

William S. Gordy, first choice 126; second choice, Jackson 21; O'Conor 8; Sasscer 8.

Howard W. Jackson, first choice 841; second choice, Gordy 49; O'Conor 62; Sasscer 35.

Herbert R. O'Conor, first choice 643; second choice, Gordy 31; Jackson 53; Sasscer 20.

Lansdale G. Sasscer, first choice 46; second choice, Gordy 4; Jackson 4; O'Conor 4.

The change in the figures was more than two percent of the total number of votes cast which makes the county liable for the expense of the recount. This is expected to cost $200 or $300, it was estimated.

In one district as many as 26 ballots were rejected on account of markings on the ballots which did not seem to conform to the law.

Three-Months Welfare Budget For State Is Approved

A budget totaling $1,675,643 for financing State social welfare and relief programs from October 1 to December 31 has been approved by the Board of State Aids and Charities.

The funds of which $731,141.76 is to be supplied by the State and the remainder by Federal and local aid, will be allocated for old-age pensions, aid to dependent children and aid to the blind.

Samuel E. Shannahan, chairman of the board, said the total case load for three-month period would consist of 59,580 individuals. This figure does not include direct relief clients.

Garrett county will receive $30,580 for the three types of assistance.

American Legion To Meet

At the regular meeting of Proctor Kildow Post, Number 71, on Monday, October 3, the newly elected officers will be installed and take their posts. Comrades Fazzalari and Shaffer will see that there are good refreshments following the meeting.

Arrangements will be started for the Armistice day celebration. It is earnestly requested that all Legionaires and ex-service men attend and give the new commander, Stanley Stahl, a big start.

Paul McIntire has been confined to his home for a week or more on account of illness.

Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Schell and son, Cumberland, were guests on Sunday of the former's brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. James Bell, at their home on Liberty street.

GARRETT COUNTIANS ARE SENTENCED IN U. S. COURT

Counterfeiting Charges Against Two Youths Are Dropped

Several Garrett countians were on trial at the September Term of the United State District Court, held in Cumberland this week, the offenders receiving varying sentences. Judge William C. Holeman presided. Cases were prosecuted by U. S. District Attorney Bernard J. Flynn and assistant, G. Randolph Aiken.

James A. Minnicks, 25, of near Finzel, pleaded guilty to possession of an unregistered still and was sentenced to six months in jail and a fine of $600. Minnicks, a furloughed clay miner, was apprehended last June by Federal agents who said he was carrying a five-gallon keg of moonshine and had a 90-gallon still in operation. He has no previous record of law violation.

Leo J. Lavin, also of near Finzel, received the same sentence after pleading guilty to a like charge. His mother-in-law, Mrs. Eliza E. Rosenberger, in whose home a 35-gallon still was found, was dismissed by the Court. Lavin said he was trying to raise money with which to pay back taxes.

Harry D. DeCost, arrested at a point on Backbone Mountain, in Garrett county, while operating a 75-gallon still, received a six-month jail term and a fine of $600.

Counterfeiting charges against Russell Merrill, Swanton, and William Uphold, Deer Park, county WPA workers, were dropped when the prosecuting attorney told the Court that the bogus nickels the youths had coined were used only in slot and pin ball machines and that there was no intent to circulate the coins.

MANHATTAN HOTEL FIRE CAUSES $3,500 DAMAGE

Origin Of Blaze In Basement Is Undetermined; To Be Repaired

Fire of undetermined origin caused damage estimated at $3,500 to the interior of the Manhattan Hotel, Second street, early Monday morning, September 26.

Carl Everly, high school instructor, and one of the roomers at the hotel, was aroused by the dense smoke in his room and gave the alarm. Others in the house were aroused by Peter A Peters, manager, and all got out safely, although some were nearly overcome by smoke.

The fire originated in the basement of the structure and following up through partitions damaged the large dining room, rooms on the second floor above the dining room and a portion of the attic and roof of the building.

The work of the Oakland Volunteer firemen prevented greater loss. Both trucks of the department were on hand shortly after the alarm was given and the firemen worked strenuously from 1:45 until 6:00 in subduing the fire, which was confined principally between the walls of the interior and the floors.

During the height of the fire the manager of the hotel reported the theft of $175 in currnecy, $212 in checks and a pocketbook containing private papers. Shortly after daylight Monday morning a warrant was issued for the arrest of James J. O'Brien, an employe, who was said to have been in the employ of Mr. Peters for about a month. Peters said he gave the man the money, checks, etc., to keep until he had aroused all the guests in the house and that O'Brien disappeared.

Mrs. C. D. Bosley, owner of the hotel, said the loss was covered by insurance and that the building would be repaired as soon as the proper adjustments had been made with the insurance companies.

First Frost Of Season Experienced Sunday Morning

The frost was only in scattered sections of the county.

HIGHWAY BODY IS AMAZED AT REQUEST FOR $200,000

Senator Friend Makes Request; Chairman Beall Asks "How Do You Want It—In Cash"

WANTS ROADS IMPROVED

A Republican campaign promise, claimed by State Senator Clifford Friend, Garrett county Republican candidate, popped up Tuesday to plague the State Roads Commission when Friend tossed a minor bombshell into the commission meeting by asserting, calmly:

"All I want is $200,000."

Chairman J. Glenn Beall, seldom at a loss for words, gaped.

"How do you want it—in cash?" he stuttered finally.

Commissioners Elmer F. Jarboe and Frank F. Luthardt stared at Friend in amazement.

Merely Wanted Road

Amazement abated, however, when Friend explained he sought construction of five miles of highway between Grantsville and Bittinger and reconstruction of twenty-seven miles of the Keyser Ridge-Oakland highway. Garrett county needed, he said, $100,000 worth of new work and $100,000 of reconstruction.

"These are things which Governor Nice promised us in his campaign," Friend remarked, referring to the two roads specifically named. "That was four years ago and nothing has been done. Our people are naturally much disappointed."

To Drop Bridge Provision

The commission checked up and found preliminary surveys had been made on the Keyser Ridge highway. A survey party will be in the Grantsville-Bittinger section Monday and Nathan L. Smith, commission chief engineer, will make a personal study of the Oakland-Keyser Ridge road within two weeks.

PLANS FOR ADDITIONS TO BUILDINGS ARE APPROVED

Oakland And Kitzmiller School Plants Will Be Enlarged

The Garrett County Board of Education at a meeting held on Tuesday evening with Walter W. Dawson, its president; Walter W. Savage, vice-president, and F. E. Rathbun, secretary and county superintendent, present, approved plans and specifications for additions to the Oakland elementary school building and to the Kitzmiller High school building for elementary school purposes in that community. The plans for the proposed additions to these two buildings were prepared by Smith and May, architects of Baltimore and approved by the State Superintendent of Schools.

The Board authorized the publication of advertisements soliciting bids for the construction of the two additions to be received on Friday, October 14, the notice to contractors being printed in today's issue of The Republican.

The Board also approved the awarding of a contract to J. B. Waugh, Oakland, for repairs and alterations to the Mountain Lake Park school building.

A letter was presented by the County Superintendent announcing an executive meeting of all County Superintendents of the State on administrative matters to he held with the State Department of Education in Baltimore on Monday, October 10.

Automobiles Needed For Final Excursion Of The Year

An urgent request is being made for citizens here to volunteer the use of their automobiles on Sunday afternoon, October 9, to take care of the excursionists who will be here that day.

Baltimore and Ohio officials announced Tuesday that more than 500 persons had made reservations and that the company had stopped selling tickets.

The excursion is being run here in cooperation with the City Council, and anyone having an automobile to donate on that day to give the Baltimoreans a 30-mile trip through the Swallow Falls Forest and around Deep Cheek Lake is asked to make the fact known at the City Hall or to any member of the City Council.

This is the last excursion this fall. Fred. G. Baugh and M. W. Grove, B. & O. officials, were in Oakland Tuesday making final arrangements.

EUROPE HALTED ON BRINK OF WAR WITH CONFERENCE

Four Powers Meeting Today In Munich To Attempt Peaceful Settlement Of Controversy

HITLER STILL INSISTENT

Europe was halted on the brink of war last night by a swiftly called peace conference of Great Britain, France, Germany and Italy.

The four powers, working against expiration of Germany's twenty-four-hour suspension of mobilization plans, are meeting today in Munich, seeking some peaceful solution of Adolf Hitler's demands for Czechoslovakia's Sudetenland by October 1.

Prime Minister Chamberlain of Britain, and President Roosevelt each appealed to Benito Mussolini, of Italy, to help keep peace. Shortly afterwards there followed the approval of today's meeting. These four men, Neville Chamberlain, Adolph Hitler, Edouard Daladier of France, and Benito Mussolini, will speak today for more than 600,000,000 of the world's people.

Hitler seems to be as insistent as ever on cutting off from Czechaslovakia the area in which reside most of the 3,500,000 Sudeten German minority. The task for the Munich conferees is to find a peaceful method to conduct the operation.

What takes place today will decide probably whether there will be another world war. In such case England and France will line up with Czechoslovakia. On German's side would be Italy, Hungary and Poland. Russia favors Czechoslovakia.

O'CONOR NOMINATED FOR GOVERNOR BY DEMOCRATS

Other Winners In Primary Officially Nominated In Convention —Platform Is Adopted

INCOME TAX IS PROPOSED

Nomination of U. S. Senator Millard E. Tydings for re-election and Attorney General Herbert R. O'Conor for governor was ratified officially by the Democratic state convention yesterday in Baltimore, in an atmosphere as strikingly harmonious as the primary campaign was hitter.

In addition to Tydings and O'Conor, three other state-wide candidates were nominated, settling the long doubtful contest of the convention—that for attorney general—in favor of William C. Walsh, of Cumberland. Walsh, on the third ballot, received eighty-two convention votes to sixty-seven for his opponent John Gontrum, of Towson.

The harmony spirit reached a peak when Mayor Howard W. Jackson, of Baltimore, bitter O'Conor rival in the primary, stepped to the rostrum before the third ballot was cast and moved that O'Conor be named by unanimous vote of the delegates.

A similar situation developed in other contests with Kent Mullikin, campaign manager for Representative David J. Lewis in the Senate fight moving a unanimous vote for Tydings. In the rush of balloting Lewis' name was not even put in nomination by a speaker.

Highlights of the tumultous session which lasted approximately five hours, was the reading of the party platform including a plank urging legislation to prevent a governor from succeeding himself.

The platform pledged "hearty cooperation" with "sound" legislation sponsored by the Democratic national administration, hut held temporary emergency measures "should be abandoned upon the immediate cessation of the emergency they were designed to meet."

Equalization of pay of school teachers was urged, and revision of the primary election law to avoid a repetition of the delay which was experienced in ascertaining the result of the recent primary election.

A graduated income tax, repeal of the tax on intangible securities and opposition to increases in real estate taxes or levying of sales or gross receipts taxes were included in the fiscal portion of the platform. Licensing of pinhall machines was likewise opposed.

County roads would be returned to control of counties desiring such control, the platform asserted.

O'Conor's nomination became assured prior to the convention, even without Allegany county's convention, which were finally given to him after a brief fight in the Allegany county courts.

Attending the convention from this county were delegates E. I. Baumgartner, William R. Offutt, J. Frank Browning and William Miller.

Impending Railroad Strike Is Averted For Time Being

An impending railroad strike, which would have effected the Baltimore and Ohio, has been averted temporarily. President Roosevelt appointed a three-member fact-finding commission to investigate the wage dispute between railroads and their employes.

Under the railroad labor law they will report within thirty days. Railroad workers have voted to strike if the carriers insist on a fifteen per cent wage reduction proposed for October 1. Because of arbitration machinery contained in the labor law, however, employes could not actually walk out before December 1.

There are getting to be so many festivals these days that in another ten years there will be one for every day in the year. With festivals and legal holidays and everybody depending on the government for a living, won't this be a happy-go-lucky world—and useless.

The latest festival to spring up is the Buckwheat festival for Preston county, our neighbors. Looks like Garrett county is left out in the cold.

There is already a potato festival, so we can't duplicate that one. I am not sure about a maple sugar queen or an oats harvest queen. Maybe we could have a crowning of "king corn" again, or do the moonshine stills continue to be as numerous as formerly?

With all the fuss and fuming about the Democratic nomination for Governor of this grand and glorious "Free State", it looks mighty favorable for the reelection of Governor Harry W. Nice in November.

* * *

Well, there will be one thing less on the November ballot. There won't be a referendum on the dentists' bill (not the one received on the first of every month).

When the measure was passed by the Legislature a flock of dentists filed a petition to have the voters pass on it, and the State has spent quite a sum of money advertising the bill, which would set up a state board of examiners to regulate the profession and would ban advertising by the molar jerkers, except a small specified advertisement or card. But the Court of Appeals has ruled the petition was not legal—and so there won't be any referendum.

Still there will be a referendum on the two-day marriage law, and voters will have to pass on three proposed Constitutional amendments, one providing for an additional judge in the second circuit; one prohibiting the General Assembly from authorizing a lottery, and one authorizing the General Assembly to impose taxes on incomes.

Last Friday, according to the calendar, was the beginning of autumn.

While we can expect some more warm and sunshiny days during October, the leaves of the trees have already begun to color, and it won't be long until all but the pines will be turning. Leaves were beginning to color even before Jack Frost got in his punches on Sunday and Monday mornings.

Botanists and foresters of today deny that Jack Frost is the man who paints the leaves red. They say the coloring of the leaves comes from minerals in the soil that are fed through the "circulatory" systems from the roots up the trunk of the tree to the branches and thence into the leaves, but they are unable to explain how, why and whence it all happens.

At any rate the foliage here should be gorgeous when the 500 Baltimoreans come up here on Sunday, October 9, on the final excursion of the year.

It is said by someone that Hitler has asked Roosevelt for the loan of 50,000 WPA workers. He wants to get them over there and melt the lead out of their feet so he can make more bullets.

Reading Glasses Needed?

Workmen were engaged the other day in placing a sign near the elementary school: "School; Drive Slow." Two young boys came along and looked curiously at the sign. "This way to school," one read laboriously. Said the other, "What do they want to put up a sign like that for? We know how to get there."

Considering the entire summer there was more publicity given to this area by various agencies including the Baltimore and Ohio railroad company, than for the past several years—and according to a hotel owner of this section business was better this year than it has been for the past ten years.

An inquiry came to the railroad company for particulars about a Maryland resort town in the mountains where they had just established a golf course. The inquiry was from a man at Atlanta, Ga.

This business of boosting Oakland and Garrett county is not a one-season affair. We've got to keep it up. Publicity given this summer may take effect next year or even five years from now. There's no telling how or when, but there is one sure thing—it is effective.

The way the O'Conor and Jackson challengers objected to ballots during the recount was outlandish. A ballot with the merest speck or mark was often objected to, even though the "X" was within the designated spaces. In this way more than enough ballots were rejected to make the county pay for the recount. That's what I would call an injustice. You can call it what you will.

WORKING STUDENTS

Can young people work their way through colleges, paying all or most of their expenses themselves? That question is eagerly asked in many families where there is a keen desire for education, but too limited family finances.

A good many boys find colleges in which they get aid because of athletic talents. Chances to earn money are thrown in their way without much effort on their part. Only a few can pass the football or baseball so cleverly as to win those prizes. For the ordinary boy, working his way, means long and toilsome tasks. Classes and study and money earnings leave little time for pleasure and recreation.

Boys need good physical health for such a stunt. They will probably have to labor much more than the ordinary working day. They should ask if they have the nerve and the stamina to stand up against this constant toil and work while others play.

A large part of the benefit of college experience is said to come from social contacts. The working student won't get so much of that kind of experience. When he might be making friends, he may simply be tending furnaces or shoveling snow.

Countless young men have performed this stunt, and have worked their way through. They must have learned a great deal from experience. They know how the common man feels and how to stick to hard tasks even when one would wish to be doing other things. All honor to those who struggle so hard for education.

Some girls also work their way thru college by various clever stunts. It is perhaps more difficult than for boy students, but those with some special gift may be able to do it. If young people can do this thing, they show a resolution and force of character that should win prizes in life.

THE GREAT GAME OF POLITICS. . . . . .

By FRANK R. KENT

Copyright by the Baltimore Sun and reprinted in The Republican by permission.

The Effect On Us

Washington, Sept. 27.

President Roosevelt's appeal for peace was one utterance to which his opponents can subscribe as wholeheartedly as his supporters. It was the sort of thing to be expected from a great national leader sufficiently detached to see the awful consequences of a general war and deeply concerned for the salvation of the civilized world of which his own country is so large and inseparable a part.

* * *

The European crisis is so vastly overshadowing in importance that both the economic and political aspects of our domestic affairs are altered and all decisions are temoprarily suspended until the storm passes or bursts. Even though, in case of a general war, we remain indefinitely aloof the effect upon our whole fabric is sure to be as great as it is now unpredictable. No man whether in the White House or outside knows definitely where the great conflict ultimately will swing us. What we do know for certain is this—that while American sentiment is far more flamingly anti-Hitler now than it was anti-Kaiser in 1934, still, the overwhelming desire of the people to stay out of war is even greater.

* * *

The Nation as a whole is strongly isolationist and every politician, regardless of party, is aware of it. With this in mind it involves no mental strain to forsee what will happen during a Congressional campaign such as that in which we are now engaged. Once war becomes a fact—or even if it does not—there will be keen competition between Democratic and Republican candidates as to which can make the more binding pledges for a strict neutrality; which can more convincingly promise the enactment of laws to keep us out at all costs. In this, of course, there is danger. Yet, so pronounced is the isolation feeling that it will require every ounce of White House weight, plus real support from elements not usually in accord with Mr. Roosevelt, to prevent the passage, early in the session, of legislation closely akin to the Ludlow resolution, which would tightly tie our hands and render us impotent to intervene if and when that seemed the intelligent and right thing to do.

There is another phase: Suppose, as regardless of sentiment, everyone, including the President, must hope, we are able to stay out; the question then arises as to whether a general European war will further damage our economy and deepen our depression or whether it will result in a great war boom which, for a while at least, will bring prosperity and lessen the acuteness of our unemployment and relief problems. The answer to these questions is in Washington. They hinge upon the attitude of the Congress and the course of the President. As to either of these there are now no definite assurances—nor will there be soon.

In the next Congress, unquestionably there will be a strong effort to tighten our present neutrality law—or if not to tighten, at least to resist any effort to modify or amend. If this is successful, it would seem to mean a loss of business, accompanied by increased unemployment, social unrest and real economic dislocation. Certainly, our European export business, except for the little which would be possible under the cash-and-carry provision of the Neutrality Act, would be wholly blotted out. Our foreign trade would be limited to the South American republics, where there is danger that the Mexican method of appropriating the property of others without compensation may become contagious and where Germany and Japan, able to pay in materials rather than money, already are making great trade gains.

On the other hand a repeal of the neutrality act so as to free our hands for a business expansion mainly due to war might increase the chances of our being drawn into the conflict—or at any rate, hasten the day. There would be strong pressure from business for neutrality modification and strong pressure from the more complete isolationists to prevent it. The fact, of course, it that this country cannot be kept out of war either by legislation or slogans. It may stay out a while, but no one can be sure how long. There are too many things that can happen against which no President can guard and which no Congress can avert. The best we can do is hope, knowing full well that no one really wins a war.

Some Puddings Need Sauce

Some puddings are complete in themselves. But others taste better served with a sauce. With steaming hot pudding, hard sauce made from butter, powdered sugar, and flavoring is perfect.

Bread or rice puddings are good with cream or a maple sauce. Plain or whipped cream often tops the cornstarch mixtures. It's all a matter of your own favorite combination of flavors.

Steamed Apricot Pudding

One-half pound dried apricots, 1½ cups sifted soft-wheat flour, ¼ cup butter or other fat, ½ cup sugar, 2 eggs, 2 teaspoons baking powder, ¼ teaspoon salt, ½ cup milk.

Wash the apricots, chop fine, and mix with 2 tablespoons of the flour. Sift the remaining flour with the baking powder and salt. Cream the fat, add the sugar, and well-beaten eggs, and add alternately with the milk to the sifted dry ingredients. Stir in the apricots. Pour into a greased mold, cover, and steam for 2 hours. Serve hot with hard sauce.

Butterscoten Pudding

Three-fourths cup flour, 3 cups milk, 1½ cups brown sugar, ½ teaspoon salt, 2 or 3 eggs, ½ teaspoon vanilla.

Blend the flour and 1 cup of the cold milk until smooth. Heat the remaining milk in a double boiler, pour some of the hot milk into the flour and milk, return the mixture to the double boiler, stir until thickened, cover, and cook for 15 minutes. Meantime, cook the brown sugar, butter, and salt for 5 minutes over the direct heat and stir constantly. Add while hot to the mixture in the double boiler, beat well, gradually stir this mixture into the beaten eggs, return to the double boiler, cook for a few minutes, remove from the fire, add the vanilla, and chill. Serve with plain or whipped cream.

Proclamation By Governor Nice Calls For Religion and Welfare Recovery Days

Governor Harry W. Nice, of Maryland, has joined the chief executives of other states in the nation in proclaiming next Saturday and Sunday, October 1 and 2, as Loyalty Days, to be observed by the three major religious faiths "as a time of thoughtful consideration of recovery in the fields of religions and welfare."

The proclamation says: "In the trying times of the recent crisis in human history, moral and spiritual values are being subjected to the same critical scrutiny and testing which are being applied to economic nnd social institutions, it is entirely fitting that a program of rededication to these moral and spiritual values should take form in n movement for religious and welfare recovery. Such a movement, I am gratified to hear, has been initiated by representatives of the three major faiths."

The National Committee on Religion and Welfare Recovery is composed of more than six hundred Catholic, Protestants and Jews, including bishops, pastors, priests and rabbis, college presidents and other educators, officers of church and benevolent boards and leading laymen.

"All of these forces cooperate for the purpose of meeting the present-day sweep of seculatism, materialism and racial and religious prejudice by bringing the minds and hearts of man back to the consciousness of the fatherhood of God, the brotherhood of man, the sanctions of religion, the service of worship and more adequate financial support of our religious and character-building movements," Mr. Charles W. Vickrey, executive secretary of the committee, declared.

LOOKING FORWARD

By FRANKLYN WALTMAN

Publicity Director, Republican National Committee

Broken promises by President Roosevelt and his New Deal supporters have become the regular order of business to such an extent that the country is no longer shocked by such demonstrations of insincerity. It has virtually come to the point that only those old-fashioned people who have a regard for truth expect New Dealers to keep their promises.

Undoubtedly this is the explanation for the failure of a recent column by the publicity director of the Democratic National Committee to attract any attention. In other days the column we have in mind would have been front page news and would have caused endless comment for days because he pulled the bed clothes off the New Dealers.

The Democratic publicity director in this column undertook to defend President Roosevelt's endorsement as "liberals" of candidates Downey and Olson, despite their espousal of a crackpot scheme to devise stamped script, or what is called "funny money," to pay a pension of $30 every Thursday to all over 50 years old. Senator MacAdoo characterized the scheme as a "cruel delusion of old and deserving people."

Tongues In Cheeks

The official Democratic spokesman, however, refused to be excited about the Downey-Olson crackpot scheme. He strongly indicated that the promises of these two New Dealers would be forgotten as soon as the gentlemen were elected. He thought it was quite all right for a candidate to endorse such a plan "with his tongue in his cheek for campaign purposes."

"Obviously," he added, "it is not the highest type of statesmanship to espouse a movement in which you do not believe for the sake of compassing an election," but he thought it was quite in order for the President to endorse candidates doing so.

Now, of course, that is according to the established New Deal ritual, as we have known it for the last five years. But none in the Roosevelt camp before has so brazenly and blatantly exposed it. Nevertheless it is good New Deal doctrine, carefully set forth in Assistant Attorney General Thurman Arnold's "The Folklore of Capitalism." This book is the New Deal Bible. It is to the New Deal what Adolph Hitler's "Mein Kampf" is to the Nazis.

Among his "Principles of Political Dynamics," Mr. Arnold writes that "institutional creeds, such as law, economics, or theology, must be false in order to function effectively" and he adds that "this paridoxical statement means that they must express contradictory ideals, and must authoritatively suppress any facts which interfere with those ideals."

Must Be False To Be Effective

"The creed of any institution," Mr. Thurman writes in further explanation, "is public presentation of a drama in which the institution is the hero. The play is spoiled unless the machinery behind the scenes is carefully concealed. In this lies the explanation of the paradox that legal and economic principles must be false in order to be effective."

Mr. Arnold specifically applied his creed so that none might mistake his meaning. Speaking of former President Hoover, he says that "it was his sincerity that wrecked his Administration." As Frederick H. Stinchfield, former President of the American Bar Association, recently said: "no cause could die for a better religion."

Harry Hopkins with his famous wisecrack that the people were "too dumb to understand" expressed the same idea in subtler if more pointed language, while Hitler in his book puts it thusly:

"It is not the task of propaganda to weigh the various rights. It must, on the contrary, exclusively underline the new position."

Mr. Arnold and now the Democratic publicity director are spoiling the play by failing to keep "the machinery behind the scenes carefully concealed." Mr. Arnold may be excused, for he committed his indiscretion while a professor at Yale. As for the Democratic publicity director, well, there was a time when he did not regard Mr. Roosevelt as a hero. Those words just probably slipped out.

Roosevelt Words Recalled

In all events, since with this the Roosevelt Administration, a creed "must be false in order to be effective" we can now understand what was written and said in the last five years Now for the first time we can appreciate Mr. Roosevelt's 1932 declarations:

"I accuse the present Administration of being the greatest spending Administration in peace-time in all our history. . . . .

"I shall approach the problem of carrying out the plain precept of our party, which is to reduce the cost of current Federal Government operations by 25 per cent. . . . . .

"I propose to use this position of high responsibility (the Presidency) to discuss up and down the country, in all seasons and at all times, the duty of reducing taxes, of increasing the efficiency of government, of cutting out the underbrush around our government structure, of getting the most public service for every dollar paid in taxation. That I pledge you, and nothing I have said in the campaign transcends in importance this covenant with the taxpayers of the United States."

But why go on? Similar quotations uttered during the last five years by Mr. Roosevelt and the New Dealers fill a book of several hundred pages. They were just actors on the stage, speaking their lines, with their tongues in their cheeks. The sole purpose was to be elected.

Just keep in mind, the next time the magic voice comes over the radio, that the New Deal proceeds on the principle that a creed "must be false in order to be effective."

ORDER OF PUBLICATION

Marybelle Emmaline Lewis vs. Joseph Franklin Lewis

No. 3486 Equity. In the Circuit Court for Garrett County, Maryland.

The object of this suit is to procure a decree for a divorce a vinculo matrimonii by the plaintiff from the defendant.

The bill states:

That on the 19th day of January, 1933, she was married, at Oakland, Maryland, to one Joseph Franklin Lewis, with whom she resided in Garrett County Maryland, for about four months; that although the conduct of your oratrix towards her husband, the said Joseph Franklin Lewis, was always kind, affectionate and above reproach, the said Joseph Franklin Lewis, without any just cause or reason abandoned and deserted her during the spring of 1933, and such abandonment has continued uninterruptedly for more than five years, is deliberate and final and the separation of the parties beyond any reasonable expectation of reconciliation; that your oratrix and the said defendant, Joseph Franklin Lewis, have had no children born to them from said marriage; that your oratrix has heard nothing from the said defendant since he deserted and abandoned her and does not know where he now resides, but inasmuch as he was formerly a resident of Pennsylvania she does not believe that he is now a resident of the State of Maryland.

The bill then prays for a divorce a vinculo matrimonii of the plaintiff from the defendant, for general relief and for an order of publication.

It is thereupon, this 26th day of September, 1938, by the Circuit Court for Garrett County, Maryland, in Equity, ordered, that the plaintiff by having a copy of this order to be inserted in some newspaper published in Garrett County, Maryland, once in each of four successive weeks before the 28th day of October, 1938, give notice to the said absent defendant of the object and substance of this bill, warning him to be and appear in this Court, either in person or by solicitor, on or before the 14th day of November, 1938, to show cause, if any he has, why a decree should not be passed as prayed.

Lesson for October 2

THE ONE TRUE GOD

LESSON TEXT—Exodus 20:2, 3; Isaiah 45:22; Mark 12:28-34; I Corinthians 8:4-6.

GOLDEN TEXT—And thou shalt love the Lord thy God with all thine heart and with all thy soul, and with all thy might.—Deuteronomy 6:5.

Today we begin a series of studies which should be of unusual value, a consideration of the Ten Commandments in the light of the teachings of Jesus and related New Testament passages. It is appropriate to point out that, far from being outmoded, the Ten Commandments are really the basis of all moral law. They need a diligent re-study and re-emphasis in our day of disregard of moral standards. As interpreted by the Lord Jesus and applied to our daily living, the truth of these commandments should be brought home to every boy and girl and man and woman in our Bible schools.

The lessons begin at the right point, for the first commandment properly deals with our conception of God. What a man thinks about God determines his entire outlook on life. We begin right when we declare that there is but one God.

I. The Truth Stated—There Is One True God (Exod. 20:2, 3).

Jehovah means "I will be what I will be," or "I am that I am." (Exod. 3:14). His very name declares God to be the self-existent, eternal one. How infinitely gracious then is the use of the word "thy" in verse 2! He—the great I AM—is my God.

There are many things concerning which we do not speak dogmatically. There are even Christian doctrines about which spiritual and earnest men may honestly differ, but regarding God we say with absolute assurance and complete exclusiveness—there is but one true God. If He is what He claims to be, if God is not to be declared to be a liar, then it is beyond the realm of possibility that there could be any other God. Hear it, ye men and women of America who in an enlightened land and age bow down in heathenish worship "before the god of gold, the god of self, the god of wine, the god of success, the god of fame, the goddess of pleasure, the god of licentiousness." The one true God says, "I am Jehovah . . . thou shalt have no other gods before me."

II. The Truth Explained.

1. God is our Deliverer (Exod. 20:2). He who brought Israel out of the bondage of Egypt is the one, and the only one who can deliver men from the bondage of sin. If you think that a sinner is not in bondage read Titus 3:3 and Romans 6:16 and then read the verses following in both passages, and not only see but follow the way of deliverance.

2. God is our Saviour (Isa. 45:22). Again note that "there is none else" who can save. "Neither is there salvation in any other: for there is none other name under heaven given among men, whereby we must be saved" (Acts 4:12).

It was this verse that led one of the world's greatest preachers, Charles Haddon Spurgeon, to accept Christ as his Saviour when he was just a humble lad. Perhaps some boy or girl who reads these lines may do likewise, and become a great instrument in God's hand. Teacher, perhaps the Spurgeon of the next generation will be in your class today. Win him for Christ!

3. God is Love (Mark 12:28-34). In I John 4:8 the truth is stated in all its glorious simplicity. "God is love." He not only loves us, and calls on us to love Him, and enables us to love both Him and our neighbors, but He "is love." Love is of the very essence of God's nature. He is the source of all true love. He is love.

It was for this reason that Jesus replied to the question of the scribe as He did, directing the whole life of man into love toward God and his fellow man.

It is worthy of careful note and emphasis in our teaching that the recognition and appreciation of this truth on the part of the scribe brought him near to the Kingdom of God, but not into it. He was "not far from," but he was not in it. It is terrifying to think how close men may come to entering without doing so. Reader, have you entered into eternal life through Jesus Christ?

4. God is our Father (1 Cor. 8:4-6). Paul is speaking of the eating of meat offered to idols, and points out that such false gods are really nothing. This is true not only of the idols of wood and stone, but of supernatural beings, demons worshiped by primitive peoples. There are such spirit beings, active even in our day in such cults as spiritism, but they are not divine, not true gods (v. 5).

The true God is a Father, yes "the Father," of whom are all things and we in Him (v. 6). As there is but one God, there is also but one Lord, Jesus Christ through whom the one God has wrought all things, and through whom we also come to God. If we have Christ we have all; if we have not Him we have nothing. Is He your Saviour?

21. For each of the said circuits, excepting the eighth, the second, the third and the sixth, there shall be a chief judge and two associate judges, to be styled judges of the Circuit Court, to be selected or appointed as herein provided, and for the second circuit, the third circuit and the sixth circuit there shall be a chief judge and three associate judges to be styled judges of the Circuit Court, to be elected or appointed as herein provided.
